The Lesson: Dominican Crisis Puts U.S. on a Perilous New Course

Editor's Note—John M. Hightower, Pulitzer Prize-winning AP State Department specialist, has spent a week in Santo Domingo observing, asking questions and assessing the Dominican crisis. In this dispatch, he reports on the lessons which may have been learned by the actions taken and what might happen in a future, similar eruption.

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Whatever else comes out of the Dominican crisis, one thing now seems certain. U.S. relations with Latin America will never be the same again.

The United States has embarked on a course from which there appears to be no turning back.

There will be eruptions elsewhere of violence mixed with Communist threats, and in each the question of U.S. intervention will be among the first to arise. Uncertainty on this point alone is enough to alter the pattern of Latin American diplomacy and politics. Latin capitals have not had to worry seriously about such U.S. military action for a generation.

The overriding question now is whether the United States will again in the future have to act alone or whether the Latin American allies will increasingly share the load, as some have already started to do here.

For the United States to go it alone, paying a price of anti-Yankee hatreds, would be, in the view of U.S. officials, costly and perilous. It could feed the very Communist movements Washington wants to discourage and defeat. If the Organization of American States should finally become an effective alliance for joint action, these officials believe, it would greatly strengthen hemisphere security.

The future of the whole inter-American system may depend on the OAS choice between those two courses of action.

In this connection, President Johnson in a speech Friday in Waco, Tex., urged creation of new inter-American machinery to guard against "forces of slavery and subversion." Only Brazil spoke up in endorsing the idea, but the OAS is expected to get around to a serious discussion of the plan next week.

Joint action will require more than words and resolutions adopted by the OAS in Washington. What will actually happen in the future may be influenced decisively by the final outcome of the operation in Santo Domingo. So far, it is only partly successful.

The Marines and airborne troopers which Johnson began moving in here April 28 undoubtedly saved lives. They also obviously offset whatever Communist danger existed in the cauldron of revolution a month ago.

But the United States is seeking a bigger prize. It has been trying to negotiate a new future of democratic reform and constitutional government for the Dominican Republic. This badly split country, however, could just as easily draw from the unfinished civil war a new military dictatorship that could lead in turn to a strong and dangerous Communist opposition and a Red attempt to seize power within a few years. In that case, inter-

Machinists Ready to Strike Aerojet in Azusa Tonight

AZUSA (AP) — Machinists' union members at Azusa rejected an Aerojet-General Corp. contract offer Saturday and began preparations for a nationwide strike beginning at midnight tonight.

AFL-CIO Machinists District 80 business representative Irving Schulz said the contract offer covering the Azusa employes was rejected overwhelmingly, and said he expected about 4,000 employes in Sacramento to take similar action today.

In Sacramento, E. J. Johnson, corporate manager of Aerojet-General labor relations and chief management negotiator at Sacramento accused the union of "running" the vote through.

* * * *

"WE ARE shocked," he said "at the callous disregard shown by the union in Azusa. It did not even get a copy of the contract offer until after it was received by the union in Sacramento . . ."

"It is a very obvious attempt to get around the will of the rank and file," Johnson continued, declaring he understood "only a third of the eligible voters in Azusa turned out for the vote meeting."

Schulz said about 1,300 machinists in Local 1893 would be off the job here.

He added, however, that federal mediators could call negotiators together again in time to avert the strike.

* * * *

ANOTHER union spokesman said all facilities of the firm would be picketed with the probable exception of Cape Kennedy.

Joint contract negotiations ended Friday after the company had made separate contract proposals for Sacramento and Asuza workers.

Dixie Police Jail 112 as Disturbers

BOGALUSA, La. (UPI)—Street fighting broke out Saturday between picketing Negroes and counterpicketing whites in this racially troubled southeast Louisiana paper-mill city.

Police Chief Claxton Knight said 13 persons were arrested in the general fighting. Five had been picked up earlier in individual clashes.

He said seven whites and 11 Negroes—one a juvenile—were charged with disturbing the peace.

ONE NEGRO identified as Roger Galloway, about 60, was injured. A doctor at the Washington-St. Tammany Parish (county) Charity Hospital said Galloway suffered a small head cut and was given emergency treatment.

The doctor said Galloway related he went into a store to pay a bill and was not involved in the picketing.

Galloway said he was struck from behind. He was arrested after he was released from the hospital.

Police sealed off the business district to traffic until it could be cleared and order restored. Knight said the situation eased when stores closed and Negro pickets demanding equal job opportunities were withdrawn.

Advisers Hit Appeals for Braceros

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The California farm-labor panel Saturday recommended against recruiting a total of 2,099 braceros for work in Salinas strawberry fields and in harvesting of Blythe-area melons.

While praising an attempt by Blythe farmers to meet their needs with available domestic labor, the three-member panel criticized Salinas strawberry growers for not making an all-out effort to obtain help in the same manner. Salinas sought 1,150 workers and Blythe Growers, Inc., 949.

* * * *

THE recommendation will go to Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz for a final decision. For the record, the panel, headed by Professor Benjamin Aaron also turned down an application for 500 braceros by the San Joaquin Production Association. That application already had been withdrawn.

Other members of the panel, which met Saturday, are Daniel Alrich, U. of C. chancellor at Irvine, and Arthur Ross, a professor of the University of California at Berkeley.

Referring specifically to Blythe, the advisory body—set up because of the farm-labor crisis—called the picture "extremely encouraging." It said Blythe had taken advantage of domestic manpower in the form of young athletes and others offering to help under the so-called A-Team Project.

* * * *

THE BLYTHE growers have rented 25 apartments to house the teams, made available the school cafeteria and a dietitian, arranged for recreation and taken other steps to encourage the special domestic worker.

"Reports from 11 states received only yesterday," the panel noted, "indicate that over 4,700 young athletes have been organized into teams and that most of them could be made available for agricultural work in California within a few days time."

Phone Call Saves 3 From Gas

A Lakewood sheriff's deputy, responding to an incoherent phone call, found three members of a family overcome by fumes in a Paramount home Saturday.

Deputy James Pruden said he entered the home at 15747 Virginia Ave., shortly after 9:30 a.m. and saw two adults and a boy on the floor.

Pruden, detecting gas leaking from a newly installed heater, pulled Mrs. Loure Hiles Brock, 59, her 35-year-old son, Otwell Brock, and his 4-year-old son, Frank Brock, outside and summoned county fire rescue units.

The Brocks, taken to St. Helen's Hospital in Bellflower, were listed in satisfactory condition late Saturday.

Four Yanks Killed in Battles; 24 Hurt

SAIGON (UPI) — A stepped-up offensive by Communist troops continued in South Viet Nam Saturday with widespread attacks against U.S. and Vietnamese forces. Hundreds of casualties were reported on both sides.

In fighting Saturday, one U.S. Army officer was killed and three Army advisers were wounded. In fighting Friday, three Americans were killed and 21 wounded. Another American died Friday in a highway accident.

Three of the dead and 14 of the wounded were U.S. Marines guarding a jet airstrip under construction at Chu Lai, 330 miles north of Saigon. Five other Marines were wounded in action around the Da Nang air base Friday.

* * * *

THE American casualties Saturday occurred in the northernmost provinces of South Viet Nam. An Army officer accompanying Vietnamese troops into battle near Quang Tri was shot through the stomach. He was dead on arrival at Phu Bai air field near Hue.

In Quang Ngai province, three U.S. Army advisers were wounded when Viet Cong guerrillas bombarded the Ba Gia outpost with mortar fire and then ambushed two companies of Vietnamese soldiers.

Two U.S. helicopter crewmen were wounded Friday by Communist groundfire over Bin Duong and Kien Hoa provinces. One was an enlisted crew chief on a loudspeaker-equipped psychological-warfare helicopter. The second was the officer-pilot of a machine-gun-firing HU1B supporting government ground operations.

U.S. AIR FORCE jets streaked 130 miles into Communist North Viet Nam Saturday and pounded early-warning radar installations on Hon Hieu Island for the second consecutive day.

The planes, dropping 12 tons of bombs, destroyed an antiaircraft battery, a tower and two buildings.

Other U.S. and South Vietnamese planes kept up around-the-clock air pressure, blasting bridges, port facilities, barracks, trucks, radar sites and gun emplacements in scattered areas of North Viet Nam.

U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor, meanwhile, postponed his scheduled departure for Washington for the second straight day because of a political crisis in Saigon. Taylor had been due in Washington for a round of high-level talks beginning Monday, following a stopover in Honolulu.

Fighting was reported in five provinces of South Viet Nam between Viet Cong troops and U.S. and South Vietnamese units.

NOISEMAKER BOOKED FOR JUST CAWS

FT. SCOTT, Kan. (UPI)—This one really is a jailbird. A crow was booked Saturday for disturbing the peace.

Police tried vainly to catch the wily bird Friday, and finally succeeded Saturday. They held it a while at the police station, then released it in the custody of a family that promised to keep it in a cage.

ONE GUY, 40 POLICE

Mad, Mad, Mad Kidnap, Chase

FREMONT, Ohio (UPI)—A young prison-farm escapee who kidnaped a Michigan state police trooper led upwards of 40 police cars on a wild chase over 45 miles in two states Saturday before being captured when he wrecked his stolen car.

Two citizens who jumped into the kidnaped officer's patrol car and radioed running information back to his post were credited with directing the host of police cars to the route of the fleeing car, leading to its capture in less than an hour.

Clifford West, 19, of Monroe, Mich., was arrested, and trooper Richard Perry, 33, of the Erie, Mich., post, was released unharmed after the car crashed into a utility pole and a parked car in Fremont.

Perry had stopped West for a loud muffler and was making a routine check of the car registration and driver's license by radio with his post.

Cpl. Raymond Dedenbach, who was on radio dispatch, said he reported back to Perry that the car had been reported stolen. But he got no answer.

West, who escaped from the Pontiac honor farm May 7, was standing behind Perry when Dedenbach's message came on the radio, and he put a gun in Perry's back and disarmed him. Then he forced Perry into the car and drove off.

The kidnaping was witnessed by several persons, one of whom telephoned the alarm to the Erie post. Two other men, Henry Bomia and Sam Voigt, both of Monroe, Mich., jumped into Perry's car and pursued the fleeing vehicle.

Ten Michigan state police cars joined the chase and were joined later by a host of cars from the Ohio highway patrol, sheriff's cars from two Ohio counties, and a number of Ohio city and township police cars.

Sea-Cable Rift Peril to Gemini

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A break in an underwater communications cable somewhere in the Caribbean could postpone the spectacular Gemini spaceshot scheduled for Thursday, it was learned Saturday night.

A spokesman for the U. S. Underseas Cable Corp., said it had a repair ship en route to the site of the break, situated about one mile southwest of San Salvador. The break is estimated to be at a depth of 600 fathoms.

THE FIRM said: "The cable break found Friday by the U. S. Air Force, if not repaired immediately, could delay the planned Gemini launch now scheduled for Thursday, June 3."

United Press International reported Friday that the launch would be postponed, but officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) said the four-day flight should go off on schedule.

The cable firm said it had ordered its oceanographic and cable repair ship, the Omega, to proceed to the scene of the break under full power.

The cable links Cape Kennedy, the launch site, with Grand Turk Island in the Bahamas, the firm said.

L.A.C. Says:

Complacency About Our Inflation

The sharp drop in the stock market the past week is attributed by some observers to a fear that inflation is becoming a dangerous factor, and that government will try to do something about it by price and other regulations. Friday the BLS index was released showing living costs at an all-time high—almost 10% above the 1957-59 level.

It now costs almost a fourth more for a four-year college education than it did five years ago—and the costs are going up. The taxes on a home are up about the same percentage. We are paying 10% more gasoline tax than a year ago. While there have been savings of federal income taxes, state, county and local taxes are taking more than was saved by the federal tax cut—and that tax cut is not saved, it is added to the federal debt.

These are inflationary items because they represent more money the people must pay for these items. Then we have the rising wage, pension, medical and other fringe benefits in union contracts. At the same time, over the past 15 years we find dividends on common stocks are only about half the rate paid in 1950. Unless prices are raised by the producers of products so affected, profits will vanish and many jobs disappear. We may be sure prices will be raised. The extent to which this is necessary will decide how much inflation will be caused.

We are being lulled to apathy by the glowing reports of the Great Society and new services by government. But we are living on borrowed time as concerns our economic health. We cannot continue expanded government spending and debt and escape the inflation they cause. It is occurring now at frightful speed in Italy, France, Britain and most other nations of the world. In Brazil it takes 1,300 cruzeros to purchase what 100 would buy in 1958. Most of the nations are taking drastic action to curtail the trend. We only hear of ever-increasing budgets from all levels of government—and higher labor costs in all segments of industry.

In March of last year I gave an example of what inflation means. It concerned Congressman Sheppard, who in 1936 sold his business when he was elected to Congress. He put his $270,000 in a safe deposit box and left it there until he retired last year. The 1936 buying power of these dollars had shrunk to $119,000 in the 28 years. To equal its original value he would need $630,000 today. That is what only 28 years of inflation had done to this one estate in this country.

Young people who have never experienced serious inflation or depression have no remembrance of what can happen to their savings. They have lived through a period of great industrial development following World War II and Korea and our constantly rising living standards. Their pay has gone up faster than living costs. They are told there will never be another depression or inflation spiral. But history has many cycles when the same attitude was taken, only to find these catastrophies do repeat themselves.

The greatest danger in all past economic upheavals has been irresponsible fiscal policies of government. When they try to pass out ever greater benefits to all groups on a basis of increasing debt, the economics catch up with them. Like an individual, if government continually spends more than it takes in it must some day end in bankruptcy. In most cases it attempts to avoid collapse by printing or borrowing more money. This raises prices and interest charges. We are now paying more for interest on our national debt—$11 billion a year—than we ever spent for government in a peace-time year prior to World War II.

It is not a pleasant subject. But having lived through several such recessions and inflation periods, I see no reason why there will not be others. We cannot escape it unless we insist that we live within our personal incomes and that governments do likewise in peace-time years. We are not doing that now, as personal and government debt spiral each year. Inflation always precedes depression. We are getting very close to what may be a spiraling inflation of higher living costs caused by labor cost increases and government spending.—L.A.C.

Top OAS Official Blasted by Both Domingo Sides

SANTO DOMINGI (UPI)—Rebel leader Col. Francisco Caamano Deno Saturday demanded that the Organization of American S(tates recall Jose A. Mora, its secretary-general who is acting as mediator in the Dominican crisis.

Mora also came under fire from Gen. Antonio Imbert Barreras, head of the civilian-military junta.

Caamano accused Mora of partiality toward Imbert. Imbert said he was dissatisfied with Mora's arrangements to pay the salaries due the civil workers of the country.

Meanwhile, sources said Caamno has abandoned almost all hope of finding a political solution through the OAS to the 33-day-old revolt. They said he may seek to bring the Dominican problem before en extroardinary meeting of the United Nations General Assembly.

* * * *

THE ATTACK on Mora by the leaders of both factions in the Dominican civil war came shortly after Brazilian Gen. Hugo Panasco Alvin arrived here and formally assumed command of the inter-American peace force. The ceremony that installed Panasco was punctuated by scattered gunfire in the rebel-held section of the divided city.

Specifically, Caamano charged that Mora has been dealing with Imbert's minister of finance to arrange for payment of salaries to the civil workers.

Imbert also protested against Mora's financial maneuvering to help bring the city back to normal. Imbert said he was "deeply irritated" by the occupation of the Banco Central (the central bank) and Mora's explanation that it was undertaken to prevent Imbert's group from taking out large sums of national funds.

Imbert's forces wanted to pay the public employes in its name to give the impression that his civilian-military junta was the true representative of the national government.

There was no immediate comment from Mora or the OAS on the joint attacks launched by Caamano and Imbert.

* * * *

THE OAS started paying the civil workers Friday with $5 million provided by the United States.

Mora said Friday, in taking control of the Banco Central, that the government's April payroll will be used as a basis for preparing the checks for the May pay of 70,000 government employes, including troops.

In another development Saturday, the OAS took over operation of the radio station, "Voice of the Security Zone," that had been under control of the U.S. armed forces.

The station will now operate as the "Voice of the OAS."

Traffic Kills 5, Three on Motorcycles

Three Long Beach-area motorcyclists lost their lives in early Memorial Day weekend traffic accidents, a Torrance man was killed in a West Los Angeles accident and a child was killed in Santa Fe Springs.

Daniel E. Shock, 18, of 15316 Gundry Ave., Paramount, was killed instantly when his cycle hit a freight train at a crossing in the 7700 block of Compton Blvd., Saturday. Sheriff's Deputies said Shock was traveling at a high rate of speed when he struck the train.

A LOMITA man, Gary P. Harrel, 21, of 1521 W. 261st St., was injured fatally Saturday afternoon when his light motorcycle struck a car head on in the 1200 block of W. Anaheim St., Harbor City. A passenger on the cycle, William L. Pine, 20, of 26347 Alta Vista St., Harbor City, was in serious condition late Saturday in Harbor General Hospital.

A crash on Terminal Island took the life of a 19-year-old sailor, Robert J. Wilson, of the USS Hornet, when he struck a truck making a left turn in front of Gate 9, Friday.

Gerald Janoff, 18, of 3618 W. 224th St., Torrance, died Saturday in UCLA Hospital two hours after the car in which he was a passenger hit a guardrail on Sunset Boulevard at Charing Cross Road.

* * * *

THE DRIVER of the car, Robert E. DeWade, 20, of 21918 Linda Dr., Torrance, and two other passengers, David Farber, 18, of 329 Calle Mayor, Redondo Beach, and Walter Walk, 18, of 30523 Cartier Drive, Palos Verdes, were injured.

A 3-year-old Santa Fe Springs boy, Arthur Corona, of 9212 Miller Grove Drive, was injured fatally Saturday when he apparently darted behind a car driven by Jose Bejarnano, of 9224 Miller Grove Drive, as he was backing out into the street.

Perilous New Tack in U.S. Latin Policy

vention would prove a long-term failure.

In terms of inter-American relations, Johnson's policy decision to employ U.S. force to combat communism on this Caribbean island may be compared in importance to the declaration of the Monroe Doctrine in 1823 and President Franklin D. Roosevelt's "good neighbor" policy in 1933.

President James Monroe posted a "no trespassing" sign in the Western hemisphere. Roosevelt, as a matter of policy, tried to raise U.S. relations with Central and South American and Caribbean countries to a new level of friendly partnership. He assured Latin American countries: "No more Marines."

* * * *

AFTER the cold war began, successive administrations in Washington tried to get hemisphere defensive arrangements revised to deal specifically with the Communist threat. For about 15 years repeated efforts were made to have the OAS put up and enforce a "no trespassing" sign against Soviet communism. Then the problems of Chinese and Cuban communism were added.

After Fidel Castro made Cuba a Communist stronghold five years ago, Washington's efforts in this respect were intensified. What it finally got, aside from quarantine measures against Castro, was a declaration that communism is incompatible with the principles of inter-Americanism.

* * * *

THE whole Cuban situation was clearly a major concern of Johnson when he announced May 2 that he would not permit the Dominican Republic or any other country to become another Communist beachhead in this hemisphere. His policy statement in this respect was unqualified.

About Johnson's public position, therefore, there is no question. He has committed the United States to take whatever future action is necessary, including use of force, to prevent another Communist regime from being established on this side of the Atlantic.

But administration officials emphasize heavily that sending Marines and paratroopers is an action of last resort, a desperate attempt to avoid disaster when no other means is available. A far better way, they say, is to strengthen a country's democracy by encouraging economic, social and political reforms. Such reforms are a major objective of the U.S.-aided Alliance for Progress.

* * * *

A SPECIAL aspect of the Dominican situation is that the revolution in Santo Domingo did not spread to the countryside. The other cities and towns remained quiet, if tense, throughout the fighting in the capital. This meant far less force was needed than would have been necessary if other towns had required U.S. or OAS military patrols.

The intervention here, foreign diplomats agree, gives no assurance that a similar action could be as effective in some other country. U.S. officials agree it is the worst possible choice of measures for opposing communism and should be used only in desperate circumstances.

NEGROES, supporting the boycott, picketed several establishments.

No large influx of visitors was noticed although the downtown area bustled as it usually does with Saturday shoppers.

Birmingham attorney Earl W. Hall, however, said more than 2,000 out-of-county cars entered Selma.

Hall suggested the "Friendship Day," saying he wanted to help local merchants and offer a mild protest against recent civil-rights demonstrations.

BRANDON, Miss. (AP) — Some 400 civil-rights marchers reached the Rankin County Courthouse Saturday and began registering to vote.

Twelve Negroes took voter tests before the registrar's office closed on schedule at noon.

A spokesman praised the reception given the marchers by county officials, who permitted them to continue singing "freedom" songs and use the facilities of the building.

CRAWFORDVILLE, Ga. (AP) — Negroes went swimming Saturday in a state park for the first time, in another step in their civil-rights drive at this small eastern Georgia town.

L.A.C. Says:

Complacency About Our Inflation

The sharp drop in the stock market the past week is attributed by some observers to a fear that inflation is becoming a dangerous factor, and that government will try to do something about it by price and other regulations. Friday the BLS index was released showing living costs at an all-time high—almost 10% above the 1957-59 level.

It now costs almost a fourth more for a four-year college education than it did five years ago—and the costs are going up. The taxes on a home are up about the same percentage. We are paying 10% more gasoline tax than a year ago. While there have been savings of federal income taxes, state, county and local taxes are taking more than was saved by the federal tax cut—and that tax cut is not saved, it is added to the federal debt.

These are inflationary items because they represent more money the people must pay for these items. Then we have the rising wage, pension, medical and other fringe benefits in union contracts. At the same time, over the past 15 years we find dividends on common stocks are only about half the rate paid in 1950. Unless prices are raised by the producers of products so affected, profits will vanish and many jobs disappear. We may be sure prices will be raised. The extent to which this is necessary will decide how much inflation will be caused.

We are being lulled to apathy by the glowing reports of the Great Society and new services by government. But we are living on borrowed time as concerns our economic health. We cannot continue expanded government spending and debt and escape the inflation they cause. It is occurring now at frightful speed in Italy, France, Britain and most other nations of the world. In Brazil it takes 1,300 cruzeros to purchase what 100 would buy in 1958. Most of the nations are taking drastic action to curtail the trend. We only hear of ever-increasing budgets from all levels of government—and higher labor costs in all segments of industry.

In March of last year I gave an example of what inflation means. It concerned Congressman Sheppard, who in 1936 sold his business when he was elected to Congress. He put his $270,000 in a safe deposit box and left it there until he retired last year. The 1936 buying power of these dollars had shrunk to $119,000 in the 28 years. To equal its original value he would need $630,000 today. That is what only 28 years of inflation had done to this one estate in this country.

Young people who have never experienced serious inflation or depression have no remembrance of what can happen to their savings. They have lived through a period of great industrial development following World War II and Korea and our constantly rising living standards. Their pay has gone up faster than living costs. They are told there will never be another depression or inflation spiral. But history has many cycles when the same attitude was taken, only to find these catastrophies do repeat themselves.

The greatest danger in all past economic upheavals has been irresponsible fiscal policies of government. When they try to pass out ever greater benefits to all groups on a basis of increasing debt, the economics catch up with them. Like an individual, if government continually spends more than it takes in it must some day end in bankruptcy. In most cases it attempts to avoid collapse by printing or borrowing more money. This raises prices and interest charges. We are now paying more for interest on our national debt—$11 billion a year—than we ever spent for government in a peace-time year prior to World War II.

It is not a pleasant subject. But having lived through several such recessions and inflation periods, I see no reason why there will not be others. We cannot escape it unless we insist that we live within our personal incomes and that governments do likewise in peace-time years. We are not doing that now, as personal and government debt spiral each year. Inflation always precedes depression. We are getting very close to what may be a spiraling inflation of higher living costs caused by labor cost increases and government spending.—L.A.C.

Top OAS Official Blasted by Both Domingo Sides

SANTO DOMINGI UPI)—Rebel leader Col. Francisco Caamano Deno Saturday demanded that the Organization of American S(tates recall Jose A. Mora, its secretary-general who is acting as mediator in the Dominican crisis.

Overloading Seen as Possible Factor in 9-Death Plane Crash

Aviation investigators late Saturday continued to probe the wreckage of a twin-engine plane which carried nine persons to their death in an Orange County crash.

Initial investigations indicated the plane may have been overloaded when it took off at 6:57 a.m. on a holiday flight to Mexico.

Orange County coroner's investigators spent most of Saturday seeking identification of the bodies which were strewn over a 100-yard area in the fiery Corona del Mar crash.

The aircraft struck a hill a mile south of the Orange County Airport, 50 yards off MacArthur Boulevard near Ford Road.

* * * *

THE DEAD as identified by the coroner:

Dr. Melvin Leisy, of Altadena, the pilot, and his two sons, Derek, 14, and Kurt, 11. Dr. Leisy had custody of the boys from his divorced wife, Margaret, for a weekend trip.

J. B. Clearwaters, 29, of 460 Seaward Road, Costa Mesa, a senior engineer with Aeronutronic.

Don E. Batchman Jr., 29, also of 460 Seaward, Costa Mesa, and also an employe of Aeronutronic.

Charles Rausch, 24, of 1955 Pomona Ave., Costa Mesa, an Aeronutronic employe.

John Godwin, of 941 S. Trident Ave., Anaheim.

Melissa Littrell, of 314 Onyx Ave., Newport Beach.

Investigators said the plane was the last of five to take off with members of the Comet Ski Club, formed by Aeronutronic employes and their friends.

Investigators Swarm Over Plane in Hills Near Corona del Mar

The club flies to winter resorts for skiing in season and organizes fishing and sea-resort trips in other seasons.

The coroner's office said the other planes in the party reached their destination, Mulege, about 400 air miles south of the Mexican border in Baja California. The others, numbering 40, were unaware of the crash of Dr. Leisy's plane.

The crash started a small fire, quickly extinguished, when the plane hit a power line before striking the hillside.

Officials at Orange County Airport said the plane contained, in addition to the nine persons, "a large amount of baggage" and a full fuel load, leading to speculation that excess weight may have given the pilot difficulty in maintaining flying speed after takeoff.

* * * *

HOWEVER, Civil Aeronautics Board Investigators said it may be months before an official cause of the mishap is fixed.

Not aboard was the plane's owner, Richard G. Kennedy, of Pasadena, a friend and patient of the physician-pilot. Kennedy, 36, said he and Dr. Leisy had flown the plane to such skiing resorts as Sun Valley, Idaho, and Aspen, Colo.

Kennedy said Leisy had "flown more than a 1,000 hours and was a very capable pilot." He said the doctor had a private pilot's license, a multi-engine rating and an instrument card.

The skies were overcast with a ceiling of less than 500 feet at the time of takeoff, according to airport authorities, but instrument-rated pilots normally fly in such weather.

Services Due in Memory of War Dead

America's war dead will be honored at Memorial Day services throughout the Long Beach area today.

A special tribute to comrades who have answered the final call will be held by Arthur L. Peterson Post No. 27 of the American Legion at Municipal Auditorium, 1:30 p.m.

Principal speaker will be Rear Adm. Donald G. Irvine, commander of Cruiser-Destroyer Flotilla Three. Gold Star Mothers will be especially honored.

* * * *

THE NAVY will hold two memorial services. One will be on the flight deck of USS Yorktown, berthed at Pier E, Naval Station, at 10:45 a.m. Speaker will be Dist. Atty. Evelle J. Younger.

The second, in memory of the 3,500 men who lost their lives in the submarine service during World War II, will be on the USS Roncador, Pier I, at 2 p.m. Speaker will be Capt. M. H. Lyttle, acting commandant of the Los Angeles Naval Base.

Golden State Post 279, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will hold services at Sunnyside Memorial Park at 10:30 a.m. Speaker will be W. P. Neville, post chaplain.

Other area services include:

—Westminster Memorial Park, 14801 Beach Blvd., 11 a.m.

—Harbor Rest Memorial Park, 1625 Gisler Ave., Costa Mesa, 2 p.m.

—Japanese Gardens, Rose Hills Memorial Park, 3900 Workman Mill Road, Whittier, a Nisei veterans program followed by a Buddhist service, 9:15 a.m.

—Green Hills Memorial Park, 27501 S. Western Ave., San Pedro, 10 a.m.

—City Park, Ocean Avenue and Main Street, Seal Beach, 11 a.m.

—Lincoln Memorial Park, 167th Street and Central Avenue, Compton, 11 a.m.

Hoaxer's Bomb Just Old Hose

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) —The package treated as a bomb at the Albuquerque Airport Saturday turned out to be a cigar box containing four pieces of rubber hose wrapped to resemble dynamite sticks.

The discovery of the hoax was made by a munitions team from Sandia base which was called to disarm what police and airport officials believed was a bomb.

Police and the FBI were investigating.

Airport Director Clyde Sharrer said the box, containing what was first described as an apparent detonator, a battery and a timing device set for 4:45 p.m., was sighted by a janitor about 2 p.m.

* * * *

THE PIECES of rubber hose were taped on the ends and wrapped in red paper simulating dynamite sticks.

Sharrer had said after the box was found that the lobby then was filled with people. He had said it first appeared to him that there was enough dynamite in the box to blow out one end of the terminal.

The box was taken to a remote area of the Sandia military base where a demolition crew dismantled it and discovered the hoax.

Dashboard Padding

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)—Padded dashboards, available only in luxury autos a few years ago, will be included in about 60 per cent of all cars manufactured by Detroit in 1965, according to a major foam padding producer.

This represents a 20 per cent increase in crash pad use over the 1964 level, Goodyear's Foam Products Division says. "All the new luxury models will have safety padding, and 30 to 40 per cent of 1965 lower priced cars will include padded dashes."

U.S. Commercial Fish Catch Down

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. commercial fish catch declined last year to 4,523,000,000 pounds, 7% less than in 1963 and the smallest take since 1953, the Interior Department reported.

However, the nation's commercial fishermen received $390 million for their catches in 1964, nearly $13 million, or more than 4%, higher than in 1963 and the second highest value of record.

YEARS IN PREPARATION

Astronaut's Wife Says His Flight Is a Family Mission

By PAT WHITE
Wife of Maj. Edward H. White II, GT-4 Pilot
Copyright 1965, World Book Encyclopedia Science Service, Inc.

HOUSTON—Ed and I believe in having goals, but we also believe we must live one day at a time.

I've had people say to me: "We feel so sorry for you astronaut wives. How are you going to feel when he's being launched?"

I don't know how I'll feel those four days. I can only say I'm not worried now. You can't live your life in advance. You make plans and you have faith, but you must face each day as it comes.

* * * *

WE CONSIDER GT-4 a family mission. Just as he has been preparing himself for the flight, Ed has conditioned me and the children. When he is home we have talked about it over the dinner table and encouraged our children to ask questions about the mission.

Now as we get closer to launch day, Eddie and Bonnie are well aware of what's ahead. Eddie, who is 11, reads all he can about space and asks his dad lots of questions about the flight.

When Eddie saw television pictures of the Russian cosmonaut floating outside a spaceship, he was disappointed. He had hoped that his father might be the first man to go alone into space.

* * * *

ED TOLD him that if conditions are right during GT-4, he might have a chance to open the hatch and stand on the seat of the spacecraft. Eddie was thrilled but knew enough to be concerned.

"What if a meteor hits you, Dad?" he asked. Ed explained that such a possibility was pretty remote.

Ed was with a jet-fighter group and enjoying himself immensely. But he decided to apply for Air Force advance schooling so he could qualify for the space program. He was assigned to the University of Michigan and he enrolled as a graduate student in aeronautical engineering.

* * * *

AFTER two years when he had his master's degree, we went to test-pilot school at Edwards Air Force Base in California. Then with this training, he was sent to Wright-Patterson Field at Dayton, Ohio.

And it was there that we received word of his selection as an astronaut. This was an answer to his dream that started in Germany back in 1957.

I was thrilled for Ed. When you are in the service, especially if your husband is a test pilot, you learn to share his hopes and his wishes. His feelings have rubbed off on me, and I hope some of mine on him.

* * * *

ED AND I HAD gone to the same high school in Washington, D.C., but I didn't meet him until Dec. 1, 1951, when he was a senior at West Point.

I was a freshman at George Washington U. A girl friend and I double-dated two cadets for the Army-Navy game in Philadelphia. Ed was her date, but during that weekend Ed and I found we had a lot in common.

He pinned me the following May and gave me a ring in December. We were married Jan. 31, 1953, in the base chapel at Bartow, Fla., where Ed was in pilot training.

We have had many assignments and in each one, I have had utmost confidence in Ed. The manned space program is no different.

* * * *

WE ARE A close-knit family and we do many things together. A year ago Ed and I watched a group of children at a gymnastics meet. I was so impressed with their grace and poise that we enrolled Eddie and Bonnie in Saturday-morning gym classes.

Last summer all four of us attended a gymnastics camp and enjoyed that experience very much. This spring Eddie broke his school record with 27 chinups, while Bonnie won the high-jump blue ribbon for third and fourth grade girls.

In June after Ed's flight we are planning a family vacation in the Colorado mountains where we can swim and ride and be refreshed.

* * * *

I DON'T know how the children will react during the flight. They'll be excited, especially during the launch. But once Ed and Jim McDivitt are up, I don't want our children locked in the house for four days hugging the TV set.

I want the home situation to be as normal as possible. I'll encourage Bonnie to take her piano lessons or go swimming with the Armstrong children next door. If Eddie wants to go to Little League practice or work out on the bars in the backyard, that's fine.

This will be the first long space mission. It's something Ed wanted, something he was thrilled to get. The worst thing that could have happened to him would have been not to get a flight.

ED HAS WORKED hard to train for this flight. He is so proud to be a part of the whole space effort. It was while we were stationed in Germany that he read an article about the program. The idea of getting into it fascinated him. He wanted to be in it. He has trained so diligently for it.

If he knows in his heart that I am unafraid and behind him 100 percent, I know he can do his job even better. I'm looking forward eagerly to his flight, because I know that he is.

That's why I consider this a family mission.

Imagine! Four Days of Babysitting While Husband Goes Off on Spin

By PAT McDIVITT
Wife of Maj. James McDivitt, GT-4 Command Pilot. Copyright 1965, World Book Encyclopedia Science Service, Inc.

HOUSTON — While Jim's taking his four-day ride through space, it looks like I'll be babysitting—the hard way.

"Do you realize," a friend of mine asked the other day, "That you and Pat White will be the first wives who'll have to keep their active, busting-out-all-over kids amused for four days while their husbands are whirling around the earth?"

Riding herd on my three children might be rather harrying by the time the flight's over. But I don't see how you can plan all the details for each day or work up a schedule for something like this.

PAT WHITE, whose husband Ed will be with Jim, and I have talked about having a couple of kaffee klatches. And I'll have some company. My sister Terry—she's Mrs. John Sanders of Berea, Ohio—will spend the week with me.

Oh, the kids will keep me pretty well occupied. I doubt if I'll have time to worry too much about Jim. Even if I did have the time, I have absolute confidence in his judgment. And if he's confident of the spacecraft and the Titan II booster, so am I.

In fact, I'd be delighted to see him selected for one of the Apollo flights if that's what he wants, and I'm sure he does. As for the length of time involved, I'm sure I'd feel the say way I do about GT-4.

* * * *

OUR 8-year-old, Mike, has a pretty considerable understanding of what his dad is up to. To be perfectly honest, that came as something of a jolt to Jim and me. We've tried not to make a big thing out of Jim's flight in our conversations. We've played it down.

But a few weeks ago the principal of Mike's school told us Mike, who's a second grader, was taking a real interest in the Gemini program. Jim and I decided to discuss it with him.

Mike knew his dad was a test pilot and that he had to keep awake when he was flying. So one evening at dinner, Mike asked Jim very seriously when he planned to sleep during the GT-4 flight.

* * * *

JIM explained that he'd sleep just like he does at home, and when he was asleep, Ed White would pilot the spacecraft. Mike looked a little perplexed.

"But what happens," he asked, "if you both fell asleep at once? Wouldn't the ship fall down?"

So Mike got a fatherly lesson on the principles of space flight. I think he enjoyed it, learned something and was relieved. Jim is marvelous in the way he never talks down to Mike.

On the day of the launch I expect Mike will watch television awhile, but after an hour or so I'm sure he'll want to go outside and get on with whatever he wants to do. I'd be willing to bet that bang, right in the middle of the flight, his Little League team will have a big game.

* * * *

THEN there's Ann. She's 6½ and just as full of beans as Mike. I don't think she grasps the whole picture, but she knows her father is up to something big. You know, at that age, children have an inkling but can't put it into words.

But with her Aunt Terry here, and Snoopy, our wire-haired dachshund — that's right, and I didn't believe such an animal existed—Ann should have plenty to keep her busy.

Patric, my younger son, is only four, and he doesn't really comprehend what his daddy is up to.

* * * *

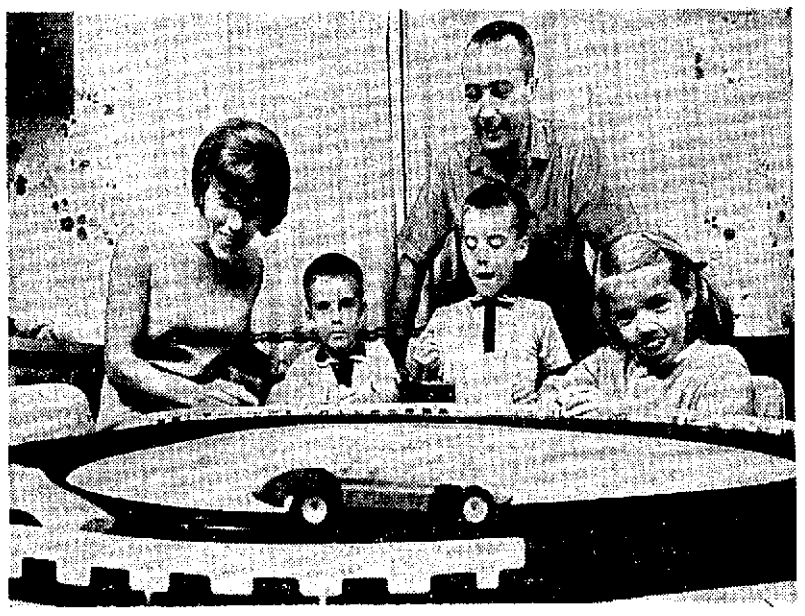

WHAT about myself? I've been a test pilot's wife long enough to know that while you can program a flight test down to the nth degree, something always can get unstuck, after which you simply do the best you can.

The astronauts have a phrase for it. When you've got to put up with something—not because you particularly like it but because it's necessary—they say that you "hack it." That's just what I plan to do.

So far as I know, there aren't any plans for me to speak to Jim during the flight, and that's probably all to the good. Heaven knows he'll have enough to do and to think about without my worrying him about next week's grocery list.

But if they should put me through to the spacecraft when it's over our home near Houston, they'll get no objections from me. Maybe I could ask him what he wants in the way of a celebration dinner when he comes back here for debriefing after the flight.

Or maybe I'll make him take me out to dinner at a fancy restaurant as a reward for keeping his three children out of mischief while he was up there.

Doctor Says Pretty Nurse Good Medic

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Dr. Robert J. Samp, a professor of surgery, has confirmed what most men have thought all along—it's great to have a pretty nurse when you're hospitalized.

The nurse's beauty may even be the thing that saves your life, according to the doctor.

"A cute thing with a warm smile" often is the inspiration for a man to get well, Samp said "Something gives the hopeless patient the will to live that pulls him through."

But a woman disagreed, as usual.

Maxime Taylor, who had headed a nurses' registry here for 18 years, discounted the news that beauty has anything to do with getting well.

"He ought to have his head examined," said Miss Taylor. "Some of the very best nurses aren't beauties by any means, but their experience makes it possible for them to give their patients confidence.

"Good nursing has nothing to do with beauty," she said.

'Clean' Practice by Space-Flight Team Conducted

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—The United States, bidding to end a four-year Soviet monopoly in manned space feats, Saturday put astronauts James McDivitt and Edward White through a final "make believe" orbital flight in preparation for man's most daring venture in the skies.

And looking ahead to the day of the greatest pageant of them all, another group of U.S. scientists sent a small "physics lab" satellite into a far-reaching orbit to study the deadly storms and winds of space that men must risk on journeys to the moon.

By midday, the 128-pound satellite known as IMP—for interplanetary monitoring platform—was flying steadily on a path expected to take it halfway to the lunar surface.

But most attention was centered back on earth on the feverish, final preparations for the flight of Gemini-4.

THE FEDERAL space agency said Saturday's mock flight showed that engineers had made up lost time and that the ship would be ready for launch Thursday.

Mission Director Christopher C. Kraft Jr. said the 10½-hour drill was "an extremely clean exercise."

McDivitt and White and backup pilots Frank Borman and James Lovell ran through three separate flight exercises, the last one lasting for more than four hours and including all critical phases of the four-day, 62-orbit flight.

During the drill, White hooked up to and tested the gold-plated umbilical cable he will use on his historic swim in space.

Still ahead are long hours of studying the flight plan, a document that has been so drastically rewritten in the past week that it now reads like a chapter in a Buck Rogers story.

During the flight, McDivitt and White will try at least twice to "rendezvous" with or move within feet of the Titan-2 second-stage rocket that put them in orbit.

Starting over Hawaii on the second orbit, White hopes to leap outside the Gemini-4 capsule and, with a double-barreled, hand-held jet gun, propel himself toward the Titan-2—close enough to take a spectacular series of pictures and possibly even to shove, or perhaps kick, the hovering satellite.

If successful, the capsule-driving, space-swimming antics of America's two newest astronauts will match and likely surpass the best the Russians, for all their highly touted rocket power, have managed with their cosmonaut-carrying Vostok and Voskhod spaceships.

It also should give the United States, for the first time, a slight but clear-cut edge in the race to put men on the moon this decade.

To help get the astronauts back alive after their planned landing in the Atlantic Ocean, a vast recovery fleet Saturday began moving into place around the world.

TWO OF THE 19 recovery vessels, the destroyer Robert A. Owens and the oiler Chukawan, were steaming across the Atlantic to stations near the Canary Islands. Two others, the destroyers Blandy and Furse, were set to leave Norfolk, Va., today.

YEARS IN PREPARATION

Astronaut's Wife Says His Flight Is a Family Mission

By PAT WHITE
Wife of Maj. Edward H. White II, GT-4 Pilot
Copyright 1965, World Book Encyclopedia Science Service, Inc.

HOUSTON—Ed and I believe in having goals, but we also believe we must live one day at a time.

I've had people say to me: "We feel so sorry for you astronaut wives. How are you going to feel when he's being launched?"

I don't know how I'll feel those four days. I can only say I'm not worried now. You can't live your life in advance. You make plans and you have faith, but you must face each day as it comes.

* * * *

WE CONSIDER GT-4 a family mission. Just as he has been preparing himself for the flight, Ed has conditioned me and the children. When he is home we have talked about it over the dinner table and encouraged our children to ask questions about the mission.

Now as we get closer to launch day, Eddie and Bonnie are well aware of what's ahead. Eddie, who is 11, reads all he can about space and asks his dad lots of questions about the flight.

When Eddie saw television pictures of the Russian cosmonaut floating outside a spaceship, he was disappointed. He had hoped that his father might be the first man to go alone into space.

* * * *

ED TOLD him that if conditions are right during GT-4, he might have a chance to open the hatch and stand on the seat of the spacecraft. Eddie was thrilled but knew enough to be concerned.

"What if a meteor hits you, Dad?" he asked. Ed explained that such a possibility was pretty remote.

Ed was with a jet-fighter group and enjoying himself immensely. But he decided to apply for Air Force advance schooling so he could qualify for the space program. He was assigned to the University of Michigan and he enrolled as a graduate student in aeronautical engineering.

* * * *

AFTER two years when he had his master's degree, we went to test-pilot school at Edwards Air Force Base in California. Then with this training, he was sent to Wright-Patterson Field at Dayton, Ohio.

And it was there that we received word of his selection as an astronaut. This was an answer to his dream that started in Germany back in 1957.

I was thrilled for Ed. When you are in the service, especially if your husband is a test pilot, you learn to share his hopes and his wishes. His feelings have rubbed off on me, and I hope some of mine on him.

* * * *

ED AND I HAD gone to the same high school in Washington, D.C., but I didn't meet him until Dec. 1, 1951, when he was a senior at West Point.

I was a freshman at George Washington U. A girl friend and I double-dated two cadets for the Army-Navy game in Philadelphia. Ed was her date, but during that weekend Ed and I found we had a lot in common.

He pinned me the following May and gave me a ring in December. We were married Jan. 31, 1953, in the base chapel at Bartow, Fla., where Ed was in pilot training.

We have had many assignments and in each one, I have had utmost confidence in Ed. The manned space program is no different.

* * * *

WE ARE A close-knit family and we do many things together. A year ago Ed and I watched a group of children at a gymnastics meet. I was so impressed with their grace and poise that we enrolled Eddie and Bonnie in Saturday-morning gym classes.

Last summer all four of us attended a gymnastics camp and enjoyed that experience very much. This spring Eddie broke his school record with 27 chinups, while Bonnie won the high-jump blue ribbon for third and fourth grade girls.

In June after Ed's flight we are planning a family vacation in the Colorado mountains where we can swim and ride and be refreshed.

* * * *

I DON'T know how the children will react during the flight. They'll be excited, especially during the launch. But once Ed and Jim McDivitt are up, I don't want our children locked in the house for four days hugging the TV set.

I want the home situation to be as normal as possible. I'll encourage Bonnie to take her piano lessons or go swimming with the Armstrong children next door. If Eddie wants to go to Little League practice or work out on the bars in the backyard, that's fine.

This will be the first long space mission. It's something Ed wanted, something he was thrilled to get. The worst thing that could have happened to him would have been not to get a flight.

* * * *

ED HAS WORKED hard to train for this flight. He is so proud to be a part of the whole space effort. It was while we were stationed in Germany that he read an article about the program. The idea of getting into it fascinated him. He wanted to be in it. He has trained so diligently for it.

If he knows in his heart that I am unafraid and behind him 100 percent, I know he can do his job even better. I'm looking forward eagerly to his flight, because I know that he is.

That's why I consider this a family mission.

Imagine! Four Days of Babysitting While Husband Goes Off on Spin

HOUSTON — While Jim's taking his four-day ride through space, it looks like I'll be babysitting—the hard way.

"Do you realize," a friend of mine asked the other day, "That you and Pat White will be the first wives who'll have to keep their active, busting-out-all-over kids amused for four days while their husbands are whirling around the earth?"

Riding herd on my three children might be rather harrying by the time the flight's over. But I don't see how you can plan all the details for each day or work up a schedule for something like this.

* * * *

PAT WHITE, whose husband Ed will be with Jim, and I have talked about having a couple of kaffee klatches. And I'll have some company. My sister Terry—she's Mrs. John Sanders of Berea, Ohio—will spend the week with me.

Oh, the kids will keep me pretty well occupied. I doubt if I'll have time to worry too much about Jim. Even if I did have the time, I have absolute confidence in his judgment. And if he's confident of the spacecraft and the Titan II booster, so am I.

* * * *

THEN there's Ann. She's 6½ and just as full of beans as Mike. I don't think she grasps the whole picture, but she knows her father is up to something big. You know, at that age, children have an inkling but can't put it into words.

But with her Aunt Terry here, and Snoopy, our wire-haired dachshund — that's right, and I didn't believe such an animal existed—Ann should have plenty to keep her busy.

Patric, my younger son, is only four, and he doesn't really comprehend what his daddy is up to.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Traffic-Toll Rate Slows Somewhat

By the Associated Press

The toll of traffic deaths in the long Memorial Day week end kept on climbing Saturday night, but not as fast as during the first 18 hours of the holiday period.

The tally of 134 at midnight EDT was still far ahead of the count of around 100 for the same period last year, despite a slowdown in the rate of fatalities.

One Girl Survives Six-Death Collision

NEEDLES (AP)—An 11-year-old girl was the sole survivor Saturday of a head-on collision of two cars which killed six persons on a desolate stretch of desert highway.

"We don't know how she survived," said a California Highway Patrol officer of Kathy Scruggs, 11, of Fresno. "Her 10-year-old sister, Susan, who was riding on the back seat with Kathy, was killed," said the officer.

Also killed were Kathy's father, Harvey H. Scruggs, 41, her brother, Harvey, 20, who was driving, and a third sister, Debra, 12.

San Bernardino County Coroner Walt Terry said a sedan driven by Theodore A. Gillette, 22, of Lake Havasu City, apparently "drifted across the center divider" of two-lane Highway 95, two miles south of Needles. Gillette and his passengeer, John Valenzuela, 22, of Needles, were killed.

Russ Call 2 U.S. Diplomats Spies

MOSCOW (AP)—A Soviet newspaper Saturday accused two American diplomats in Moscow of being spies for the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency. The U.S. Embassy called the charge a fabrication.

TOON

The accusation apparently was the Soviet Union's response to charges by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover that spies are included in practically every Soviet group that visits the United States.

The weekly newspaper Nyedyela (Week) charged that Malcolm Toon, the U.S. Embassy counselor, and Alan Logan, a second secretary, were CIA agents.

It said Toon, 48, third-ranking political officer in the embassy, was a typical example of "the master spy of American detective novels." Logan, 39, was described as the head of the embassy's intelligence group specializing in Soviet-African relations.

U.S. Jet-Strike Error Confirmed

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—A U.S. military spokesman said Saturday an examination of shell fragments showed that four U.S. planes mistakenly attacked a South Vietnamese outpost Tuesday.

The attack occurred 4½ miles south of the border with Communist North Viet Nam and there were conflicting reports at the time on who made the strikes.

Vietnamese military officials and a U.S. military spokesman at Da Nang said the planes were presumed to be Communist MIGs. U.S. military and diplomatic officials in Saigon said they were American jet planes off course.

Crippled Jetliner, 54 Down Safely

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Northwest Airlines jetliner carrying 54 persons made an emergency landing on a foam-covered runway at Kennedy Airport Saturday night with a defective nosewheel. No one was injured. The plane landed at 8:30 p.m. EDT some three hours after taking off from nearby Newark, N.J., airport for the Midwest. It circled to consume fuel.

Angeles Forest Campgrounds Packed

ALTADENA (CNS)—Rangers in the Angeles National Forest Saturday reported that an estimated 70,000 persons used the forest on the first day of the three-day weekend. Rangers reported all of the popular campsites filled to capacity by early Saturday morning but said a few campsites remained in out-of-the-way locations.

Yale Library's Coin Treasure Stolen

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—A band of hooded men overpowered a guard at the Yale University library early Saturday and escaped with more than $150,000 worth of rare coins. The night watchman, William F. Riordan, 59, of Derby, Conn., was found handcuffed to a radiator. A laundry bag was tied over his head.

Wirtz Faces Overruling in Crop Dispute

By BILL BROOM

I. P-T National Bureau

WASHINGTON — Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz's farm-labor problems may become sticky unless he finds a way out of the strawberry jam.

Although California growers have harvested bigger crops this year with fewer pickers than last year, they are falling further behind the ripening berries.

Government crop reports, heretofore unavailable, have been obtained by The Independent, Press - Telegram. They indicate that most California crops have survived the ban on braceros, but at the expense of strawberries and asparagus.

* * * *

A SEVERE crisis in strawberries could put Wirtz back on the same spot he occupied early last week. At that time, the Justice Department stepped in, overruled Wirtz and allowed 500 British West Indians to remain in Florida until the celery crisis could be alleviated—about June 1.

With the California strawberry situation beginning to approximate Florida's celery problem, "there is a substantial question developing as to who is running what" in farm labor, a high administration source said.

If the Justice Department again takes the initiative, the source said, the Labor Department's role would be recast to an advisory one on the availability of domestic labor, and the Agriculture Department would be placed in the position of advocating for employers.

* * * *

TWO MAJOR California growers arrived in Washington Friday to lobby for just such an outcome. With the Florida example in mind, they urged the Justice Department to intervene again on grounds that their predicament was every bit as difficult as Florida's. The course they suggested was a Justice Department declaration that more Mexican workers could be admitted under Public Law 414, an immigration act permitting temporary relief.

Most government sources doubted the Justice Department would do so without a nudge from the White House, which so far has kept hands off in the controversy.

In Domingo, 'We Did What We Had to Do'

Combined Wire Services

In Santo Domingo, the shaky truce held, and the United States began its withdrawal from a sticky military and political situation. Sixteen hundred troops of the American force of about 20,000 left for home during the week, and President Johnson announced another 1,700 were being recalled.

The country, its revolution a month old, still had no government, but other Latin American governments were sending in troops to keep the warring factions apart. A Brazilian general was en route to take command of the Organization of American States force; the United States, however, would remain the real ruler of the Dominican Republic.

President Johnson, taking note of criticism, foreign and domestic, said, "In those terrible early hours, we did what we had to do." Speaking at commencement exercises of Baylor University in Waco, Tex., the President recognized, however, that American reaction to the trouble in Santo Domingo had not been the whole answer. He called for "new international machinery geared to meet fast-moving events" such as those in the Dominican Republic. "When hours can decide the fate of generations," he said, "the moment of decision must become the moment of action."

IN VIET NAM, the tempo of war increased as the monsoon rains came on. All up and down the country, from the Mekong Delta to the 17th parallel there were sharp clashes.

Tuesday, four planes "presumed to be MIGs" attacked a South Vietnamese engineer battalion four miles south of the 17th parallel. Five soldiers were wounded, a bulldozer burned. Later, American officials admitted they were "99% sure" that the "MIGs" were in fact American jets off course.

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, was scheduled to arrive in Washington today to make another off-record report.

Defense officials revealed that American destroyers are bombarding Communist guerrillas in South Viet Nam coastal areas. It also was made known that 25,000 more combat troops will be added to the 45,000 Americans already bolstering the South Vietnamese.

Wednesday, Secretary of State Dean Rusk chose a Washington news conference to deliver an unusually stern warning to Russia and Red China. It would be a mistake, he said, for the Communists to believe "that they can have a larger war with impunity and that a larger war on their side would remove us from Southeast Asia."

EVERYTHING SEEMED in readiness for the four-day orbit of two Air Force majors, James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II, in Gemini 4. Takeoff was to be June 3 and two dramatic firsts were scheduled: White would be the first American to leave the cabin and cavort in space on a 25-foot tether and the astronauts would try to rendezvous their spacecraft within feet of the orbiting second stage of the booster rocket.

Friday, on of six batteries in Gemini 4 was dead, but officials were optimistic that the launching schedule could be met.

After 24 days of half-hearted opposition by Southern senators, the Senate voted cloture on Tuesday to block off further delay. Then Wednesday it passed the voting rights bill, 77 to 19, a better margin than that which passed the civil rights bill of 1964. President Johnson immediately hailed the Senate action as "triumphant evidence of this nation's resolve that every citizen must and shall be able to march to a polling place without fear or prejudice or obstruction." The House is expected to pass the bill in two or three weeks. It reaffirms the 15th Amendment's guarantee that no citizen's right to vote shall be denied because of race or color.

THE PRESIDENT asked Congress for a law to erase auto junkyards and billboards from the nation's highways and make travel for tourists more scenic. The states, as a condition to receiving federal highway aid, would have to control outdoor advertising in specific areas.

The White House asked Congress to raise the national debt ceiling from $324 billion to an all-time high of $329 billion to permit the government to maintain its $4 billion cash balance.

The House passed and sent to the Senate a $3.37 billion foreign aid authorization bill. It rejected attempts to cut the fund or restrict Johnson's handling of foreign policy.

The Security and Exchange Commission adopted a rule requiring brokers and dealers to maintain a minimum net capital of $5,000. The proviso is aimed at "reliable operations."

THE LABOR Department reported the cost of living climbed by three-tenths of 1% in April to a new "all time high."

The British Embassy in Washington announced that Princess Margaret and her husband, the Earl of Snowdon, will visit the United States in November.

Rep. Burt L. Talcott, R-Calif., inserted a very short speech in the Congressional Record: "Professional boxing stinks."

Everybody knew he was talking about the Cassius Clay-Sonny Liston fight Tuesday night in Lewiston, Me. The heavyweight title bout ended in a miasma of confusion. Clay was pronounced the winner, but professional boxing was certainly the loser. Careful reconstruction seeemed to indicate that Clay hit Liston once, sometime in the first round, and thereafter Liston fought no more. So unsatisfactory was the result that a loud cry arose for federal regulation of boxing.

It was all very friendly. The short, rotund, ex-butcher rocked back and forth on his heels in federal court in Newark, N.J.

Said Judge Reynier J. Wortendyke to the man: "You, yourself, have exemplified what can be achieved with only limited resources but with courage and vision. But, at the same time, you have caused terrific loss of money to many of your fellow Americans."

Then he sentenced Anthony (Tino) DeAngelis, 49, to 10 years in prison. DeAngelis, in trying to corner the market in vegetable oils, had engineered one of history's biggest commercial frauds, with multi-million dollar losses to many firms. His basic crime: forging receipts for oil that didn't exist.

AS A YOUNG MAN, Joseph Clark Grew was trying to get into the diplomatic service. While he waited he went hunting in China, shot a tiger. When word reached President Theodore Roosevelt the Presidecnt declared, "Bully, I'll have to do something for that young man."

Thus began a career of 40 years for Grew. It included ten fateful years as American ambassador to Japan, 1931-1941. Early in 1941 Grew cabled Secretary of State Cordell Hull that the Japanese had plans for a surprise attack on Pearl Harbor.

At the moment the attack was in progress, Grew was at the Japanese foreign office, attempting to arrange a meeting with Emperor Hirohito. The Pearl Harbor attack was not mentioned, and it was hours later before Grew learned about it. Tuesday night Joseph Clark Grew died at his summer home in Manchester, Mass., two days short of his 85th birthday.

Pickets at White House Plead Deviates' Cause

WASHINGTON (AP) — A dozen men picketed the White House Saturday, protesting what one of their signs referred to as "federal treatment of 15 million U.S. homosexuals."

The neatly dressed men paced silently within pavement bounds set by watchful police. But placards proclaimed their pleas for "honorable discharges for honorable military service," and said "sexual preference is irrelevant to employment."

Most passersby paused briefly, stared and moved on without comment. There were no disturbances.

THE BUSINESS WEEK

Analysts Become Bearish; See Economic Slowdown

By C. J. PARNOW

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wall Street echoed with the roar of the bear and the bellow of the bull last week as the market ground through another correction in slow motion.

The final outcome, a rather small loss in the popular averages, was not as significant as the market's daily action. Day-to-day swings and even intra-day movements kept reinforcing bearish sentiment.

Prices opened the week with a 7.80 loss in the Dow-Jones Industrial average as the market racked up its third consecutive loss. The analysts figured the market had gone about far enough Tuesday and their pre-opening forecast of a good upswing came true with a 6.79 leap in the DJI.

* * * *

HOWEVER, the upswing was short-lived and prices retreated again Wednesday. The DJI lost 3.84 in that session. An administration warning that the recent wave of price increases may cause the administration to forego some of its planned economic stimulants sparked a selling wave in the early hours of Thursday. Losses outnumbered gains by more than 6 to 1 by mid-session but the margin was narrowed by the close.

After Thursday's selloff, the experts expected little out of Friday's session except a little more selling in advance of the Memorial Day weekend. However, the market showed a slightly higher trend through most of the day and capped the session with a buying spree at the close.

The analysts are, in some quarters, becoming slightly bearish. Forecasts of some economic slowdown in the offing towards the end of 1965 have taken some of the bullishness out of recent market comments.

* * * *

THE MARKET'S technical action, including new 1965 lows in the Dow-Jones Rail average, and poor volume, also are worrying some market observers.

Dow-Jones Industrials dropped 3.97 on the week to 918.04, its lowest level in about a month. Rails closed at 205.04 off 1.22 after touching a new 1965 low of 203.16 Thursday. Utilities dropped 1.43 at 160.17. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index slipped 0.33 to 88.42.

Volume totaled 24,868,420 shares compared with 26,391,070 shares a week before and 17,296,410 shares in the holiday-shortened period last year.

Consolidated Cigar took honors for activity with a gain of ⅝ at 50⅜ on a total volume of 351,400 shares. The stock traded a block of 286,800 shares late Wednesday. The block, valued at more than $14 million and the second argest dollar transaction in exchange history, was sold by an institution.

American Telephone exdividend, took second place in the active list with a gain of ⅞ at 69⅞ on 282,200 shares. Sperry Rand was third with a loss of ¾ at 12⅛ on 258,900 shares.

Pan American Sulphur "new" shares dropped 1 to 17½ on 252,500 shares in fourth place.

* * * *

CUURTIS Publishing also was active. It rose 1 to 9⅜ on 248,000 shares. Last weekend, a nationally distributed news column said the company's stockholders planned a suit against Texas Gulf Sulphur in connection with Curtis lands on which Texas Gulf had mining rights.

Eastern Air Lines soared 5⅝, also in active dealings, in a strong airline section. The group has been on a long up-swing in view of its rising earnings.

Other big gainers in the airlines included: Northwest up 7, National 4½, United 4¼, Delta 4⅛, Braniff 3⅜ and Continental, KLM and American more than 2 each.

Steels were easier. Republic dropped 1, Youngstown Sheet ⅞, U.S. Steel ¾ and Bethlehem ⅜. Chrysler dropped 2 in fairly heavy trading, General Motors retreated 1¼ and American slid ⅞. Ford rebounded from the previous week's selloff with a gain of 1½. The stock nosedived the week before when the Ford Foundation announced plans to market more than six million Ford shares.

Du Pont added 2 points in a generally weak chemical group. Allied Chemical lost 2, Union Carbide 1¼ and Monsanto 4. Eastman Kodak, trading at its new price level, dipped ⅜.

Studebaker, which began trading at its post-split price of 27⅝, finished the week at 23. The stock, which previously traded at around $5, had a 1-for-5 reverse split.

* * * *

DEMAND continued heavy in the electronics. IBM advanced 9 points on the week with the help of an 11½-point climb Friday. Motorola moved up 5, Beckman 2, Control Data 2⅜ and Electronic Associates 1⅞.

A prediction from RCA chairman David Sarnoff that the domestic satellite systems would soon be facing competition from abroad cost Comsat 3¼.

Glidden spurted 3½ on plans for a 2-for-1 stock split and dividend increase. Penick & Ford rose 1⅜.

STATE FARM LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY / Home Office: Bloomington, Illinois

in loving memory of our son and brother

who died a cruel and untimely death May 19, 1964, in Long Beach, Calif.

Each day and each night our thoughts relive the horror and agony of the last minutes of your life. We still hear your desperate cries through the night filled with the senseless shots of your cruel pursuers: "I am hit, I am hit. My God, don't let them kill me. Please, someone call the police, call the police." We still see the confused look on your face, not understanding why anyone would wish to kill you.

We still see you run wounded into the brightly lit street towards the police for help, to no avail.

We, the many witnesses, as well as your killers, know that you were innocent of any wrongdoing. Now, you can never see the sun again, never see spring again and the awakening of nature, never the ocean you loved so much. We keep asking "WHY?"

We know that you are near us and that you will help us overcome the horror and only think of the good hours we had together. We will never forget your kindness and concern for us. We will never forget you, dearest Volker.

THE WEEK IN REVIEW

'In Domingo, 'We Did What We Had to Do'

Combined Wire Services

In Santo Domingo, the shaky truce held, and the United States began its withdrawal from a sticky military and political situation. Sixteen hundred troops of the American force of about 20,000 left for home during the week, and President Johnson announced another 1,700 were being recalled.

The country, its revolution a month old, still had no government, but other Latin American governments were sending in troops to keep the warring factions apart. A Brazilian general was en route to take command of the Organization of American States force; the United States, however, would remain the real ruler of the Dominican Republic.

President Johnson, taking note of criticism, foreign and domestic, said, "In those terrible early hours, we did what we had to do." Speaking at commencement exercises of Baylor University in Waco, Tex., the President recognized, however, that American reaction to the trouble in Santo Domingo had not been the whole answer. He called for "new international machinery geared to meet fast-moving events" such as those in the Dominican Republic. "When hours can decide the fate of generations," he said, "the moment of decision must become the moment of action."

IN VIET NAM, the tempo of war increased as the monsoon rains came on. All up and down the country, from the Mekong Delta to the 17th parallel there were sharp clashes.

Tuesday, four planes "presumed to be MIGs" attacked a South Vietnamese engineer battalion four miles south of the 17th parallel. Five soldiers were wounded, a bulldozer burned. Later, American officials admitted they were "99% sure" that the "MIGs" were in fact American jets off course.

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, was scheduled to arrive in Washington today to make another off-record report.

Defense officials revealed that American destroyers are bombarding Communist guerrillas in South Viet Nam coastal areas. It also was made known that 25,000 more combat troops will be added to the 45,000 Americans already bolstering the South Vietnamese.

Wednesday, Secretary of State Dean Rusk chose a Washington news conference to deliver an unusually stern warning to Russia and Red China. It would be a mistake, he said, for the Communists to believe "that they can have a larger war with impunity and that a larger war on their side would remove us from Southeast Asia."

EVERYTHING SEEMED in readiness for the four-day orbit of two Air Force majors, James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II, in Gemini 4. Takeoff was to be June 3 and two dramatic firsts were scheduled: White would be the first American to leave the cabin and cavort in space on a 25-foot tether and the astronauts would try to rendezvous their spacecraft within feet of the orbiting second stage of the booster rocket.

Friday, on of six batteries in Gemini 4 was dead, but officials were optimistic that the launching schedule could be met.

After 24 days of half-hearted opposition by Southern senators, the Senate voted cloture on Tuesday to block off further delay. Then Wednesday it passed the voting rights bill, 77 to 19, a better margin than that which passed the civil rights bill of 1964. President Johnson immediately hailed the Senate action as "triumphant evidence of this nation's resolve that every citizen must and shall be able to march to a polling place without fear or prejudice or obstruction." The House is expected to pass the bill in two or three weeks. It reaffirms the 15th Amendment's guarantee that no citizen's right to vote shall be denied because of race or color.

THE PRESIDENT asked Congress for a law to erase auto junkyards and billboards from the nation's highways and make travel for tourists more scenic. The states, as a condition to receiving federal highway aid, would have to control outdoor advertising in specific areas.

The White House asked Congress to raise the national debt ceiling from $324 billion to an all-time high of $329 billion to permit the government to maintain its $4 billion cash balance.

The House passed and sent to the Senate a $3.37 billion foreign aid authorization bill. It rejected attempts to cut the fund or restrict Johnson's handling of foreign policy.

The Security and Exchange Commission adopted a rule requiring brokers and dealers to maintain a minimum net capital of $5,000. The proviso is aimed at "reliable operations."

THE LABOR Department reported the cost of living climbed by three-tenths of 1% in April to a new "all time high."

The British Embassy in Washington announced that Princess Margaret and her husband, the Earl of Snowdon, will visit the United States in November.

Rep. Burt L. Talcott, R-Calif., inserted a very short speech in the Congressional Record: "Professional boxing stinks."

Everybody knew he was talking about the Cassius Clay-Sonny Liston fight Tuesday night in Lewiston, Me. The heavyweight title bout ended in a miasma of confusion. Clay was pronounced the winner, but professional boxing was certainly the loser. Careful reconstruction seeemed to indicate that Clay hit Liston once, sometime in the first round, and thereafter Liston fought no more. So unsatisfactory was the result that a loud cry arose for federal regulation of boxing.

It was all very friendly. The short, rotund, ex-butcher rocked back and forth on his heels in federal court in Newark, N.J.

Said Judge Reynier J. Wortendyke to the man: "You, yourself, have exemplified what can be achieved with only limited resources but with courage and vision. But, at the same time, you have caused terrific loss of money to many of your fellow Americans."

Then he sentenced Anthony (Tino) DeAngelis, 49, to 10 years in prison. DeAngelis, in trying to corner the market in vegetable oils, had engineered one of history's biggest commercial frauds, with multi-million dollar losses to many firms. His basic crime: forging receipts for oil that didn't exist.

AS A YOUNG MAN, Joseph Clark Grew was trying to get into the diplomatic service. While he waited he went hunting in China, shot a tiger. When word reached President Theodore Roosevelt the Presideent declared, "Bully, I'll have to do something for that young man."

Thus began a career of 40 years for Grew. It included ten fateful years as American ambassador to Japan, 1931-1941. Early in 1941 Grew cabled Secretary of State Cordell Hull that the Japanese had plans for a surprise attack on Pearl Harbor.

At the moment the attack was in progress, Grew was at the Japanese foreign office, attempting to arrange a meeting with Emperor Hirohito. The Pearl Harbor attack was not mentioned, and it was hours later before Grew learned about it. Tuesday night Joseph Clark Grew died at his summer home in Manchester, Mass., two days short of his 85th birthday.

Pickets at White House Plead Deviates' Cause

WASHINGTON (AP) — A dozen men picketed the White House Saturday, protesting what one of their signs referred to as "federal treatment of 15 million U.S. homosexuals."

The neatly dressed men paced silently within pavement bounds set by watchful police. But placards proclaimed their pleas for "honorable discharges for honorable military service," and said "sexual preference is irrelevant to employment."

Most passersby paused briefly, stared and moved on without comment. There were no disturbances.

THE BUSINESS WEEK

Analysts Become Bearish; See Economic Slowdown

By C. J. PARNOW

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wall Street echoed with the roar of the bear and the bellow of the bull last week as the market ground through another correction in slow motion.

The final outcome, a rather small loss in the popular averages, was not as significant as the market's daily action. Day-to-day swings and even intra-day movements kept reinforcing bearish sentiment.

Prices opened the week with a 7.80 loss in the Dow-Jones Industrial average as the market racked up its third consecutive loss. The analysts figured the market had gone about far enough Tuesday and their pre-opening forecast of a good upswing came true with a 6.79 leap in the DJI.

* * * *

HOWEVER, the upswing was short-lived and prices retreated again Wednesday. The DJI lost 3.84 in that session. An administration warning that the recent wave of price increases may cause the administration to forego some of its planned economic stimulants sparked a selling wave in the early hours of Thursday. Losses outnumbered gains by more than 6 to 1 by mid-session but the margin was narrowed by the close.

After Thursday's selloff, the experts expected little out of Friday's session except a little more selling in advance of the Memorial Day weekend. However, the market showed a slightly higher trend through most of the day and capped the session with a buying spree at the close.

The analysts are, in some quarters, becoming slightly bearish. Forecasts of some economic slowdown in the offing towards the end of 1965 have taken some of the bullishness out of recent market comments.

* * * *

THE MARKET'S technical action, including new 1965 lows in the Dow-Jones Rail average, and poor volume, also are worrying some market observers.

Dow-Jones Industrials dropped 3.97 on the week to 918.04, its lowest level in about a month. Rails closed at 205.04 off 1.22 after touching a new 1965 low of 203.16 Thursday. Utilities dropped 1.43 at 160.17. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index slipped 0.33 to 88.42.

Volume totaled 24,868,420 shares compared with 26,391,070 shares a week before and 17,296,410 shares in the holiday-shortened period last year.

Consolidated Cigar took honors for activity with a gain of 5/8 at 50⅜ on a total volume of 351,400 shares. The stock traded a block of 286,800 shares late Wednesday. The block, valued at more than $14 million and the second argest dollar transaction in exchange history, was sold by an institution.

American Telephone ex-dividend, took second place in the active list with a gain of ⅞ at 69⅞ on 282,200 shares. Sperry Rand was third with a loss of ¾ at 12⅛ on 258,900 shares.

Pan American Sulphur "new" shares dropped 1 to 17½ on 252,500 shares in fourth place.

* * * *

CUURTIS Publishing also was active. It rose 1 to 9⅜ on 248,000 shares. Last weekend, a nationally distributed news column said the company's stockholders planned a suit against Texas Gulf Sulphur in connection with Curtis lands on which Texas Gulf had mining rights.

Eastern Air Lines soared 5⅝, also in active dealings, in a strong airline section. The group has been on a long up-swing in view of its rising earnings.

Other big gainers in the airlines included: Northwest up 7, National 4½, United 4¼, Delta 4⅛, Braniff 3⅜ and Continental, KLM and American more than 2 each.

Steels were easier. Republic dropped 1, Youngstown Sheet ⅞, U.S. Steel ¾ and Bethlehem ⅜. Chrysler dropped 2 in fairly heavy trading, General Motors retreated 1¼ and American slid ⅞. Ford rebounded from the previous week's selloff with a gain of 1½. The stock nosedived the week before when the Ford Foundation announced plans to market more than six million Ford shares.

Du Pont added 2 points in a generally weak chemical group. Allied Chemical lost 2, Union Carbide 1¼ and Monsanto 4. Eastman Kodak, trading at its new price level, dipped ⅜.

Studebaker, which began trading at its post-split price of 27⅜, finished the week at 23. The stock, which previously traded at around $5, had a 1-for-5 reverse split.

* * * *

DEMAND continued heavy in the electronics. IBM advanced 9 points on the week with the help of an 11½-point climb Friday. Motorola moved up 5, Beckman 2, Control Data 2⅜ and Electronic Associates 1⅞.

A prediction from RCA chairman David Sarnoff that the domestic satellite systems would soon be facing competition from abroad cost Comsat 3¼.

Glidden spurted 3½ on plans for a 2-for-1 stock split and dividend increase. Penick & Ford rose 1⅜.

in loving memory of our son and brother

who died a cruel and untimely death May 19, 1964, in Long Beach, Calif.

Each day and each night our thoughts relive the horror and agony of the last minutes of your life. We still hear your desperate cries through the night filled with the senseless shots of your cruel pursuers: "I am hit, I am hit. My God, don't let them kill me. Please, someone call the police, call the police." We still see the confused look on your face, not understanding why anyone would wish to kill you.

We still see you run wounded into the brightly lit street towards the police for help, to no avail.

We, the many witnesses, as well as your killers, know that you were innocent of any wrongdoing. Now, you can never see the sun again, never see spring again and the awakening of nature, never the ocean you loved so much. We keep asking "WHY?"

We know that you are near us and that you will help us overcome the horror and only think of the good hours we had together. We will never forget your kindness and concern for us. We will never forget you, dearest Volker.

USS Princeton Greeted Here After 8 Months in Asian Seas

(I, P-T Naval Affairs Reporter Buck Lanier flew out to the amphibious assault carrier USS Princeton (LPH-5) Saturday on a helicopter to cover "Swee' Pea's" final 1½ hours at sea. She returned to Long Beach Naval Station from a record-breaking eight-month deployment in the South China Sea and Western Pacific. When Marine Maj. Joe Beno touched down the UH34 'copter it was landing No. 7,500 since Sept. 16, 1964.)

By BUCK LANIER
I, P-T Naval Affairs Reporter

Most of the crew had stayed up all night.

They were coming home. For some it would mean joyous meeting with loved ones. For others it would mean seeing a child for the first time.

And for some there would be no one on Pier Echo.

Not many were concerned about over a ton of mail waiting for the ship. Just the postal clerks.

The ship's radio station KLPH was in the final stages of a 75-hour "Countdown to Long Beach" and there were even rumors of an anchor pool.

—Navy Photo

LONG BEACH sailor, Edward Robichaud IV, aviation metalsmith I.C, stands in flight-deck formation on the USS Princeton as she starts to turn into her berth at Pier Echo Saturday. His wife, daughter and infant son, were waiting on the pier for him.

Some personnel were primed to head for their home towns on leave and three crewmen were standing by to be among the first off to go home on emergency leave.

An unlucky percentage had duty and would not be able to leave the ship. "What's one more day after eight months?"

Rank had its privileges, too.

David Brown, storekeeper I. C. had a group of his men holding up a large sign from the flight deck bow as Princeton was easing into her berth.

"Connie, I Love You," it said. She and their four children saw it. The Browns live at 6783 Gaviota Ave., Long Beach.

On the bridge, Capt. Paul J. Knapp had nothing but praise for his 1,000-plus crew, citing high morale during a rough deployment.

"We spent three-fourths of our time at sea and the men's performance was outstanding, particularly at the Chu Lai landing.

(The deployment was climaxed by Princeton's participation in the largest amphibious operation since Inchon, Korea, in 1950. The ship was one of 19 amphibs that landed troops at Chu Lai, South Viet Nam on D-Day, May 7. It was the first use of vertical envelopment in a combat zone. This technique is landing Marines and materiel via helicopters.)

"A 96-hour job was accomplished in 58 hours," Capt. Knapp said.

The Iwo Jima relieved Princeton shortly after Chu Lai and on May 16 at Subic Bay the bo'sun's mate passed the word, "Under way for Long Beach."

Cmdr. Charles Buchanan's wife Oonagh and three children from Palos Verdes waited on the pier for the ship to dock. For her it was "the fourth time and the longest of them all."

Capt. Knapp's wife June and two daughters were first aboard soon after the first line was tied at 10:01 a.m.

The crew was in flight-deck formation in whites the final 15 minutes before docking. All wore the Armed Forces Expeditionary Medal.

As a chief said, "Those aren't passed out for tearing up draft cards."

Boycott of Japanese Draws Backing Here

By LEE BROWN

A Wilmington boatowners'-association manager said Saturday he thought local boatmen would support a nationwide campaign to boycott Japanese products, and predicted Russian and Japanese trawlers soon would invade Southern California waters.

Roy Katnic, general manager of the 80-boat Fishermen's Cooperative, said fishermen here will be "wholeheartedly sympathetic" with a northern fishermen's protest over Japanese trawlers taking Bristol Bay salmon on their way to spawning beds.

* * * *

"WE BELIEVE," Katnic said, "that Japanese and Russians will send out trawlers to take fish from our local waters within two or three years."

He explained his organization had been approached to join the American Fishermen, an organization seeking a nationwide campaign to boycott Japanese products if Japanese fishermen do not let the Bristol Bay salmon spawn.

"We believe longshoremen here will cooperate with this movement," Katnic said, "and will refuse to unload any Japanese cargoes if the boycott goes into effect."

Katnic said three Russian trawlers are off the coast of Washington, and recounted reports of Soviet fishing vessels off the California coast.

* * * *

"EARLIER this year," he said, "Russian trawlers stripped and gutted of instruments and records a fishing station moored 400 miles off Pt. Concepcion."

Katnic contended that California laws work against Southern California fishermen. "Off Santa Monica Bay, for example," Katnic declared, "we can fish no closer than eight miles from shore because the limit was drawn from point to point."

Indonesian Ship Posts N.Y. Bond

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—A ship owned by the Indonesian government was released by U.S. marshals Saturday after a surety company posted a $2-million bond.

The freighter Johannes Latuharhary had been detained Friday after attorneys for an American company filed a suit to recover $1.5 million in alleged damages from the Indonesian government.

It was the second time in a month that the 6-866-ton ship had been detained due to legal action by American Hawaiian Ventures Inc., a subsidiary of Wong Investment Co. of Honolulu.

* * * *

ON MAY 13 a federal judge in Los Angeles dismissed a similar suit and permitted the ship to leave Long Beach harbor and proceed on its way to the East Coast.

Attorneys for the Honolulu firm claim that the company's rubber plantations were confiscated unlawfully in 1959 by Indonesia. They said some of the rubber grown on the plantation was aboard the ship.

U.S. Execution Toll Over 53 Pct. Negro

WASHINGTON (UPI)—More than half of the persons executed in the United States in the last 35 years have been Negroes, a government compilation reported Saturday.

Negroes constitute about 12% of the nation's population. However, the Bureau of Prisons said 53.6% of those put to death from 1930 through 1964 were Negroes.

The report listed 3,849 executions by civilian authorities during that period with 2,064 of the victims Negro, 1,743 white, and 42 of other races.

The major difference was in executions for rape. Over the 35 years, 407 Negroes were executed compared to 48 white persons. About 40% of those executed were Negroes in 11 Southern states.

Georgia had the highest death total: 366. New York came next with 329. Other states were Texas 297, California 291 and North Carolina 263.

Eight states had no executions: Maine, Rhode Island, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, Alaska and Hawaii. The report noted that Iowa, Oregon and West Virginia recently have abolished the death penalty.

The prison bureau reported that the number of executions declined from 199 in 1935 to 15 in 1964. Noting that at the end of 1964, 315 prisoners were under death sentences, it pointed out that an increasing percentage of the sentences are never carried out. Last year, 68 death sentences were revoked.

Cars Increase Faster Than Households

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cars are multiplying faster than households.

Five years ago, there were 51,400,000 households in the United States and 45,850,000 cars. Now the figures are 56,400,000 and 55,100,000 largely reflecting an increase in two-and three-car families, according to an official of Universal C.I.T. Credit Corporation.

This year the number of cars probably will actually exceed the number of households, he predicted.

Scout-Post Theft Laid to Leader

HANFORD (UPI)—The district attorney's office said Saturday a former Boy Scout leader will be returned here next week to face charges he embezzled $640 from an Explorer post.

Authorities said the suspect, Walter S. Evans, was in custody in Indio on a battery complaint signed by Mrs. Christine Starr who left Hanford last February at the same time Evans vanished with the funds of Explorer Post 444.

Mrs. Starr also was in custody in Indio on grand theft, embezzlement and traffic charges.

* * * *

THE district attorney's office said a Hanford bondsman is attempting to free the couple on bond for their return here.

Evans came here in 1962 from Santa Clara County to work in the county probation department.

Authorities said he and Mrs. Starr left town together after writing and cashing several worthless checks. She also is charged with stealing a rented trailer.

Baby Girl Dead in Dish of Water

JACKSON, Minn. (AP) — A 9-month-old girl apparently drowned Friday night in a dish of water put out for the family dog.

An autopsy will be performed to determine what caused the death of Janette Fay Thobe. Indications, however, were that she drowned.

Mrs. Joseph Thobe said she stepped outside because another daughter, 2, was caught in a wire. When she returned to the house, she found the baby lying face down in the dog's water dish.

Hard of Hearing?

It is now possible for many who are hard of hearing to regain all or part of their hearing loss. So many have told us, we have tried everything and we are so discouraged that we hesitate to try anything else. Many who have tried this new and proven method are overjoyed. Just like magic in certain cases, they are able to hear without their hearing aid after the very first treatment.

The treatment is simple and painless, and takes about 45 minutes. If the hearing loss is due to a nerve condition, a special treatment is given. If the loss is due to catarrah a different treatment is given. If you have a hearing loss no matter how slight or how bad, it may be helped. Why not find out?

The total charge is $5.00 for the first treatment and the examination. And if you see no improvement from the first treatment, you are under no obligation to return. Assure your appointment by calling 591-1305, 2067 Atlantic Ave., L. B. Dr. H. L. Hutchings, D.C., director.

USS Princeton Greeted Here After 8 Months in Asian Seas

(I, P-T Naval Affairs Reporter Buck Lanier flew out to the amphibious assault carrier USS Princeton (LPH-5) Saturday on a helicopter to cover "Swee' Pea's" final 1½ hours at sea. She returned to Long Beach Naval Station from a record-breaking eight-month deployment in the South China Sea and Western Pacific. When Marine Maj. Joe Beno touched down the UH34 'copter it was landing No. 7,500 since Sept. 16, 1964.)

By BUCK LANIER
I, P-T Naval Affairs Reporter

Most of the crew had stayed up all night.

They were coming home. For some it would mean joyous meeting with loved ones. For others it would mean seeing a child for the first time.

And for some there would be no one on Pier Echo.

Not many were concerned about over a ton of mail waiting for the ship. Just the postal clerks.

The ship's radio station KLPH was in the final stages of a 75-hour "Countdown to Long Beach" and there were even rumors of an anchor pool.

Some personnel were primed to head for their home towns on leave and three crewmen were standing by to be among the first off to go home on emergency leave.

An unlucky percentage had duty and would not be able to leave the ship. "What's one more day after eight months?"

Rank had its privileges, too.

David Brown, storekeeper I. C. had a group of his men holding up a large sign from the flight deck bow as Princeton was easing into her berth.

"Connie, I Love You," it said. She and their four children saw it. The Browns live at 6783 Gaviota Ave., Long Beach.

On the bridge, Capt. Paul J. Knapp had nothing but praise for his 1,000-plus crew, citing high morale during a rough deployment.

"We spent three-fourths of our time at sea and the men's performance was outstanding, particularly at the Chu Lai landing.

(The deployment was climaxed by Princeton's participation in the largest amphibious operation since Inchon, Korea, in 1950. The ship was one of 19 amphibs that landed troops at Chu Lai, South Viet Nam on D-Day, May 7. It was the first use of vertical envelopment in a combat zone. This technique is landing Marines and materiel via helicopters.)

"A 96-hour job was accomplished in 58 hours," Capt. Knapp said.

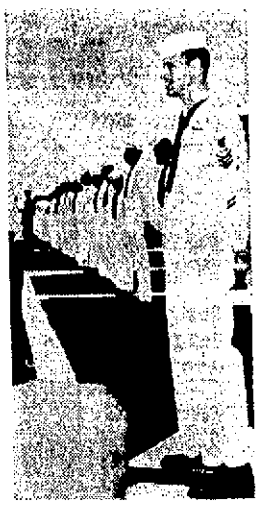

The Iwo Jima relieved Princeton shortly after Chu Lai and on May 16 at Subic Bay the bo'sun's mate passed the word, "Under way for Long Beach."

Cmdr. Charles Buchanan's wife Oonagh and three children from Palos Verdes waited on the pier for the ship to dock. For her it was "the fourth time and the longest of them all."

Capt. Knapp's wife June and two daughters were first aboard soon after the first line was tied at 10:01 a.m.

The crew was in flight-deck formation in whites the final 15 minutes before docking. All wore the Armed Forces Expeditionary Medal.

As a chief said, "Those aren't passed out for tearing up draft cards."

Boycott of Japanese Draws Backing Here

By LEE BROWN

A Wilmington boatowners' association manager said Saturday he thought local boatmen would support a nationwide campaign to boycott Japanese products, and predicted Russian and Japanese trawlers soon would invade Southern California waters.

Roy Katnic, general manager of the 80-boat Fishermen's Cooperative, said fishermen here will be "wholeheartedly sympathetic" with a northern fishermen's protest over Japanese trawlers taking Bristol Bay salmon on their way to spawning beds.

* * * *

"WE BELIEVE," Katnic said, "that Japanese and Russians will send out trawlers to take fish from our local waters within two or three years."

He explained his organization had been approached to join the American Fishermen, an organization seeking a nationwide campaign to boycott Japanese products if Japanese fishermen do not let the Bristol Bay salmon spawn.

"We believe longshoremen here will cooperate with this movement," Katnic said, "and will refuse to unload any Japanese cargoes if the boycott goes into effect."

Katnic said three Russian trawlers are off the coast of Washington, and recounted reports of Soviet fishing vessels off the California coast.

* * * *

"EARLIER this year," he said, "Russian trawlers stripped and gutted of instruments and records a fishing station moored 400 miles off Pt. Concepcion."

Katnic contended that California laws work against Southern California fishermen. "Off Santa Monica Bay, for example," Katnic declared, "we can fish no closer than eight miles from shore because the limit was drawn from point to point."

Contact Lenses Care

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — The chances of getting an eye infection from bacterial contamination of contact lenses may be less if the lenses are kept in a dry case when not in use, according to researchers at the Stanford University School of Medicine.

Indonesian Ship Posts N.Y. Bond

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—A ship owned by the Indonesian government was released by U.S. marshals Saturday after a surety company posted a $2-million bond.

The freighter Johannes Latuharhary had been detained Friday after attorneys for an American company filed a suit to recover $1.5 million in alleged damages from the Indonesian government.

It was the second time in a month that the 6-866-ton ship had been detained due to legal action by American Hawaiian Ventures Inc., a subsidiary of Wong Investment Co. of Honolulu.

* * * *

ON MAY 13 a federal judge in Los Angeles dismissed a similar suit and permitted the ship to leave Long Beach harbor and proceed on its way to the East Coast.

Attorneys for the Honolulu firm claim that the company's rubber plantations were confiscated unlawfully in 1959 by Indonesia. They said some of the rubber grown on the plantation was aboard the ship.

U.S. Execution Toll Over 53 Pct. Negro

WASHINGTON (UPI)—More than half of the persons executed in the United States in the last 35 years have been Negroes, a government compilation reported Saturday.

Negroes constitute about 12% of the nation's population. However, the Bureau of Prisons said 53.6% of those put to death from 1930 through 1964 were Negroes.

The report listed 3,849 executions by civilian authorities during that period with 2,064 of the victims Negro, 1,743 white, and 42 of other races.

The major difference was in executions for rape. Over the 35 years, 407 Negroes were executed compared to 48 white persons. About 40% of those executed were Negroes in 11 Southern states.

Georgia had the highest death total: 366. New York came next with 329. Other states were Texas 297, California 291 and North Carolina 263.

Eight states had no executions: Maine, Rhode Island, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, Alaska and Hawaii. The report noted that Iowa, Oregon and West Virginia recently have abolished the death penalty.

The prison bureau reported that the number of executions declined from 199 in 1935 to 15 in 1964. Noting that at the end of 1964, 315 prisoners were under death sentences, it pointed out that an increasing percentage of the sentences are never carried out. Last year, 68 death sentences were revoked.

Cars Increase Faster Than Households

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cars are multiplying faster than households.

Five years ago, there were 51,400,000 households in the United States and 45,850,000 cars. Now the figures are 56,400,000 and 55,100,000 largely reflecting an increase in two-and three-car families, according to an official of Universal C.I.T. Credit Corporation.

This year the number of cars probably will actually exceed the number of households, he predicted.

Scout-Post Theft Laid to Leader

HANFORD (UPI)—The district attorney's office said Saturday a former Boy Scout leader will be returned here next week to face charges he embezzled $640 from an Explorer post.

Authorities said the suspect, Walter S. Evans, was in custody in Indio on a battery complaint signed by Mrs. Christine Starr who left Hanford last February at the same time Evans vanished with the funds of Explorer Post 444.

Mrs. Starr also was in custody in Indio on grand theft, embezzlement and traffic charges.

* * * *

THE district attorney's office said a Hanford bondsman is attempting to free the couple on bond for their return here.

Evans came here in 1962 from Santa Clara County to work in the county probation department.

Authorities said he and Mrs. Starr left town together after writing and cashing several worthless checks. She also is charged with stealing a rented trailer.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Labor-management confrontation is indicated in news.

Magnolia Will Host Leaders

One hundred civic leaders will be guests of Magnolia Theater Saturday night at a play, speech and champagne buffet with the purpose of establishing community support for a professional repertory theater here.

The speaker will be Oliver Rae, president of the Theater Communications Group, sponsored by the Ford Foundation, and managing director of the Tyrone Guthrie Theater of Minneapolis. He will explain how Ford Foundation grants can be obtained by repertory theaters that have adequate community support.

There will be a special performance of the play, "Enter Laughing." The theater will not be open to the public on that night. Following the speech and performance the guests will go to the home of an executive committeeman for the buffet.

* * * *

MAGNOLIA IS one of 25 theaters in the Theater Communications Group, and Mrs. Pat Brown, Magnolia's managing director, was the group's first director.

Gerald Brown, Magnolia's producer, pointed out that the theater has always aimed at professional standards in its dramas, using many professional actors.

To achieve its goals and to qualify for Ford Foundation grants, "we must have community support as collateral," Brown said.

Wallace Arntzen, acting chairman of the executive committee, will be master of ceremonies at the formal event.

* * * *

OTHER COMMITTEE members are Mrs. Herman Ridder, founding chairman; Clarence L. Knox, Mottell D. Peek, Hubert J. Prichard, Bernard J. Ridder Jr., Mrs. George P. Taubman Jr., Nelson McCook Jr. and Mrs. William Nott.

Repertory theater is gaining strength throughout the United States, Brown said. The Ford Foundation has recognized this with substantial grants to nine theaters in the group of 25, the largest being in excess of $2 million.

Magnolia Theater was founded by the Browns more than 12 years ago. Its only paid staff members are ticket sellers. "We prefer to use our money to pay professional actors and actresses, Brown said.

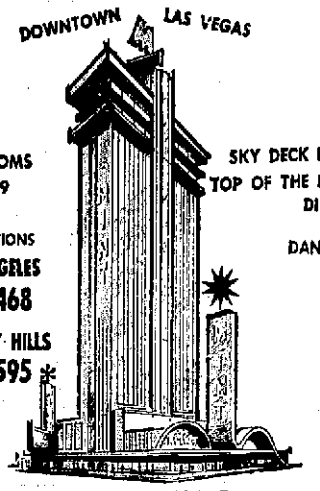

"Our objective is to have a fine professional resident company here in Long Beach," Brown said.

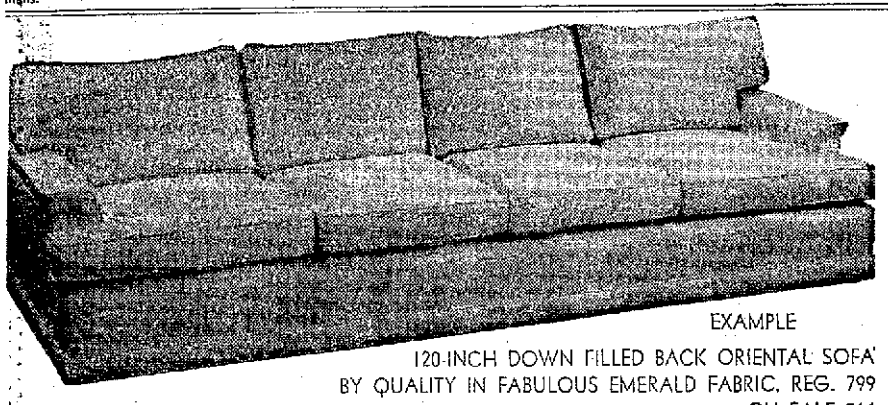

The Magnolia has received strong critical acclaim from drama experts from various parts of the country.

By SYDNEY OMARR

FORECAST FOR TODAY

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Emphasis now on learners, ideas, special research. Good time to express yourself in versatile manner. Be alert and optimistic. Attend church of choice. Smile works wonders!

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Gain indicated through special activities. Emphasis on possessions, collections, hobby. Family, friends can bring pleasure. Day to check details of future plans.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21): Cycle high. Doors previously closed are easier to open. You can now impress people. Important to look your best. Stimulating conversations provide enlightenment.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Day to transform hopes into realities. Cycle moving up. New Moon stresses organizational activity. Fine time for cooperating in community or church project.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Invigorating day. You see the light . . . make headway on creative project. Important people can lend encouragement. Inspiration and good will are indicated.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): New Moon highlights community activity, personal fulfillment. Fine for consulting experts, reading special features in your paper. Keynote is progress. Obtain ideas from Aries pressure.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Join forces with one who has made special study. Day to learn—and to share knowledge. Maintain principles. Stand tall! You impress people . . . and gain spiritual insight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Check savings, plans for future security. Male or partner may be much concerned. Key is confidence. Spotlight originality, independence. Throw off secret fears.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): New Moon highlights favorable reaction to your efforts. Key is cautious optimism. Individual born under Cancer could play significant role. Don't be afraid to seek advice.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Emphasis on simplicity in routine. You benefit now from quiet relaxation. Shake off emotional lethargy. Look to future. Heed spiritual counsel.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): New Moon spotlights romantic interests, children, ties of affection. Day to be creative. Don't get bogged down by display of temper. Keep tight rein on emotions.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Good news likely to be received. Family member provides encouragement. Excellent for discussing vacation and travel. Carefully keep promises and remember Golden Rule.

* * * *

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY . . . your interests are varied, far-reaching. Seldom satisfied with the status-quo, you would make fine reporter or writer.

* * * *

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for Gemini, Cancer. Special word to Capricorn: Confidence is key to future plans.

FORECAST FOR MONDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): No time for arguments. Realize bid will be forthcoming. Good result indicated from correspondence or short business journey. Need for proper rest indicated. Be considerate of co-workers.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Keep expenses under control. If called upon to entertain tonight, emphasize quality, simplicity. Avoid extravagance. Loved one has hidden problem. Be patient!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Cycle remains high. But avoid dispute at home by being diplomatic. Stress beauty, harmony. Purchase which improves appearance can add to comfort and smooth way.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Be perceptive. Note moods and feelings of associates. Read today's Taurus message. Important person may try to contact you at home or office. Be available!

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Emphasis on friends, desires, special attainment. You profit from personal contact. Not best time for buying now. Get additional facts. Utilize your wonderful intuition.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Sudden changes indicated. Be ready for surprises. One phase of activity could be near end. Have new plans ready. Sincere individual wants to be helpful.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Good lunar aspect accents ideas, communications, future plans. Be an innovator. What succeeded in past may be outmoded. Fine for contacts. Nothing half-way today.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Friends and money may not mix now. Be a good listener . . . and amiable. But keep watch on finances. Dubious scheme could prove expensive. Respond with skepticism.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Key is patience. Don't fight City Hall! Be aware of public reactions. Strive for harmony. Try to avoid legal disputes. Be especially considerate of associates.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Don't attempt to force issues. Handle routine matters early. Manage time well. Read Taurus and Cancer messages. Keep temper under control. Very productive if you exercise care.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): One who means much to you could make money request. Be frank, but tactful. Clear air of misunderstandings. Some changes may be indicated. Explain situation . . . then you are happier.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): No time to write or mail letters in anger! Choose words with care. You might be misquoting. Tonight emphasize relaxation. Family member needs your attention, understanding.

* * * *

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY . . . you are versatile, artistic . . . but have both feet on ground. Would make excellent research specialist.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Labor-management confrontation is indicated in news.

Magnolia Will Host Leaders

One hundred civic leaders will be guests of Magnolia Theater Saturday night at a play, speech and champagne buffet with the purpose of establishing community support for a professional repertory theater here.

The speaker will be Oliver Rae, president of the Theater Communications Group, sponsored by the Ford Foundation, and managing director of the Tyrone Guthrie Theater of Minneapolis. He will explain how Ford Foundation grants can be obtained by repertory theaters that have adequate community support.

There will be a special performance of the play, "Enter Laughing." The theater will not be open to the public on that night. Following the speech and performance the guests will go to the home of an executive committeeman for the buffet.

* * * *

MAGNOLIA IS one of 25 theaters in the Theater Communications Group, and Mrs. Pat Brown, Magnolia's managing director, was the group's first director.

Gerald Brown, Magnolia's producer, pointed out that the theater has always aimed at professional standards in its dramas, using many professional actors.

To achieve its goals and to qualify for Ford Foundation grants, "we must have community support as collateral," Brown said.

Wallace Arntzen, acting chairman of the executive committee, will be master of ceremonies at the formal event.

* * * *

OTHER COMMITTEE members are Mrs. Herman Ridder, founding chairman; Clarence L. Knox, Mottell D. Peek, Hubert J. Prichard, Bernard J. Ridder Jr., Mrs. George P. Taubman Jr., Nelson McCook Jr. and Mrs. William Nott.

Repertory theater is gaining strength throughout the United States, Brown said. The Ford Foundation has recognized this with substantial grants to nine theaters in the group of 25, the largest being in excess of $2 million.

Magnolia Theater was founded by the Browns more than 12 years ago. Its only paid staff members are ticket sellers. "We prefer to use our money to pay professional actors and actresses, Brown said.

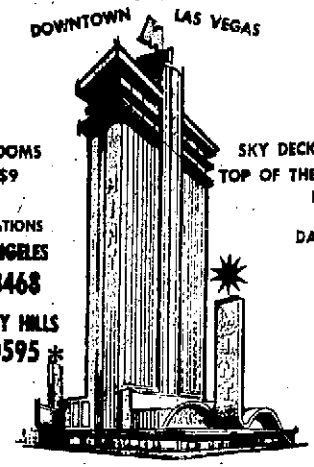

"Our objective is to have a fine professional resident company here in Long Beach," Brown said.

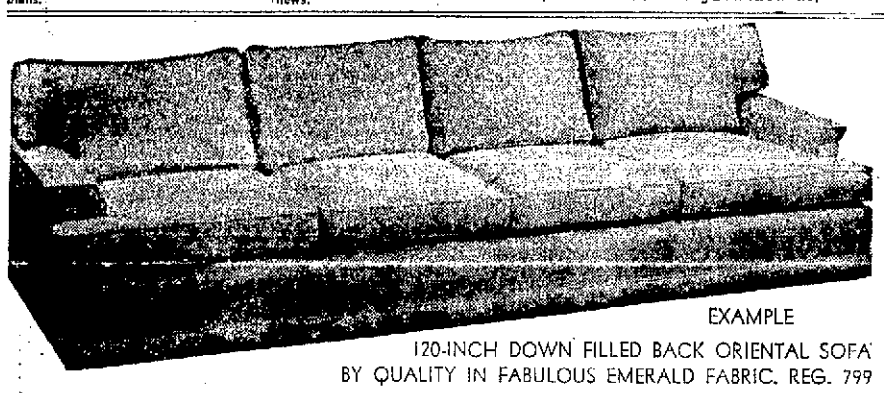

The Magnolia has received strong critical acclaim from drama experts from various parts of the country.

PROJECT GETS UNDER WAY HERE THIS WEEK

Area's Youth Job Program Ready to Go

By GEORGE WEEKS

A $580,440 program designed to employ 700 needy young people in the Long Beach area will begin to roll this week at a slow pace expected to gain momentum rapidly during the next six months.

Assignment of the first 75 to 100 applicants already certified by the State Employment Service may be completed as early as midweek, according to George Logan, executive director of the Community Welfare Council. It will be the first program of its kind activated in Los Angeles County.

The council is the contractor with the Youth Opportunities Board for the project, which encompasses jobs supplied by 33 governmental agencies and nonprofit organizations.

LOGAN WAS ASSURED last week by Dennis Fargus, director of the neighborhood youth corps for YOB, that money for the project has been released under the federal anti-poverty legislation.

"The program is funded—we don't have to worry about that," said Fargus.

Community Welfare Council had delayed the scheduled start of work assignments for more than a week. Officials here had feared that controversy over control of the program in the Los Angeles area would temporarily cut off the funds.

FARGUS said the allotment was cleared before the controversy developed.

The dispute arose over federal demands that the Youth Opportunities Board, comprising representatives of Los Angeles city and county governments and schools as well as the state, be enlarged to embrace the more inclusive Economic Opportunity Federation. Its outcome is still uncertain.

However, Long Beach officials of the State Employment Service announced, on the strength of Fargus' assurance that the local office will immediately accept applications from additional young job seekers.

YOUNG PEOPLE from 16 through 21 years old who are unemployed, out of school and come from families of small means may register at the Long Beach State Employment Service Office, 1350 Locust Ave., where a youth corps section has been set up for the screening procedure.

The "out of school" prerequisite doesn't mean that only dropouts will be accepted, said Mrs. Marion Aronowitz, the SES youth corps supervisor.

In fact, students are being discouraged from dropping out of school just to qualify for part-time jobs at modest pay for a six-month period. Officials hope that many of the applicants will be high school graduates.

THE JOB opportunities extend to girls as well as boys. Positions to be filled are mainly in clerical and maintenance classifications. Applicants cleared at the SES office will be referred to the various participating agencies to start on their jobs.

Under the program, the youth corps will work 20 hours a week at a wage of $1.27 an hour. The current project is limited to six months, but officials hope to extend it.

In charge of the coordinating activity for the Community Welfare Council is Dwight O. Welch, former executive director of the Lakewood YMCA, who was hired for that special assignment.

THE FEDERAL allotment amounts to $537,670. Participating agencies are given credit for supervisory and related work to increase the total project to $580,440.

The city of Long Beach is the biggest participant, offering 140 jobs in almost a dozen departments. Many of the youth corps will help in a beautification program in parks, the dividing islands of streets and along main approaches to the city, according to Byron W. O'Neil, executive assistant to City Manager John R. Mansell.

Other participating agencies include the cities of Artesia and Signal Hill and the county. Most of the county jobs will be at Long Beach General Hospital and El Cerrito Hospital. Still other participants are a cross-section of welfare, youth and other nonprofit organizations.

IBC Beauties Represent U.S. in Japan Contest

Two American beauty queens, both of whom participated in the 1964 International Beauty Pageant in Long Beach, leave Monday for Tokyo, where they will represent the United States at the "Miss Japan" contest June 5.

They are Linda Ann Taylor, 20, of San Diego, "Miss American Beauty Queen," and Jeanne Marie Quinn, 19, of Long Island, "Miss New York."

Winner of the Nipponese contest will be crowned by Miss Taylor. The new "Miss Japan" will participate in the International Beauty Pageant Aug. 4-14.

While in Japan, Miss Taylor and Miss Quinn will visit Yokkaichi, sister city of Long Beach, and present personal greetings from Mayor Edwin W. Wade to his counterpart there.

Chaperoning them will be Mrs. Donald Miller of Long Beach.

Sponsoring the trip is Daisho Company Limited, which also is sponsoring the Japanese beauty contest.

Miss Taylor, a student at Mesa Junior College in San Diego, was first runner-up in last year's International Beauty Pageant.

Miss Quinn, a math major at Hofstra University, says she plans to be a college instructor.

After sightseeing in Japan, the girls and Mrs. Miller will return home June 14.

UNOFFICIAL IBC SWIMSUITS WITH INTERNATIONAL FLAIR 'PREVIEWED' AT SHERATON-WEST HOTEL

Beach Combing with Malcolm Epley

BY THE time you read this there'll be a hot news story running giving statistics on the holiday auto traffic toll. It will give comparisons with the highway blood-letting at this season in other years, how things are going as compared with the National Safety Council's predictions, and which state is racking up the top record.

These reports sound almost as if we're in some sort of competition, trying to go over the top or something like that.

I have no idea how long this type of journalistic endeavor at holiday times has been going on. I've seen it as long as I can remember.

We always tell about the holiday accident toll, though I'm not sure that it's any worse at those times than on "normal" weekends or even business days.

The theory, presumably, is that there is more traffic on holidays than other days. But is there? I'm not at all sure that in our area, which is the wheelingest region in the world, holiday traffic is bigger than that of a regular business day.

Heaven knows, we have a lot of smashups, holidays and all days. The battered fences along the highways are mute evidence of that, even for the motorist who misses seeing banged-up and overturned cars. These marks of traffic violence aren't confined to divider fences. Recently, for instance, the fence along the edge of East Seventh St. at the Bixby Ranch, in Long Beach, has taken a whanging. Whereas it was once a pretty formidable barrier, there are now gaping holes.

ONE OF THE strange customs of our area is mortuary advertising on bus benches.

No one has ever satisfactorily explained this to me. The only idea that suggests itself is that people who sit on bus benches are supposed to be about ready to use the advertised services.

But one citizen has called in to complain on that very angle. He thinks it's disturbing and sort of ghoulish to see elderly people sitting on a bench with words painted on it that suggest what should be done in case of demise.

Now that Pres. Johnson has made an issue of roadside advertising in the land of the Great Society, maybe consideration could be given to providing advertisingless bus benches.

WILDLIFE NOTE — Mention here the other day about ravens in the Westminister Blvd. area brought a note from Alice Ehrhardt, 1453 Park Ave., describing nefarious activities of ravens in Recreation Park.

She says that these ravens have driven away or killed all the smaller birds such as doves, mockingbirds and jays. They have raided and killed young birds in nests, both in the park and surrounding areas. They kill and eat the young, and she has seen parent birds literally torn apart trying to protect their young.

She favors a move by the city to eliminate ravens before they eliminate all other forms of bird life.

NOW THAT DC9 production is booming along at Douglas, maybe some enterprising bartender should come up with a drink to succeed (or supplement) the DC8.

Never had a DC8? Well, they have them in Europe. When I was in Holland a few years back I told a bartender I was from the home town of the DC8 and he proudly reported that he had devised a drink, the DC8, which won honors at some bartenders competition over there. I've forgotten the ingredients but the kick was Focking gin. He made me one which I, though reluctant, consumed out of respect to the relationship with the chief product of my home town. I don't recall much about what happened in Holland after that.

Roland R. Bach, Long Beach Red Cross Chapter manager who is retiring July 1, will talk about his 21 years on the job here through war and peace, at the annual dinner meeting of the Red Cross June 8 in the Petroleum Club, 3616 Linden Ave.

Gen. James F. Collins, USA (ret.), appointed in 1964 as president of American Red Cross, will make his first official visit to Southern California as principal speaker on the program.

Red Cross volunteers will attend in uniform, I. Sukman, Chapter chairman, announced. A large military delegation is expected. Also community leaders and groups are coming from Red Cross Western Area headquarters at San Francisco, Region III at Los Angeles, and many Chapters.

"We want all who are interested to know they are invited as long as reservations hold out," said Sukman. "The dinner program is informal. Reservations may be made by telephone to Long Beach Red Cross, 319 W. Broadway."

A social hour will be held at 6:30; dinner at 7:30 p.m.

Prize Photos Will Be Shown Here

An exhibition of prize-winning snapshots taken by amateur photographers throughout North America will be shown at Recreation Park on Camera Day, June 6, sponsored by the Independent, Press-Telegram.

The exhibit features photo prints selected from the 26th annual Newspaper National Snapshot Awards, in which more than $32,000 was presented finalists. Both color and black-and-white photos make up the display.

Woodmen's Picnic

Southern California Omaha Woodmen of the World will celebrate the 75th anniversary of the organization with a picnic Sunday, July 6, in South Gate Park from 10:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

SWISS MISS WEARS 'SWISS CHEESE'
Mircille Jacobi's Multi-Holed Suit Has Intrigues

IBC PAGEANT COSTUMES DISPLAYED

Nudity No, Intrigue Si

(Staff Photos by Roger Coar)

"I don't like nudity! What you need is intrigue!"

Mary Ann DeWeese, designer of the International Beauty Congress' official—and unofficial—suit this year, watched as four models paraded by.

"It's intrigue," she said, as her suits reveal.

The "official" suit, a slim-fitting conservative model with fringe benefits, isn't at all like the "unofficial" suits that will adorn the shapely gals in the chorus at IBC productions this summer.

The unofficial suits, though, do reflect an international trend.

There's the Mais Oui, featuring a diamond-shaped gap in the midsection and no back or sides. The material—what there is—is a diamond net.

There's the "Harem Scarem," a full-fledged bikini with a veil (for the hair) and pantaloons (for covering what isn't covered by the bikini.)

And there's the Swiss suit—like Swiss cheese. It's a full-one-piece suit with large perforations strategically placed throughout.

Only trouble with this model is that if the girl switches to a two-piece suit in midsummer, she'll be polka-dotted.

FRISHMAN HEADED OUTSTANDING UNIT

Naval Reserve School Chief to Quit

Capt. Harry B. Frishman, director of publications for the Long Beach school district, on July 1 will relinquish command of the Naval Reserve Officers School 11-4, which operates at Long Beach State College.

Frishman has headed the unit which was recently judged "the best in the 11th Naval District and one of the outstanding officer schools in nation" for the past nine years.

The unit commander will continue as an instructor with the unit. His successor will be announced later, it was stated.

Frishman, of 736 Santiago Ave., Long Beach, took command of the reserve unit in 1956 after serving as administrative officer of naval air groups and as an air base training officer in World War II.

Only recently NROS 11-4 won the highest grade ever assigned an officer school during the post-Korea conflict period in which the schools were established. The rating from the 11th Naval District Reserve Inspection Board was 3.96. The highest possible score is 4.0.

"NROS 11-4 has assembled one of the most outstanding faculties in Southern California," said Capt. Walter R. Harman, USNR, senior member of the inspection board.

CAPT. H. B. FRISHMAN
Relinquishes command

"EDUCATORS agree that it is equal or superior to that of any major college or university in the Southland," said Harman. "Here is a teaching team which is is doing its very best to raise the level of knowledge and insight of the Naval Reserve officers within its classrooms and the U.S. Navy in the communities which these officer students reside."

After the record-high rating, Capt. E. H. Mayer, USN, deputy chief of staff for Naval Reserve, 11th Naval District, said:

"The commandant concurs in the findings of the inspection board and adds his personal congratulations."

THE OFFICER-enrollment of the unit has more than doubled under Frishman's command to a total of more than 500. Although the officer school is designed to keep officers combat-ready by providing instruction in such widely expanding fields as space technology, guided missiles, oceanography and counter-insurgency, NROS 11-4 also offers courses at naval installations at Santa Ana, Terminal Island and Los Alamitos.

These marks of traffic violence aren't confined to divider fences. Recently, for instance, the fence along the edge of East Seventh St. at the Bixby Ranch, in Long Beach, has taken a whanging. Whereas it was once a pretty formidable barrier, there are now gaping holes.

ONE OF THE strange customs of our area is mortuary advertising on bus benches.

No one has ever satisfactorily explained this to me. The only idea that suggests itself is that people who sit on bus benches are supposed to be about ready to use the advertised services.

But one citizen has called in to complain on that very angle. He thinks it's disturbing and sort of ghoulish to see elderly people sitting on a bench with words painted on it that suggest what should be done in case of demise.

Now that Pres. Johnson has made an issue of roadside advertising in the land of the Great Society, maybe consideration could be given to providing advertisingless bus benches.

WILDLIFE NOTE — Mention here the other day about ravens in the Westminister Blvd. area brought a note from Alice Ehrhardt, 1453 Park Ave., describing nefarious activities of ravens in Recreation Park.

She says that these ravens have driven away or killed all the smaller birds such as doves, mockingbirds and jays. They have raided and killed young birds in nests, both in the park and surrounding areas. They kill and eat the young, and she has seen parent birds literally torn apart trying to protect their young.

She favors a move by the city to eliminate ravens before they eliminate all other forms of bird life.

NOW THAT DC9 production is booming along at Douglas, maybe some enterprising bartender should come up with a drink to succeed (or supplement) the DC8.

Never had a DC8? Well, they have them in Europe. When I was in Holland a few years back I told a bartender I was from the home town of the DC8 and he proudly reported that he had devised a drink, the DC8, which won honors at some bartenders competition over there. I've forgotten the ingredients but the kick was Focking gin. He made me one which I, though reluctant, consumed out of respect to the relationship with the chief product of my home town. I don't recall much about what happened in Holland after that.

Roland R. Bach, Long Beach Red Cross Chapter manager who is retiring July 1, will talk about his 21 years on the job here through war and peace, at the annual dinner meeting of the Red Cross June 8 in the Petroleum Club, 3616 Linden Ave.

Gen. James F. Collins, USA (ret.), appointed in 1964 as president of American Red Cross, will make his first official visit to Southern California as principal speaker on the program.

Red Cross volunteers will attend in uniform, I. Sukman, Chapter chairman, announced. A large military delegation is expected. Also community leaders and groups are coming from Red Cross Western Area headquarters at San Francisco, Region III at Los Angeles, and many Chapters.

"We want all who are interested to know they are invited as long as reservations hold out," said Sukman. "The dinner program is informal. Reservations may be made by telephone to Long Beach Red Cross, 319 W. Broadway."

A social hour will be held at 6:30; dinner at 7:30 p.m.

Prize Photos Will Be Shown Here

An exhibition of prize-winning snapshots taken by amateur photographers throughout North America will be shown at Recreation Park on Camera Day, June 6, sponsored by the Independent, Press-Telegram.

The exhibit features photo prints selected from the 26th annual Newspaper National Snapshot Awards, in which more than $32,000 was presented finalists. Both color and black-and-white photos make up the display.

Woodmen's Picnic

Southern California Omaha Woodmen of the World will celebrate the 75th anniversary of the organization with a picnic Sunday, July 6, in South Gate Park from 10:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

IBC PAGEANT COSTUMES DISPLAYED

Nudity No, Intrigue Si

(Staff Photos by Roger Coar)

"I don't like nudity! What you need is intrigue!"

Mary Ann DeWeese, designer of the International Beauty Congress' official—and unofficial—suit this year, watched as four models paraded by.

"It's intrigue," she said, as her suits reveal.

The "official" suit, a slim-fitting conservative model with fringe benefits, isn't at all like the "unofficial" suits that will adorn the shapely gals in the chorus at IBC productions this summer.

The unofficial suits, though, do reflect an international trend.

There's the Mais Oui, featuring a diamond-shaped gap in the midsection and no back or sides. The material—what there is—is a diamond net.

There's the "Harem Scarem," a full-fledged bikini with a veil (for the hair) and pantaloons (for covering what isn't covered by the bikini.)

And there's the Swiss suit—like Swiss cheese. It's a full-one-piece suit with large perforations strategically placed throughout.

Only trouble with this model is that if the girl switches to a two-piece suit in midsummer, she'll be polka-dotted.

Suits shown during a preview at the Sheraton-West Hotel in Hollywood all will be seen here during the IBC. That's Aug. 9, 10, 11, 12 and 13, in case you've forgotten.

FRISHMAN HEADED OUTSTANDING UNIT

Naval Reserve School Chief to Quit

Capt. Harry B. Frishman, director of publications for the Long Beach school district, on July 1 will relinquish command of the Naval Reserve Officers School 11-4, which operates at Long Beach State College.

Frishman has headed the unit which was recently judged "the best in the 11th Naval District and one of the outstanding officer schools in nation" for the past nine years.

The unit commander will continue as an instructor with the unit. His successor will be announced later, it was stated.

Frishman, of 736 Santiago Ave., Long Beach, took command of the reserve unit in 1956 after serving as administrative officer of naval air groups and as an air base training officer in World War II.

Only recently NROS 11-4 won the highest grade ever assigned an officer school during the post-Korea conflict period in which the schools were established. The rating from the 11th Naval District Reserve Inspection Board was 3.96. The highest possible score is 4.0.

"NROS 11-4 has assembled one of the most outstanding faculties in Southern California," said Capt. Walter R. Harman, USNR, senior member of the inspection board.

CAPT. H. B. FRISHMAN
Relinquishes command

"EDUCATORS agree that it is equal or superior to that of any major college or university in the Southland," said Harman. "Here is a teaching team which is is doing its very best to raise the level of knowledge and insight of the Naval Reserve officers within its classrooms and the U.S. Navy in the communities which these officer students reside."

After the record-high rating, Capt. E. H. Mayer, USN, deputy chief of staff for Naval Reserve, 11th Naval District, said:

"The commandant concurs in the findings of the inspection board and adds his personal congratulations."

THE OFFICER-enrollment of the unit has more than doubled under Frishman's command to a total of more than 500. Although the officer school is designed to keep officers combat-ready by providing instruction in such widely expanding fields as space technology, guided missiles, oceanography and counter-insurgency, NROS 11-4 also offers courses at naval installations at Santa Ana, Terminal Island and Los Alamitos.

A Practical Plan

THERE'S MUCH GOOD SENSE in the changes envisioned for the 32nd Congressional District in tentative reapportionment plans offered by California's delegation in Congress.

At present the 32nd District, represented by Craig Hosmer, includes Long Beach, Lakewood, Signal Hill, and Dominguez. Impending federal legislation would apply the principles of "one-man, one-vote" to congressional districts in a more precise manner. The congressional delegation's effort to satisfy the more rigid requirements would remove Dominguez from the 32nd District and add the Orange County communities of Rossmoor, Seal Beach, and Leisure World.

These Orange County areas form a natural community of interest with Long Beach, Lakewood, and Signal Hill. Adding them to the 32nd District would be in keeping with the proposed congressional measure, which requires compact, contiguous districts. The change would also help satisfy the requirements of population in adjacent congressional districts.

The plan is a practical one. Its chief obstacle lies in the fact that California's constitution now prevents congressional districts from being composed of parts of two or more counties. A district must include all of any county which is part of it. Obviously, the proposal for the 32nd district does not observe that requirement.

The objection may be met in two ways. One, the courts might find the state constitution's provision inapplicable in the case of a district formed of parts of two counties as a means of meeting the federal one-man, one-vote requirement. Two, the state constitution might have to be changed to permit the formation of such districts.

It's none too soon for California legislators to start thinking about these problems, for reapportionment according to the court-directed formula will inevitably be required in congressional as well as State Senate districts.

Smirched Shrine

NOT LONG AGO we had the privilege of visiting Mount Rushmore, perhaps the greatest and no doubt the most breath-taking of the national shrines.

The dignity and sweeping splendor of those monumental carvings must leave the most hardened cynic with feeling of pride in his national heritage.

We can't help wondering, though, what Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln, and Teddy Roosevelt, whose faces gaze out over the Black Hills, would have thought of the road leading up the side of the mountain.

That road is cluttered on both sides for miles and miles with the ugliest and most garish chain of billboards on the face of the earth. It is a testimony to the greatness of the shrine that you can like it after having traveled the road that leads to it.

What has happened to the mountainside, and to a road that should be an inviting and stately overture to a noble experience, is a national shame.

We mention this now because of the message which President Johnson delivered to Congress this week asking for more rigid control of outdoor advertising. For certainly he made the understatement of his career when he wrote: "It is neither in the interests of the advertising industry, or the nation, to permit a further decrease of our dwindling natural beauty."

Assembly, Senate May Make Deal on Redistricting Plan

I, P-T State Bureau

SACRAMENTO — Reapportionment still dominates all other issues as the legislature nears June 18 adjournment.

The fate of scores of bills may be determined by the deals negotiated over Senate redistricting — including the state's budget and tax reform.

McCAULEY

Lawmakers can compromise gracefully on old-time issues like death and taxes. But something like carving out district lines for lawmakers brings out the personal self-interest of every politician.

It could determine many future political careers, and chop away others.

Sacramento legislators are ready to deal away their constituents, their political party, their financial angels and all else to assure that home-district lines are designed for their personal political advantage.

There is increasing speculation the Senate and Assembly may negotiate a deal over redistricting. The Senate desperately wants an Assembly okay on a reapportionment plan that preserves a maximum number of rural Senate seats—even though the Senate plan wouldn't offer full one-man-one-vote redistricting. If the Assembly will oblige, Senators would be willing to accept Assembly legislative programs they might kill in other years.

The Senate version of its own redistricting plan calls for only 12 Senate seats in Los Angeles County, short-changing the county from the 15.3 seats that would be provided under a full interpretation of the federal court's order that every Californian is to have equal Senate representation.

Another complicating factor is the assessment made by Assembly consultants. Four consultant-professors say flatly that the Senate's redistricting plan violates the federal constitution because urban Senate districts still are too small. The Senate plan gives one rural area 2.5 times as much representation as Long Beach area. Such a variance won't meet the court order, say the consultants.

Assembly realists sense that the Senate will reject any Assembly amendments that force any more rural Senate seats into urban areas than already are provided under the bill of Sen. Stephen Teale, D - West Point.

Thus the Assembly is inclined to tinker with the Teale bill only so far as drawing district lines in urban counties. The Teale bill's 12-Senator quota for Los Angeles County, short-changing Southern California, probably will be left intact.

Assemblyman figure it isn't worth the trouble of a losing Senate scrap. They will look to the federal courts for an honest one-man - one-vote reapportionment.

Long Beach area is accustomed to being short-changed on allocation of representatives.

Long Beach area assembly districts also are considerably larger than districts in other sections of the state.

The average California Assembly district is 196,465 persons. But Assemblyman George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach, represents 207,600. Assemblyman Joseph Kennick, D-Long Beach, has 212,181 constituents.

Orange County's three - man Assembly delegation is short-changed even more on the allocation of Assembly seats. San Francisco has five Assemblymen, though it is smaller than Orange County.

* * * *

FOR THESE and other reasons, redistricting of the Assembly is likely in the near future. The court has rejected one Assembly reapportionment suit because it was filed in a district that had adequate representation.

However, Los Angeles attorney Phil Silver intends to file a suit in a second district—this time one with selective under-representation.

The days when Sacramento can short-change Southern California on representation soon may fade. It will simplify Long Beach's problems on guarding its shoreline. Also, it could cut off the drain of Southern California funds for Northern California parks and highways.

JOHN O'HARA

Edward R. Murrow--the Varnished Ham

Distributed by Newsday Specials

ABANDOING all caution, I now hazard the guess that history will judge that Winston Churchill did more to win the Second World War than Edward R. Murrow. This may seem like a rash, reckless statement when the newspapers and the airways —very particularly the airwaves—continue to give us posthumous salutes to Murrow. Nevertheless I take the risk. Thirty years, or one generation, hence, I may have to eat these words, and that will be an unpalatable repast for a man of 90.

* * * *

THE ONLY time I ever met Murrow was at a party at the home of Miriam Hopkins. The New York home of Miriam Hopkins, I should say. It was a charming, small house on the East River, which Miss Hopkins still owns. There, and in Beverly Hills, her parties were unique, or at least atypical of the parties usually given by movie stars. Most of her guests were chosen from the world of the intellect; novelists, playwrights, musicians, composers, painters sculptors, directors, government officials. They were there because Miriam knew them all, had read their works, had listened to their music, had bought their paintings.

They were not there because a secretary had given her a list of highbrows. At that party, which was about 25 years ago, were Edward R. Murrow, Vincent Sheean, John Gunther and William L. Shirer, among many others. Sheean, who likes to bait people, had been baiting me for not having fought beside Hemingway in the Spanish Civil War. It was a pretty good example of what would now be called putting me on. Before I could reply, Murrow said quietly, "And what were you doing there, Jimmy?"

I never knew why, but Murrow's question crushed Sheean, and I didn't have to say a word. Murrow winked at me and grinned, and I smiled my thanks. It was the only time I ever actually met Murrow, but of course I remained kindly disposed toward him.

* * * *

BUT AFTER the war, when he returned to New York, CBS did a varnish on him and he was not an unwilling object of the glamorizing treatment. He was a radio announcer who had been converted into a war correspondent, and with his elecutionary gift he was equipped by nature and by temperament for a whole new career. In an earlier day he would have made a splendid Chautauqua artist; in the late Nineteen-Forties he was tarnsformed into a quasi-official voice of the liberal movement. And though I was voting that way myself, and usually was in agreement with the words Murrow uttered, I considered him a ham.

The more popular he became, the hammier he got. The elocutionary style was being developed — the dramatic pauses seemed to be controlled by a stop-watch, the voice was pitched a half-tone lower. And of course the bolder he got in the scripts he read, the higher his rating as a statesman-without-portfolio.

He was much better off than if he had official status. As a public official he would not have enjoyed the immunity that he was granted at CBS, where only William S. Paley could ire him. Another bit of luck in his favor was the fact that he had not pursued his theatrical career. At Washington State College he had been a member of the National Collegiate Players, a recognition society in dramatics. After college he abandoned the stage, and by not becoming a professional actor he escaped the attainder that was slapped on every actor, right or left, who spoke out on political matters. Murrow closed the curtain on his interests in amateur theatricals. He mentions the National Collegiate Players in his 1946-47 Who's Who sketch, but not in the succeeding volume.

It is also interesting to note that in the 1946-47 sketch he cites his membership in Scabbard and Blade, which is a national collegiate military society. Its purpose, according to Baird's Manual, is "to raise the standard of military training in American colleges and universities, to unite in closer relationship their military establishments . . . to promote preparedness for proper defense of the United States by disseminating accurate information . . . concerning the military needs of the nation." After 1947 Murrow ceased to proclaim membership in Scabbard and Blade, although he continues to acknowledge Kappa Sigma; and he apparently picked up an honorary membership in Phi Beta Kappa along the way. I wonder if Phi Beta knew he had been in Scabbard and Blade.

* * * *

I RAPPED him several times while he was still in good health, and 10 years ago I declined the supreme honor of one of those Person-to-Person interviews of his. I had, and have, nothing much against him except that he was overrated and never questioned the overrating.

Uneasy Is Head That Wears a Political Crown in State

I, P-T Political Editor

IF ONE ACCEPTS the fairly valid premise that California politics is unpredictable, and that yesterday's election form sheets may have no relationship to tomorrow's vote result, then:

The apparent black and white fact of a Los Angeles mayoral landslide for Samuel Yorty may not be a true sign at all of either mandate or stature as a state political force to be reckoned with.

HOUSER

There really is no clear-cut index of Yorty's purge power in last week's councilmanic results although the evidence clearly favors his case. He got rid of Roz Wyman with Ed Edelman, and his choice, Paul Lamport, defeated Mary Tinglof. But another Yorty pick, Karl Rundberg, lost to Marvin Braude.

WHAT KIND of pattern is this? Two women lost. Edelman, who defeated Yorty-foe Wyman, was a supporter of Yorty's principal mayoralty opponent, James Roosevelt. It's difficult to read a conservative mood into these votes—even more difficult in the light of a notable conservative defeat in that same election, Mrs. Marion Miller's loss to the Rev. James Jones, a Negro liberal, for the L.A. School Board.

A principal Roosevelt campaigner said Yorty "takes too much credit and oversimplifies his victory; this was as much—possibly more—of a vote against Jimmy than it was a vote for Yorty."

This campaigner, hindsighting the L.A. campaign, says that Roosevelt's big mistake was a go-for-broke appeal to minority groups, which he already had in the bank. This emphasis created restiveness among the white, Anglo-Saxon Protestants who had only Yorty as an alternative.

Illustrative of the fallacy of over-crediting Yorty's 58% vote as a significant setdown for Gov. Pat Brown and Democratic National Commiteeeman Eugene Wyman (Roz' husband) are the diametrically opposite appraisals by Republican opposition.

GOP GIANT-KILLER Sen. George Murphy, during a Washington press conference with State GOP Chairman Dr. Gaylord Parkinson, said the Wyman defeat proved Californians are tired of machine politics under Brown. Parkinson echoed this reading of the results in softer language. Yorty agreed that the outcome indicates trouble for Brown in 1966 unless he divorces himself from the Wymans.

But L.A. County GOP Chairman Jud Leetham endorsed Rosalind Wyman. Leetham happens to be state chairman also of the GOP candidate development committee. Some Republicans looked upon his act as heresy, but it coincided with the recommendation of the L.A. Times.

In sum, the head that wears a crown today in California politics has plenty of reason to be uneasy—to keep loose. And that means testing the voter disposition frequently; their winds are fickle and changing in this state. Sometimes voter performance seems as capricious as the score of an ape shooting dice.

Paul Seabury, an associate professor of political science at the University of California, notes in the current Harper's Magazine, the prospect of California—"this adolescent giant" of dominating the national political scene within a decade—a prospect possibly alarming to "inhabitants of more politically mature regions."

SEABURY QUOTES a familiar explanation for both the state's oddities and its recuperative and stabilizing knacks:

"Tilt a continent and the oddballs will roll with the tilt; but rolling oddballs do not stay put long enough to seriously derange the day-to-day conduct of business."

Conservatives Get Bad Deal

EDITOR:

The current telephone messages carried weekly under the name "Let freedom ring" has elicited much controversy pro and con and the usual name calling.

However, a closer scrutiny brings out some interesting and rather alarming trends. Today anyone who presumes to point out the fallibility of an elected official or appointee and suggests that their actions might be inimical to the best interest of our country are bitterly denounced by most newspapers, magazines, columnists, educators, etc., as being right wing extremists or worse while, conversely, if one of these officials proclaims to the world that our system is full of shortcomings, that the Constitution is outdated and useless, the profit system bad, that all Americans are full of guilt, that the government should own and control everything, then he is immediately given vast publicity through the paper, magazines, TV interviews, college campus apeparances and helped in every way to advance his theory.

It would seem the spoken or written word of one liberal carries more weight than that of 20 conservatives. Some TV stations today won't sell time for a conservative program unless equal time is purchased and donated for the liberal message. The government no longer allows conservative organizations tax exemptions yet many of the foundations are engaged in liberal political activities and yet are tax exempt.

Time could be running out for us if we fail to realize that criticism of public officials is healthy and needed —and that elected people from the President on down do not don a cloak of infallibility — nor are they above receiving and acting on bad advice. Just because you criticize them should not brand you a kook, a right winger, or an extremist but rather a concerned American — maybe wrong sometimes but wanting only the best for our country. As Harry Truman once said, "if you can't stand the heat then get out of the kitchen."

Thirty Years Is Long Time to Hate

EDITOR:

I appreciate your editorials concerning both sides of current issues. Many papers do not do this; being Republican or Democratic they approach a one-sided view of any situation.

However, the recent article by Lyle C. Wilson was an insult to both parties and to the people themselves. I agree we do not live in a perfect or easy age, but I am sure our grandparents felt they didn't either. There never was, or never will be a perfect age. One only has to read the Bible through to know that in that far-off period some of the worst tragedies of history occurred.

True, our economy is higher, but so are living standards. We are in an age (not 30 years ago that Mr. Wilson speaks of) when the world itself has changed—not only our country—and with it has changed our life and economy.

He doesn't mention that wages have also changed and living conditions are higher and better than in the complete history of our country. Thirty years ago you seldom saw anyone who possessed more than one car. Homes were not as modern and beautiful as they are today, and most could not even buy an old home for lack of funds.

I remember when a nice roast serving five people could be purchased for 35 cents. But believe me, it was more difficult to pay the 35 cents than the cost of one now.

A house renting for $20 was considered expensive and regardless of how low the rent, it was hard to pay. I didn't vote for FDR but I think the way he describes him is an insult to the dead. He condemns all of our Presidents for the past 30 years and that's a lot of hatred on Mr. Wilson's part for so long a time.

Deplores Mess of Litterbugs

EDITOR:

I live in Long Beach so naturally I care about it. I think this city a mess. I really do. Don't the people in this city know what a trash can is for? I've seen people unwrap a candy bar, walk right past a trash can, and drop the paper on the street. Is it any wonder that papers and trash of all descriptions is always blowing by downtown?

Long Beach could be a very pretty city if everyone would just remember to use the trash cans that are on every downtown street. Recently a British girl, Petula Clark made a record called "D o w n town." Downtown London may turn her on, but downtown Long Beach does absolutely nothing for me. So let's do something about it, okay?

The Senate desperately wants an Assembly okay on a reapportionment plan that preserves a maximum number of rural Senate seats—even though the Senate plan wouldn't offer full one-man-one-vote redistricting. If the Assembly will oblige, Senators would be willing to accept Assembly legislative programs they might kill in other years.

The Senate version of its own redistricting plan calls for only 12 Senate seats in Los Angeles County, short-changing the county from the 15.3 seats that would be provided under a full interpretation of the federal court's order that every Californian is to have equal Senate representation.

Another complicating factor is the assessment made by Assembly consultants. Four consultant-professors say flatly that the Senate's redistricting plan violates the federal constitution because urban Senate districts still are too small. The Senate plan gives one rural area 2.5 times as much representation as Long Beach area. Such a variance won't meet the court order, say the consultants.

Assembly realists sense that the Senate will reject any Assembly amendments that force any more rural Senate seats into urban areas than already are provided under the bill of Sen. Stephen Teale, D - West Point.

Thus the Assembly is inclined to tinker with the Teale bill only so far as drawing district lines in urban counties. The Teale bill's 12-Senator quota for Los Angeles County, short-changing Southern California, probably will be left intact.

Assemblyman figure it isn't worth the trouble of a losing Senate scrap. They will look to the federal courts for an honest one-man - one-vote reapportionment.

Long Beach area is accustomed to being short-changed on allocation of representatives.

Long Beach area assembly districts also are considerably larger than districts in other sections of the state.

The average California Assembly district is 196,465 persons. But Assemblyman George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach, represents 207,600. Assemblyman Joseph Kennick, D-Long Beach, has 212,181 constituents.

Orange County's three - man Assembly delegation is short-changed even more on the allocation of Assembly seats. San Francisco has five Assemblymen, though it is smaller than Orange County.

* * * *

FOR THESE and other reasons, redistricting of the Assembly is likely in the near future. The court has rejected one Assembly reapportionment suit because it was filed in a district that had adequate representation.

However, Los Angeles attorney Phil Silver intends to file a suit in a second district—this time one with selective under-representation.

The days when Sacramento can short-change Southern California on representation soon may fade. It will simplify Long Beach's problems on guarding its shoreline. Also, it could cut off the drain of Southern California funds for Northern California parks and highways.

Edward R. Murrow--the Varnished Ham

Distributed by Newsday Specials

ABANDOING all caution, I now hazard the guess that history will judge that Winston Churchill did more to win the Second World War than Edward R. Murrow. This may seem like a rash, reckless statement when the newspapers and the airways —very particularly the airwaves—continue to give us posthumous salutes to Murrow. Nevertheless I take the risk. Thirty years, or one generation, hence, I may have to eat these words, and that will be an unpalatable repast for a man of 90.

* * * *

THE ONLY time I ever met Murrow was at a party at the home of Miriam Hopkins. The New York home of Miriam Hopkins, I should say. It was a charming, small house on the East River, which Miss Hopkins still owns. There, and in Beverly Hills, her parties were unique, or at least atypical of the parties usually given by movie stars. Most of her guests were chosen from the world of the intellect; novelists, playwrights, musicians, composers, painters sculptors, directors, government officials. They were there because Miriam knew them all, had read their works, had listened to their music, had bought their paintings.

They were not there because a secretary had given her a list of highbrows. At that party, which was about 25 years ago, were Edward R. Murrow, Vincent Sheean, John Gunther and William L. Shirer, among many others. Sheean, who likes to bait people, had been baiting me for not having fought beside Hemingway in the Spanish Civil War. It was a pretty good example of what would now be called putting me on. Before I could reply, Murrow said quietly, "And what were you doing there, Jimmy?"

I never knew why, but Murrow's question crushed Sheean, and I didn't have to say a word. Murrow winked at me and grinned, and I smiled my thanks. It was the only time I ever actually met Murrow, but of course I remained kindly disposed toward him.

* * * *

BUT AFTER the war, when he returned to New York, CBS did a varnish on him and he was not an unwilling object of the glamorizing treatment. He was a radio announcer who had been converted into a war correspondent, and with his elecutionary gift he was equipped by nature and by temperament for a whole new career. In an earlier day he would have made a splendid Chautauqua artist; in the late Nineteen-Forties he was tarnsformed into a quasi-official voice of the liberal movement. And though I was voting that way myself, and usually was in agreement with the words Murrow uttered, I considered him a ham.

The more popular he became, the hammier he got. The elocutionary style was being developed — the dramatic pauses seemed to be controlled by a stop-watch, the voice was pitched a half-tone lower. And of course the bolder he got in the scripts he read, the higher his rating as a statesman-without-portfolio.

He was much better off than if he had official status. As a public official he would not have enjoyed the immunity that he was granted at CBS, where only William S. Paley could ire him. Another bit of luck in his favor was the fact that he had not pursued his theatrical career. At Washington State College he had been a member of the National Collegiate Players, a recognition society in dramatics. After college he abandoned the stage, and by not becoming a professional actor he escaped the attainder that was slapped on every actor, right or left, who spoke out on political matters. Murrow closed the curtain on his interests in amateur theatricals. He mentions the National Collegiate Players in his 1946-47 Who's Who sketch, but not in the succeeding volume.

It is also interesting to note that in the 1946-47 sketch he cites his membership in Scabbard and Blade, which is a national collegiate military society. Its purpose, according to Baird's Manual, is "to raise the standard of military training in American colleges and universities, to unite in closer relationship their military establishments . . . to promote preparedness for proper defense of the United States by disseminating accurate information . . . concerning the military needs of the nation." After 1947 Murrow ceased to proclaim membership in Scabbard and Blade, although he continues to acknowledge Kappa Sigma; and he apparently picked up an honorary membership in Phi Beta Kappa along the way. I wonder if Phi Beta knew he had been in Scabbard and Blade.

* * * *

I RAPPED him several times while he was still in good health, and 10 years ago I declined the supreme honor of one of those Person-to-Person interviews of his. I had, and have, nothing much against him except that he was overrated and never questioned the overrating.

Uneasy Is Head That Wears a Political Crown in State

I, P-T Political Editor

IF ONE ACCEPTS the fairly valid premise that California politics is unpredictable, and that yesterday's election form sheets may have no relationship to tomorrow's vote result, then:

The apparent black and white fact of a Los Angeles mayoral landslide for Samuel Yorty may not be a true sign at all of either mandate or stature as a state political force to be reckoned with.

HOUSER

There really is no clear-cut index of Yorty's purge power in last week's councilmanic results although the evidence clearly favors his case. He got rid of Roz Wyman with Ed Edelman, and his choice, Paul Lamport, defeated Mary Tinglof. But another Yorty pick, Karl Rundberg, lost to Marvin Braude.

WHAT KIND of pattern is this? Two women lost. Edelman, who defeated Yorty-foe Wyman, was a supporter of Yorty's principal mayoralty opponent, James Roosevelt. It's difficult to read a conservative mood into these votes—even more difficult in the light of a notable conservative defeat in that same election, Mrs. Marion Miller's loss to the Rev. James Jones, a Negro liberal, for the L.A. School Board.

A principal Roosevelt campaigner said Yorty "takes too much credit and oversimplifies his victory; this was as much—possibly more—of a vote against Jimmy than it was a vote for Yorty."

This campaigner, hindsighting the L.A. campaign, says that Roosevelt's big mistake was a go-for-broke appeal to minority groups, which he already had in the bank. This emphasis created restiveness among the white, Anglo-Saxon Protestants who had only Yorty as an alternative.

Illustrative of the fallacy of over-crediting Yorty's 58% vote as a significant setdown for Gov. Pat Brown and Democratic National Committeeeman Eugene Wyman (Roz' husband) are the diametrically opposite appraisals by Republican opposition.

GOP GIANT-KILLER Sen. George Murphy, during a Washington press conference with State GOP Chairman Dr. Gaylord Parkinson, said the Wyman defeat proved Californians are tired of machine politics under Brown. Parkinson echoed this reading of the results in softer language. Yorty agreed that the outcome indicates trouble for Brown in 1966 unless he divorces himself from the Wymans.

But L.A. County GOP Chairman Jud Leetham endorsed Rosalind Wyman. Leetham happens to be state chairman also of the GOP candidate development committee. Some Republicans looked upon his act as heresy, but it coincided with the recommendation of the L.A. Times.

In sum, the head that wears a crown today in California politics has plenty of reason to be uneasy—to keep loose. And that means testing the voter disposition frequently; their winds are fickle and changing in this state. Sometimes voter performance seems as capricious as the score of an ape shooting dice.

Paul Seabury, an associate professor of political science at the University of California, notes in the current Harper's Magazine, the prospect of California—"this adolescent giant" of dominating the national political scene within a decade—a prospect possibly alarming to "inhabitants of more politically mature regions."

SEABURY QUOTES a familiar explanation for both the state's oddities and its recuperative and stabilizing knacks:

"Tilt a continent and the oddballs will roll with the tilt; but rolling oddballs do not stay put long enough to seriously derange the day-to-day conduct of business."

Conservatives Get Bad Deal

EDITOR:

The current telephone messages carried weekly under the name "Let freedom ring" has elicited much controversy pro and con and the usual name calling.

However, a closer scrutiny brings out some interesting and rather alarming trends. Today anyone who presumes to point out the fallibility of an elected official or appointee and suggests that their actions might be inimical to the best interest of our country are bitterly denounced by most newspapers, magazines, columnists, educators, etc., as being right wing extremists or worse while, conversely, if one of these officials proclaims to the world that our system is full of shortcomings, that the Constitution is outdated and useless, the profit system bad, that all Americans are full of guilt, that the government should own and control everything, then he is immediately given vast publicity through the paper, magazines, TV interviews, college campus apeparances and helped in every way to advance his theory.

It would seem the spoken or written word of one liberal carries more weight than that of 20 conservatives. Some TV stations today won't sell time for a conservative program unless equal time is purchased and donated for the liberal message. The government no longer allows conservative organizations tax exemptions yet many of the foundations are engaged in liberal political activities and yet are tax exempt.

Time could be running out for us if we fail to realize that criticism of public officials is healthy and needed —and that elected people from the President on down do not don a cloak of infallibility — nor are they above receiving and acting on bad advice. Just because you criticize them should not brand you a kook, a right winger, or an extremist but rather a concerned American — maybe wrong sometimes but wanting only the best for our country. As Harry Truman once said, "if you can't stand the heat then get out of the kitchen."

Thirty Years Is Long Time to Hate

EDITOR:

I appreciate your editorials concerning both sides of current issues. Many papers do not do this; being Republican or Democratic they approach a one-sided view of any situation.

However, the recent article by Lyle C. Wilson was an insult to both parties and to the people themselves. I agree we do not live in a perfect or easy age, but I am sure our grandparents felt they didn't either. There never was, or never will be a perfect age. One only has to read the Bible through to know that in that far-off period some of the worst tragedies of history occurred.

True, our economy is higher, but so are living standards. We are in an age (not 30 years ago that Mr. Wilson speaks of) when the world itself has changed—not only our country—and with it has changed our life and economy.

He doesn't mention that wages have also changed and living conditions are higher and better than in the complete history of our country. Thirty years ago you seldom saw anyone who possessed more than one car. Homes were not as modern and beautiful as they are today, and most could not even buy an old home for lack of funds.

I remember when a nice roast serving five people could be purchased for 35 cents. But believe me, it was more difficult to pay the 35 cents than the cost of one now.

A house renting for $20 was considered expensive and regardless of how low the rent, it was hard to pay. I didn't vote for FDR but I think the way he describes him is an insult to the dead. He condemns all of our Presidents for the past 30 years and that's a lot of hatred on Mr. Wilson's part for so long a time.

Deplores Mess of Litterbugs

EDITOR:

I live in Long Beach so naturally I care about it. I think this city a mess. I really do. Don't the people in this city know what a trash can is for? I've seen people unwrap a candy bar, walk right past a trash can, and drop the paper on the street. Is it any wonder that papers and trash of all descriptions is always blowing by downtown?

Long Beach could be a very pretty city if everyone would just remember to use the trash cans that are on every downtown street. Recently a British girl, Petula Clark made a record called "Downtown." Downtown London may turn her on, but downtown Long Beach does absolutely nothing for me. So let's do something about it, okay?

LBJ Has Amazing Record With Congress

WASHINGTON—The legislative record chalked up by the 89th Congress so far is nothing short of phenomenal. Major bill after bill is clicking through committee, going up for a full vote, signed by the Speaker and Vice President, then shipped down to Pennsylvania Avenue for the President's signature into law. Not since the early New Deal days of FDR has Washington seen anything like it.

PEARSON

During the first year LBJ was in office, he passed 51 of Kennedy's remaining bills through the Senate and 47 through the House. This year he is finishing up the hangover bills and passing a lot more of his own.

To the insider, this amazing legislative feat is no accident. It results from the skill, astute political knowledge and persuasive power of the President. No man has sat in the White House, not even including the late Franklin Roosevelt, since I have been in Washington, who has had greater finesse and more know-how in dealing with Congress than Lyndon B. Johnson.

Sometimes, but not often, he gets irritated at his leaders. Most of the time he gets what he wants through salesmanship.

Lyndon does not call committee chairmen unless Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., or Speaker John McCormack, D-Mass., asks him to. He doesn't like to go over their heads to individual senators and congressmen—with one or two exceptions like old friends, such as Jack Brooks of Texas or Warren Magnuson of Seattle, who served in the House, the U.S. Navy, and in the Senate with Lyndon.

Part of the President's amazing legislative achievement comes from a series of receptions and dinners he has given for congressmen. It has always been White House custom for the President to give one reception a year for members of Congress. In the days of Calvin Coolidge, congressmen filed by, shook hands perfunctorily, were permitted to wander around the formal portions of the White House, could partake of icewater in paper cups from a cooler—but that was all.

Roosevelt improved this formula by treating the congressmen with sandwiches and coffee. The White House entertainment budget is too slim to permit any further entertainment without going into the red.

However, Johnson has changed all this. He has dipped into his own pocket to pay for various dinners last year and 10 congressional dinners this year. This is one reason he had to borrow $100,000 to pay his income tax. These are not receptions where the guests file through and shake hands. These have been full scale dinners, costing around $2,000 each, following which the ladies were conducted through the upstairs private portions of the White House while their husbands had a discussion meeting with the President where they could ask him questions, argue with him, talk about any problem they wished.

He has given them briefings on South Viet Nam, the curtailment of veterans hospitals, the Dominican Republic.

Though cabinet members are present to answer detailed questions, the President likes to barge in with his personal comments.

"I'll answer that one," he will say. Then, hitching his pants up above the waistline—the President wears his pants low on the hips like a Texas cowboy—he will jump into the discussion.

* * * *

ONE NATION that President Johnson is determined to help keep on its feet is tiny South Korea, whose soldiers fought and died alongside our own to stop Communist aggression a decade ago.

South Korea has now sent more than 2,000 troops to help Americans, again to defend freedom in South Viet Nam.

This is the reason President Johnson overruled objections from the State Department to keep a date at the White House with South Korea's tough little President Park.

Murphy Reopens Old Wounds During GOP Harmony Effort

I, P-T National Bureau

WASHINGTON — A former actor turned United States Senator George Murphy delivered a couple of performances last week that won't win him any political academy awards.

Tuesday, Murphy was asked by newsmen about his vote against cloture on the Civil Rights Bill. The Senator brusquely informed them that "It's none of your business."

The next day, Murphy presided over a joint press conference with Dr. Gaylord Parkinson, the soft-spoken chairman of the Republican State Central Committee who's been moving heaven and earth to promote GOP unity.

Dr. Parkinson and the Senator dealt at great length on the necessity for Republicans to conduct "responsible" primary campaigns and then to join hands in defeating the factionated California Democrats. Then, in the midst of this togetherness dialogue, Murphy blurted out an angry attack on Earl Warren.

He described Warren's governorship as a "one man machine" and complained that Warren as governor refused to share platforms with Republican candidates.

While Murphy's reopening of 15-year-old wounds might please some of the "Impeach Earl Warren" rightists, it was not calculated to stir friendly emotions among the thousands of liberal and moderate Republicans who have beatified, if not deified, the political memory of Warren.

Dr. Parkinson, who seemed to blanch beneath his suntan at the anti-Warren remarks, managed to change the subject.

A PRIVATE POLL recently taken among Alabama voters showed that Gov. George Wallace could run for emperor and be elected. Pitted against veteran U.S. Senator John Sparkman, Wallace came out on top 68% to 12, with 20% undecided. With the undecideds distributed, Wallace triumphed, 82 to 18. Wallace had the support of 78% of the Republican voters, 60% of the Democrats. The segregationist leader's handling of civil rights was rated excellent by 74.5%. President Johnson drew an excellent rating from three-tenths of one percent, and a poor rating from almost 80%. Wallace's popularity never dropped below 66% among any vote group on any given issue. Only one of the almost 1,200 persons questioned in the sample failed to identify Wallace as Governor. It was the highest identification rating the veteran polling organization has ever encountered.

THINGS AND PEOPLE don't change very fast out in Doland, S.D., Vice President Humphrey's home town. At a recent ceremony in the Capitol, Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., presented Humphrey with the very same French horn the Vice President once tooted in the high school band (circa 1929). Skepital reporters asked the Senator how he could be sure it was really Humphrey's French horn, and how in the world he ever found it. It was simple, said McGovern. The French horn was school property and still being used by a band member. And they were absolutely certain, because two faculty members who taught Hubert still teach at Doland High, and they provided the verification.

Work-Right Foes Use Phony Ammunition, Bad Statistics

United Press International

THE LIBERAL establishment now controlling the executive and legislative branches of the U.S. Government coldly ignores the civil rights aspect of the national debate over compulsory unionism.

The liberal establishment is committed to compulsory membership in labor unions. To this end, President Johnson and the Democratic Party seek repeal of Section 14-B of the Taft-Hartley Act. Fourteen-B permits states to forbid compulsory unionism within their borders. Nineteen states have in force laws forbidding compulsory unionism.

The civil right involved and so coldly ignored is the right of association, the right to join or not to join. There are more material factors, however. Are right-to-work laws forbidding compulsory unionism economically good or bad for the states enacting them? First witness will be George Meany, president of AFL-CIO. In a speech this month, Meany said:

"What has been the experience of those states that have so-called right-to-work laws? Well, call the roll of those states and you are calling the roll of the states that are the poorest, the most backward in the nation—the states with the poorest schools, the lowest per capita income, the states that pay the least federal taxes and get the most in federal benefits."

Meany implied but offered no proof that the sorry posture of the right-to-work states was somehow caused by right-to-work laws. That, of course, is baloney. Ten of the 19 right to work states are in the South and much of what Meany said of them was true and would have been equally true if they had no R-T-W laws. But among the R-T-W states are Florida, Kansas, Nebraska, Nevada, North Carolina, the two Dakotas, Texas and Wyoming. The citizens of those states probably would be angered and astonished if they learned of Meany's estimate of them.

Enemies of 14-B gun for it with phony ammunition based on bad statistics.

Speaking in Miami, Fla., before a recent labor convention, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., said the wages in the 19 right-to-work states, including Florida, averaged $25 less a week than in the rest of the states. The Miami Herald called a foul on Bobby, citing U.S. Department of Commerce figures on Florida to prove him wrong. The National Right to Work Committee of Washington, D.C., also is citing the facts against the phonies. For example, the committee cited U.S. Bureau of Labor statistics to show that in 10 years, 1953-63, new manufacturing jobs increased 12.8% in R-T-W states and decreased 7.6% in non-R-T-W states.

The committee further reports that six of the 15 states with the highest weekly earnings for production workers are R-T-W states. The comparisons uniformly are favorable to R-T-W. They cover such areas as bank deposits, retail trade, hourly earnings by manufacturing workers, value of life insurance in force. The figures reflect the percentage of increases in these various categories over periods of years.

The committee added: "The 19 states which maintain R-T-W laws under section 14-B continue to lead the nation in rate of economic growth."

The committee states, further, that President Johnson, big labor and the liberal establishment haven't got the votes to repeal 14-B this year.

Dr. Parkinson, who seemed to blanch beneath his suntan at the anti-Warren remarks, managed to change the subject.

A PRIVATE POLL recently taken among Alabama voters showed that Gov. George Wallace could run for emperor and be elected. Pitted against veteran U.S. Senator John Sparkman, Wallace came out on top 68% to 12, with 20% undecided. With the undecideds distributed, Wallace triumphed, 82 to 18. Wallace had the support of 78% of the Republican voters, 60% of the Democrats. The segregationist leader's handling of civil rights was rated excellent by 74.5%. President Johnson drew an excellent rating from three-tenths of one percent, and a poor rating from almost 80%. Wallace's popularity never dropped below 66% among any vote group on any given issue. Only one of the almost 1,200 persons questioned in the sample failed to identify Wallace as Governor. It was the highest identification rating the veteran polling organization has ever encountered.

THINGS AND PEOPLE don't change very fast out in Doland, S.D., Vice President Humphrey's home town. At a recent ceremony in the Capitol, Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., presented Humphrey with the very same French horn the Vice President once tooted in the high school band (circa 1929). Skepital reporters asked the Senator how he could be sure it was really Humphrey's French horn, and how in the world he ever found it. It was simple, said McGovern. The French horn was school property and still being used by a band member. And they were absolutely certain, because two faculty members who taught Hubert still teach at Doland High, and they provided the verification.

LYLE WILSON

Work-Right Foes Use Phony Ammunition, Bad Statistics

United Press International

THE LIBERAL establishment now controlling the executive and legislative branches of the U.S. Government coldly ignores the civil rights aspect of the national debate over compulsory unionism.

The liberal establishment is committed to compulsory membership in labor unions. To this end, President Johnson and the Democratic Party seek repeal of Section 14-B of the Taft-Hartley Act. Fourteen-B permits states to forbid compulsory unionism within their borders. Nineteen states have in force laws forbidding compulsory unionism.

The civil right involved and so coldly ignored is the right of association, the right to join or not to join. There are more material factors, however. Are right-to-work laws forbidding compulsory unionism economically good or bad for the states enacting them? First witness will be George Meany, president of AFL-CIO. In a speech this month, Meany said:

"What has been the experience of those states that have so-called right-to-work laws? Well, call the roll of those states and you are calling the roll of the states that are the poorest, the most backward in the nation—the states with the poorest schools, the lowest per capita income, the states that pay the least federal taxes and get the most in federal benefits."

Meany implied but offered no proof that the sorry posture of the right-to-work states was somehow caused by right-to-work laws. That, of course, is baloney. Ten of the 19 right to work states are in the South and much of what Meany said of them was true and would have been equally true if they had no R-T-W laws. But among the R-T-W states are Florida, Kansas, Nebraska, Nevada, North Carolina, the two Dakotas, Texas and Wyoming. The citizens of those states probably would be angered and astonished if they learned of Meany's estimate of them.

Enemies of 14-B gun for it with phony ammunition based on bad statistics.

Speaking in Miami, Fla., before a recent labor convention, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., said the wages in the 19 right-to-work states, including Florida, averaged $25 less a week than in the rest of the states. The Miami Herald called a foul on Bobby, citing U.S. Department of Commerce figures on Florida to prove him wrong. The National Right to Work Committee of Washington, D.C., also is citing the facts against the phonies. For example, the committee cited U.S. Bureau of Labor statistics to show that in 10 years, 1953-63, new manufacturing jobs increased 12.8% in R-T-W states and decreased 7.6% in non-R-T-W states.

The committee further reports that six of the 15 states with the highest weekly earnings for production workers are R-T-W states. The comparisons uniformly are favorable to R-T-W. They cover such areas as bank deposits, retail trade, hourly earnings by manufacturing workers, value of life insurance in force. The figures reflect the percentage of increases in these various categories over periods of years.

The committee added: "The 19 states which maintain R-T-W laws under section 14-B continue to lead the nation in rate of economic growth."

The committee states, further, that President Johnson, big labor and the liberal establishment haven't got the votes to repeal 14-B this year.

CONSULT PLANS

Mrs. Robert Gray, president of the Volunteer Auxiliary to Memorial Hospital of Long Beach, and Edward Lovell, landscape architect, consult plans for garden courtyard at Memorial West addition.

MEMORIAL WEST

Garden Gift of Auxiliary

In a place of sand and dust and the noise of bulldozers, it takes imagination to see a courtyard garden of tall trees and flowering shrubs and to hear the music of a fountain.

Members of the Volunteer Auxiliary to Memorial Hospital not only can imagine this garden, but at their last open meeting they voted to give $5,000 to make it a reality.

The 86- by 58-foot garden area, landscaped by Edward Lovell, will be the central feature of Memorial West, a part of the $2,500,000 expansion at Memorial Hospital.

Seventeen semi-private patient rooms of this 46-room advanced care unit will encircle the courtyard.

Ambulatory or wheelchair patients may stroll in the warmth of the sunshine or rest on benches beneath the trees.

Noble Millie, recently retired chairman of the Memorial Building Committee and new president of the hospital's board of directors, says of the garden, "It is a new and happy concept of bringing the out-of-doors into the hospital."

Mrs. Robert Gray, president of the Volunteer Auxiliary and Mrs. Earl Burns Miller, past president, will serve as auxiliary representative advisers to Lovell on the garden project.

Psychosis Halted by Vitamin B12

By BEN ZINSER
I. P-T Medical-Science Editor

Psychotic behavior in elderly persons sometimes is a result of pernicious anemia and can be completely reversed if treated, a blood specialist said in Long Beach last week.

Dr. E. S. Shanbrom, speaking at the first annual geriatrics rehabilitation symposium sponsored by Long Beach General Hospital, said doctors sometimes call the condition "megaloblastic madness."

A megaloblast is large blood cell found in cases of pernicious anemia.

* * * *

COMPLETE recovery, or almost complete recovery, from the condition can be achieved even after years, said Dr. Shanbrom, medical director and director of research for Hyland Laboratories, Los Angeles.

The treatment is simple: injections of vitamin B12.

Finding pernicious anemia victims has been difficult during the past few years, he said, because folic acid often was included in multiple vitamin preparations.

Folic acid, he explained, masks the condition.

"It will correct the anemia but not the nervous system involvement," Dr. Shanbrom said.

* * * *

TWO TESTS can enable doctors to spot the condition, he said. The first is a gastric analysis to determine acid content of the stomach. (In pernicious anemia there is no hydrochloric acid in the stomach.) If no acid is present, a test called the Schilling, involving radioactive tagged B12, can pinpoint the trouble for certain.

As a result, Dr. Shanbrom recommends that hospitals perform a gastric analysis on all newly admitted psychotic and neurotic patients in an attempt to find hidden cases of pernicious anemia.

This already is being done at Orange County General Hospital, he said. A relatively large number of such patients has been found. Their psychoses were reversed, he said.

* * * *

EVEN 10 years of such disease is reversible," he said.

Dr. Shanbrom told of the case of the artist who had been made deaf and blind from his disease.

But vitamin B12 reversed both afflictions, Dr. Shanbrom said.

"It takes only a dollar's worth of the vitamin," the speaker continued.

"In a few hours or days the patient has a sense of well-being."

Dr. Shanbrom said that pernicious anemia can no longer be considered a rare disease.

Read the Simple Rules, Load Your Camera With Film and Start Shooting. No Need to Worry About Subject Classifications. Shoot What You Like and Enter Often!

1965 SNAPSHOT CONTEST RULES

1. This contest is open only to amateur photographers. Anyone is eligible, excepting employees of the Independent, Press-Telegram and the Orange County Evening News, and individuals who personally are engaged in the manufacture, sale, commercial finishing or professional use of photographic goods.

2. Pictures taken after July 1, 1964, are the only ones eligible. Either black-and-white or color PRINTS accepted only. Pictures made with any make of camera or film may be entered providing an original negative (black and white) or a color transparency can be furnished. An entrant need not do his own photofinishing. Negatives and transparencies may not be retouched, and no art work may be done on negatives, transparencies or prints. No composite pictures, multiple printing or montages are permitted.

Do NOT send negatives with entries. Keep negatives of color or black-and-white prints until requested by the Amateur Snapshot Contest Editor. (Only original negatives and transparencies accepted.) This newspaper and the sponsors of the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards assume no responsibility for negatives, prints or transparencies.

3. No print or enlargement more than 10 inches in the longest dimension will be accepted. Pictures should NOT be mounted or framed.

4. No person who has won a "final" or national award in any picture contest conducted by this newspaper within the past year is eligible for entry. No person may win more than one national prize.

5. Contest opens May 23, 1965 and entries will be accepted until Monday, July 12, 1965. Pictures must be postmarked no later than midnight of the day prior to above final acceptance date, or delivered in person to the Independent, Press-Telegram (604 Pine Ave., Long Beach) by noon of the acceptance date.

6. All entries will be judged on general interest and appeal. Photographic quality, while important, will not be the deciding factor. In order to be entered in the Newspaper Snapshot Awards, an entrant winning a prize for one of the eight best pictures must send the original negative or transparency to the Independent, Press-Telegram, accompanied by, if it contains the likeness of any person, the written consent of such person, or persons, to the use of the picture for purpose of illustration, advertising, or publication in any manner. The entrant must also sign a statement that said picture or a closely similar picture of the same subject or situation has not been and will not be entered in any snapshot contest, or any exhibit, or salon where prizes are awarded, other than the one conducted by the Independent, Press-Telegram & Orange County Evening News, and has not heretofore been and will not be offered for publication in any manner, and that he, or she, has not entered and will not enter any picture or pictures in the contest of any other newspaper participating in the Twenty-Seventh Annual (1965) Newspaper Awards.

7. To be eligible for entry in this contest, the entrant must reside in the home-delivery area served by these newspapers.

8. To enter this contest, mail no more than four (4) prints each week as you desire, within the contest dates to this newspaper's "Amateur Snapshot Contest Editor". ON THE BACK OF EACH PICTURE PRINT YOUR NAME AND ADDRESS CLEARLY IN INK.

9. Photographs entered in the Snapshot Contest become the property of the Independent, Press-Telegram and The Orange County Evening News and NO BLACK-AND-WHITE OR COLOR PRINTS WILL BE RETURNED.

Girdle Syndrome

NEW YORK (UPI) — Researchers at St. Vincent's Hospital recently launched a new assault on the "panty girdle syndrone" problem, first brought to public attention by two medical doctors at the hospital in a report published by the New York State Journal of Medicine.

Symptoms of the syndrome, researchers have found, include a swelling of the feet and ankles due to the tourniquet-like effect of some girdles which cut off the circulation of body fluids to lower extremeties.

Girdle Syndrome

NEW YORK (UPI) — Researchers at St. Vincent's Hospital recently launched a new assault on the "panty girdle syndrone" problem, first brought to public attention by two medical doctors at the hospital in a report published by the New York State Journal of Medicine.

Symptoms of the syndrome, researchers have found, include a swelling of the feet and ankles due to the tourniquet-like effect of some girdles which cut off the circulation of body fluids to lower extremeties.

Moll Flanders, Mirage to Screen Here

Only 3 Hits on Broadway 64-'5 Season

By JACK GAVER

NEW YORK (UPI)—There is always a lot of talk about the vagaries and uncertainties of the Broadway Theater, but it has been consistent in one thing for years. Investors drop $6 million-plus every season on productions that flop, and the departing 1964-65 season has been a model of conformity so far as the total figure is concerned.

However, there is one slight difference this time. There were only 44 unrestricted commercial Broadway productions this season, the smallest number since the 43 of 1955-56. Last season, for example, that red ink could be spread out over 58 prductions. The two previous seasons had 47 and 51 shows, respectively.

* * * *

THE CAN'T-MISS big profit-makers of the season are three—"Fiddler On the Roof," "Luv" and "The Odd Couple."

It seems incredible that $1.5 million of the season's $6 million-plus loss should have been rung up by just three productions, but that is the case. One was the champion money-loser of all time, a musical entitled "Kelly" that had one Broadway performance. The other two never got to town—"Pleasures and Palaces" and "Royal Flush," also musicals.

"Pleasures and Palaces" was the real shocker at around $500,000—much more so to the theater-wise than "Kelly," which was operated by Tyros, because here was a show involving as both coproducer and songwriter one of the most successful men in the business, Frank Loesser.

* * * *

THE SEASON was not notably long on quality in the dramatic area. Arthur Miller's "Incident At Vichy" was trite and dated, as was Eugene O'Neill's posthumous "Hughie." Jean Anouilh's "Poor Bitos" was highly commendable, but the public simply wouldn't buy it. Edward Albee's "Tiny Alice" was a fine exercise in theatrical suspense, but it was a murky work on the whole and the customers stayed away as enthusiastically as they once flocked to his "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?"

An idea of the situation can be gleaned from the fact that the Pulitzer Prize and the New York Drama Critics' Circle Award for best play went to a work that was not even part of the calendar 1964-65 season, which began last June 1.

This was Frank D. Gilroy's "The Subject Was Roses," a worthy play and still current after a year. Actually, it belongs to the 1963-64 season.

The best of all 1964-65 productions, of course, was "Fiddler On The Roof," and, musical though it is, it deserved all of the prizes around.

JANE PROTESTS

Films Nudes Usually Aren't

By EARL WILSON

Shapely Jane Fonda says her body hasn't been getting a fair shake.

She posed nude for a magazine five years ago, and they are trying now to give the impression to Hollywood that she never has a stitch on . . . and she's in rebellion.

"At that time I trusted people," Jane says. "I didn't know they were going to blow it up into a great big girlie thing . . ."

Jane told me this in Denver at a premiere of her new picture "Cat Ballou," in which she turns bank robber and is sentenced to hang.

"What's happening to my reputation is terrible," Jane lamented to me. "I heard about a little boy in New York who loved me and burst into tears at the things he'd been reading. He said, 'What have they done to Jane?' "

* * * *

JANE DECLARED that the real truth is that a lot of nude shots in movies are faked anyway.

"We are never completely undressed in pictures," Jane maintained.

"You're always trying to give that impression, but we have always got something on underneath.

"I was sick and tired of this false representation for exploitation," Jane said. "So when they put a fake picture of me naked on a theater in New York, 75 feet high, I sued them and stopped them.

"They were wrong in the first place to try to sell the picture as a sex thing. It was a very serious film and should have been in an art house."

* * * *

"DON'T YOU think Carroll Baker and other girls really go entirely nude in films?" I asked Jane.

"I wonder if they really do," she said, "and if they are getting screams as much as I am?"

Jane, whose love interest now is Roger Vadim, who taught or inspired his ex-wife Brigitte Bardot to go naked, won't discuss the right or wrong of other girls' nudity.

"I never make moral judgments in anything," she said.

* * * *

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: With drums crashing, Beatles beatling and such, it's increasingly hard to remember that a pretty girl is like a melody.
—Kiwanis Magazine

WISH I'D SAID THAT: A secretary mentioned she's taking 14 gowns along on her two-week vacation: "That's cheaper than moving to a different hotel every day."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Behind every successful man there is a woman—and she usually catches him."
—Anon

EARL'S PEARLS: Larry Mathews tells of the discotheque with a credit card system: "Go-Go Now and Pay Later."

Peter O'Toole, who made "Lawrence of Arabia" and "Becket," finally gets to kiss girls in "What's New, Pussycat?" "To think,' he says, "of the time I wasted playing opposite Richard Burton and camels!" . . . That's earl, brother.

FRANKIE . . . AND NANCY

Nancy's Not in Awe of Her Pop

HOLLYWOOD—There's at least one young actress in Warner Bros.' "Marriage On the Rocks" who isn't nervous about working with Frank Sinatra.

She's his daughter, Nancy Sinatra.

In the picture, which also stars Deborah Kerr, Dean Martin and Cesar Romero, Nancy plays an 18-year-old college student who wants to leave the family hearth to live with a girl friend.

Only 3 Hits on Broadway 64-'5 Season

By JACK GAVER

NEW YORK (UPI)—There is always a lot of talk about the vagaries and uncertainties of the Broadway Theater, but it has been consistent in one thing for years. Investors drop $6 million-plus every season on productions that flop, and the departing 1964-65 season has been a model of conformity so far as the total figure is concerned.

However, there is one slight difference this time. There were only 44 unrestricted commercial Broadway productions this season, the smallest number since the 43 of 1955-56. Last season, for example, that red ink could be spread out over 58 productions. The two previous seasons had 47 and 51 shows, respectively.

* * * *

THE CAN'T-MISS big profit-makers of the season are three—"Fiddler On the Roof," "Luv" and "The Odd Couple."

It seems incredible that $1.5 million of the season's $6 million-plus loss should have been rung up by just three productions, but that is the case. One was the champion money-loser of all time, a musical entitled "Kelly" that had one Broadway performance. The other two never got to town—"Pleasures and Palaces" and "Royal Flush," also musicals.

"Pleasures and Palaces" was the real shocker at around $500,000—much more so to the theater-wise than "Kelly," which was operated by Tyros, because here was a show involving as both coproducer and songwriter one of the most successful men in the business, Frank Loesser.

* * * *

THE SEASON was not notably long on quality in the dramatic area. Arthur Miller's "Incident At Vichy" was trite and dated, as was Eugene O'Neill's posthumous "Hughie." Jean Anouilh's "Poor Bitos" was highly commendable, but the public simply wouldn't buy it. Edward Albee's "Tiny Alice" was a fine exercise in theatrical suspense, but it was a murky work on the whole and the customers stayed away as enthusiastically as they once flocked to his "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?"

An idea can be gleaned from the fact that the Pulitzer Prize and the New York Drama Critics' Circle Award for best play went to a work that was not even part of the calendar 1964-65 season, which began last June 1.

This was Frank D. Gilroy's "The Subject Was Roses," a worthy play and still current after a year. Actually, it belongs to the 1963-64 season.

The best of all 1964-65 productions, of course, was "Fiddler On The Roof," and, musical though it is, it deserved all of the prizes around.

JANE PROTESTS

Films Nudes Usually Aren't

By EARL WILSON

Shapely Jane Fonda says her body hasn't been getting a fair shake.

She posed nude for a magazine five years ago, and they are trying now to give the impression to Hollywood that she never has a stitch on . . . and she's in rebellion.

"At that time I trusted people," Jane says. "I didn't know they were going to blow it up into a great big girlie thing . . ."

Jane told me this in Denver at a premiere of her new picture "Cat Ballou," in which she turns bank robber and is sentenced to hang.

"What's happening to my reputation is terrible," Jane lamented to me. "I heard about a little boy in New York who loved me and burst into tears at the things he'd been reading. He said, 'What have they done to Jane?' "

* * * *

JANE DECLARED that the real truth is that a lot of nude shots in movies are faked anyway.

"We are never completely undressed in pictures," Jane maintained.

"You're always trying to give that impression, but we have always got something on underneath.

"I was sick and tired of this false representation for exploitation," Jane said. "So when they put a fake picture of me naked on a theater in New York, 75 feet high, I sued them and stopped them.

"They were wrong in the first place to try to sell the picture as a sex thing. It was a very serious film and should have been in an art house."

* * * *

"DON'T YOU think Carroll Baker and other girls really go entirely nude in films?" I asked Jane.

"I wonder if they really do," she said, "and if they are getting screams as much as I am?"

Jane, whose love interest now is Roger Vadim, who taught or inspired his ex-wife Brigitte Bardot to go naked, won't discuss the right or wrong of other girls' nudity.

"I never make moral judgments in anything," she said.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: With drums crashing, Beatles beatling and such, it's increasingly hard to remember that a pretty girl is like a melody.
—Kiwanis Magazine

WISH I'D SAID THAT: A secretary mentioned she's taking 14 gowns along on her two-week vacation: "That's cheaper than moving to a different hotel every day."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Behind every successful man there is a woman—and she usually catches him."
—Anon

EARL'S PEARLS: Larry Mathews tells of the discotheque with a credit card system: "Go-Go Now and Pay Later."

Peter O'Toole, who made "Lawrence of Arabia" and "Becket," finally gets to kiss girls in "What's New, Pussycat?" "To think,' he says, "of the time I wasted playing opposite Richard Burton and camels!" . . . That's earl, brother.

FRANKIE . . . AND NANCY

Nancy's Not in Awe of Her Pop

HOLLYWOOD—There's at least one young actress in Warner Bros.' "Marriage On the Rocks" who isn't nervous about working with Frank Sinatra.

She's his daughter, Nancy Sinatra.

In the picture, which also stars Deborah Kerr, Dean Martin and Cesar Romero, Nancy plays an 18-year-old college student who wants to leave the family hearth to live with a girl friend.

INDIANAPOLIS — Thirty-three nerveless wonders, all with a point to prove, take the biggest chance in sports for the biggest prize before the biggest crowd Monday at 9 a.m. (PDT).

And you could get odds of 33-1 on just about anybody finishing the 500 miles, including defending champion A. J. Foyt, the Texas terror, who leads out from the pole position as the fastest qualifier in 49 years at 161.233 mph.

The best drivers seem to have the least reliable cars. That's what the rear-engine revolution and Ford's invasion into the "500" have done to a race traditionally dominated by Offenhauser-powered roadsters.

And the Goodyear Tire Co. is banging at another bastion—Firestone's proud boast of shodding the last 40 winners here.

If Rodger Ward was running, he'd be the wisest choice. But a few hundreths of a second kept the old smoothie's car out of the race for the first time in 15 years.

A rear-engine machine has never won the race, but with 27 going against only four of the old Offy roadsters and a pair of noisy Novis, this should be the year.

For that matter, a rookie hasn't won in 38 years, but somebody's moving up to the big leagues in every third car—11 of 'em—with Mario Andretti, driving for Long Beach's Al Dean, the hottest of the bunch.

It figures to be the fastest race of the 49, but don't count on it.

For one thing, with 27 of the flimsy little rumble seat racers bouncing around the 2½-mile rectangle, the track could become littered with more debris than Tin Can Beach in its prime.

That means yellow lights, cutting the field down to a safe and sane 90 mph.

Also, eye-blinking pit stops are a thing of the past. Adhering to a new list of safety regulations salvaged from last year's tragedy, every driver must stop twice.

And while he's stopped, he'll have to settle for gravity flow refueling instead of the old high-pressure blast of gas. He'll have enough time to visit the men's room and still collect his Green Stamps.

So even if they are hitting up to 190 mph on the long straights and maybe cutting the corners at 145, all the slow-downs will eat away the average speed.

Jones is the only other former winner going besides Foyt. Both drive beefed-up Lotus-Fords which collapsed in practice—Parnelli's twice, leaving him with a minor sort of broken back which didn't even restrict his golf swing this week.

Foyt's pole position doesn't guarantee him anything once the race is under way. Only eight polesitters have won, Jones the latest in 1963, and the late Bill Vukovich scored one of his two victories from 18th position.

Also shooting for the $175,000 first prize — the richest winner's share in sports, discounting heavyweight title fights as "sport"—is a United Nations of racing.

There's a Scotsman, former world champion Jimmy Clark; a naturalized Italian, Andretti; the first Canadian ever to qualify, Billy Foster; Grand Prix circuit veteran Masten Gregory, who lists his hometowns variously as Rome, Paris and Kansas City, Mo., and seven Californians, topping all states.

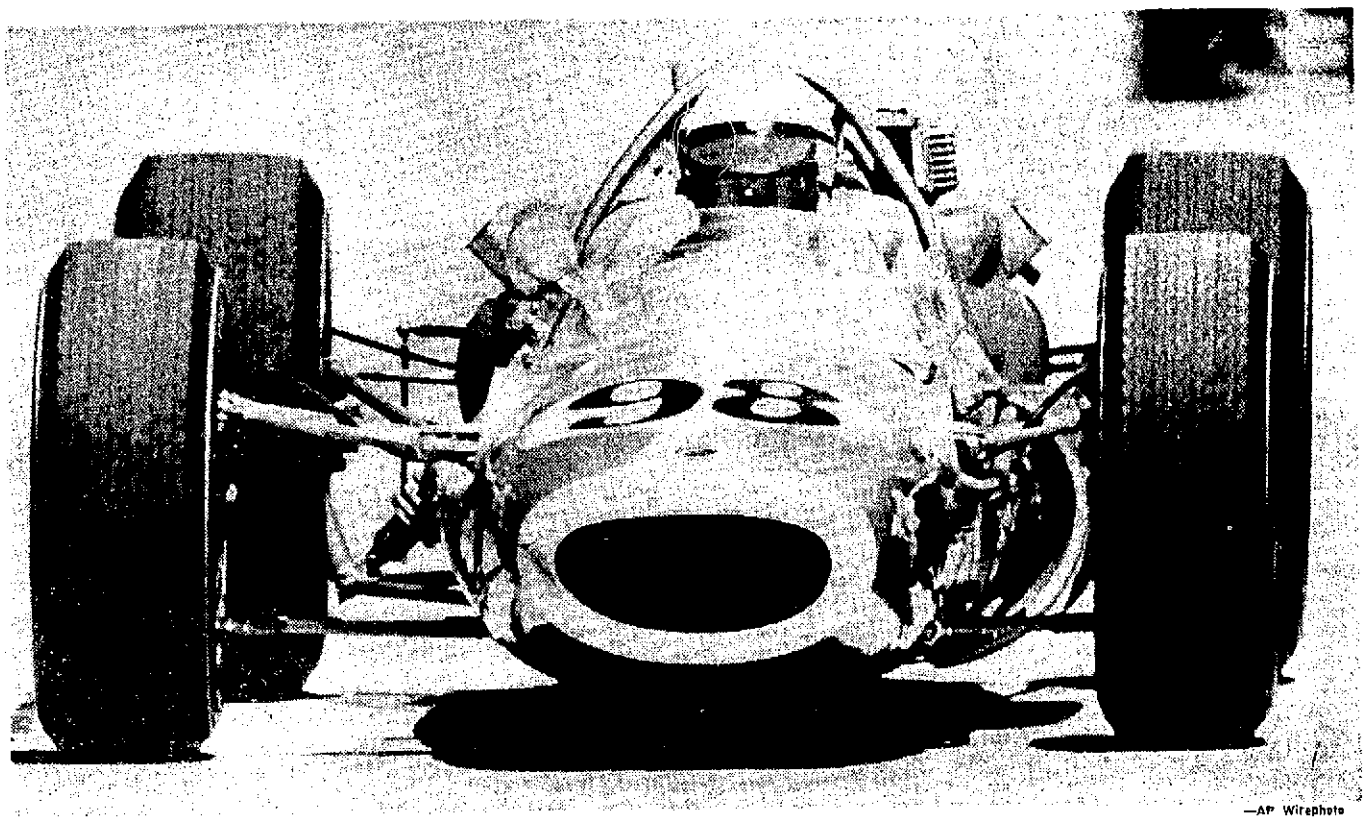

There's a former national motorcycle champion, old Joe Leonard, making his debut, and brothers Bobby and Al Unser, whose older brother Jerry was killed here in 1959.

Some drivers are old enough to be other drivers' fathers—Walt Hansgen at 45, George Snider at 24 are the extremes.

In all, the ghosts of 32 drivers haunt this track. Thirteen drivers who started last year's race couldn't make it this year. Three are dead.

A fourth, Johnny White, rookie of the year, is para-

MODESTO — Two battle-tested veterans extended their own world records, a collegiate team defied the NCAA and equalled a global mark and a pair of fuzzy-cheeked high schoolers showed indications of greatness during Saturday's record - smashing 24th California Relays and State Junior College championships.

BOSTON

CONNOLLY

A cloudy evening that followed a near-100 degree day found stars aplenty in the Modesto junior college stadium.

Topping the field were Ralph Boston and Hal Connolly, the Southern Track Club plus Jim Ryun and Richmond Flowers Jr.

Add to this Santa Ana College barely edging Fresno, 59-53, to retain its jaycee state crown and Modesto once again produced a spike-tacular second to none.

Boston jumped 27 feet, 5 inches on his final leap of evening competition. Connolly hurled the 16-pound hammer 233-2 on his fourth attempt in the afternoon.

Both eclipsed world records they already held—Boston at 27-4¼ and Connolly at 231-10.

His six throws Saturday went 224-2½, 228-0, 228-5, 233-2, 229-6½ and 231-5½.

Then Ryun, the sensational 18-year-old from East Wichita High, turned back his elders in the gruelling mile run, winning in 3:58.1 seconds, the fastest he ever has run.

He won by inches as former San Jose State runner John Garrison took second place in an identical time. Jim Grelle was third at 3:58.2 and Czechoslovakia Olympic silver medalist Josef Odlozil took fourth in 3:58.4.

Southern University of Baton Rouge, La., had been warned by the NCAA not to compete, but came, anyway

Lou Finds Home...Twice

By GEORGE LEDERER

Retread Lou Johnson, who still has a Chicago Cubs tag on his luggage and a Braves scar on his pride, won the loudest cheers of the Dodgers' season Saturday.

He also won the ball game, 5-3 over Milwaukee, with two home runs and four rbi in support of Don Drysdale.

The 31-year-old Johnson still doesn't know why the Braves dropped him after he batted .282 for them in 1962. And the Braves don't know, either, which places them in a category with the Cubs and Angels.

The Dodgers didn't give Johnson much of a tumble, either, until Tommy Davis broke his ankle a month ago. Since then, he has batted .344 in 22 games, by far the best on the club.

When the Dodgers needed help last year, they ignored Johnson's .328 average at Spokane. But he has been ignored most of his baseball life, illustrated by service on 14 minor league clubs.

DODGERS OF DAY

LOU JOHNSON, hit two homers and drove in four runs, and DON DRYSDALE, pitched 6-hitter and struck out 12, in 5-3 win over Braves

No wonder that Johnson is his own "greatest fan." He has a habit of clapping his hands as he circles the bases after a home run, an act that he hasn't been able to rehearse too often.

Saturday, Johnson became the first Dodger to hit two home runs in a game this season and the first to drive in four runs. He hit his second homer of the year with the bases empty against starter Hank Fischer in the fourth inning and broke up a 2-2 contest with a three-run shot off loser Clay Carroll in the eighth.

"No doubt about it," said Johnson, "this is the biggest thrill of my career. I've had quite a few, but not in the majors—the only place to have them."

Drysdale and manager Walter Alston post-scripted an "Amen," to that.

"He really came in at the right time," said Drysdale, who also continued his slugging with a double and a single. It gave Drysdale a six-game hitting streak and a season average of .364.

Alston revealed that if Johnson hadn't connected on Carroll's 1-and-1 pitch, he would have called for a squeeze bunt on the next pitch.

Ron Fairly, who had driven in the tying run with a single, was on third base and John Roseboro was on first with one out in the eighth and the score 2-2.

"If the count had gone to 2-and-1, I would have squeezed with Johnson," said Alston, quite happy that rookie Carroll came through with a strike.

Johnson also beat out an infield hit in the second inning and stole his third base. He and Drysdale accounted for five of the Dodgers' nine hits and all the excitement.

Drysdale, winning his eighth game two weeks ahead of last season, struck out 12 and restricted the Braves to six hits. It was his highest strikeout game since 1963 and brought his career total to 1,801.

Drysdale (8-3) and Fischer engaged in a brushback duel that commanded most of the attention until Johnson delivered.

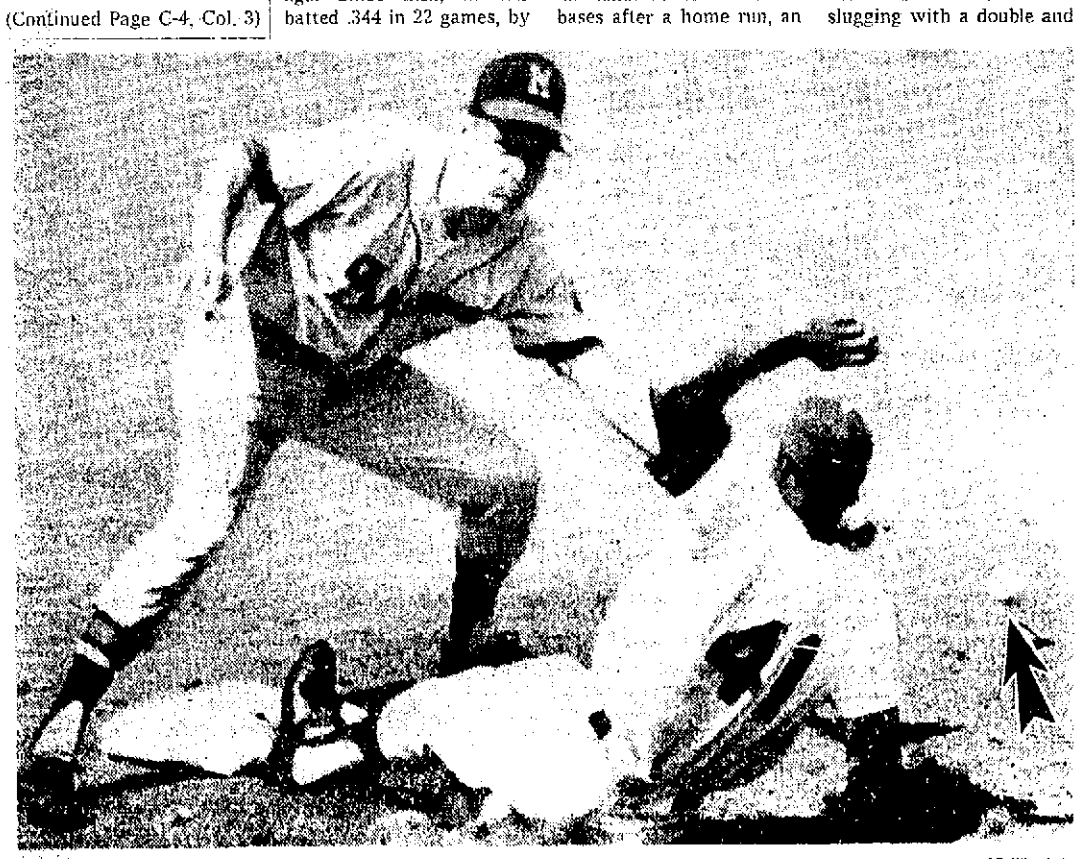

Drysdale knocked down Joe Torre with his 0-and-1 pitch in the fourth inning, but Torre refused to be intimidated. After brushing himself off, the Braves' catcher drove his 12th home run into the left field pavilion for a 1-0 lead.

Mack Jones followed with a triple off the left field wall and made it 2-0 when Willie Davis failed to find the handle on the ball and drew an error.

Drysdale next hit Gene Oliver on the arm. Nothing was said, but Fischer retaliated silently with a pitch over Drysdale's head to start the fifth inning.

Dauntless as Torre, Drysdale lashed Fischer's next pitch off the wall in dead-center for a double and that

Fleet 3-Year-Old Colt Just Misses Hollypark Record

By ERNIE MASON

A couple of little fellows, pint-sized Rudy Campas and three-year-old Azure Te, showed the big boys how the game is played at Hollywood Park Saturday.

Campas, a baby-faced Arizonan, booted Azure Te to his second stakes triumph of the season, a two-length win in the $28,300 Hollywood Express as the Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Shapiro colt, only three-year-old in the lineup, humbled nine older foes in the five and one-half furlong speed special.

Azure Te covered the distance in 1:02⅗, only one-fifth off the track mark and two ticks off the world's record, as he led favored Emphil's Lodge and Pelegrin to the wire for a $10.20 payoff.

For the Shapiro stable and trainer M. E. (Buster) Millerick, it was a replay of their past two Saturday performances. They took the opening Saturday program with Azure

Angels Drop Orioles, 3-1

By ROSS NEWHAN

BALTIMORE — As the "heart" of the Angels' offense, Jim Fregosi and Willie Smith have recently been pumping in "vein."

However, Saturday night, they injected the adrenalin which carried Fred Newman to his sixth victory, a 3-1 decision over Baltimore before 8,908 chilled customers.

ANGEL OF DAY

FRED NEWMAN pitched 7⅓ strong innings in 3-1 win over Baltimore.

Bob Lee's 10th save preserved fifth place and ended Milt Pappas' victory string at five. In fact, in support of Pappas, the Orioles scored one less run than there were Angels ejected.

Manager Bill Rigney, for the second time this season, and Vic Power, for the first, were both sentenced to the clubhouse by plate umpire John Stevens in the eighth inning.

The debate arose when Jose Cardenal attempted to steal second following a leadoff single. Stevens charged that batter Albie Pearson interfered with catcher John Orsino's throw and was thus automatically out, forcing Cardenal back to first.

The outraged Pearson became the mouse that roared. He buried his face in Stevens' chest and, gesticulating wildly, was saved from banishment when Rigney jumped between the protagonists.

* * * *

STEVENS walked away from Rigney and dusted off the plate, but the Angels' manager promptly kicked dirt back onto the dish and immediately received the thumb from Mr. Clean.

A few moments later, Power, using English rather than Spanish, issued an expletive from the dugout which prompted Stevens to seek company for Rigney in the clubhouse.

Ironically, Cardenal then not only stole second, but third (13 in all) as well, only to die there as Fregosi and Smith were extinguished.

In the fourth inning, however, Pappas (5-1) had been unable to retire either. With Fire Up for '500'!

By RICH ROBERTS
I. P-T Staff Writer

INDIANAPOLIS — Thirty-three nerveless wonders, all with a point to prove, take the biggest chance in sports for the biggest prize before the biggest crowd Monday at 9 a.m. (PDT).

And you could get odds of 33-1 on just about anybody finishing the 500 miles, including defending champion A. J. Foyt, the Texas terror, who leads out from the pole position as the fastest qualifier in 49 years at 161.233 mph.

The best drivers seem to have the least reliable cars. That's what the rear-engine revolution and Ford's invasion into the "500" have done to a race traditionally dominated by Offenhauser-powered roadsters.

And the Goodyear Tire Co. is banging at another bastion—Firestone's proud boast of shodding the last 40 winners here.

If Rodger Ward was running, he'd be the wisest choice. But a few hundredths of a second kept the old smoothie's car out of the race for the first time in 15 years.

A rear-engine machine has never won the race, but with 27 going against only four of the old Offy roadsters and a pair of noisy Novis, this should be the year.

For that matter, a rookie hasn't won in 38 years, but somebody's moving up to the big leagues in every third car—11 of 'em—with Mario Andretti, driving for Long Beach's Al Dean, the hottest of the bunch.

It figures to be the fastest race of the 49, but don't count on it.

For one thing, with 27 of the flimsy little rumble seat racers bouncing around the 2½-mile rectangle, the track could become littered with more debris than Tin Can Beach in its prime.

That means yellow lights, cutting the field down to a safe and sane 90 mph.

Also, eye-blinking pit stops are a thing of the past. Adhering to a new list of safety regulations salvaged from last year's tragedy, every driver must stop twice.

And while he's stopped, he'll have to settle for gravity flow refueling instead of the old high-pressure blast of gas. He'll have enough time to visit the men's room and still collect his Green Stamps.

So even if they are hitting up to 190 mph on the long straights and maybe cutting the corners at 145, all the slow-downs will eat away the average speed.

Jones is the only other former winner going besides Foyt. Both drive beefed-up Lotus-Fords which collapsed in practice—Parnelli's twice, leaving him with a minor sort of broken back which didn't even restrict his golf swing this week.

Foyt's pole position doesn't guarantee him anything once the race is under way. Only eight polesitters have won, Jones the latest in 1963, and the late Bill Vukovich scored one of his two victories from 18th position.

Also shooting for the $175,000 first prize — the richest winner's share in sports, discounting heavyweight title fights as "sport"—is a United Nations of racing.

There's a Scotsman, former world champion Jimmy Clark; a naturalized Italian, Andretti; the first Canadian ever to qualify, Billy Foster; Grand Prix circuit veteran Masten Gregory, who lists his hometowns variously as Rome, Paris and Kansas City, Mo., and seven Californians, topping all states.

There's a former national motorcycle champion, old Joe Leonard, making his debut, and brothers Bobby and Al Unser, whose older brother Jerry was killed here in 1959.

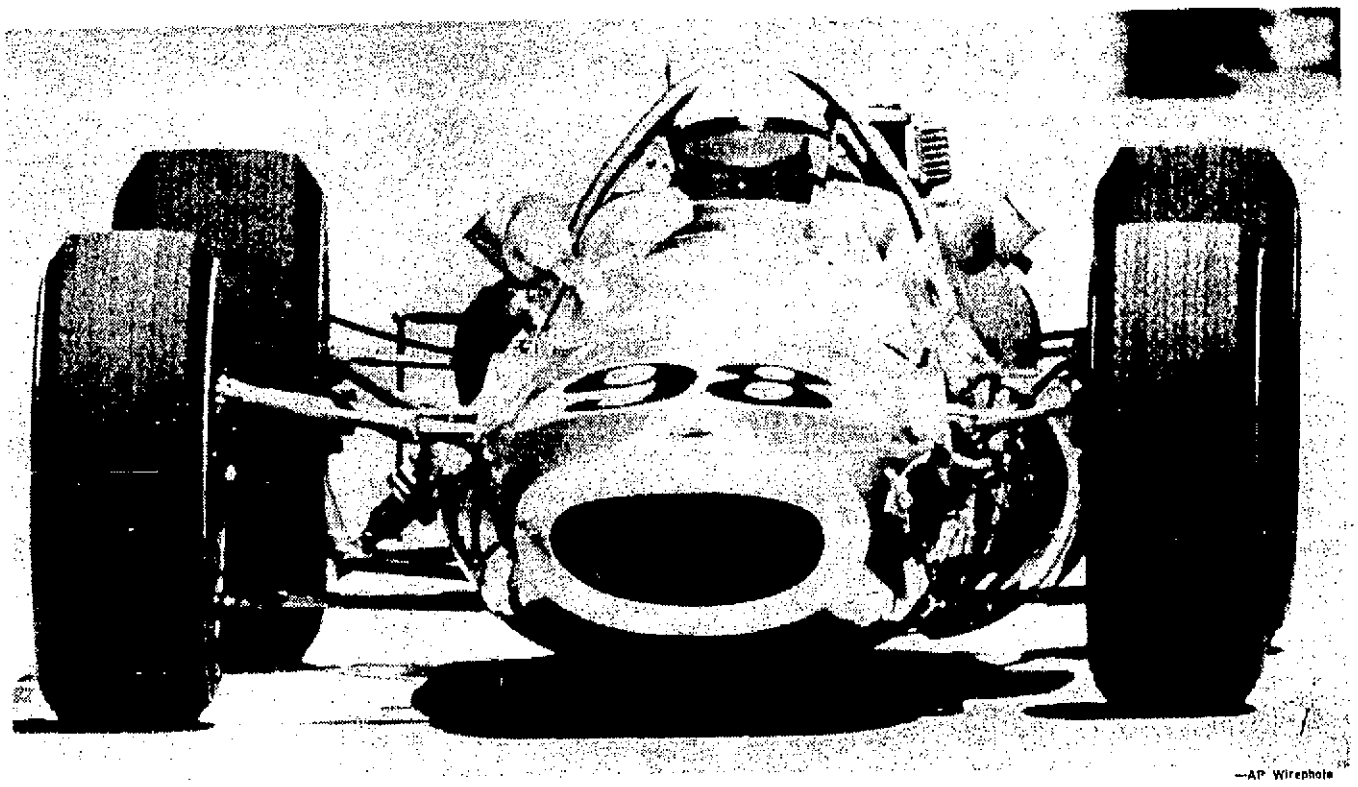

Some drivers are old enough to be other drivers' fathers—Walt Hansgen at 45, George Snider at 24 are the extremes.

In all, the ghosts of 32 drivers haunt this track. Thirteen drivers who started last year's race couldn't make it this year. Three are dead.

A fourth, Johnny White, rookie of the year, is para-

MODESTO — Two battle-tested veterans extended their own world records, a collegiate team defied the NCAA and equalled a global mark and a pair of fuzzy-cheeked high schoolers showed indications of greatness during Saturday's record - smashing 24th California Relays and State Junior College championships.

BOSTON

CONNOLLY

A cloudy evening that followed a near-100 degree day found stars aplenty in the Modesto junior college stadium.

Topping the field were Ralph Boston and Hal Connolly, the Southern Track Club plus Jim Ryun and Richmond Flowers Jr.

Add to this Santa Ana College barely edging Fresno, 59-53, to retain its jaycee state crown and Modesto once again produced a spike-tacular second to none.

Boston jumped 27 feet, 5 inches on his final leap of evening competition. Connolly hurled the 16-pound hammer 233-2 on his fourth attempt in the afternoon.

Both eclipsed world records they already held—Boston at 27-4¼ and Connolly at 231-10.

His six throws Saturday went 224-2½, 228-0, 228-5, 233-2, 229-6½ and 231-5½.

Then Ryun, the sensational 18-year-old from East Wichita High, turned back his elders in the gruelling mile run, winning in 3:58.1 seconds, the fastest he ever has run.

He won by inches as former San Jose State runner John Garrison took second place in an identical time. Jim Grelle was third at 3:58.2 and Czechoslovakia Olympic silver medalist Josef Odlozil took fourth in 3:58.4.

Southern University of Baton Rouge, La., had been warned by the NCAA not to compete, but came, anyway

Lou Finds Home...Twice

By GEORGE LEDERER

Retread Lou Johnson, who still has a Chicago Cubs tag on his luggage and a Braves scar on his pride, won the loudest cheers of the Dodgers' season Saturday.

He also won the ball game, 5-3 over Milwaukee, with two home runs and four rbi in support of Don Drysdale.

The 31-year-old Johnson still doesn't know why the Braves dropped him after he batted .282 for them in 1962. And the Braves don't know, either, which places them in a category with the Cubs and Angels.

The Dodgers didn't give Johnson much of a tumble, either, until Tommy Davis broke his ankle a month ago. Since then, he has batted .344 in 22 games, by far the best on the club.

When the Dodgers needed help last year, they ignored Johnson's .328 average at Spokane. But he has been ignored most of his baseball life, illustrated by

DODGERS OF DAY

LOU JOHNSON, hit two homers and drove in four runs, and DON DRYSDALE, pitched 6-hitter and struck out 12, in 5-3 win over Braves service on 14 minor league clubs.

No wonder that Johnson is his own "greatest fan." He has a habit of clapping his hands as he circles the bases after a home run, an act that he hasn't been able to rehearse too often.

Saturday, Johnson became the first Dodger to hit two home runs in a game this season and the first to drive in four runs. He hit his second homer of the year with the bases empty against starter Hank Fischer in the fourth inning and broke up a 2-2 contest with a three-run shot off loser Clay Carroll in the eighth.

"No doubt about it," said Johnson, "this is the biggest thrill of my career. I've had quite a few, but not in the majors—the only place to have them."

Drysdale and manager Walter Alston post-scripted an "Amen," to that.

"He really came in at the right time," said Drysdale, who also continued his slugging with a double and a single. It gave Drysdale a six-game hitting streak and a season average of .364.

Alston revealed that if Johnson hadn't connected on Carroll's 1-and-1 pitch, he would have called for a squeeze bunt on the next pitch.

Ron Fairly, who had driven in the tying run with a single, was on third base and John Roseboro was on first with one out in the eighth and the score 2-2.

"If the count had gone to 2-and-1, I would have squeezed with Johnson," said Alston, quite happy that rookie Carroll came through with a strike.

Johnson also beat out an infield hit in the second inning and stole his third base. He and Drysdale accounted for five of the Dodgers' nine hits and all the excitement.

Drysdale, winning his eighth game two weeks ahead of last season, struck out 12 and restricted the Braves to six hits. It was his highest strikeout game since 1963 and brought his career total to 1,801.

Drysdale (8-3) and Fischer engaged in a brushback duel that commanded most of the attention until Johnson delivered.

Drysdale knocked down Joe Torre with his 0-and-1 pitch in the fourth inning, but Torre refused to be intimidated. After brushing himself off, the Braves' catcher drove his 12th home run into the left field pavilion for a 1-0 lead.

Mack Jones followed with a triple off the left field wall and made it 2-0 when Willie Davis failed to find the handle on the ball and drew an error.

Drysdale next hit Gene Oliver on the arm. Nothing was said, but Fischer retaliated silently with a pitch over Drysdale's head to start the fifth inning.

Year Of The Ram?

If Harland Svare ever leaves football coaching ranks, the nearest automobile seat-belt agency should snap him up immediately.

The Ram coach is a walking advertisement for the much-discussed belts that strap one into a vehicle. Like the other day, for instance. A party of four was going out to lunch and Harland found himself in the back seat.

"Where in the devil are the seat-belts?" thundered the coach.

"They're only in the front seat," replied the driver.

"Well, I'll tell you one thing," shot back Svare, "I'm riding in the front seat on the way back."

Then he went into his dissertation.

"I've worn seat-belts for 10 years," he said. "I'll never be without them. My job may depend on them, too. Too many people get hurt because they don't use seat-belts. Look at the San Francisco 49ers. Maybe Red Hickey'd still be coach there if two of his quarterbacks, Brodie (John) and Kilmer (Bill) hadn't been hurt bad in auto accidents.

HARLAND SVARE
Punters and Seat-Belts

"Look at the Chicago Bears, too. Willie Galimore and Bo Farrington were killed in an auto accident and they weren't wearing seat-belts. You know what a lousy season the Bears had, don't you? I don't want any of my players getting hurt in accidents, especially because they're being stupid by sitting on the belts instead of fastening them."

The seat-belt issue resolved, Svare jumped into the subject of his 1965 team.

"I really like our Ram Club this year and I haven't made that statement for the past two seasons," he insisted. "Our chances are better than they've been for a long time because we've got something now that every pro club needs—experience.

"Three trades should help us in the experience department. When Jack Pardee quit, we needed a solid linebacker in the worst way. We had to give up Carroll Dale, but we got Dan Currie from Green Bay. Currie will bring a winning complex into our camp. He'll help morale a lot.

"I think we made a fine deal in getting Tommy McDonald from Dallas, even though I hated in the worst way to lose a real great punter in Danny Villanueva. Tommy can catch passes and he's an outstanding blocker. Few people realize the importance of blocking by a pass receiver.

"Getting Ed Holler from the Steelers was another bargain. He's been around the league three years and he can punt. I'm very happy with our trades and only time will tell if we made the right decisions. I think we did."

LOSS OF VILLANUEVA worries Svare more than most people think. The "Swede" (who's really a Norwegian) is a "bug" on punting. Most fans thought placekicker Bruce Gossett would step immediately into Danny's shoes.

"Not at all," declared Harland. "Placekicking and punting are two entirely different specialties. There's a big difference in rhythm and Gossett did such a fine job for us last year I don't want him to lose his placekicking rhythm. Look at Don Chandler of the Giants. When he had to double-duty, he wasn't such a good punter any more.

"I want to take a long look at Jon Kilgore (a free agent from Auburn). I hear he can really kick. Then, there's Holler and maybe Jack Snow. I think one can do the job for us. But I won't use Gossett as a punter."

Other personnel opinions from Svare:

Snow—"He had a fine record at Notre Dame, but I've got to find out if he can block. EVERYBODY has to block in this league."

Willie Brown—"He got hurt during All-Star game practice in Chicago before he joined us. He wasn't really right all last season, so I didn't use him much. All I honestly know of Willie is that he came to us with a great reputation. I'll know more about him when training is underway."

Marlin McKeever—"I think he's the BEST tight end in the league, including Mike Ditka. Mike is great, but he'll lose a block. Once Marlin gets his man, he'll hold his block and the other guy can't do a thing about it."

SVARE PLANS to let both quarterbacks (Roman Gabriel and Bill Munson) call their own plays and also to alternate them.

"They've both got experience now and know what to do. When one is cold, I'll put in the other. I'm a firm believer in the two-quarterback system.

"I'll tell you one thing," continued the coach, "I was more unhappy with my receiving last year than I was with my quarterbacking."

He then went on to illustrate several situations where receivers were OUT OF POSITION and the quarterback looked like a donkey because the pass was 30 yards from the wayward "target."

"I like our team this year," continued Svare, "but I have nightmares that on the first day in camp McDonald will break his leg. That's all I need."

Anyway, Svare himself came away from his latest safari unscathed. On the return trip he sat in the front seat, fastened belt and all.

Reds Beaten by McCovey

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Willie McCovey, coming through in the clutch for the second straight game, smashed a two-run homer in the seventh inning Saturday to give the San Francisco Giants a 6-4 victory over the Cincinnati Reds, who sustained their fourth consecutive loss.

The blow came off southpaw Bill McCool and wiped out a home run with two aboard which Cincinnati starter Gerry Arrigo had hit as the Reds were taking a 4-0 lead.

McCovey, whose single provided the tie-breaking tally in Friday night's win over the Reds, towered his 10th blast of the year across the right field fence.

Sidearming Bob Bolin (2-3) picked up the victory with two innings of relief after Jack Sanford went out for a pinch-hitter.

After Cincinnati took a 1-0 lead in the third inning, Arrigo hit his first major league homer off Sanford in the fifth.

Then the Giants scored twice in their half of the inning and picked up another run in the sixth when McCovey doubled off Arrigo then scored from third base on a wild pitch by McCool who had just taken over.

ANGELS--

the score 1-1, Fregosi, only seven-for-27 in the previous six games of the trip, ripped his third homer over the left field fence.

Smith, hitless in his last dozen at-bats, promptly cracked a triple over Russ Snyder's turned-about head in center. One out later, Bobby Rodgers slugged a drive to deep left which scored Willie with icing—almost a plentiful commodity on this very cool, clear evening.

Pappas had shutout the Angels four times last season and he yielded only five hits in seven frames this time. The first Angel run in the third was unearned.

An error by second baseman Jerry Adair, only his second in 111 games, following a single by Paul Schaal put the Angel rookie in position to score on Cardenal's sacrifice fly to left.

Newman (6-2) hurled 7⅓ stout innings, yielding six hits and an unearned run while lowering his ERA to 3.07. A wild pitch between Snyder's single and Luis Aparacio's double in the first inning accounted for the only Birds' chirp.

* * * *

BALTIMORE loaded the bases with no one out in the sixth, but Newman forced Orsino to strike into a double play and then struck out Jerry Adair after an intentional walk to Brooks Robinson reloaded the bases.

ANGEL ANGELS: Marcelino Lopez (6-3) opposes Wally Bunker (1-2) in this afternoon's series finale . . . It will be televised by KTLA (5) at 11 a.m. . . . As a 19-year-old Bunker won 19 games last year . . . battling a sore shoulder, Bunker has not started since May 4 . . . He's made three relief appearances during the interim, hurling seven shutout innings . . . Angels proceed to Boston following the contest, playing a doubleheader Monday and a single game Tuesday afternoon . . . Dean Chance and Rudy May will hurl the twin bill . . . A pulled thigh muscle in his right leg finally forced Bobby Knoop to terminate his consecutive game streak at 206 . . . The injury has been prevalent since the season's start and is near the critical stage.

Meanwhile, down on the farm: Long Beach athletes are hitting a storm throughout the Angels' minor league system . . . Cotton Nash, who called Long Beach home during his tenure with the Lakers, is batting .299 with 24 rbi for first-place El Paso of the Texas League . . . Former Long Beach State star Don Anderson is batting .326 for Rocky Bridges' second-place San Jose Bees of the California League . . . Ex-Lakewood High star Dave Marshall has 18 rbi and a .286 mark for the same club . . . Poly High sensation Ike McCraw leads Quad Cities with a .307 average.

Willie Mays' daring baserunning backfired in sixth inning Saturday when he started for second, changed mind and retreated to first. Cincinnati's Tony Perez is ready to apply tag. However, San Francisco won, 6-4.

Kuenn Goes to Cubs; S.F. Gets Bertell

Gabrielson Also Sent to Giants for Hendley, Bailey

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The San Francisco Giants announced Saturday that they had traded Harvey Kuenn, southpaw pitcher Bob Hendley and catcher Ed Bailey to the Chicago Cubs in exchange for catcher Dick Bertell and first baseman-outfielder Len Gabrielson.

KUENN

San Francisco also recalled Bill Hands, who has posted an 8-0 record, with Tacoma in the Pacific Coast league.

BERTELL

Kuenn, whom the Giants obtained from Cleveland after the 1960 season, is batting .224 this season in spot roles.

Hendley has no record this year but holds an earned run average of 12.60 in the 15 innings he has worked. The blond southpaw recently said that he could not improve unless he pitched more.

Bailey has a .107 batting average after returning to the Giants following one season at Milwaukee.

"It's tough to go," Kuenn said. "But that's part of baseball."

* * * *

HANDS has posted an 8-0 record this season at Tacoma and an earned run average of 0.50 while hurling seven complete games.

"We're getting a good young catcher who has a fine arm in Bertell," Giants vice president Charles (Chub) Feeney said. "And we figure to use Gabrielson for left handed pinch hitting."

Bertell, 29, currently is batting .226 for the Cubs. Gabrielson, a left handed power hitter, has a .282 average.

4TH IN ROW FOR N.Y.

White Sox Stop Yanks

CHICAGO (AP)—The first-place Chicago White Sox, getting six innings of brilliant pitching from Tommy John, handed New York a 6-3 defeat Saturday, extending the Yankees' losing streak to four games.

John, 22-year-old lefty, yielded a run in the first inning on Bobby Richardson's single and successive walks to Roger Maris, Mickey Mantle and Joe Pepitone. But then he settled down and held New York to one hit through the next five innings.

He turned wild again in the seventh, walking Clete Boyer and throwing a wild pitch before giving up a single to pinch hitter Horace Clarke that scored Boyer. Eddie Fisher came in and put out the fire.

The Sox cushioned John for his fourth victory against two setbacks with two runs in the first off Al Downing. Ron Hansen walked and Bill Skowron, Pete Ward and Ken Berry singled for the runs.

The Sox got two more in the fifth as Skowron led off with a double and scored all the way from second on Downing's wild pitch.

Phils Win on Allen's Tape Measure Blast

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A two-run tape measure home run by Rich Allen featured a 4-2 victory for the Phillies over the Chicago Cubs Saturday.

Allen, 1964 National League Rookie of the Year, slammed a first-inning shot off righthander Larry Jackson an estimated 510 feet.

Rollins' Bat Paces Twins Over Nats

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rich Rollins drove in five runs with a home run, a single and a double Saturday to lead the second-place Minnesota Twins to a 11-8 victory over the Washington Senators in a free-swinging battle.

The two teams collected a total of 28 hits, four of them home runs and six others for extra bases.

Two singles, two doubles and a sacrifice fly gave the Senators three runs in the first inning, but the Twins got two of them back in the third on a single, a triple and an infield out.

Clemente Hot, Bucs Make it 8

NEW YORK (AP)—Roberto Clemente kept up his assault against New York pitching Saturday, sparking the Pittsburgh Pirates to their eighth straight victory, 7-4 over the last-place Mets.

Clemente rapped four hits, including a single in the seventh inning that sent in the deciding run. The National League's defending batting champion, who got off to a slow start due to a pre-season malarial attack, has seven hits in 10 trips in two games with the Mets, raising his average 29 points to .300.

* * * *

THE PIRATES, after trailing twice in the game, clinched it with three runs in the seventh on a walk and four straight singles—all after two were out.

Bob Bailey started it with a walk off loser Frank Lary, then Bill Virdon, Clemente, Willie Stargell and Donn Clendenon singled.

It also ended Fischer's tenure and the 24-year-old Carroll came in to retire the side without damage.

The Dodgers go into today's opener of a three-game series with Cincinnati with a three-game lead over the Reds, 3½ over St. Louis and San Francisco and 4½ over the Braves.

Sandy Koufax (6-3) pitches against Sammy Ellis (7-1) this afternoon.

DIS AND DATA—The Braves' final run came in the ninth on singles by Eddie Mathews, Torre and Ty Cline. . . . Bob Sadowski, who was to have been the Braves' starting pitcher, was hospitalized because of tonsilitis. . . . W. Davis ran a long way toward left to catch Oliver's deep drive in the second inning. . . . Bill Tallman, of the Perry Mason Show, and Dennis Weaver, of Gunsmoke, have been added to the Hollywood Stars' roster for the July 16 game at Dodger Stadium. . . . The Hollywood team will meet the writers or broadcasters, who have their playoff in June.

It wasn't a happy 24th birthday for third baseman John Kennedy. . . . He reinjured his left leg (pulled muscle) Friday night and was replaced in Saturday's lineup by Dick Tracewski. . . . The Braves have averaged 5,187 paid admissions for 18 home dates and 13,775 for 18 road dates. . . . Of Milwaukee's home total of 93,220, the opening game drew 33,874 and a special night, honoring ex-Brave Warren Spahn, attracted 17,433.

Torre has hit 10 of his 12 home runs on the road. . . . He was the first visiting player to hit one at Dodger Stadium in the last nine games (since Ron Santo's, May 14). . . . Prior to this season, Johnson had hit only two major league homers in 185 at-bats. . . . He has hit three in 61 times up this season.

Oliver left the game in the fifth inning because of a bruised left forearm sustained when hit by Drysdale's pitch in the fourth. . . . X-rays revealed no break. . . . Drysdale struck out the side in the sixth inning when Aaron went down swinging for the third time. . . . He also fanned the first two Braves in the seventh.

Saturday's ladies day total attendance was 31,961. . . . The paid was 23,707.

'Same as Wrestling'

DALLAS—The Dallas News editorialized on its sports page that its coverage of heavyweight boxing championships is being reduced because of the questionable nature of the recent bout between Cassius Clay and Sonny Liston.

"It was at best poor entertainment of the same mold as professional wrestling," the newspaper said.

'Won't Participate in Fraud'

SAN DIEGO—Radio station KCBQ announced that as a result of the Clay-Liston heavyweight fight it has discontinued broadcasting news of professional boxing matches "until proper investigation has determined no frauds have been committed."

It would not be in the interests of the listening audience, the station said in an editorial, "to inadvertently participate in any possible fraud being perpetrated on the American people by publicizing it over our facility."

'Does Not Warrant Coverage'

CORRY, Pa.—The Corry Journal, an afternoon paper, ran this box on page one:

"Due to the nature of the fight, the Journal feels it does not warrant coverage. Don't look for it on the sports page."

Strictly Business

RICHMOND, Va.—The Richmond News Leader carried an account of the Clay-Liston heavyweight championship on its business page.

Managing editor Charles H. Hamilton said it was no sudden decision to move the story from the sports page. The paper has confined any fight news about Clay and Liston to the business section for the past year.

Patrick Blades' Coach?

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Boston Exec Leading Prospect

Lynn Patrick, an old teammate of the Blades' last coach, is the hottest prospect to become the next one.

The vice-president of the Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League has discussed with Blade owner Jim Piggott and general manager Jack Geyer the possibility of assuming a dual role of general manager and coach.

Geyer would move up to vice-president, noting, "I'd be doing about the same thing I'm doing now—just under a different title."

Alf Pike, who was fired as coach this week, played with Patrick on the New York Rangers. Patrick was an NHL all-star in 1941-42.

"He's not with us yet," Geyer emphasized. "We've talked to a half-dozen guys."

* * * *

PATRICK himself was shuffled since the close of hockey season. He lost half of his dual role as v-p and general manager when Hap Emms was moved into the latter position.

Patrick's last coaching assignment was with the Bruins 10 years ago. He also handled the Rangers at one time. His father is Lester Patrick, for whom the Western Hockey League's playoff cup is named.

A report in Boston said that Patrick had accepted the Blades' terms. Geyer termed the report "premature, if not inaccurate."

At any rate, the Blades hope to name a new coach during the NHL meetings starting in Montreal June 7.

THIS PUNCH WAS REAL!

SEATTLE (AP) — Similar in some ways to the heavyweight championship fight itself was the manner in which Walter E. Johnson collected a $100 bet and a black eye, he said Saturday.

Johnson had bet the $100 with a neighbor, favoring Cassius Clay.

They met at the back fence after the fight and the neighbor handed over five $20 bills.

"I bent my head to count them," said Johnson. "I heard him mutter 'I'm going to get my money's worth'. Then, wham!"

The time? About a minute after they met.

Year Of The Ram?

If Harland Svare ever leaves football coaching ranks, the nearest automobile seat-belt agency should snap him up immediately.

The Ram coach is a walking advertisement for the much-discussed belts that strap one into a vehicle. Like the other day, for instance.

HARLAND SVARE
Punters and Seat-Belts

A party of four was going out to lunch and Harland found himself in the back seat.

"Where in the devil are the seat-belts?" thundered the coach.

"They're only in the front seat," replied the driver.

"Well, I'll tell you one thing," shot back Svare, "I'm riding in the front seat on the way back."

Then he went into his dissertation.

"I've worn seat-belts for 10 years," he said. "I'll never be without them. My job may depend on them, too. Too many people get hurt because they don't use seat-belts. Look at the San Francisco 49ers. Maybe Red Hickey'd still be coach there if two of his quarterbacks, Brodie (John) and Kilmer (Bill), hadn't been hurt bad in auto accidents.

"Look at the Chicago Bears, too. Willie Galimore and Bo Farrington were killed in an auto accident and they weren't wearing seat-belts. You know what a lousy season the Bears had, don't you? I don't want any of my players getting hurt in accidents, especially because they're being stupid by sitting on the belts instead of fastening them."

The seat-belt issue resolved, Svare jumped into the subject of his 1965 team.

"I really like our Ram Club this year and I haven't made that statement for the past two seasons," he insisted. "Our chances are better than they've been for a long time because we've got something now that every pro club needs—experience.

"Three trades should help us in the experience department. When Jack Pardee quit, we needed a solid linebacker in the worst way. We had to give up Carroll Dale, but we got Dan Currie from Green Bay. Currie will bring a winning complex into our camp. He'll help morale a lot.

"I think we made a fine deal in getting Tommy McDonald from Dallas, even though I hated in the worst way to lose a real great punter in Danny Villanueva. Tommy can catch passes and he's an outstanding blocker. Few people realize the importance of blocking by a pass receiver.

"Getting Ed Holler from the Steelers was another bargain. He's been around the league three years and he can punt. I'm very happy with our trades and only time will tell if we made the right decisions I think we did."

LOSS OF VILLANUEVA worries Svare more than most people think. The "Swede" (who's really a Norwegian) is a "bug" on punting. Most fans thought placekicker Bruce Gossett would step immediately into Danny's shoes.

"Not at all," declared Harland. "Placekicking and punting are two entirely different specialties. There's a big difference in rhythm and Gossett did such a fine job for us last year I don't want him to lose his placekicking rhythm. Look at Don Chandler of the Giants. When he had to double-duty, he wasn't such a good punter any more.

"I want to take a long look at Jon Kilgore (a free agent from Auburn). I hear he can really kick. Then, there's Holler and maybe Jack Snow. I think one can do the job for us. But I won't use Gossett as a punter."

Other personnel opinions from Svare:

Snow—"He had a fine record at Notre Dame, but I've got to find out if he can block. EVERYBODY has to block in this league."

Willie Brown—"He got hurt during All-Star game practice in Chicago before he joined us. He wasn't really right all last season, so I didn't use him much. All I honestly know of Willie is that he came to us with a great reputation. I'll know more about him when training is underway."

Marlin McKeever—"I think he's the BEST tight end in the league, including Mike Ditka. Mike is great, but he'll lose a block. Once Marlin gets his man, he'll hold his block and the other guy can't do a thing about it."

SVARE PLANS to let both quarterbacks (Roman Gabriel and Bill Munson) call their own plays and also to alternate them.

"They've both got experience now and know what to do. When one is cold, I'll put in the other. I'm a firm believer in the two-quarterback system.

"I'll tell you one thing," continued the coach, "I was more unhappy with my receiving last year than I was with my quarterbacking."

He then went on to illustrate several situations where receivers were OUT OF POSITION and the quarterback looked like a donkey because the pass was 30 yards from the wayward "target."

"I like our team this year," continued Svare, "but I have nightmares that on the first day in camp McDonald will break his leg. That's all I need."

Anyway, Svare himself came away from his latest safari unscathed. On the return trip he sat in the front seat, fastened belt and all.

Reds Beaten by McCovey

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Willie McCovey, coming through in the clutch for the second straight game, smashed a two-run homer in the seventh inning Saturday to give the San Francisco Giants a 6-4 victory over the Cincinnati Reds, who sustained their fourth consecutive loss.

The blow came off southpaw Bill McCool and wiped out a home run with two aboard which Cincinnati starter Gerry Arrigo had hit as the Reds were taking a 4-0 lead.

McCovey, whose single provided the tie-breaking tally in Friday night's win over the Reds, towered his 10th blast of the year across the right field fence.

Sidearming Bob Bolin (2-3) picked up the victory with two innings of relief after Jack Sanford went out for a pinch-hitter.

After Cincinnati took a 1-0 lead in the third inning, Arrigo hit his first major league homer off Sanford in the fifth.

Then the Giants scored twice in their half of the inning and picked up another run in the sixth when McCovey doubled off Arrigo then scored from third base on a wild pitch by McCool who had just taken over.

MAYS GETS BURNED

Willie Mays' daring baserunning backfired in sixth inning Saturday when he started for second, changed mind and retreated to first. Cincinnati's Tony Perez is ready to apply tag. However, San Francisco won, 6-4.

Kuenn Goes to Cubs; S.F. Gets Bertell

Gabrielson Also Sent to Giants for Hendley, Bailey

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The San Francisco Giants announced Saturday that they had traded Harvey Kuenn, southpaw pitcher Bob Hendley and catcher Ed Bailey to the Chicago Cubs in exchange for catcher Dick Bertell and first baseman-outfielder Len Gabrielson.

BERTELL

San Francisco also recalled Bill Hands, who has posted an 8-0 record, with Tacoma in the Pacific Coast league.

Kuenn, whom the Giants obtained from Cleveland after the 1960 season, is batting .224 this season in spot roles.

Hendley has no record this year but holds an earned run average of 12.60 in the 15 innings he has worked. The blond southpaw recently said that he could not improve unless he pitched more.

Bailey has a .107 batting average after returning to the Giants following one season at Milwaukee.

"It's tough to go," Kuenn said. "But that's part of baseball."

* * * *

HANDS has posted an 8-0 record this season at Tacoma and an earned run average of 0.50 while hurling seven complete games.

"We're getting a good young catcher who has a fine arm in Bertell," Giants vice president Charles (Chub) Feeney said. "And we figure to use Gabrielson for left handed pinch hitting."

Bertell, 29, currently is batting .226 for the Cubs. Gabrielson, a left handed power hitter, has a .282 average.

ANGELS--

the score 1-1, Fregosi, only seven-for-27 in the previous six games of the trip, ripped his third homer over the left field fence.

Smith, hitless in his last dozen at-bats, promptly cracked a triple over Russ Snyder's turned-about head in center. One out later, Bobby Rodgers slugged a drive to deep left which scored Willie with icing—almost a plentiful commodity on this very cool, clear evening.

Pappas had shutout the Angels four times last season and he yielded only five hits in seven frames this time. The first Angel run in the third was unearned.

An error by second baseman Jerry Adair, only his second in 111 games, following a single by Paul Schaal put the Angel rookie in position to score on Cardenal's sacrifice fly to left.

Newman (6-2) hurled 7⅓ stout innings, yielding six hits and an unearned run while lowering his ERA to 3.07. A wild pitch between Snyder's single and Luis Aparacio's double in the first inning accounted for the only Birds' chirp.

* * * *

BALTIMORE loaded the bases with no one out in the sixth, but Newman forced Orsino to strike into a double play and then struck out Jerry Adair after an intentional walk to Brooks Robinson reloaded the bases.

4TH IN ROW FOR N.Y.

White Sox Stop Yanks

CHICAGO (AP)—The first-place Chicago White Sox, getting six innings of brilliant pitching from Tommy John, handed New York a 6-3 defeat Saturday, extending the Yankees' losing streak to four games.

John, 22-year-old lefty, yielded a run in the first inning on Bobby Richardson's single and successive walks to Roger Maris, Mickey Mantle and Joe Pepitone. But then he settled down and held New York to one hit through the next five innings.

He turned wild again in the seventh, walking Clete Boyer and throwing a wild pitch before giving up a single to pinch hitter Horace Clarke that scored Boyer. Eddie Fisher came in and put out the fire.

The Sox cushioned John for his fourth victory against two setbacks with two runs in the first off Al Downing. Ron Hansen walked and Bill Skowron, Pete Ward and Ken Berry singled for the runs.

The Sox got two more in the fifth as Skowron led off with a double and scored all the way from second on Downing's wild pitch.

Clemente Hot, Bucs Make it 8

NEW YORK (AP)—Roberto Clemente kept up his assault against New York pitching Saturday, sparking the Pittsburgh Pirates to their eighth straight victory, 7-4 over the last-place Mets.

Clemente rapped four hits, including a single in the seventh inning that sent in the deciding run. The National League's defending batting champion, who got off to a slow start due to a pre-season malarial attack, has seven hits in 10 trips in two games with the Mets, raising his average 29 points to .300.

* * * *

THE PIRATES, after trailing twice in the game, clinched it with three runs in the seventh on a walk and four straight singles—all after two were out.

Bob Bailey started it with a walk off loser Frank Lary, then Bill Virdon, Clemente, Willie Stargell and Donn Clendenon singled.

Rollins' Bat Paces Twins Over Nats

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rich Rollins drove in five runs with a home run, a single and a double Saturday to lead the second-place Minnesota Twins to a 11-8 victory over the Washington Senators in a free-swinging battle.

The two teams collected a total of 28 hits, four of them home runs and six others for extra bases.

Two singles, two doubles and a sacrifice fly gave the Senators three runs in the first inning, but the Twins got two of them back in the third on a single, a triple and an infield out.

Tigers Win on Lolich's 2-Hitter

DETROIT (AP) — George Thomas opened the 10th inning with a double and raced home on a double by Dick McAuliffe, giving the Detroit Tigers a 1-0 victory over Cleveland and Jack Kralick behind the two-hit pitching of Mickey Lolich Saturday.

ended the day's extracurricular activities.

It also ended Fischer's tenure and the 24-year-old Carroll came in to retire the side without damage.

The Dodgers go into today's opener of a three-game series with Cincinnati with a three-game lead over the Reds, 3½ over St. Louis and San Francisco and 4½ over the Braves.

Sandy Koufax (6-3) pitches against Sammy Ellis (7-1) this afternoon.

DIS AND DATA—The Braves' final run came in the ninth on singles by Eddie Mathews, Torre and Ty Cline. . . . Bob Sadowski, who was to have been the Braves' starting pitcher, was hospitalized because of tonsillitis. . . . W. Davis ran a long way toward left to catch Oliver's deep drive in the second inning. . . . Bill Tallman, of the Perry Mason Show, and Dennis Weaver, of Gunsmoke, have been added to the Hollywood Stars' roster for the July 16 game at Dodger Stadium. . . . The Hollywood team will meet the writers or broadcasters, who have their playoff in June.

It wasn't a happy 24th birthday for third baseman John Kennedy. . . . He reinjured his left leg (pulled muscle) Friday night and was replaced in Saturday's lineup by Dick Tracewski. . . . The Braves have averaged 5,167 paid admissions for 18 home dates and 13,775 for 18 road dates. . . . Of Milwaukee's home total of 93,220, the opening game drew 33,874 and a special night, honoring ex-Brave Warren Spahn, attracted 17,433.

Torre has hit 10 of his 12 home runs on the road. . . . He was the first visiting player to hit one at Dodger Stadium in the last nine games (since Ron Santo's, May 14). . . . Prior to this season, Johnson had hit only two major league homers in 185 at-bats. . . . He has hit three in 61 times up this season.

Oliver left the game in the fifth inning because of a bruised left forearm sustained when hit by Drysdale's pitch in the fourth. . . . X-rays revealed no break. . . . Drysdale struck out the side in the sixth inning when Aaron went down swinging for the third time. . . . He also fanned the first two Braves in the seventh.

Saturday's ladies day total attendance was 31,981. . . . The paid was 23,707.

Patrick Blades' Coach?

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Boston Exec Leading Prospect

Lynn Patrick, an old teammate of the Blades' last coach, is the hottest prospect to become the next one.

The vice-president of the Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League has discussed with Blade owner Jim Piggott and general manager Jack Geyer the possibility of assuming a dual role of general manager and coach.

Geyer would move up to vice-president, noting, "I'd be doing about the same thing I'm doing now—just under a different title."

Alf Pike, who was fired as coach this week, played with Patrick on the New York Rangers. Patrick was an NHL all-star in 1941-42.

"He's not with us yet," Geyer emphasized. "We've talked to a half-dozen guys."

* * * *

PATRICK himself was shuffled since the close of hockey season. He lost half of his dual role as v-p and general manager when Hap Emms was moved into the latter position.

Patrick's last coaching assignment was with the Bruins 10 years ago. He also handled the Rangers at one time. His father is Lester Patrick, for whom the Western Hockey League's playoff cup is named.

A report in Boston said that Patrick had accepted the Blades' terms. Geyer termed the report "premature, if not inaccurate."

At any rate, the Blades hope to name a new coach during the NHL meetings starting in Montreal June 7.

THIS PUNCH WAS REAL!

SEATTLE (AP) — Similar in some ways to the heavyweight championship fight itself was the manner in which Walter E. Johnson collected a $100 bet and a black eye, he said Saturday.

Johnson had bet the $100 with a neighbor, favoring Cassius Clay.

They met at the back fence after the fight and the neighbor handed over five $20 bills.

"I bent my head to count them," said Johnson. "I heard him mutter 'I'm going to get my money's worth'. Then, wham!"

The time? About a minute after they met.

'Same as Wrestling'

DALLAS—The Dallas News editorialized on its sports page that its coverage of heavyweight boxing championships is being reduced because of the questionable nature of the recent bout between Cassius Clay and Sonny Liston.

"It was at best poor entertainment of the same mold as professional wrestling," the newspaper said.

'Won't Participate in Fraud'

SAN DIEGO—Radio station KCBQ announced that as a result of the Clay-Liston heavyweight fight it has discontinued broadcasting news of professional boxing matches "until proper investigation has determined no frauds have been committed."

It would not be in the interests of the listening audience, the station said in an editorial, "to inadvertently participate in any possible fraud being perpetrated on the American people by publicizing it over our facility."

'Does Not Warrant Coverage'

CORRY, Pa.—The Corry Journal, an afternoon paper, ran this box on page one:

"Due to the nature of the fight, the Journal feels it does not warrant coverage. Don't look for it on the sports page."

Strictly Business

RICHMOND, Va.—The Richmond News Leader carried an account of the Clay-Liston heavyweight championship on its business page.

Managing editor Charles H. Hamilton said it was no sudden decision to move the story from the sports page. The paper has confined any fight news about Clay and Liston to the business section for the past year.

Inside Straight

A. J. FOYT

Cotton in the Wind

By RICH ROBERTS

INDIANAPOLIS — About the nicest thing you can say about A. J. Foyt is that he wouldn't run down an old lady in a crosswalk.

If the signal was against him.

Possibly the only thing bigger than the Astrodome around Houston, Texas is Foyt's swelled head.

The defending Indianapolis "500" champion is the Roger Maris of the speedway set, the Prof. Moriarity of Gasoline Alley.

Around here, he's the toughest to interview, the hardest to get along with . . . and the most difficult to catch.

Public relations? When Foyt declares that "racing comes first—my family second" you wonder if the man has ANY sort of relations.

Friend and rival Parnelli Jones calls him "the greatest race driver who ever lived." Maybe Jones means it. Or maybe Jones is cunningly feeding the big man's ego and setting him up for a few surprises Monday.

BUT AS FAR AS the press is concerned, the fellow ranks as a genuine cad.

"He's the poorest of all drivers here," says one speedway veteran. "He's just a very obstinate s.o.b. You want to write a column on him? If you do, just write that he's a b------."

Warming to the eulogy, this friendlier of Foyt's acquaintances continued, "He's always been that way. He was pretty cooky when he came out of Texas, but then when he made his success it really made him difficult."

We explained that we had attempted telephoning Foyt from California several times.

"Listen," the friend said, "he ran Sports Illustrated out of his garage this week. I took them in there to introduce them and he yelled, 'Get your --- out of here and keep your --- ---- paper out of here, too."

"He said, 'The b------ wrote something bad about me'.

IN TRYING TO CONTACT Foyt by phone earlier, twice we managed to reach his wife at the Speedway Motel, the second time at an hour she had said her husband would be there. The transcontinental conversation went like this:

"Is A. J. there now, please?"

"Just a minute—er, who's calling, please?"

"The newspaper in Long Beach, California."

"He's not in right now."

"Can I leave a message?"

"He won't be back until late tonight."

"About what time?"

"Well . . . real, REAL late."

"That's okay, I'll be here. Do you think he'll return the call."

"I can't really say . . . I think so."

As we left home the call still hadn't been returned. We even tried leaving messages two different days at Foyt's garage in Gasoline Alley.

Sheraton-Thompson garage, Whitey speakin'," was the answer.

"Is A. J. Foyt there, please?"

"Just a minute—hey, is A.J. still hanging around out front?—no, he left an hour ago . . . no, I can't say when he'll be back. He's just like cotton in the wind."

FOYT NEVER returned the call from either place, but it's just as well. Our efforts at least established a picture of the type of guy who'll be making the pace when 33 demons roar down the stretch.

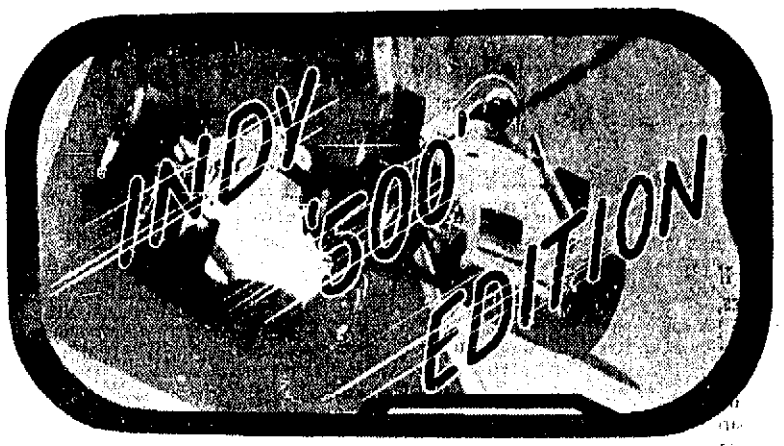

He might be just obstinate enough to stomp out all the bugs they say are built into his Ford-powered, Goodyear-shod, rebuilt Lotus machine.

A tough man to deal with, on or off the track . . . just like cotton in the wind.

AL DEAN'S DRIVER

Mario Andretti Out to Break Rookie Jinx in Long Beach Car

By BRUCE YOUNG

ANDRETTI

That little old star maker, Al Dean, has another vintage crop this year and he hopes to reap the laurels Monday in the Indianapolis "500."

Dean, the dean of a Long Beach moving service, has been entering cars in the 500-mile classic for 12 years now and has launched many drivers on their way to success and stardom.

Such speed merchants as Jimmy Bryan, Bill Vukovich, A. J. Foyt, Bob Sweikert, Eddie Sachs and Bill Hulse have driven for Dean. Yet as strange as it may seem, even with these top drivers driving Dean's cars, he has not won a "500."

But this could be the year. His powerful rear-engine Ford has qualified on the inside of the second row with another budding star at the wheel.

This year's rookie rave is pint-sized, Italian-born Mario Andretti. Mario, who tips the scale at only 134 pounds, is only 24 but has been racing since he was 13. Andretti was born in a tiny village along the Adriatic Sea where he raced formula junior machines with his brother.

Mario had the speedway buzzing as he earned Dean a high position with his sizzling 158.849 mph average qualifying run. He was first to break the old qualifying record, which Foyt later smashed.

Dean's latest protege came to America at the end of a very successful racing season in 1954 and settled in the East. After four years of saving he finally got enough money to build a sportsman stock car.

Mario, who became an American citizen this spring, drove stock cars until he became of legal age in 1961 and then he decided to try URC sprinters and that really started his promising career. Andretti scored several big victories in the East and this fall he captured the Pat O'Conner Memorial at Salem, Indiana in what many called an inferior car.

He has performed magnificently in the two big races leading up to Indy.

* * * *

IN THE Phoenix 150-mile race he appeared to have it won until a car in front of him spun out, costing him the lead and the race. Last month at Trenton he was on his way to the front when rain halted the race.

Dean praised his cool-headed driver. "He uses his head like an old pro. I don't think the fact that he is a rookie will hurt his chances at Indy, for he is aggressive, yet not too eager. I think we have a real find."

So do many other noted speedway veterans.

Don Branson, the 45-year-old king of America's short track auto racers, was first to jump on this young driver's handwagon. He said: "Andretti has a whole lot of ability. He's a charger and very capable. I can tell you that with a year or two more experience he will be one of the greatest."

Veteran mechanic Clint Brawner, considered one of the best in the business, compares this flashy rookie to the likes of Foyt and Parnelli Jones.

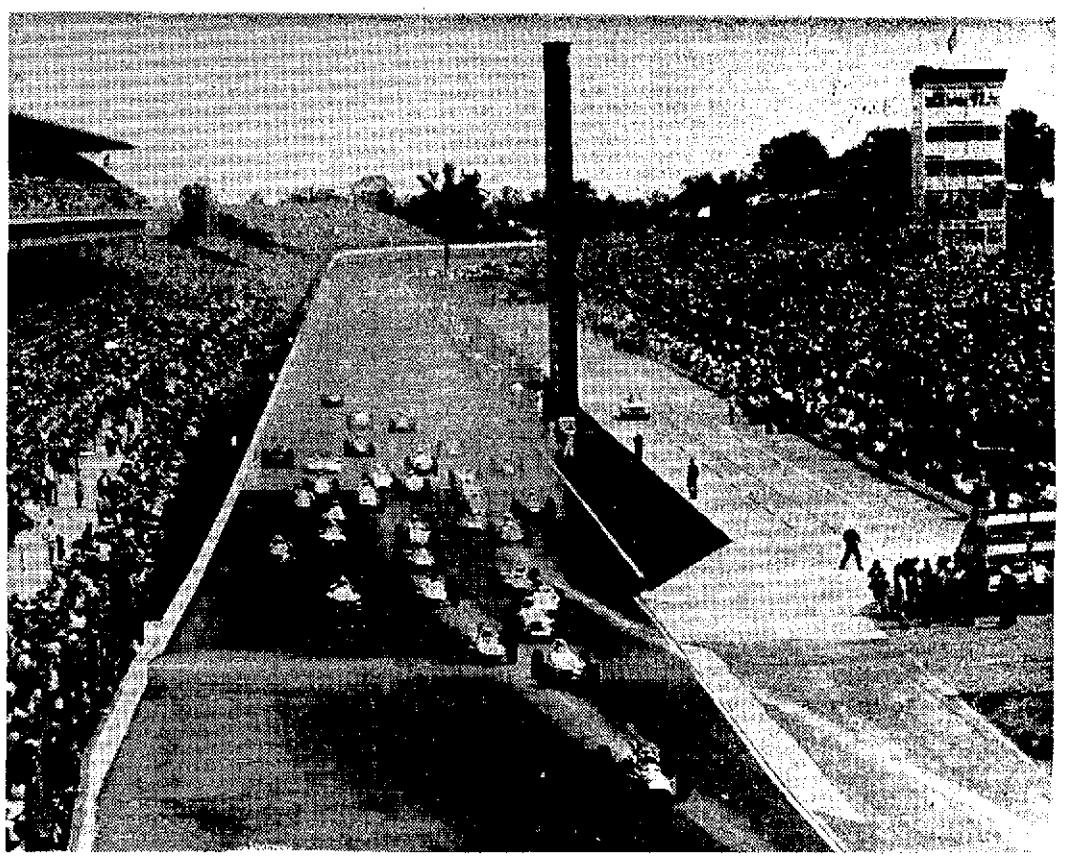

* * * *

STEWARD Paul Johnson, who has seen every speedway race but two since the very first one in 1911, can't say enough for Mario.

"Every so often a natural comes along. This is Mario Andretti. He reminds me of Frank Lockhart (Lockhart won the race in 1926 as a rookie and the only other rookies to win the race were Ray Harroun in 1911 and George Souders in 1927). Frank came here virtually unknown, but he was a natural driver as well as a wonderful mechanic and he won the race."

Andretti, who is married and has two children, commented, "I have at least five drivers to watch out for. Foyt, Jim Clark, Jones, Bobby Unser and Dan Gurney. I have a lot of faith in my car for it was built for stress and includes outstanding engineering strides. When that green flag is dropped, I'm ready to race. I can go 158 mph right on the first lap."

Come race day, Mario will bear watching for he is bound and determined to make his life long dream come through and get the largest "pizza" of the prize money.

STRICT NEW RULES

'500' Faster but Safer Than Ever

Special to the Independent, Press-Telegram

INDIANAPOLIS — How can anybody be safe on a race track at 150 mph?

It's not easy, but Indianapolis Motor Speedway officials are doing their darndest to avoid repetition of last year's tragedy.

When young Dave MacDonald slid across the track at the head of the stretch on only the second lap, creating a holocaust that claimed his own life, as well as Eddie Sachs', it started speedway officials thinking more seriously than ever about safety.

In all, 32 drivers have died at the speedway, and the development of faster and lighter rear-engine cars brought new dangers, like magnesium wheels, flashing against concrete walls to touch off easily ruptured fuel tanks mounted on the side.

The Firestone company quickly developed the fuel cell, a semi-sponge type of container now required on all cars.

Practice accidents already have proven the cell's value. Speedway experts feel several crashes would have resulted in dumping of fuel and certain fire, bringing drivers to the same end met by MacDonald and Sachs.

Parnelli Jones' "Old Calhoun" roadster exploded in the pits, experts concluded, when a spark caused by slamming shut the filler cap set off a static charge created by forcing fuel into the tank under heavy pressure.

Now rules forbid pressure-fueling. They'll have to gas up by gravity flow, just like at your corner station.

Each car also must have a fire wall completely encircling the driver, and Firestone also developed new fireproof suits (cost $75) and offered them free to any driver.

* * * *

THE SUICIDAL drive toward ultra-lightweight cars was effectively checked by imposing a minimum weight rule of 1,250 pounds. A few cars had to beef up one or two hundreds pounds to make it.

And everybody, but everybody, must visit the pits at least twice during the race, whether he needs to or not.

No more trying to go the distance with enough gasoline to power Rommel's Afrika Korps across the Sahara.

Some drivers will argue that the mandatory pit stops cost them a natural advantage over bigger cars, but speedway officials have an answer for that:

It's better to stop twice on schedule . . . than once for keeps.

Race on Radio, Theater TV

Monday's Indianapolis 500-mile auto race will be broadcast on KBIG radio (740) and telecast into the Long Beach Arena and the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

There will be no home television. Race time is 9 a.m. (PDT), with radio and heater TV programs starting earlier for pre-race information.

Ford or Offy...Front or Rear? Take Yer Cherce

Special to the Independent, Press-Telegram

INDIANAPOLIS — Ford vs. Offenhauser . . . Firestone vs. Goodyear . . . front engine vs. rear engine.

Y' pays yer money and y' takes yer cherce — and how. For only $50,000 or so, you, too, can have your own car in the 500-mile auto race. The entry fee is only $1,000—just to keep the riff-raff out.

Of course, you won't be able to drive it yourself. That requires special talent, which will absorb half of your winnings . . . if you beat the other 32 . . . and if you finish.

If you're lucky, some hotfooted maniac won't run your bundle through the wall, and you'll escape with only 50% depreciation on a car in one piece.

C'mon, now, who'll be the first in your neighborhood to own one?

Only an owner can know how it feels to see his colors among near by $2 million worth of machinery flying down that long, long straightaway for the green flag at 9 a.m. (PDT) Monday morning.

It's been the same for 49 years. But now they have more ways to be nervous.

Will the engine stay together? . . . will the tires hold up? . . . will the wheels stay on?

Gone are the days when everybody drove an old, sturdy roadster with Firestones on the rims and an Offenhauser engine up front, and all a poor owner had to worry about was whether the guy behind the wheel could keep it on the track.

Now they're tooling faster but highly uncertain equipment at peak speeds beyond 190 mph. One little mistake and you blow the whole 500 miles . . . or worse.

That puts the bespectacled boys with the slide rules right back in the cockpit with the drivers, just like the good old days.

But even their slide rules haven't told them the winning formula.

They do know this: The fastest possible combination of equipment would be one of the new Ford overhead cam engines mounted in the back of a British-made Lotus chassis with the new Goodyear tires on the ground—just like the car defending champion A. J. Foyt has on the pole.

On the other hand, until it's proven otherwise, the most durable grouping would be an Offenhauser power plant, also mounted sternward, but in a stronger American-built chassis with Firestones on all four corners.

If you're really a die-hard, you could even go with an old Offy roadster, but only four of the old dinosaurs made the race, so it appears the rear-engine revolution is here to stay.

Ted Halibrand of Torrance built five of the rear-engine cars in the race, some with Fords, others with Offies. He admits the Lotus chassis designed by Colin Chapman is "about 2 mph faster."

"But I felt we had to prove that American ingenuity can still get the job done. Anyway, it looks pretty much like the end of the roadster era."

Rookie Arnold Knepper, in the seventh row with an Offy roadster, disagrees.

Long Beach's Mickey Thompson, whose front-engine Chevy failed to qualify, figures that "50% of the Fords won't finish the race."

His estimate may be high. Only one of seven made it last year. But this year there are 17, including eight Lotuses and Lolas built in Britain.

Even a Ford driver, obviously anonymous, adds, "There are maybe four Fords that can go the distance at a racing speed."

There are 10 rear-engine Offies, not to mention the persistent old Novi racers.

And don't overlook the Novis. The eight-cylinder banshees driven by Bobby Unser and Jim Hurtubise qualified faster than any Offies, front or rear, except the one driven by rookie Billy Foster.

Should the Fords fall out, the Novis could be there. One was clocked at 199.3 mph on the straightaway.

Y' see, then, why y' pays yer money and takes yer cherce. What would yours be?

A. J. FOYT

Cotton in the Wind

By RICH ROBERTS

INDIANAPOLIS — About the nicest thing you can say about A. J. Foyt is that he wouldn't run down an old lady in a crosswalk.

If the signal was against him.

Possibly the only thing bigger than the Astrodome around Houston, Texas is Foyt's swelled head.

The defending Indianapolis "500" champion is the Roger Maris of the speedway set, the Prof. Moriarity of Gasoline Alley.

Around here, he's the toughest to interview, the hardest to get along with . . . and the most difficult to catch.

Public relations? When Foyt declares that "racing comes first—my family second" you wonder if the man has ANY sort of relations.

Friend and rival Parnelli Jones calls him "the greatest race driver who ever lived." Maybe Jones means it. Or maybe Jones is cunningly feeding the big man's ego and setting him up for a few surprises Monday.

BUT AS FAR AS the press is concerned, the fellow ranks as a genuine cad.

"He's the poorest of all drivers here," says one speedway veteran. "He's just a very obstinate s.o.b. You want to write a column on him? If you do, just write that he's a b------."

Warming to the eulogy, this friendlier of Foyt's acquaintances continued, "He's always been that way. He was pretty cooky when he came out of Texas, but then when he made his success it really made him difficult."

We explained that we had attempted telephoning Foyt from California several times.

"Listen," the friend said, "he ran Sports Illustrated out of his garage this week. I took them in there to introduce them and he yelled, 'Get your --- out of here and keep your --- ---- paper out of here, too."

"He said, 'The b------ wrote something bad about me'.

IN TRYING TO CONTACT Foyt by phone earlier, twice we managed to reach his wife at the Speedway Motel, the second time at an hour she had said her husband would be there. The transcontinental conversation went like this:

"Is A. J. there now, please?"

"Just a minute—er, who's calling, please?"

"The newspaper in Long Beach, California."

"He's not in right now."

"Can I leave a message?"

"He won't be back until late tonight."

"About what time?"

"Well . . . real, REAL late."

"That's okay, I'll be here. Do you think he'll return the call."

"I can't really say . . . I think so."

As we left home the call still hadn't been returned. We even tried leaving messages two different days at Foyt's garage in Gasoline Alley.

Sheraton-Thompson garage, Whitey speakin'," was the answer.

"Is A. J. Foyt there, please?"

"Just a minute—hey, is A.J. still hanging around out front?—no, he left an hour ago . . . no, I can't say when he'll be back. He's just like cotton in the wind."

FOYT NEVER returned the call from either place, but it's just as well. Our efforts at least established a picture of the type of guy who'll be making the pace when 33 demons roar down the stretch.

He might be just obstinate enough to stomp out all the bugs they say are built into his Ford-powered, Goodyear-shod, rebuilt Lotus machine.

A tough man to deal with, on or off the track . . . just like cotton in the wind.

AL DEAN'S DRIVER

Mario Andretti Out to Break Rookie Jinx in Long Beach Car

By BRUCE YOUNG

ANDRETTI

That little old star maker, Al Dean, has another vintage crop this year and he hopes to reap the laurels Monday in the Indianapolis "500."

Dean, the dean of a Long Beach moving service, has been entering cars in the 500-mile classic for 12 years now and has launched many drivers on their way to success and stardom.

Such speed merchants as Jimmy Bryan, Bill Vukovich, A. J. Foyt, Bob Sweikert, Eddie Sachs and Bill Hulse have driven for Dean. Yet as strange as it may seem, even with these top drivers driving Dean's cars, he has not won a "500."

But this could be the year. His powerful rear-engine Ford has qualified on the inside of the second row with another budding star at the wheel.

This year's rookie rave is pint-sized, Italian-born Mario Andretti. Mario, who tips the scale at only 134 pounds, is only 24 but has been racing since he was 13. Andretti was born in a tiny village along the Adriatic Sea where he raced formula junior machines with his brother.

Mario had the speedway buzzing as he earned Dean a high position with his sizzling 158.849 mph average qualifying run. He was first to break the old qualifying record, which Foyt later smashed.

Dean's latest protege came to America at the end of a very successful racing season in 1954 and settled in the East. After four years of saving he finally got enough money to build a sportsman stock car.

Mario, who became an American citizen this spring, drove stock cars until he became of legal age in 1961 and then he decided to try URC sprinters and that really started his promising career. Andretti scored several big victories in the East and this fall he captured the Pat O'Conner Memorial at Salem, Indiana in what many called an inferior car.

He has performed magnificently in the two big races leading up to Indy.

* * * *

IN THE Phoenix 150-mile race he appeared to have it won until a car in front of him spun out, costing him the lead and the race. Last month at Trenton he was on his way to the front when rain halted the race.

Dean praised his cool-headed driver. "He uses his head like an old pro. I don't think the fact that he is a rookie will hurt his chances at Indy, for he is aggressive, yet not too eager. I think we have a real find."

So do many other noted speedway veterans.

Don Branson, the 45-year-old king of America's short track auto racers, was first to jump on this young driver's bandwagon. He said, "Andretti has a whole lot of ability. He's a charger and very capable. I can tell you that with a year or two more experience he will be one of the greatest."

Veteran mechanic Clint Brawner, considered one of the best in the business, compares this flashy rookie to the likes of Foyt and Parnelli Jones.

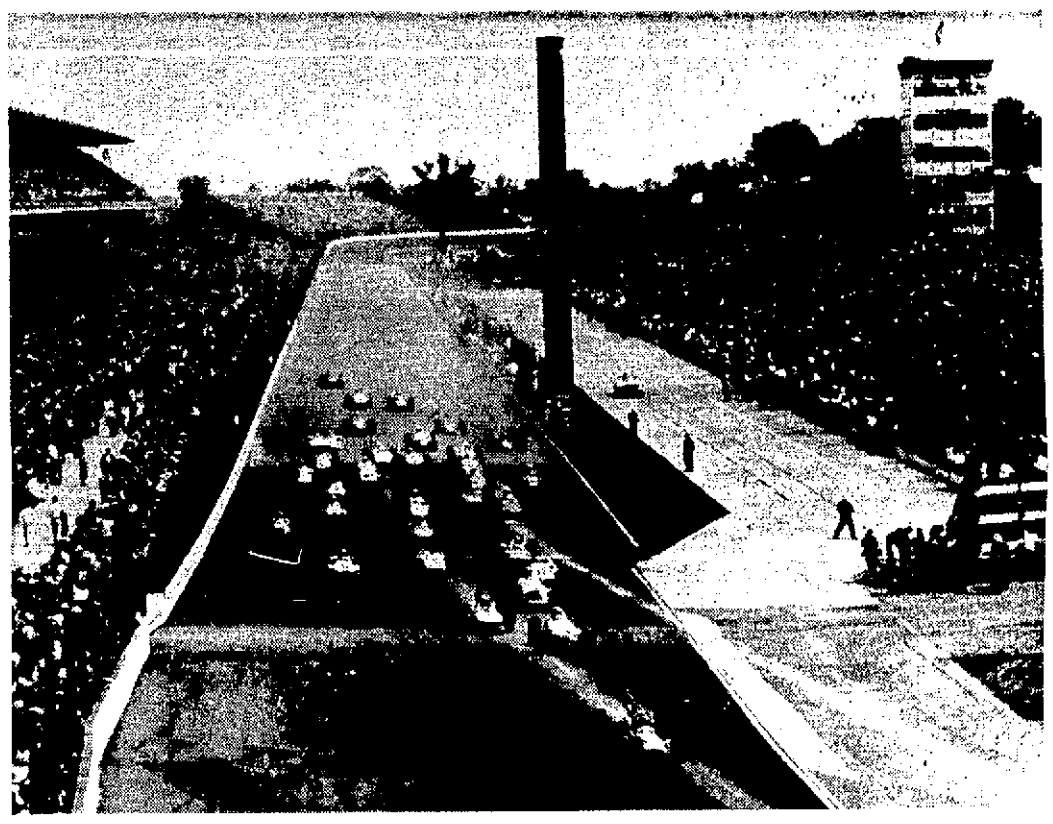

* * * *

STEWARD Paul Johnson, who has seen every speedway race but two since the very first one in 1911, can't say enough for Mario.

"Every so often a natural comes along. This is Mario Andretti. He reminds me of Frank Lockhart (Lockhart won the race in 1926 as a rookie and the only other rookies to win the race were Ray Harroun in 1911 and George Souders in 1927). Frank came here virtually unknown, but he was a natural driver as well as a wonderful mechanic and he won the race."

Andretti, who is married and has two children, commented, "I have at least five drivers to watch out for. Foyt, Jim Clark, Jones, Bobby Unser and Dan Gurney. I have a lot of faith in my car for it was built for stress and includes outstanding engineering strines. When that green flag is dropped, I'm ready to race. I can go 158 mph right on the first lap."

Come race day, Mario will bear watching for he is bound and determined to make his life long dream come through and get the largest "pizza" of the prize money.

Race on Radio, Theater TV

Monday's Indianapolis 500-mile auto race will be broadcast on KBIG radio (740) and telecast into the Long Beach Arena and the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

There will be no home television. Race time is 9 a.m. (PDT), with radio and heater TV programs starting earlier for pre-race information.

STRICT NEW RULES

'500' Faster but Safer Than Ever

Special to the Independent, Press-Telegram

INDIANAPOLIS — How can anybody be safe on a race track at 150 mph?

It's not easy, but Indianapolis Motor Speedway officials are doing their darndest to avoid repetition of last year's tragedy.

When young Dave MacDonald slid across the track at the head of the stretch on only the second lap, creating a holocaust that claimed his own life, as well as Eddie Sachs', it started speedway officials thinking more seriously than ever about safety.

In all, 32 drivers have died at the speedway, and the development of faster and lighter rear-engine cars brought new dangers, like magnesium wheels, flashing against concrete walls to touch off easily ruptured fuel tanks mounted on the side.

The Firestone company quickly developed the fuel cell, a semi-sponge type of container now required on all cars.

Practice accidents already have proven the cell's value. Speedway experts feel several crashes would have resulted in dumping of fuel and certain fire, bringing drivers to the same end met by MacDonald and Sachs.

Parnelli Jones' "Old Calhoun" roadster exploded in the pits, experts concluded, when a spark caused by slamming shut the filler cap set off a static charge created by forcing fuel into the tank under heavy pressure.

Now rules forbid pressure-fueling. They'll have to gas up by gravity flow, just like at your corner station.

Each car also must have a fire wall completely encircling the driver, and Firestone also developed new fireproof suits (cost $75) and offered them free to any driver.

* * * *

THE SUICIDAL drive toward ultra-lightweight cars was effectively checked by imposing a minimum weight rule of 1,250 pounds. A few cars had to beef up one or two hundreds pounds to make it.

And everybody, but everybody, must visit the pits at least twice during the race, whether he needs to or not.

No more trying to go the distance with enough gasoline to power Rommel's Afrika Korps across the Sahara.

Some drivers will argue that the mandatory pit stops cost them a natural advantage over bigger cars, but speedway officials have an answer for that:

It's better to stop twice on schedule . . . than once for keeps.

Ford or Offy...Front or Rear? Take Yer Cherce

Special to the Independent, Press-Telegram

INDIANAPOLIS — Ford vs. Offenhauser . . . Firestone vs. Goodyear . . . front engine vs. rear engine.

Y' pays yer money and y' takes yer cherce — and how. For only $50,000 or so, you, too, can have your own car in the 500-mile auto race. The entry fee is only $1,000—just to keep the riff-raff out.

Of course, you won't be able to drive it yourself. That requires special talent, which will absorb half of your winnings . . . if you beat the other 32 . . . and if you finish.

If you're lucky, some hotfooted maniac won't run your bundle through the wall, and you'll escape with only 50% depreciation on a car in one piece.

C'mon, now, who'll be the first in your neighborhood to own one?

Only an owner can know how it feels to see his colors among near by $2 million worth of machinery flying down that long, long straightaway for the green flag at 9 a.m. (PDT) Monday morning.

It's been the same for 49 years. But now they have more ways to be nervous.

Will the engine stay together? . . . will the tires hold up? . . . will the wheels stay on?

Gone are the days when everybody drove an old, sturdy roadster with Firestones on the rims and an Offenhauser engine up front, and all a poor owner had to worry about was whether the guy behind the wheel could keep it on the track.

Now they're tooling faster but highly uncertain equipment at peak speeds beyond 190 mph. One little mistake and you blow the whole 500 miles . . . or worse.

That puts the bespectacled boys with the slide rules right back in the cockpit with the drivers, just like the good old days.

But even their slide rules haven't told them the winning formula.

They do know this: The fastest possible combination of equipment would be one of the new Ford overhead cam engines mounted in the back of a British-made Lotus chassis with the new Goodyear tires on the ground—just like the car defending champion A. J. Foyt has on the pole.

On the other hand, until it's proven otherwise, the most durable grouping would be an Offenhauser power plant, also mounted sternward, but in a stronger American-built chassis with Firestones on all four corners.

If you're really a die-hard, you could even go with an old Offy roadster, but only four of the old dinosaurs made the race, so it appears the rear-engine revolution is here to stay.

Ted Halibrand of Torrance built five of the rear-engine cars in the race, some with Fords, others with Offies. He admits the Lotus chassis designed by Colin Chapman is "about 2 mph faster."

"But I felt we had to prove that American ingenuity can still get the job done. Anyway, it looks pretty much like the end of the roadster era."

Rookie Arnold Knepper, in the seventh row with an Offy roadster, disagrees.

Long Beach's Mickey Thompson, whose front-engine Chevy failed to qualify, figures that "50% of the Fords won't finish the race."

His estimate may be high. Only one of seven made it last year. But this year there are 17, including eight Lotuses and Lolas built in Britain.

Y' see, then, why y' pays yer money and takes yer cherce. What would yours be?

Once Over Lightly

By DAVE LEWIS

Indy Machines Are Never 'Ready'

It was Parnelli Jones who best summed up the feelings along Gasoline Alley at Indianapolis last year on the eve of the annual 500-mile Speedway classic.

"A car is never really ready," Parnelli, winner of the 1963 race, declared. "I mean, you work and work on it and you hope it's ready. It may sound wonderful and it may drive beautifully, but all the time you're wondering, 'is it really ready?'"

It's a question all the drivers and mechanics are still asking themselves when the order "Gentlemen, start your engines" is heard.

PARNELLI JONES
'Wonder All the Time'

They know that a 5-cent part can knock a $40,000 machine out of the race; in fact, that often has meant the difference between victory and defeat.

There are really "two races" in this year's event—one between the new breed rear-engine cars and the old-style front-engined machines, and the other between the Ford power and Offenhauser reliability.

Outside of two Novis, 17 of the cars will be powered by the new Ford V-8 engines while 14 will go with Offenhausers.

However, although the race has never been won by a car with the engine in the rear, only four will be racing Monday with engoing up front. All are Offies and will be driven by Chuck Stevenson, Gordon Johncock, Arnold Knepper and Eddie Johnson.

The switch to rear engines began in earnest this year when A. J. Foyt, winner of the 1964 classic in a traditional Offenhauser, decided that it was time to put a Ford engine in the rear of his special. Parnelli Jones and J. C. Agajanian followed suit . . . as did Al Dean of Dean Van Lines, among others.

Last year, Ford loaned eight of its revolutionary engines to selected owners for use in the "500." This time, owners are being allowed to purchase the power plants for the first time. Asking price is $15,000, and some 50 engines were built, although only 17 will go in the race.

A NEW ERA at the famed speedway began in 1963 with the introduction of the first Lotus-Ford, which finished second to Parnelli.

Dan Gurney, who will be sitting on the outside of the front row Monday, was the one who suggested and arranged for the alliance between Ford and Colin Chapman, designer and builder of Lotus grand prix racing cars and head man of Team Lotus Ltd., a familiar name on every race course in the world.

Ford wanted someone to build a car that would use its engines to beat the Offenhausers, which have dominated the Indianapolis race. And Chapman came up with the rear-engined car. The enormity of his influence is obvious.

The other rear-engine machines are all featherweight jobs that are close relatives to Chapman's trim Lotuses.

LAST YEAR, THE LOTUS-FORDS appeared as if they might run away and hide from the Offies in the early going before mechanical failures began knocking them out and set up the race for Foyt.

However, a Ford was second for the second straight year. A Ford engine mounted on the rear of an A. J. Watson chassis and driven by Rodger Ward might have even won it all but for five pit stops. Two of them, which were totally unnecessary, it was revealed later, cost Ward over a lap (2½ miles).

The big question, of course, is whether the Ford engines can stretch their tremendous zip over 500 miles. Ford engineers believe their new engine will be successful.

It was to have been introduced last year, but experimentation on it was temporarily suspended when Ford's push-rod engine met performance objectices.

The new engine abandons the push rod system in favor of overhead cams and can develop 420 horsepower compared to 376 by the former model.

BOB VEITH, one of those driving a rear-engine Offy (he's on the inside of the fourth row), believes that while the Fords will be setting the early pace, the Offenhausers will be looming up at the end when it counts.

"Not over four Fords appear to be set up to go the distance at racing speed . . . and I'm not even sure about them. The beauty of the Offenhauser is that it's built to go all day," he says.

However, he feels that a rear-engine car will win it. "They're definitely here to stay," Bob stated earlier this week.

"The trip was worth it," declared Robert Jones (47.4), Anthony Gates (46.2), Everett Mason (46.0) and Olympian Theron Lewis (44.9) after equalling Arizona's world mile relay record of 3:04.5, in the last event of the evening.

Athlete of the meet honors went to Boston in the open division and Fred Kuller of Santa Ana, who scored 22½ points, for the jaycee champion Dons.

In another big surprise, 17-year-old Flowers Jr., a high school speedster from Montgomery, Ala., upset a field of veterans to win the 120-yard high hurdles in 13.9 seconds.

Dave Shirley (47.5), Don Cook (21.2), Jim Richardson (21.6) and Ralph Lee (1:49.4) gave the 49er Track Club of Long Beach a victory in the sprint medley with a time of 3:19.3.

In individual competition former Fresno star, Charles Craig, competing for the 49er TC, finished third in the triple jump with a 50-2¾ and 880 man Dave Mellady was fourth in 1:53.2. An 880 relay team from the Long Beach team was fourth in 1:29.0.

Roy Thurman, Long Beach City College's only entry in the meet, took third in the shot with a 55-0 throw.

Inboards Roar at Marine Today

A record Memorial Day field of inboard raceboats and a probable record crowd is presaged for the Belmont Shore Lions Club's 17th regatta and aquashow this afternoon on Marine Stadium.

Racing is slated to start at 1 with the 20-minute aquashow intermission, featuring parakiter Bob Snyder, at 2:45.

However, loaded entry lists in at least two fleets, the hot SK racing runabouts and the 280-cubic inch hydroplanes, will demand an hour for eliminations, starting at noon. Marine Stadium safety rules prohibit more than eight race boats on the water at one time.

Allan Ford of Concord, driving Al Silva's Giz Mo of Hayward, is 280 defender and will go in as favorite.

By contrast, Tony Sigalos, with Coffee Break of Anaheim, faces a rough afternoon in the two SK heats. The defender's rivals enlist the national champion, Tony Maricich, San Pedro with Suddenly; former titlist Don Towle with Haf Gast Too, Los Angeles and Leroy Penhall, Anaheim, whose Sizzler may well get the nod.

Berryessa marathon winner, Lou Brummett, Miss Mandella; Big Ed Olsen, Cream Puff IX; Al Gundstrom, Jiffy and new threat Ladd Penfold with Hullin' Ice of Irwindale, are also potential SK winners.

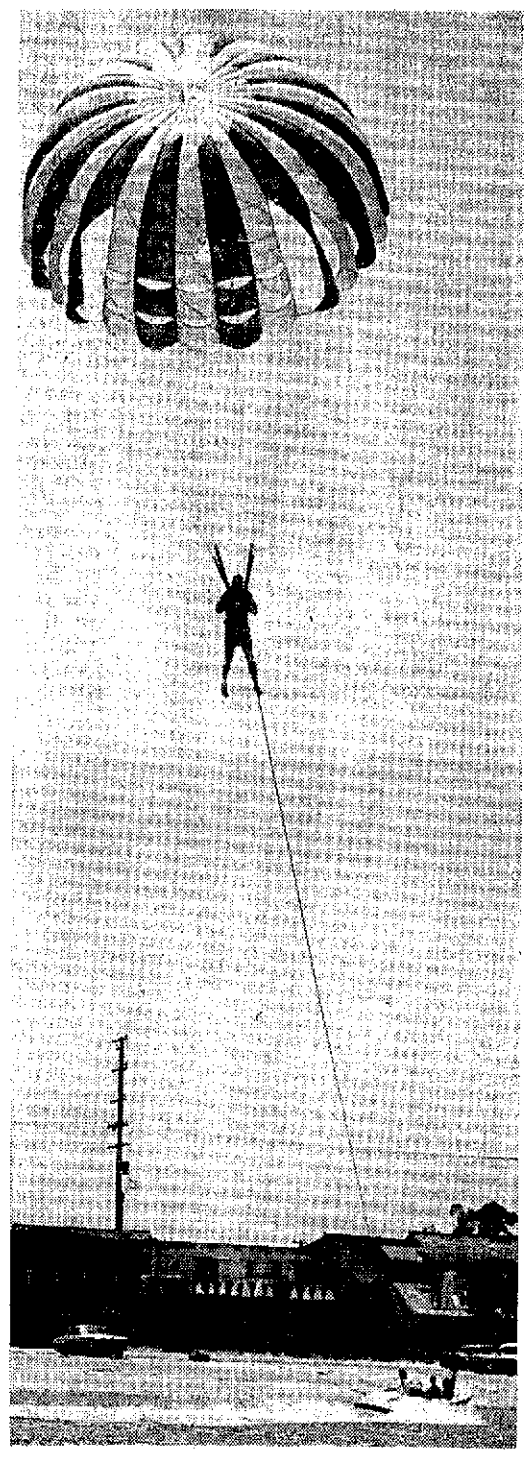

Penhall, Ford, Roget Stull and Bob Ellis are among drivers who will tool boats in two classes.

In the mid-race aqua feature, Snyder will try for a 180-foot parachute altitude record, towing behind Fred Amsbry's new Wild Cat.

A four-boat slalom race for tiny Sea Sprite hydrokarts will be handled by John Wilson. Regatta coqueens, Marsha McDermid (Miss Hydroplane) and Sylvia Pimenal (Miss Runabout) will also be presented.

The big "if" fleet today, and one which might steal the show, is the new, probationary SS, or Super Stock runabout class better known as the Modest Man's SK. Eight have entered.

Racing will be conducted under the new "Jett System" (devised by Dr. James Jett) by the Southern California Speedboat Club.

UP IN THE AIR SO BLUE

Bob Snyder, Long Beach para-kiter, may have it all over (180 feet over, that is) the 70 inboard racers churning Marine Stadium waters this afternoon when he tries for altitude record.

Killingsworth Hurls 2-Hitter, Fans 15

Larry Killingsworth of Samuel Thomas Post took up where he left off in high school Saturday as he pitched a two-hit, 2-0 victory over Shua in a Harbor League American Legion baseball opener at Millikan.

In other games, Allen Hoops pitched Flyers to a 3-1 win over Peterson on an eight-hitter at Blair Field in a doubleheader which saw Alamitos Bay topple Wilmington, 6-3, in the second game behind the pitching of Jim Lynch and Tom Miller.

Killingsworth, who fanned 131 batters for Jordan this past season, struck out 15 Saturday and had a no-hitter until one out in the eighth when Dave O'Toole beat out a bunt.

Both Samuel Thomas runs were unearned off Jeff Davis, who threw a seven-hitter. Dennis Parks and Walt Weller each had two hits for the winners.

Mustangs Win in 'Mack Play; Salta in Romp

Mike Baker and Bobby Gordon combined on a three-hitter Saturday night as Mel Burns' Mustangs routed the Long Beach Colts, 8-0, in a Connie Mack League baseball game at Blair Field.

Walt Weller and Dennis Parks, who played in a legion game at Blair earlier in the day and collected two hits apiece, came back with another pair apiece to pace the winners. Tom Turk also had two hits.

The Mustangs take on the powerful Los Altos Shoppers at 5 p.m. today at Blair.

In a non-league nightcap, Mike Salta Pontiac whipped the Los Altos Shoppers, 6-0. Pat Cashman, with a two-run triple, and Nyal Leslie and Paul Tippin, each with two hits, paced the winners.

'500'---

lyzed, and several others have been on borrowed time since blindly circumventing the flames in which Dave McDonald and Eddie Sachs lost their lives.

That accident was the worst of several fiery crashes on the '64 racing circuit that claimed hotfooted Bobby Marshman and almost got Jim Hurtubise, too.

Hurtubise got out of the hospital just in time to run another racer into the wall here, eventually winding up in a Novi.

That's the breed of man that will be providing the thrills to a nation bending toward radios, leaning forward on theater seats or gathering among some 250,000 in deafening confusion.

Besides drivers, though, this event also takes a heavy toll in machinery.

Only a dozen cars were running at the end last year. Seven were wiped out in the big accident and two others were called in by nervous crews.

After MacDonald was killed, Long Beach's Mickey Thompson didn't want Eddie Johnson taking any chances in a similar car. Dan Gurney's Lotus was parked after bad tires caused Jimmy Clark's wheel to fall off.

The mechanical mortality rate figures to be even higher this time. There are the 17 Fords, with a new overhead cam design, then the questionable new Goodyears on a dozen cars, all thrown onto rear-engine chassis faster but flimsier than the sturdy old roadsters.

Some are compromising with Offies mounted in the stern and Firestone treads on the track, but only two veterans, Newport Beach's Chuck Stevenson and Ohio's Johnson, cling completely to the old line — Offy, Firestone, roadster.

Oddly, two rookies, Arnold Knepper and Gordon Johncock, also will be riding the dinosaurs, starting their Indy careers in a breed that is about to become extinct.

So this could even be the year for the venerable old Novis, which for a quarter-century have been fast enough, noisy enough but not reliable enough. Now it appears the opposition is no more reliable than they.

With this particular 33-car field, only one thing remains certain: A lot of them won't be around at the end.

49ers Honor Track, Baseball Squads

Long Beach State will honor its baseball and track teams this week at separate banquets in the college cafeteria.

An awards dinner for coach Bob Wuesthoff's baseball club will be held Tuesday night at 7:30 while Jack Rose's track and field team will be toasted Wednesday, also at 7:30.

COLISEUM MEET

Snell Heads Flock of Olympians Next Week

Twenty-two Olympic Games medal winners, including a half-dozen foreign stars, have accepted bids to the Compton Invitational Friday night in the Coliseum.

Each of the importations figured to run 1-2.

Peter Snell, winner of two gold medals at Tokyo, has a rematch with Josef Odlozil of Czechoslovakia in the mile. Odlozil finished second to Snell in the Olympic metric mile.

Ron Clarke of Australia, owner of world records at three and six miles and 5,000 and 10,000 meters, will be challenged by Neville Scott of New Zealand in the 5,000.

LUDWIG DANEK of Czechoslovakia, world discus record holder at 211-9½, faces former world record holder Jay Silvester of Utah.

Bill Crothers of Canada, silver medalist behind Snell in the Tokyo 800, will be favored over 880 yards.

Tickets are on sale at Music City Lakewood.

Ascot '500' Lures Top-Notch Field

By BRUCE YOUNG

The normal peace and tranquility which engulfs Ascot Park during the week will be abruptly shattered today as this spacious race track located at 173rd and Vermont offers its answer to the Indianapolis 500—the Ascot "500."

The "500" stands for laps, not miles, as Ascot racing director Johnnie Parsons has lined up a star-studded field of championship stock car drivers in his version of Indy. Parsons won the 1950 race.

Today more than 33 late model stock cars will battle for over $10,000 in prize money at Ascot in the 250-mile classic. The big race itself is set for 7 tonight with time trials, trophy dash and two heat races at 2:30.

* * * *

THE RICH purse offered has lured the cream of the NASCAR drivers crops with champions from around the nation flocking to Ascot for today's race.

One of the top names in the field and one of the co-favorites is the 1964 Pacific Coast NASCAR late model stock car champion from San Fernando, Ron Hornaday. Hornaday has had his problems this year with his Ford Fastback and will be at the wheel of a 1964 Mercury today.

Humiston's Hit in Ninth Decisive, 2-1

Lucky Humiston slapped a one-out double in the ninth inning, scoring two runs to give Lakewood a 2-1 win over Gardena in a Western Softball Congress game at Gardena Saturday night.

Humiston's clutch hit made George Pearson the winning pitcher over Art Bunge, who hurled for Lakewood last year and had his former mates blanked on one eighth-inning single before the final frame.

Lakewood's record now is 4-5 as compared to Gardena's 7-3.

STATE TITLE NEXT?

Coach Labels Poly Champs 'Greatest Team I've Had'

By DOUG IVES

Lee Forman, who has coached Poly High's track team for 19 years, branded his 1964 CIF title-winning team "the most outstanding group I've ever had."

On the basis of the smashing win over two-time defending champion Muir Friday night, Forman added, "It takes quite an effort to score 30 points . . . this team is the greatest ever." The final score was 30-20.

The veteran coach was liberal passing out bouquets. "This triumph should be shared by many people, from the school superintendent on down to the gardener on the field . . . it was a win for the whole of Long Beach."

Forman had special praise for assistant coaches Ed Rice and Chuck Bash.

This weekend in Bakersfield the Rabbits attempt to defend their state title and Forman thinks "we've got a good chance to win it but Castlemont of Oakland probably is the team to beat."

Poly will have eight entries, one of the largest single - school representations ever. No Rabbit is favored to win, however, not even Manuel Murrell in the low hurdles. Two No. Calif. youths have run 18.5 and 18.6.

Millikan Bee coach Bucky Harris admited his heart was in his throat when his team dropped the baton in the 660 relay and almost lost the title, which was finally secured late in the evening on Kim Proctor's third-place finish in the pole vault.

The Rams scored 16½ points to 15 for Compton, which may narrow the deficit to one-half point after the 100-yard dash films are shown.

* * * *

CINDER-AMA: No fifth place was picked in the Bee 100 and it may go to Compton's Dave Mode; however, Millikan's Greg Ward may get a second instead of a third in the 220 if films bear out what observers thought they saw . . . Forman is certain his team won the 880 relay and so did everybody in press row . . . The movies, to be shown Tuesday or Wednesday, also could change the order of finish in the 120-high hurdles and decide second place in the 880 involving Al Nichols . . . Nichols' 1:52.3 was four-tenths better than his best of last year, not equalling his best as was announced in Saturday's story . . . His mark, plus the 53-½ by shotputter John Hubbell are Poly school records . . . Hubbell and relay runner Billy Williams are juniors, as are Millikan's Ward, Ed Ricke (660) and Stan Elzak (relay) . . . CIF officers played a big part in Millikan's winning when they placed Jim Antenore back in the 660 even though he didn't qualify in the semis; Antenore finished second . . .

BYU on Cage Tour

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Brigham Young University basketball team will leave next week on a goodwill tour that will take them to nine Latin American countries.

KIALOA VS. COLUMBIA

Calif. Cup Race Next Week

California Yacht Club will host its third California Cup Race featuring a special match series between John B. Kilroy's 73-foot aluminum hull, "Kialoa II," and Thomas Patrick Dugan's Americas Cup 12-meter, "Columbia," June 5 and 6.

The three-heat match series will take the big ocean racers over a special 16-mile course starting off the Marina del Rey jetty at Santa Monica.

One race is scheduled Saturday, June 5 at 1 p.m. and two heats are slated Sunday, June 6, beginning at noon.

* * * *

KILROY WILL skipper his own boat while the 1958 Americas Cup winner, "Columbia," will be skippered by Jerry Driscoll of San Diego Yacht Club. "Kialoa" sails out of Newport Harbor YC and "Columbia" out of Bahia Corinthian YC at Newport Beach.

Spectator boats for the match series will be taking passengers both days from the Sheraton Marina Hotel at Playa del Rey.

Once Over Lightly

Indy Machines Are Never 'Ready'

It was Parnelli Jones who best summed up the feelings along Gasoline Alley at Indianapolis last year on the eve of the annual 500-mile Speedway classic.

"A car is never really ready," Parnelli, winner of the 1963 race, declared. "I mean, you work and work on it and you hope it's ready. It may sound wonderful and it may drive beautifully, but all the time you're wondering, 'is it really ready?'"

It's a question all the drivers and mechanics are still asking themselves when the order "Gentlemen, start your engines" is heard.

PARNELLI JONES
'Wonder All the Time'

They know that a 5-cent part can knock a $40,000 machine out of the race; in fact, that often has meant the difference between victory and defeat.

There are really "two races" in this year's event—one between the new breed rear-engine cars and the old-style front-engined machines, and the other between the Ford power and Offenhauser reliability.

Outside of two Novis, 17 of the cars will be powered by the new Ford V-8 engines while 14 will go with Offenhausers.

However, although the race has never been won by a car with the engine in the rear, only four will be racing Monday with engoing up front. All are Offies and will be driven by Chuck Stevenson, Gordon Johncock, Arnold Knepper and Eddie Johnson.

The switch to rear engines began in earnest this year when A. J. Foyt, winner of the 1964 classic in a traditional Offenhauser, decided that it was time to put a Ford engine in the rear of his special. Parnelli Jones and J. C. Agajanian followed suit . . . as did Al Dean of Dean Van Lines, among others.

Last year, Ford loaned eight of its revolutionary engines to selected owners for use in the "500." This time, owners are being allowed to purchase the power plants for the first time. Asking price is $15,000, and some 50 engines were built, although only 17 will go in the race.

A NEW ERA at the famed speedway began in 1963 with the introduction of the first Lotus-Ford, which finished second to Parnelli.

Dan Gurney, who will be sitting on the outside of the front row Monday, was the one who suggested and arranged for the alliance between Ford and Colin Chapman, designer and builder of Lotus grand prix racing cars and head man of Team Lotus Ltd., a familiar name on every race course in the world.

Ford wanted someone to build a car that would use its engines to beat the Offenhausers, which have dominated the Indianapolis race. And Chapman came up with the rear-engined car. The enormity of his influence is obvious.

The other rear-engine machines are all featherweight jobs that are close relatives to Chapman's trim Lotuses.

LAST YEAR, THE LOTUS-FORDS appeared as if they might run away and hide from the Offies in the early going before mechanical failures began knocking them out and set up the race for Foyt.

However, a Ford was second for the second straight year. A Ford engine mounted on the rear of an A. J. Watson chassis and driven by Rodger Ward might have even won it all but for five pit stops. Two of them, which were totally unnecessary, it was revealed later, cost Ward over a lap (2½ miles).

The big question, of course, is whether the Ford engines can stretch their tremendous zip over 500 miles. Ford engineers believe their new engine will be successful.

It was to have been introduced last year, but experimentation on it was temporarily suspended when Ford's push-rod engine met performance objectives.

The new engine abandons the push rod system in favor of overhead cams and can develop 420 horsepower compared to 376 by the former model.

BOB VEITH, one of those driving a rear-engine Offy (he's on the inside of the fourth row), believes that while the Fords will be setting the early pace, the Offenhausers will be looming up at the end when it counts.

"Not over four Fords appear to be set up to go the distance at racing speed . . . and I'm not even sure about them. The beauty of the Offenhauser is that it's built to go all day," he says.

However, he feels that a rear-engine car will win it. "They're definitely here to stay," Bob stated earlier this week.

"The trip was worth it," declared Robert Jones (47.4), Anthony Gates (46.2), Everett Mason (46.0) and Olympian Theron Lewis (44.9) after equalling Arizona's world mile relay record of 3:04.5, in the last event of the evening.

Athlete of the meet honors went to Boston in the open division and Fred Kuller of Santa Ana, who scored 22½ points, for the jaycee champion Dons.

In another big surprise, 17-year-old Flowers Jr., a high school speedster from Montgomery, Ala., upset a field of veterans to win the 120-yard high hurdles in 13.9 seconds.

Dave Shirley (47.5), Don Cook (21.2), Jim Richardson (21.6) and Ralph Lee (1:49.4) gave the 49er Track Club of Long Beach a victory in the sprint medley with a time of 3:19.3.

In individual competition former Fresno star, Charles Craig, competing for the 49er TC, finished third in the triple jump with a 50-2¾ and 880 man Dave Mellady was fourth in 1:53.2. An 880 relay team from the Long Beach team was fourth in 1:29.0.

Inboards Roar at Marine Today

A record Memorial Day field of inboard raceboats and a probable record crowd is presaged for the Belmont Shore Lions Club's 17th regatta and aquashow this afternoon on Marine Stadium.

Racing is slated to start at 1 with the 20-minute aquashow intermission, featuring parakiter Bob Snyder, at 2:45.

However, loaded entry lists in at least two fleets, the hot SK racing runabouts and the 280-cubic inch hydroplanes, will demand an hour for eliminations, starting at noon. Marine Stadium safety rules prohibit more than eight race boats on the water at one time.

Allan Ford of Concord, driving Al Silva's Giz Mo of Hayward, is 280 defender and will go in as favorite.

By contrast, Tony Sigalos, with Coffee Break of Anaheim, faces a rough afternoon in the two SK heats. The defender's rivals enlist the national champion, Tony Maricich, San Pedro with Suddenly; former titlist Don Towle with Haf Gast Too, Los Angeles and Leroy Penhall, Anaheim, whose Sizzler may well get the nod.

Berryessa marathon winner, Lou Brummett, Miss Mandella; Big Ed Olsen, Cream Puff IX; Al Gundstrom, Jiffy and new threat Ladd Penfold with Hullin' Ice of Irwindale, are also potential SK winners.

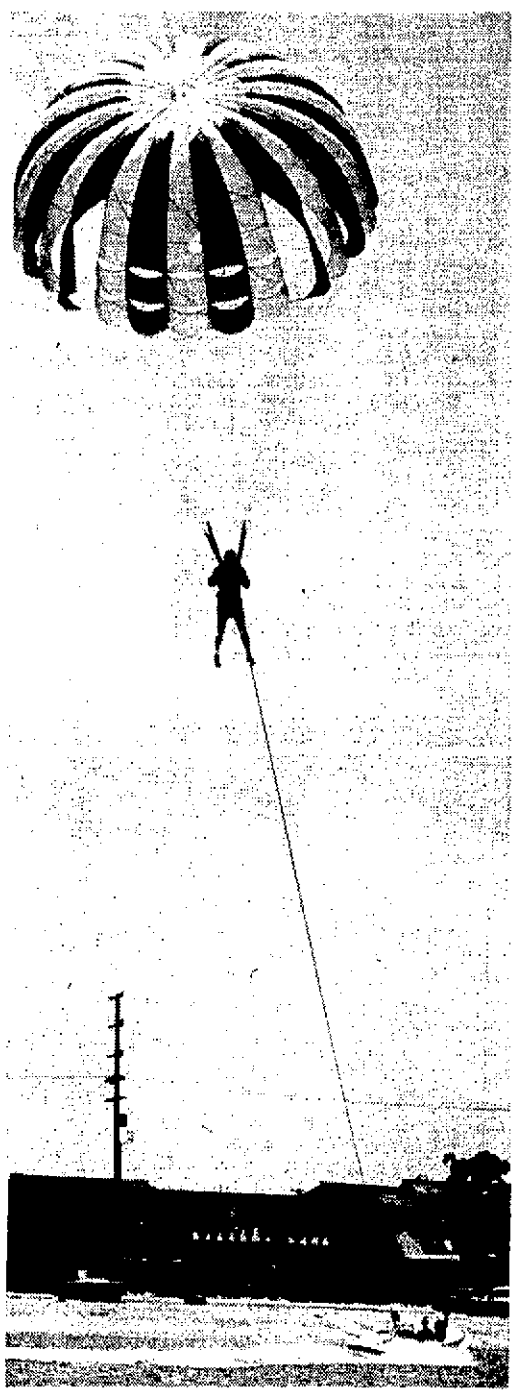

Penhall, Ford, Roger Stull and Bob Ellis are among drivers who will tool boats in two classes.

In the mid-race aqua feature, Snyder will try for a 180-foot parachute altitude record, towing behind Fred Amsbry's new Wild Cat.

A four-boat slalom race for tiny Sea Sprite hydrokarts will be handled by John Wilson. Regatta coqueens, Marsha McDermid (Miss Hydroplane) and Sylvia Pimenal (Miss Runabout) will also be presented.

The big "if" fleet today, and one which might steal the show, is the new, probationary SS, or Super Stock runabout class better known as the Modest Man's SK. Eight have entered.

Racing will be conducted under the new "Jett System" (devised by Dr. James Jett) by the Southern California Speedboat Club.

UP IN THE AIR SO BLUE

Bob Snyder, Long Beach para-kiter, may have it all over (180 feet over, that is) the 70 inboard racers churning Marine Stadium waters this afternoon when he tries for altitude record.

Killingsworth Hurls 2-Hitter, Fans 15

Larry Killingsworth of Samuel Thomas Post took up where he left off in high school Saturday as he pitched a two-hit, 2-0 victory over Shua in a Harbor League American Legion baseball opener at Millikan.

In other games, Allen Hoops pitched Flyers to a 3-1 win over Peterson on an eight-hitter at Blair Field in a doubleheader which saw Alamitos Bay topple Wilmington, 6-3, in the second game behind the pitching of Jim Lynch and Tom Miller.

Killingsworth, who fanned 131 batters for Jordan this past season, struck out 15 Saturday and had a no-hitter until one out in the eighth when Dave O'Toole beat out a bunt.

Both Samuel Thomas runs were unearned off Jeff Davis, who threw a seven-hitter. Dennis Parks and Walt Weller each had two hits for the winners.

Mustangs Win in 'Mack Play; Salta in Romp

Mike Baker and Bobby Gordon combined on a three-hitter Saturday night as Mel Burns' Mustangs routed the Long Beach Colts, 8-0, in a Connie Mack League baseball game at Blair Field.

Walt Weller and Dennis Parks, who played in a legion game at Blair earlier in the day and collected two hits apiece, came back with another pair apiece to pace the winners. Tom Turk also had two hits.

The Mustangs take on the powerful Los Altos Shoppers at 5 p.m. today at Blair.

In a non-league nightcap, Mike Salta Pontiac whipped the Los Altos Shoppers, 6-0. Pat Cashman, with a two-run triple, and Nyal Leslie and Paul Tippin, each with two hits, paced the winners.

lyzed, and several others have been on borrowed time since blindly circumventing the flames in which Dave McDonald and Eddie Sachs lost their lives.

That accident was the worst of several fiery crashes on the '64 racing circuit that claimed hotfooted Bobby Marshman and almost got Jim Hurtubise, too.

Hurtubise got out of the hospital just in time to run another racer into the wall here, eventually winding up in a Novi.

That's the breed of man that will be providing the thrills to a nation bending toward radios, leaning forward on theater seats or gathering among some 250,000 in deafening confusion.

Besides drivers, though, this event also takes a heavy toll in machinery.

Only a dozen cars were running at the end last year. Seven were wiped out in the big accident and two others were called in by nervous crews.

After MacDonald was killed, Long Beach's Mickey Thompson didn't want Eddie Johnson taking any chances in a similar car. Dan Gurney's Lotus was parked after bad tires caused Jimmy Clark's wheel to fall off.

The mechanical mortality rate figures to be even higher this time. There are the 17 Fords, with a new overhead cam design, then the questionable new Goodyears on a dozen cars, all thrown onto rear-engine chassis faster but flimsier than the sturdy old roadsters.

Some are compromising with Offies mounted in the stern and Firestone treads on the track, but only two veterans, Newport Beach's Chuck Stevenson and Ohio's Johnson, cling completely to the old line — Offy, Firestone, roadster.

Oddly, two rookies, Arnold Knepper and Gordon Johncock, also will be riding the dinosaurs, starting their Indy careers in a breed that is about to become extinct.

So this could even be the year for the venerable old Novis, which for a quarter-century have been fast enough, noisy enough but not reliable enough. Now it appears the opposition is no more reliable than they.

With this particular 33-car field, only one thing remains certain: A lot of them won't be around at the end.

COLISEUM MEET

Snell Heads Flock of Olympians Next Week

Twenty-two Olympic Games medal winners, including a half-dozen foreign stars, have accepted bids to the Compton Invitational Friday night in the Coliseum.

Each of the importations figured to run 1-2.

Peter Snell, winner of two gold medals at Tokyo, has a rematch with Josef Odlozil of Czechoslovakia in the mile. Odlozil finished second to Snell in the Olympic metric mile.

Ron Clarke of Australia, owner of world records at three and six miles and 5,000 and 10,000 meters, will be challenged by Neville Scott of New Zealand in the 5,000.

LUDWIG DANEK of Czechoslovakia, world discus record holder at 211-9½, faces former world record holder, Jay Silvester of Utah.

Bill Crothers of Canada, silver medalist behind Snell in the Tokyo 800, will be favored over 880 yards.

Tickets are on sale at Music City Lakewood.

Ascot '500' Lures Top-Notch Field

By BRUCE YOUNG

The normal peace and tranquility which engulfs Ascot Park during the week will be abruptly shattered today as this spacious race track located at 173rd and Vermont offers its answer to the Indianapolis 500—the Ascot "500."

The "500" stands for laps, not miles, as Ascot racing director Johnnie Parsons has lined up a star-studded field of championship stock car drivers in his version of Indy. Parsons won the 1950 race.

Today more than 33 late model stock cars will battle for over $10,000 in prize money at Ascot in the 250-mile classic. The big race itself is set for 7 tonight with time trials, trophy dash and two heat races at 2:30.

* * * *

THE RICH purse offered has lured the cream of the NASCAR drivers crops with champions from around the nation flocking to Ascot for today's race.

One of the top names in the field and one of the co-favorites is the 1964 Pacific Coast NASCAR late model stock car champion from San Fernando, Ron Hornaday. Hornaday has had his problems this year with his Ford Fastback and will be at the wheel of a 1964 Mercury today.

Humiston's Hit in Ninth Decisive, 2-1

Lucky Humiston slapped a one-out double in the ninth inning, scoring two runs to give Lakewood a 2-1 win over Gardena in a Western Softball Congress game at Gardena Saturday night.

Humiston's clutch hit made George Pearson the winning pitcher over Art Bunge, who hurled for Lakewood last year and had his former mates blanked on one eighth-inning single before the final frame.

Lakewood's record now is 4-5 as compared to Gardena's 7-3.

STATE TITLE NEXT?

Coach Labels Poly Champs 'Greatest Team I've Had'

By DOUG IVES

Lee Forman, who has coached Poly High's track team for 19 years, branded his 1964 CIF title-winning team "the most outstanding group I've ever had."

On the basis of the smashing win over two-time defending champion Muir Friday night, Forman added, "It takes quite an effort to score 30 points . . . this team is the greatest ever." The final score was 30-20.

The veteran coach was liberal passing out bouquets. "This triumph should be shared by many people, from the school superintendent on down to the gardener on the field . . . it was a win for the whole of Long Beach."

Forman had special praise for assistant coaches Ed Rice and Chuck Bash.

This weekend in Bakersfield the Rabbits attempt to defend their state title and Forman thinks "we've got a good chance to win it but Castlemont of Oakland probably is the team to beat."

Poly will have eight entries, one of the largest single - school representations ever. No Rabbit is favored to win, however, not even Manuel Murrell in the low hurdles. Two No. Calif. youths have run 18.5 and 18.6.

Millikan Bee coach Bucky Harris admitted his heart was in his throat when his team dropped the baton in the 660 relay and almost lost the title, which was finally secured late in the evening on Kim Proctor's third-place finish in the pole vault.

The Rams scored 16½ points to 15 for Compton, which may narrow the deficit to one-half point after the 100-yard dash films are shown.

* * * *

CINDER-AMA: No fifth place was picked in the Bee 100 and it may go to Compton's Dave Mode; however, Millikan's Greg Ward may get a second instead of a third in the 220 if films bear out what observers thought they saw . . . Forman is certain his team won the 880 relay and so did everybody in press row . . . The movies, to be shown Tuesday or Wednesday, also could change the order of finish in the 120-high hurdles and decide second place in the 880 involving Al Nichols . . . Nichols' 1:52.3 was four-tenths better than his best of last year, not equalling his best as was announced in Saturday's story . . . His mark, plus the 63-½ by shotputter John Hubbell are Poly school records . . . Hubbell and relay runner Billy Williams are juniors, as are Millikan's Ward, Ed Ricke (660) and Stan Elzak (relay) . . . CIF officers played a big part in Millikan's winning when they placed Jim Antenore back in the 660 even though he didn't qualify in the semis; Antenore finished second . . .

KIALOA VS. COLUMBIA

Calif. Cup Race Next Week

California Yacht Club will host its third California Cup Race featuring a special match series between John B. Kilroy's 73-foot aluminum hull, "Kialoa II," and Thomas Patrick Dugan's Americas Cup 12-meter, "Columbia," June 5 and 6.

The three-heat match series will take the big ocean racers over a special 16-mile course starting off the Marina del Rey jetty at Santa Monica.

One race is scheduled Saturday, June 5 at 1 p.m. and two heats are slated Sunday, June 6, beginning at noon.

* * * *

KILROY WILL skipper his own boat while the 1958 Americas Cup winner, "Columbia," will be skippered by Jerry Driscoll of San Diego Yacht Club. "Kialoa" sails out of Newport Harbor YC and "Columbia" out of Bahia Corinthian YC at Newport Beach.

Spectator boats for the match series will be taking passengers both days from the Sheraton Marina Hotel at Playa del Rey.

Fishin' Around

Fishin' Around for Donnell Culpepper, Who Is On Vacation

A bill sponsored by commercial fishing interests which threatens the very existence of the million-dollar Long Beach Harbor sportfishing industry has been pushed through committee and this week is likely to reach the floor of the Assembly.

Under the sponsorship of Assemblyman Vincent Thomas of San Pedro, who long has championed the cause of the canneries and commercial fishermen as opposed to sportfishing interests, Bill 2756 has cleared committee and has a green light toward passage. It would permit commercial fishermen to take 150,000 tons of anchovies a year to be rendered for fertilizer and by-products.

At the same time, the commercial fishing interests have succeeded in killing in the Senate a bill which would have placed control of the anchovy fishery in the hands of the State Fish and Game Commission.

The sportfishing interests in the Long Beach-Los Angeles harbor are not organized to fight this battle, as are the commercial fishing people. Last year they sat on their hands while a bill was passed and sent to the governor permitting commercial fishing in Catalina Island water. Too late, a campaign was launched to persuade the governor to veto the bill; it was enacted.

THE SAME THING can happen here. Without lobbyists, the sportfishermen can depend only on letters—a deluge of them—to their assemblymen and senators at Sacramento warning of the dangers of this legislation. And there are many:

First, the 150,000 tons is only a foot in the door. No major cannery is set up to handle anchovy rendering at present, and this catch would not be a big enough inducement to install necessary equipment. The inference is that a much bigger harvest is anticipated later.

Second, there is no provision for enforcement. Even the present limitations on commercial fishing cannot be enforced because of a lack of boats and personnel. There is no way to be sure how many anchovies would be taken or where they would be netted.

Third, the sportfishing industry cannot spare a single ton of its bait resources. One only has to remember what has happened to the great schools of sardines that used to be in this area to envision the southern coast without its anchovies. There are no sardines. And the big schools of 20-30-pound white sea bass that used to be here aren't here now, either. Take away the anchovies and you can forget halibut, barracuda and albacore fishing, too.

Fourth, there is no control over this legislation, except in the Legislature itself. The bill provides for licensing of the anchovy fishermen by the Fish and Game—but it provides the license SHALL BE ISSUED, and on a basis of so many tons of fish to so big a boat. The Fish and Game Department has no option on whether or not to grant the license. The three-mile barrier against commercial fishing would be broken, and the loss might never be repaired.

THE LEGISLATIVE maneuvering is interesting here. Thomas is anxious to keep commercial fishing in Catalina waters—there is a bill in the Legislature to repeal this, and it stands a fair chance of passage, given a little support from sportfishermen. It is Assembly Bill 2098, sponsored by Robert Badham, Costa Mesa.

In order to protect the commercials against this measure, and to promote the anchovy measure, there was tossed into the hopper a plan that approached the ridiculous, to let the trawlers have almost unlimited fishing in costal water five days a week and give the sportfishermen a shot at what was left on weekends. Not even Assemblyman Thomas seriously thought this bill had a chance, but it might be used for bargaining to influence Assembly votes for the anchovy measure or against the Catalina bill.

It's this sort of bargaining that makes the anchovy bill a serious threat. Thomas introduced as marine scientists a battery of witnesses who testified the anchovy fishery could stand exploitation to this extent. Testifying for the sportfishermen was Walter Shannon, director of the Fish and Game Commission, whose arguments were rejected.

Long Beach Assemblyman George Deukmejian voted no, on the losing side. He needs support when the measure reaches the floor, and letters to him and to Assemblyman Joe Kennick, who is not on the committee but will take part in the final voting, will help.

The Badham bill comes before the Conservation and Wildlife Committee Thursday, so it's just about deadline for any letters you want to write to get the commercials away from Catalina. The measure has 30 co-sponsors in the Assembly, so it's given a good chance, and the Ocean Fish Protective Association is engaged in a vigorous campaign in its behalf.

It would bar all island waters, within three miles, to commercial fishing except for lobsters and abalone. It's well worth your support. Letters in this cause should be addressed to Pauline Davis, chairman, Conservation and Wildlife Committee, Assembly Chambers, Sacramento.

Crampton in 2-Shot Lead

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Australian Bruce Crampton, seeking to become the PGA's first triple winner this year, slammed a four-under-par 67 to surge into the 54-hole lead of the $87,000 Speedway Festival Open Saturday.

Crampton's three-round total of 208 moved him two strokes ahead of a trio including Dan Sikes, Miller Barber and Lionel Hebert, all of whom shot third-round 70s and 210.

Greentree's par 35-36—71 becalmed course played much easier after two days of wind and soggy greens had frustrated a field shooting for top money of $15,200.

Crampton, 29, handsome son of a Sydney police officer, fashioned his fine round despite a double bogey six on the 465-yard third hole.

He turned the first nine in 34 and then really went to work on the back nine, scoring birdies successively on the 12th and 13th and another on the 15th.

Crampton, who previously this year won the Bing Crosby and Colonial National, currently ranks fifth in the PGA money winning list with official earings of almost $28,000.

* * * *

ONLY two other players, leading money winner Jack Nicklaus and Doug Sanders, have matched Crampton as a double winner this year.

Nicklaus skipped this tourney and Sanders quit in the first round because of an injured thumb.

FAVORED GOLFERS WIN

Post Defies Odds in City Tourney

By JOHN CASH

It was not a day for upsets in the first round of the 41st Long Beach City Golf Championship at Recreation Park Saturday, but a 16-year-old Westminster High student turned the tables on the odds makers.

Charlie Post, a slender junior playing in the final foursome off the tee, battled L. A. Young neck-and-neck for 24 holes before winning the sudden-death match with a par. It was the only extra-hole match all day.

Action continues today at 8:06 a.m. when 32 players renew their assault on the Rec. Park fairways. The third-round, also scheduled for today, will begin at approximately 1:30 p.m.

Post, the only high school player to qualify, was in tree trouble on three of the six overtime holes, but he repeatedly hooked, faded and finessed his irons on target.

Aside from Post's marathon, the form chart was very accurate. Only second-low qualifier Alan Butt was an upset victim. Former Long Beach State star Dave Elder polished off the Rancho wizard, 4 and 3.

DEFENDING champion Bill McCormick scrambled to a 2 and 1 win over Roger Troutman, despite a double bogey six on the 13th where he spent more time in the traps than Sonny Liston did on his feet last Tuesday.

"I played 11 holes like a golfer," said McCormick. "The others I looked like I never touched a golf club before."

Medalist Kemp Richardson won easily over Lloyd Petty, 4 and 3, as did his father, John, a 4 and 3 winner over Troy Wright.

FIRST ROUND
Upper Bracket

Kemp Richardson def. Lloyd Petty, 4-3; John Nichols def. Tom Hickman, 4-2; Howard Coleman def. Dave Larson, 2-1; Jim Kline def. John Clarke, 6-4.

Stolle's Days as Runnerup Finally End

Billie Jean Gains Split in Finals of British Doubles

Compiled From Wire Reports

Fred Stolle, who seemed doomed to a career of being a perpetual runnerup, won his first major championship Saturday by defeating Tony Roche in the all-Australian men's singles final of the French tennis tournament at Paris.

Stolle, 26, recovered from a shaky start to defeat Roche 3-6, 6-0, 6-2, 6-3, Stolle twice has been a finalist at Wimbledon, twice in Australia, once in the United States, and once in Italy without ever before being able to break into the winner's circle.

Margaret Smith and Lesley Turner won their way to the final of the women's singles to make it also an all-Australian affair. Miss Smith and Miss Turner then combined to defeat Francoise Durr and Janine Leiffrig of France in the women's doubles final, 6-3, 6-1.

* * * *

AT SURBITON, England, Jan-Erik Lundquist of Sweden won the men's singles title of the Surrey tennis championships with a 9-7, 6-3 victory over British Davis Cupper Roger Taylor.

Billie Jean Moffitt and Roy Maud of South Africa won the mixed-doubles title by a 6-2, 6-8, 10-8 score over Judy Tegart and T. Ryan of South Africa.

A Bentley-Tegart duo captured the women's doubles crown by beating a Moffitt-Truman tandem, 6-4, 10-8.

PROS 'PLAY' THE NATION ON 'GOLF DAY'

LIGONIER, Pa. (UPI)—It will be Ken Venturi and Bobby Nichols against the entire country Monday in the 14th annual National Golf Day.

Venturi, National Open champion, and Nichols, PGA champion, will square off in a medal match at Laurel Valley Country Club with the winner getting $10,000 and the loser $5,000.

Weekend golfers across the country will have to beat the winner's score, in relation to par and allowing for handicaps.

Par at Laurel Valley, site of this year's PGA championships, is 71.

Arnold Palmer, Laurel Valley's touring pro, will serve as referee, or, if Venturi has to bow out, Palmer may replace him.

Mann Slips Past Wright Leads Open

BEAUMONT, Tex. (UPI)—Steady shooting Carol Mann caught and passed queen of the lady golf professionals, Mickey Wright, Saturday with rounds of 73-67 to open up a two-stroke lead in the $8,500 Babe Zaharias Open with a 140 total.

The lady pros played 36-holes because Friday's opening round of the 54-hole tournament was rained out.

Miss Mann's total was even par for the par 36-34—70 Bayou Din Golf Club course which plays at 6,251 yards.

"I just love to play 36 holes," said Miss Mann of Towsun, Md. "I feel I have five shots on the field when I can play twice in one day."

American Trio in French Golf

PARIS (AP) — Three Americans gained the quarter-finals of the French amateur golf championship Saturday but 13 others were eliminated in the second and third rounds.

Dick Chapman of Palm Beach, Fla., winner of the French title in 1939 and 1952; John Miles of New York, and Lawrence Wallden, now living in Geneva, were the Americans who survived Saturday's two rounds of play.

Quarter-finals and semifinals will be played today, with the 36-hole final Monday.

Cleveland, Marino Tie in Sweepstakes

Howard Cleveland and Dr. Charles Marino shot 67s to tie for low net honors in Saturday's Virginia Sweepstakes Tournament.

Rams' Star on the Rise

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

To Speak or Not to Speak . . .

By AL LARSON

Signs of the Times . . . Will astronaut Edward White take a fix on Aries the Ram when he ventures into space next Thursday during his Gemini 4 Flight?

Even if White should lose his bearings on his big orbital leap, the L.A. Rams' football star is on the rise. Take it from Chuck Benedict, who tries to satisfy Joe Fan's request to see and meet his favorite players during their off-season speaking engagements.

MEADOR

"We've had a big increase in requests for boys to appear at functions this year compared to a year ago.

"Our rookies, such as Bill Munson, Les Josephson, Bruce Gossett and Bucky Pope have helped stir up greater interest. People just seem to be talking about us more," Benedict said.

The Ram official, more or less the club's senior historian during the past eight years, points out that the players in greatest demand are the co-captains Eddie Meador and Frank Varrichione, Danny Villanueva (since traded to Dallas), Lindon Crow, Merlin Olsen, Lamar Lundy and Joe Wendryhoski.

"Danny was always popular, and the most versatile," said Benedict. "He spoke two languages. Since Danny grew up along the border he was especially inspiring to youth groups.

"To give you an idea how far some of our boys have traveled, Danny can't forget the time he accepted an invitation in Eiko, Nev., a year ago last winter.

* * * *

"HE CAUGHT a flight, but because of a snow storm his plane landed in Utah. Danny said he stood out in zero weather to flag down a bus plowing along the highway bound for Elko.

"Once he got there he didn't let the group down. Not only did he give a speech, but he conducted a clinic outdoors—as soon as a hulldozer cleared the snow.

"But the minute Danny got home he didn't waste any time calling the Ram office to say, 'Can you send me to a place to thaw out? Are there any requests from Palm Springs?' "

Another yardstick to gauge whether the Rams are headed back toward their heyday years in the mid and late 50s, is in attendance.

Last year the club averaged 54,907 for seven home league dates, a jump of 23% over 1963. In 1963 Harland Svare's troops attracted 42,303 or roughly 12,000 less per game. It's fantastic when you draw 54,000 while finishing fifth in the league with a 5-8-1 record.

The Rams' low-water mark came in 1962 when they dipped to an average of 41,572 customers.

While Mr. White is stepping out of his capsule and thinking about hooking up with the burned-out Titan 2 second-stage rocket, football fans are starting to plot upcoming rendezvous in the Coliseum. The first get-together is exactly 11 weeks away.

Japan's Volleyball Champs Play Tonight

Japan's women's national volleyball champions, who combined tremendous fielding and a dazzling power attack during their drive to the 1964 Olympic championship, will play the Long Beach Shamrocks tonight at Long Beach City College's men's gym at 7:30.

The Japanese girls also will stage an open practice scrimmage this afternoon in the LBCC gym from 2-4.

The Shamrocks retained their national title at Omaha recently and will be augmented by four members of the second place South Bay Triumphs and two players from the Santa Monica Renegades who finished third.

Six members of the U.S. Olympic team, Linda Murphy, Sharon Peterson, Mary Jo Teppler, Jane Ward, Patty Bright and Gayl O'Rourke, will be on the squad opposing the Japanese gals. Dick Hammer is coaching the Shamrocks.

Laver, Gonzales Storm to Semis

SAN RAFAEL (AP)—The top four seeded players advanced Saturday to the semi-finals of the first Peacock Gap International professional tennis tournament.

No. 1 seeded Rod Laver of Australia turned back Ecuador's Pancho Segura, 6-4, 6-3.

Pancho Gonzales of Los Angeles defeated Butch Buchholz of St. Louis, 7-5, 6-1.

Today, Laver meets Spain's Andres Gimeno and Gonzales takes on Australia's Ken Rosewall in semifinal matches.

Fishin' Around for Donnell Culpepper, Who Is On Vacation

A bill sponsored by commercial fishing interests which threatens the very existence of the million-dollar Long Beach Harbor sportfishing industry has been pushed through committee and this week is likely to reach the floor of the Assembly.

Under the sponsorship of Assemblyman Vincent Thomas of San Pedro, who long has championed the cause of the canneries and commercial fishermen as opposed to sportfishing interests, Bill 2756 has cleared committee and has a green light toward passage. It would permit commercial fishermen to take 150,000 tons of anchovies a year to be rendered for fertilizer and by-products.

At the same time, the commercial fishing interests have succeeded in killing in the Senate a bill which would have placed control of the anchovy fishery in the hands of the State Fish and Game Commission.

The sportfishing interests in the Long Beach-Los Angeles harbor are not organized to fight this battle, as are the commercial fishing people. Last year they sat on their hands while a bill was passed and sent to the governor permitting commercial fishing in Catalina Island water. Too late, a campaign was launched to persuade the governor to veto the bill; it was enacted.

THE SAME THING can happen here. Without lobbyists, the sportfishermen can depend only on letters—a deluge of them—to their assemblymen and senators at Sacramento warning of the dangers of this legislation. And there are many:

First, the 150,000 tons is only a foot in the door. No major cannery is set up to handle anchovy rendering at present, and this catch would not be a big enough inducement to install necessary equipment. The inference is that a much bigger harvest is anticipated later.

Second, there is no provision for enforcement. Even the present limitations on commercial fishing cannot be enforced because of a lack of boats and personnel. There is no way to be sure how many anchovies would be taken or where they would be netted.

Third, the sportfishing industry cannot spare a single ton of its bait resources. One only has to remember what has happened to the great schools of sardines that used to be in this area to envision the southern coast without its anchovies. There are no sardines. And the big schools of 20-30-pound white sea bass that used to be here aren't here now, either. Take away the anchovies and you can forget halibut, barracuda and albacore fishing, too.

Fourth, there is no control over this legislation, except in the Legislature itself. The bill provides for licensing of the anchovy fishermen by the Fish and Game—but it provides the license SHALL BE ISSUED, and on a basis of so many tons of fish to so big a boat. The Fish and Game Department has no option on whether or not to grant the license. The three-mile barrier against commercial fishing would be broken, and the loss might never be repaired.

THE LEGISLATIVE maneuvering is interesting here. Thomas is anxious to keep commercial fishing in Catalina waters—there is a bill in the Legislature to repeal this, and it stands a fair chance of passage, given a little support from sportfishermen. It is Assembly Bill 2098, sponsored by Robert Badham, Costa Mesa.

In order to protect the commercials against this measure, and to promote the anchovy measure, there was tossed into the hopper a plan that approached the ridiculous, to let the trawlers have almost unlimited fishing in costal water five days a week and give the sportfishermen a shot at what was left on weekends. Not even Assemblyman Thomas seriously thought this bill had a chance, but it might be used for bargaining to influence Assembly votes for the anchovy measure or against the Catalina bill.

It's this sort of bargaining that makes the anchovy bill a serious threat. Thomas introduced as marine scientists a battery of witnesses who testified the anchovy fishery could stand exploitation to this extent. Testifying for the sportfishermen was Walter Shannon, director of the Fish and Game Commission, whose arguments were rejected.

Long Beach Assemblyman George Deukmejian voted no, on the losing side. He needs support when the measure reaches the floor, and letters to him and to Assemblyman Joe Kennick, who is not on the committee but will take part in the final voting, will help.

The Badham bill comes before the Conservation and Wildlife Committee Thursday, so it's just about deadline for any letters you want to write to get the commercials away from Catalina. The measure has 30 co-sponsors in the Assembly, so it's given a good chance, and the Ocean Fish Protective Association is engaged in a vigorous campaign in its behalf.

It would bar all island waters, within three miles, to commercial fishing except for lobsters and abalone. It's well worth your support. Letters in this cause should be addressed to Pauline Davis, chairman, Conservation and Wildlife Committee, Assembly Chambers, Sacramento.

Crampton in 2-Shot Lead

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Australian Bruce Crampton, seeking to become the PGA's first triple winner this year, slammed a four-under-par 67 to surge into the 54-hole lead of the $87,000 Speedway Festival Open Saturday.

Crampton's three-round total of 208 moved him two strokes ahead of a trio including Dan Sikes, Miller Barber and Lionel Hebert, all of whom shot third-round 70s and 210.

Greentree's par 35-36—71 becalmed course played much easier after two days of wind and soggy greens had frustrated a field shooting for top money of $15,200.

Crampton, 29, handsome son of a Sydney police officer, fashioned his fine round despite a double bogey six on the 465-yard third hole.

He turned the first nine in 34 and then really went to work on the back nine, scoring birdies successively on the 12th and 13th and another on the 15th.

Crampton, who previously this year won the Bing Crosby and Colonial National, currently ranks fifth in the PGA money winning list with official earings of almost $28,000.

* * * *

ONLY two other players, leading money winner Jack Nicklaus and Doug Sanders, have matched Crampton as a double winner this year.

Nicklaus skipped this tourney and Sanders quit in the first round because of an injured thumb.

FAVORED GOLFERS WIN

Post Defies Odds in City Tourney

By JOHN CASH

It was not a day for upsets in the first round of the 41st Long Beach City Golf Championship at Recreation Park Saturday, but a 16-year-old Westminster High student turned the tables on the odds makers.

Charlie Post, a slender junior playing in the final foursome off the tee, battled L. A. Young neck-and-neck for 24 holes before winning the sudden-death match with a par. It was the only extra-hole match all day.

Action continues today at 8:06 a.m. when 32 players renew their assault on the Rec. Park fairways. The third-round, also scheduled for today, will begin at approximately 1:30 p.m.

Post, the only high school player to qualify, was in tree trouble on three of the six overtime holes, but he repeatedly hooked, faded and finessed his irons on target.

Aside from Post's marathon, the form chart was very accurate. Only second-low qualifier Alan Butt was an upset victim. Former Long Beach State star Dave Elder polished off the Rancho wizard, 4 and 3.

DEFENDING champion Bill McCormick scrambled to a 2 and 1 win over Roger Troutman, despite a double bogey six on the 13th where he spent more time in the traps than Sonny Liston did on his feet last Tuesday.

"I played 11 holes like a golfer," said McCormick. "The others I looked like I never touched a golf club before."

Medalist Kemp Richardson won easily over Lloyd Petty, 4 and 3, as did his father, John, a 4 and 3 winner over Troy Wright.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

To Speak or Not to Speak . . .

By AL LARSON

Signs of the Times . . . Will astronaut Edward White take a fix on Aries the Ram when he ventures into space next Thursday during his Gemini 4 Flight?

Even if White should lose his bearings on his big orbital leap, the L.A. Rams' football star is on the rise. Take it from Chuck Benedict, who tries to satisfy Joe Fan's request to see and meet his favorite players during their off-season speaking engagements.

MEADOR

"We've had a big increase in requests for boys to appear at functions this year compared to a year ago.

"Our rookies, such as Bill Munson, Les Josephson, Bruce Gossett and Bucky Pope have helped stir up greater interest. People just seem to be talking about us more," Benedict said.

The Ram official, more or less the club's senior historian during the past eight years, points out that the players in greatest demand are the co-captains Eddie Meador and Frank Varrichione, Danny Villanueva (since traded to Dallas), Lindon Crow, Merlin Olsen, Bobby Smith, David Jones, Lamar Lundy and Joe Wendryhoski.

"Danny was always popular, and the most versatile," said Benedict. "He spoke two languages. Since Danny grew up along the border he was especially inspiring to youth groups.

"To give you an idea how far some of our boys have traveled, Danny can't forget the time he accepted an invitation in Elko, Nev., a year ago last winter.

* * * *

"HE CAUGHT a flight, but because of a snow storm his plane landed in Utah. Danny said he stood out in zero weather to flag down a bus plowing along the highway bound for Elko.

"Once he got there he didn't let the group down. Not only did he give a speech, but he conducted a clinic outdoors—as soon as a bulldozer cleared the snow.

"But the minute Danny got home he didn't waste any time calling the Ram office to say, 'Can you send me to a place to thaw out? Are there any requests from Palm Springs?' "

Another yardstick to gauge whether the Rams are headed back toward their heyday years in the mid and late 50s, is in attendance.

Last year the club averaged 54,907 for seven home league dates, a jump of 23% over 1963. In 1963 Harland Svare's troops attracted 42,303 or roughly 12,000 less per game. It's fantastic when you draw 54,000 while finishing fifth in the league with a 5-8-1 record.

The Rams' low-water mark came in 1962 when they dipped to an average of 41,572 customers.

While Mr. White is stepping out of his capsule and thinking about hooking up with the burned-out Titan 2 second-stage rocket, football fans are starting to plot upcoming rendezvous in the Coliseum. The first get-together is exactly 11 weeks away.

Stolle's Days as Runnerup Finally End

Billie Jean Gains Split in Finals of British Doubles

Compiled From Wire Reports

Fred Stolle, who seemed doomed to a career of being a perpetual runnerup, won his first major championship Saturday by defeating Tony Roche in the all-Australian men's singles final of the French tennis tournament at Paris.

Stolle, 26, recovered from a shaky start to defeat Roche 3-6, 6-0, 6-2, 6-3. Stolle twice has been a finalist at Wimbledon, twice in Australia, once in the United States, and once in Italy without ever before being able to break into the winner's circle.

Margaret Smith and Lesley Turner won their way to the final of the women's singles to make it also an all-Australian affair. Miss Smith and Miss Turner then combined to defeat Francoise Durr and Janine Leiffrig of France in the women's doubles final, 6-3, 6-1.

* * * *

AT SURBITON, England, Jan-Erik Lundquist of Sweden won the men's singles title of the Surrey tennis championships with a 9-7, 6-3 victory over British Davis Cupper Roger Taylor.

Billie Jean Moffitt and Roy Maud of South Africa won the mixed-doubles title by a 6-2, 6-8, 10-8 score over Judy Tegart and T. Ryan of South Africa.

A Bentley-Tegart duo captured the women's doubles crown by beating a Moffitt-Truman tandem, 6-4, 10-8.

PROS 'PLAY' THE NATION ON 'GOLF DAY'

LIGONIER, Pa. (UPI)—It will be Ken Venturi and Bobby Nichols against the entire country Monday in the 14th annual National Golf Day.

Venturi, National Open champion, and Nichols, PGA champion, will square off in a medal match at Laurel Valley Country Club with the winner getting $10,000 and the loser $5,000.

Weekend golfers across the country will have to beat the winner's score, in relation to par and allowing for handicaps.

Par at Laurel Valley, site of this year's PGA championships, is 71.

Arnold Palmer, Laurel Valley's touring pro, will serve as referee, or, if Venturi has to bow out, Palmer may replace him.

Mann Slips Past Wright Leads Open

BEAUMONT, Tex. (UPI)—Steady shooting Carol Mann caught and passed queen of the lady golf professionals, Mickey Wright, Saturday with rounds of 73-67 to open up a two-stroke lead in the $8,500 Babe Zaharias Open with a 140 total.

The lady pros played 36-holes because Friday's opening round of the 54-hole tournament was rained out.

Miss Mann's total was even par for the par 36-34—70 Bayou Din Golf Club course which plays at 6,251 yards.

"I just love to play 36 holes," said Miss Mann of Towson, Md. "I feel I have five shots on the field when I can play twice in one day."

Carol Mann	73-67—140
Clifford Ann Creed	72-70—142

American Trio in French Golf

PARIS (AP) — Three Americans gained the quarter-finals of the French amateur golf championship Saturday but 13 others were eliminated in the second and third rounds.

Dick Chapman of Palm Beach, Fla., winner of the French title in 1939 and 1952; John Miles of New York, and Lawrence Wallden, now living in Geneva, were the Americans who survived Saturday's two rounds of play.

Quarter-finals and semifinals will be played today, with the 36-hole final Monday.

Cleveland, Marino Tie in Sweepstakes

Howard Cleveland and Dr. Charles Marino shot 67s to tie for low net honors in Saturday's Virginia Sweepstakes Tournament.

Class A low net—Howard Cleveland 73-6—67, Dr. Charles Marino 80-13—67. Blind Bogey (73)—Glenn Thomas, Dr. J. C. Ferguson, Howell Walker, Ralph Murray, Earl Grove, Al Davis, Buford Smith, Dr. Richard Johnson. Class B low net—Lauren Conley 87-19—68, Bill Abrams 91-21—70, Cliff Menig 87-17—70, Dr. Milo Ellik 88-16—70. Blind Bogey (74)—Earl Lundrigh, Gordon Shellenberger, Jim Edwards.

Japan's Volleyball Champs Play Tonight

Japan's women's national volleyball champions, who combined tremendous fielding and a dazzling power attack during their drive to the 1964 Olympic championship, will play the Long Beach Shamrocks tonight at Long Beach City College's men's gym at 7:30.

The Japanese girls also will stage an open practice scrimmage this afternoon in the LBCC gym from 2-4.

The Shamrocks retained their national title at Omaha recently and will be augmented by four members of the second place South Bay Triumphs and two players from the Santa Monica Renegades who finished third.

Six members of the U.S. Olympic team, Linda Murphy, Sharon Peterson, Mary Jo Teppler, Jane Ward, Patty Bright and Gayl O'Rourke, will be on the squad opposing the Japanese gals. Dick Hammer is coaching the Shamrocks.

Laver, Gonzales Storm to Semis

SAN RAFAEL (AP)—The top four seeded players advanced Saturday to the semi-finals of the first Peacock Gap International professional tennis tournament.

No. 1 seeded Rod Laver of Australia turned back Ecuador's Pancho Segura, 6-4, 6-3.

Pancho Gonzales of Los Angeles defeated Butch Buchholz of St. Louis, 7-5, 6-1.

Today, Laver meets Spain's Andres Gimeno and Gonzales takes on Australia's Ken Rosewall in semifinal matches.

Red Smith's Views of Sports—

Liston Makes Way for Clay

Cassius Clay sat adoring his own image on the screen in a packed and sweltering meeting room in the Holiday Inn. Along with his lobbygows and the press and the chairman of the Maine Boxing Commission and the entrepreneurs of the travesty presented as a fight for the heavyweight championship of the world, he was watching the kinescope.

All through the pitiful little performance, he whooped and crowed and laughed and cheered himself. "Watch now!" he yelled. "Watch. Wow!"

On the screen Liston had lunged in, throwing a left, and Clay's right hand had moved to meet the jaw, moved just a few inches in a jerky, prodding motion, rather than a measured blow.

It hadn't looked like a great punch Tuesday night in the high school hockey rink where it happened. It couldn't have looked like much in the closed-circuit theaters, or on the TV screens of Europe, when the picture bounced off the Early Bird satellite.

It still didn't look great in the morning on the "kinny," and the rerun in slow motion didn't change anything.

Yet there was Liston on the canvas, floundering and threshing like a beached whale, and there was Clay leaping about the ring in a Comanche war dance of triumph, and there was poor Jersey Joe Walcott, a bewildered referee, running around trying to learn what went on.

Before the film was shown, pointed questions had been asked.

Why had Clay been shouting at Liston to get up, while the old hulk lay on his back?

"I wanted the world to know I wasn't satisfied with him goin' down and stayin' down."

"You weren't satisfied? You mean you thought he might have just decided to stay down?"

"No, why would he do that? You heard 'em yelling, 'Fix, fix, so I just hollered, 'Come on, get up!' People are so hypocritical, always sayin' he's gonna do this, he's gonna do that. They cheered him and booed me and I heard somebody yell, 'Hey, Muhammad, your camel is double-parked.' "

It seems an arrant absurdity to suggest that a man capable of winning the heavyweight championship would elect instead to go in the water, as the happy phrase has it.

It is not inconceivable that an old fighter, realizing he has reached the point of no-return physically, might go for one big payday at the public expense and take the easy way out.

One conclusion remains: that in his first match with Clay 15 months ago, when he quit in his corner, Liston was—as many of us suspected—an old man suddenly grown too old.

"How old do you think Liston is now?" Cassius was asked.

"Fifty-eleven," he said. Then, soberly, "No, I don't make fun of Sonny. He's got nobody with him now."

BULLFIGHTS OPEN SLATE AT TIJUANA

TIJUANA, Mexico—The 1965 bullfight season at the downtown arena of El Toreo de Tijuana gets underway today at 4, featuring two of Mexico's top matadores — Rafael Rodriguez and Jaime Rangel, alternating with the latest ring sensation from Spain, young and daring Agapito (Serranito) Garcia.

Seeking to make the Memorial Day corrida an artisitc as well as a financial success, don Angel Vasquez, the plaza's new manager, obtained six handpicked toros from La Punta, considered the best bull breeding hacienda in Mexico.

"We are determined to offer our Mexican and American aficionados the best in bulls and bullfighters available, in order to make this the greatest toros season ever presented here," the promoter said.

Rodriguez with 23 years as a professional matador and a well known figure hereabouts, will be the senior swordsman.

Rangel, one of the classiest performers of today, was voted the outstanding Mexican matador of the 1964 season in Mexico City.

Cordially Scores in Mother Goose

Compiled From Wire Reports

Cordially, so well regarded that her owner paid a supplementary fee of $7,500 to get her into the race, stuck her noise in front 70 yards from home Saturday and kept it there for a narrow victory in the $97,200 Mother Goose Stakes for 3-year-old fillies at Aqueduct.

Under the last of Braulio Baeza's whip, the daughter of Ambiorix-Be Gracious stepped the sloppy 1⅛ miles in 1:51⅗ to earn $63,180 for Howell E. Jackson. What A Treat was second in the field of 12, beating Up Oars for runner-up honors.

Marshua, the favorite of the New York crowd of 48,447, was the big disappointment, finishing seventh.

Cordially, with one victory and a third to show for three previous starts this year, paid $12.50, $6.60 and $4.40 and Baeza won his eighth stakes of 1965. What A Treat returned $5.90 and $3.80 and Up Oars $4.30.

Gallant Heritage held on to defeat Mr. Pak by a nose in the $32,000 Sheridan Stakes at Chicago's Arlington Park.

The winner, competing in his first stakes race, was timed in 1:09 1/5. He paid $18.40, $9.60 and $7.30. Mr. Pak returned $8 and $5.60. John's Jest paid $9.80.

Baitman, pulling away to a big lead after half a mile, easily won the $24,950 Brandywine Turf Handicap at the opening of Delaware Park.

Baitman paid $13.80, $5.60 and $4.40. Western Warrior paid $3.80 and $2.80 while Lucky Turn paid $4.00.

Favored National splashed to his third straight victory, winning the $27,750 Cherry Hill Handicap at Garden State Park in a four-horse blanket finish.

National paid $4.20, $2.80 and $2.20. Chicot returned $3 and $2.60 while Black Mountain was $2.40 to show.

Hill Rise Out Next Week

Hill Rise, faced with a top weight of 127 pounds, will not run in the $100,000 Californian next Saturday at Hollywood Park, his trainer reported Saturday.

Hill Rise, a candidate for horse of the year, will make another start later in the meeting.

In last week's Los Angeles, won in record-equaling time by Native Diver, Hill Rise was never in serious contention.

PEDRO, ASSASSINS ON AUD RING CARD

Pedro Morales and the two Assassins are the headliners this week at the Municipal Auditorium wrestling matches and a six-man tag bout is the feature.

They'll be on opposite sides Tuesday on a card that also includes the appearance of the Mad Butcher.

AZURE TE--

Te when he captured the Debonair Stakes and won the Los Angeles Handicap a week ago with Native Diver.

For Campas, the triumph was his first added-money win of the season as he filled in for suspended Jerry Lambert. And it helped atone for a heart-breaking loss suffered aboard Azure Te in a division of the $100,000-added Hollywood Juvenile Championship last summer when the colt was a two-year-old.

"Buster reminded me in the paddock that we lost the race last year when I went to rappin' on the colt with my whip," the round-faced reinsman said, "and so today I didn't use it and everything worked out okay.

"I did shake it at him when we got to the eighth pole. He heard the crowd noise and tried to pull himself up and look to see what was going on.

Campas said that Azure Te, a Shapiro-bred son of Nashville-Blue One, might have endangered the world's mark if he hadn't heard the crowd of 55,592, biggest of the meeting, which sent up a roar as favored Emphil's Lodge moved up to menace the pace-maker.

Red Smith's Views of Sports—

Liston Makes Way for Clay

Cassius Clay sat adoring his own image on the screen in a packed and sweltering meeting room in the Holiday Inn. Along with his lobbygows and the press and the chairman of the Maine Boxing Commission and the entrepreneurs of the travesty presented as a fight for the heavyweight championship of the world, he was watching the kinescope.

All through the pitiful little performance, he whooped and crowed and laughed and cheered himself. "Watch now!" he yelled. "Watch, Wow!"

On the screen Liston had lunged in, throwing a left, and Clay's right hand had moved to meet the jaw, moved just a few inches in a jerky, prodding motion, rather than a measured blow.

It hadn't looked like a great punch Tuesday night in the high school hockey rink where it happened. It couldn't have looked like much in the closed-circuit theaters, or on the TV screens of Europe, when the picture bounced off the Early Bird satellite.

It still didn't look great in the morning on the "kinny," and the rerun in slow motion didn't change anything.

Yet there was Liston on the canvas, floundering and threshing like a beached whale, and there was Clay leaping about the ring in a Comanche war dance of triumph, and there was poor Jersey Joe Walcott, a bewildered referee, running around trying to learn what went on.

Before the film was shown, pointed questions had been asked.

Why had Clay been shouting at Liston to get up, while the old hulk lay on his back?

"I wanted the world to know I wasn't satisfied with him goin' down and stayin' down."

"You weren't satisfied? You mean you thought he might have just decided to stay down?"

"No, why would he do that? You heard 'em yelling, 'Fix, fix, so I just hollered, 'Come on, get up!' People are so hypocritical, always sayin' he's gonna do this, he's gonna do that. They cheered him and booed me and I heard somebody yell, 'Hey, Muhammad, your camel is double-parked.'"

It seems an arrant absurdity to suggest that a man capable of winning the heavyweight championship would elect instead to go in the water, as the happy phrase has it.

It is not inconceivable that an old fighter, realizing he has reached the point of no-return physically, might go for one big payday at the public expense and take the easy way out.

One conclusion remains: that in his first match with Clay 15 months ago, when he quit in his corner, Liston was—as many of us suspected—an old man suddenly grown too old.

"How old do you think Liston is now?" Cassius was asked.

"Fifty-eleven," he said. Then, soberly, "No, I don't make fun of Sonny. He's got nobody with him now."

BULLFIGHTS OPEN SLATE AT TIJUANA

TIJUANA, Mexico—The 1965 bullfight season at the downtown arena of El Toreo de Tijuana gets underway today at 4, featuring two of Mexico's top matadores — Rafael Rodriguez and Jaime Rangel, alternating with the latest ring sensation from Spain, young and daring Agapito (Serranito) Garcia.

Seeking to make the Memorial Day corrida an artisitc as well as a financial success, don Angel Vasquez, the plaza's new manager, obtained six handpicked toros from La Punta, considered the best bull breeding hacienda in Mexico.

"We are determined to offer our Mexican and American aficionados the best in bulls and bullfighters available, in order to make this the greatest toros season ever presented here," the promoter said.

Rodriguez with 23 years as a professional matador and a well known figure hereabouts, will be the senior swordsman.

Rangel, one of the classiest performers of today, was voted the outstanding Mexican matador of the 1964 season in Mexico City.

Cordially Scores in Mother Goose

Compiled From Wire Reports

Cordially, so well regarded that her owner paid a supplementary fee of $7,500 to get her into the race, stuck her noise in front 70 yards from home Saturday and kept it there for a narrow victory in the $97,200 Mother Goose Stakes for 3-year-old fillies at Aqueduct.

Under the last of Braulio Baeza's whip, the daughter of Ambiorix-Be Gracious stepped the sloppy 1⅛ miles in 1:51⅗ to earn $63,180 for Howell E. Jackson. What A Treat was second in the field of 12, beating Up Oars for runner-up honors.

Marshua, the favorite of the New York crowd of 48,447, was the big disappointment, finishing seventh.

Cordially, with one victory and a third to show for three previous starts this year, paid $12.50, $6.60 and $4.40 and Baeza won his eighth stakes of 1965. What A Treat returned $5.90 and $3.80 and Up Oars $4.30.

Gallant Heritage held on to defeat Mr. Pak by a nose in the $32,000 Sheridan Stakes at Chicago's Arlington Park.

The winner, competing in his first stakes race, was timed in 1:09 1/5. He paid $18.40, $9.60 and $7.80. Mr. Pak returned $8 and $5.60. John's Jest paid $9.80.

Baitman, pulling away to a big lead after half a mile, easily won the $24,950 Brandywine Turf Handicap at the opening of Delaware Park.

Baitman paid $13.80, $5.60 and $4.40. Western Warrior paid $3.80 and $2.80 while Lucky Turn paid $4.00.

Favored National splashed to his third straight victory, winning the $27,750 Cherry Hill Handicap at Garden State Park in a four-horse blanket finish.

National paid $4.20, $2.80 and $2.20. Chicot returned $3 and $2.60 while Black Mountain was $2.40 to show.

Hill Rise Out Next Week

Hill Rise, faced with a top weight of 127 pounds, will not run in the $100,000 Californian next Saturday at Hollywood Park, his trainer reported Saturday.

Hill Rise, a candidate for horse of the year, will make another start later in the meeting.

In last week's Los Angeles, won in record-equaling time by Native Diver, Hill Rise was never in serious contention.

PEDRO, ASSASSINS ON AUD RING CARD

Pedro Morales and the two Assassins are the headliners this week at the Municipal Auditorium wrestling matches and a six-man tag bout is the feature.

They'll be on opposite sides Tuesday on a card that also includes the appearance of the Mad Butcher.

State Soccer Title at Stake

The Kickers-Victoria soccer club opens defense of its state championship and the historic 61-year-old California Cup against San Francisco's Greek Americans Sunday at Rancho Cienega Stadium. Kickoff is at 2:30.

Second and final game of the total goal series will be played Monday at Balboa Stadium, San Francisco.

Games are being played on successive days to make room for the international soccer classic in the Coliseum next Sunday between Nottingham Forest of Britain and Hanover '96 of West Germany.

AZURE TE--

Te when he captured the Debonair Stakes and won the Los Angeles Handicap a week ago with Native Diver.

For Campas, the triumph was his first added-money win of the season as he filled in for suspended Jerry Lambert. And it helped atone for a heart-breaking loss suffered aboard Azure Te in a division of the $100,000-added Hollywood Juvenile Championship last summer when the colt was a two-year-old.

"Buster reminded me in the paddock that we lost the race last year when I went to rappin' on the colt with my whip," the round-faced reinsman said, "and so today I didn't use it and everything worked out okay.

"I did shake it at him when we got to the eighth pole. He heard the crowd noise and tried to pull himself up and look to see what was going on.

Campas said that Azure Te, a Shapiro-bred son of Nashville-Blue One, might have endangered the world's mark if he hadn't heard the crowd of 55,592, biggest of the meeting, which sent up a roar as favored Emphil's Lodge moved up to menace the pace-maker.

INTEGRITY RULES—1965
MR. JOHN Q.

By BEN H. BLAND
General Sales Manager

Q. Where is the best place to buy a car?
A. From a Dealer that lets integrity rule his business. For example: There are many fantastic claims being offered in advertising today. No one can do the impossible. So watch for the following pitfalls:

1. No Down Payments
2. ABC—H-O-P-E—XYZ Payment Plan
3. The Invoice Price Sale
4. The $39.00 Down Payment on New Cars
5. Running or not, your old car is worth $1,000.00.

There are many more ways of telling you about the fantastic deal of something for nothing. But, the right place to buy a car is from a Dealer that will show—tell and sell his services.
We at Harbor Chevrolet offer you a free ride throughout our entire plant in a mobile shopper, just to say we have outstanding service. See you soon.

INTEGRITY RULES—1965
MR. JOHN Q.
By BEN H. BLAND
General Sales Manager

Q. Where is the best place to buy a car?
A. From a Dealer that lets integrity rule his business. For example: There are many fantastic claims being offered in advertising today. No one can do the impossible. So watch for the following pitfalls:

1. No Down Payments
2. ABC—H-O-P-E—XYZ Payment Plan
3. The Invoice Price Sale
4. The $39.00 Down Payment on New Cars
5. Running or not, your old car is worth $1,000.00.

There are many more ways of telling you about the fantastic deal of something for nothing. But, the right place to buy a car is from a Dealer that will show—tell and sell his services.
We at Harbor Chevrolet offer you a free ride throughout our entire plant in a mobile shopper, just to say we have outstanding service. See you soon.

In Memoriam to those who have gone but are not forgotten

MEMORIAL DAY

In memory of ALFREDO ANCHETA, who passed away March 11, 1965.
You're not forgotten father, dear,
Nor ever shall you be;
As long as life and memory last
We shall remember thee.
Mrs. Julie Ancheta & Family

—o—

RALPH C. ARNOLD
Just a thought of sweet remembrance,
Just a memory sad and true,
Just the love and sweet devotion,
Of those who think of you.
His wife, Veta Arnold & Family

—o—

CAPTAIN CHARLES G. COCHRANE
The world changes year to year,
And friends from day to day,
But never will the one I loved
From memory pass away.
His loving wife, Mary Cochrane

—o—

IN MEMORY of Don J. CRANDALL. Your blessed memory comforts those you left behind.
Mrs. Margaret Crandall & Family

—o—

In memory of OTTO H. CRONACHER, who passed away May 26, 1964.
Just a token of love's devotion
That our hearts still long for you.
Sadly missed by his wife, Anna K. Cronacher; his sister, Addie Lult; his brother, Garfield Cronacher.

—o—

In memory of CHARLES M. FORREST, who passed away March 12, 1963.
Days we knew with you
Are just a memory.
Just a memory, that is all that is left to us.
Happiness, I guess, is just a memory.
In our dreams it seems your face is near to us.
And it's dear to us though its just a memory.
Mrs. Frances Forrest, Mrs. Carol Jackson, Mr. Charles W. Forrest.

—o—

In Loving Memory of
EDWARD E. GRIFFITHS
We cannot Lord, Thy purpose see,
But all is well that's done by Thee.
Sadly missed by his wife Helen

—o—

In memory of MARTHA A. GIBSON and ERNEST T. GIBSON.
Because God knew your work was o'er,
Your children taught and grown.
He called you both to come and dwell,
Where no more work is done;
Where the golden sun doth never set,
And the sky's forever blue;
It's there, we hope in God's good time,
Dear Parents, to be with you.
Erma Draper and Family
Helen Murphy and Family
Perle Weaver and Family
Earl J. Gibson and Family

—o—

In memory of BONNIE SUE HARRIS.
Though the days of our babe were so meager
And the days she's been sleeping, so many
The memories we stored while we had her
Are so precious we'll ne'er forget any Daddy, Mama and Annette

—o—

In memory of ELIZABETH MARY HOWES who passed away Mar. 21, 1963.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true,
There is not a day dear mother,
That we do not think of you.
Sadly missed by daughter Viola Mae Smittle.

—o—

JOHN B. JONES
Just a thought of sweet remembrance,
Just a memory sad and true,
Just the love and sweet devotion,
Of one who thinks of you.
His loving wife Martha A. Jones

—o—

MRS. MAURINE KING
Til memory fades and life departs
You live forever in our hearts
Bernard King, Sr. and Family

—o—

IN MEMORY of GERTRUDE MANN, who passed away April 23, 1965. God rest your beautiful soul, Gertie.
Your cherished memory still lives in our hearts.
Alvin Mann; Gertrude Dolot and Helen Diederich

—o—

In memory of our dearly beloved son, JAMES R. MANSON, who passed away May 31, 1958 at the age of 28.
Though you are gone from us dear Jimmie;
In our hearts you linger still;
No one knows how much we miss you;
No one ever, ever will.
Sadly missed by Mother & Dad

—o—

In memory of DAVID B. MARTI
He concealed his sorrows
And shared his love.
His devoted wife, Margaret Marti and Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Marti; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bryce; Jack Marti.

—o—

In memory of NORA J. MASON, who passed away April 1, 1949.
Time may heal the broken heart.
Time may make the wound less sore.
But time can never stop the longing
For the loved one gone before.
Marvin and Marie Mason

—o—

In memory of IKE H. MEANS
Just a token of love's devotion
That our hearts still long for you.
Charlotte L. Means, Forrest R. Means and Hinda Keith.

MRS. MAUDIE MENDENHALL
None knew her but to love her,
None named her but in praise.
Her husband, Joseph Mendenhall.

—o—

In memory of LEONARD G. MILLER who passed away March 30, 1964.
The years may wipe out many things
But this they'll wipe out never,
The memory of those happy days
Which we have spent together.
Wife, Maxine Miller; daughters, Audrey Bess, Darlene Lewis; granddaughters, Debbie, Kathy and Cindy Bess.

—o—

GEORGE W. MILLS
OCT. 21, 1924 - APRIL 24, 1945
IN GRATEFUL MEMORY
Louise A. and Earl Van Buskirk
Frances A. Alford

—o—

In memory of EVA L. McCLINTICK who passed away Sept. 25, 1964.
The depths of sorrow we cannot tell,
Of the loss of one we loved so well,
And while she sleeps a peaceful sleep,
Her memory we shall always keep. Fred McClintick, Kenneth McClintick, Dora Sacco, Phyllis Hirschi, Merle West & Jack Illingworth.

CHARLES LYMAN PAGE
Where eternal suns are shining,
And skies are ever blue;
We pray your soul is resting,
Till we may come to you.
Mrs. CHARLES L. PAGE AND DEVOTED FAMILY

—o—

IN MEMORY of our beloved son and brother, RUSSELL, who passed away July 12, 1955.
Mr. and Mrs. ROBB; Larry Robb and Doris Piper.

—— AL ROSE ——
The world sees but our smiling faces, Thus maybe thinks you've been forgot; But you can look deep in our hearts. And see the scars that prove you're not. Devoted Wife and Children: Mrs. Betty Rose, Bill, Mike & Mary Lou.

—o—

In Memory of TOM SANDERS
Just when his days seemed brightest,
Just when his hopes seemed best;
God called him from amongst us,
To his eternal rest.
Sadly missed, but God knows best.
His wife, Virginia and mother.

—o—

In loving Memory of TOM SAWYER who passed away November 27, 1963. Silent days & lonely nights bring many a tear for the loved one who though absent is just as dear. Sadly missed by Twila Ward.

—o—

In Memory of
CHESTER L. SCHADEL
Fondly loved and deeply mourned.
Heart of my heart, I Miss you so.
Adelaide Shadel & Family

—o—

In Memory of BERTHA P. SCOTT, who passed away Jan. 26, 1960.
Today recalls sad memories,
Of a dear mother gone to rest;
And the ones who think of her today,
Are the ones who loved her best.
Marie Mason, Opal Kaufman, Joe Scott.

—o—

In Memory of THOMAS L. SCOTT who passed away Aug. 22, 1965.
Your presence is ever near us,
Your love remains with us yet;
You were the kind of a father,
Your loved ones would never forget.
Marie Mason, Opal Kaufman, Joe Scott.

—o—

In memory of MARIE SHAMP
Love's greatest gift —
Remembrance
Her son and daughter.

ROBERT H. SHORTER
October 2nd, 1960
Death broke the link that bound you to earth;
But it can never sever
The golden knot that our love tied—'twill bind us close forever. Devoted Wife & loving children.

JAN SUTHERLAND
We do not forget her,
We love her too dearly
For her memory to fade
From our lives like a dream.
Our lips need not speak
When our hearts mourn sincerely.
For grief often dwells
Where it seldom is seen.

The Bennetts and the Sutherlands

—o—

Our Beloved Son.
RONALD PAUL TARKINGTON
The crown you wear in Heaven
Was yours when you were seven.

JEANNE WIENSS
Because in her life she was saintly;
Because in her heart she was pure;
Her reward, we are sure, must be Heaven.
And our grief we must try to endure.
IN LOVING MEMORY
Mr. & Mrs. Ray Horner & family

MARGARET ANN WILLIAMS
1865 - 1964
Ever loving, ever true,
To the task God set for you;
Mother dear, He knew 'twas done,
So called you home, our dearest one.
Loving daughter, Margaret Loopeker.

—o—

JIM WILSON — Laid to rest August 14, 1963.
When you took the Lord's stretched-out hand,
You walked that path not alone;
Your gracious memory is our dearest treasure,
For those who are left at home.
Joan & David

Burial Insurance

Persons ages 1 to 80 years are now eligible to register under a plan of burial insurance. Costs only a few cents a day. In time of need, regardless of how little has been paid, the plan pays the face amount as specified. For example, $500 was paid recently on a funeral bill when only $4.58 had been paid.

Issued by an admitted legal reserve insurer. Good anywhere in the world.

Other plans also available. For free information mail coupon today.

Barbie's Long Weekend

Barbie's really enjoying the three day weekend—you should see her tan! But come Tuesday morning she'll be back in the swing of things at Mattel. The buildings are new and modern and the atmosphere inside them, exciting. You've never met a nicer or more interesting group of guys and girls, they're great to work with.

Right now we're looking for several bright young gals to help us get our toys to market. We have a variety of clerical and other job opportunities—some requiring typing, some requiring some shorthand, and some a good numerical aptitude. Chances are if you've had at least six months experience in the business world you can land one of these position.

We offer a fine starting salary and lots of free benefits. Want to learn more? Call:

In Memoriam to those who have gone but are not forgotten

In memory of ALFREDO ANCHETA, who passed away March 11, 1965.
You're not forgotten father, dear,
Nor ever shall you be;
As long as life and memory last
We shall remember thee.
Mrs. Julia Ancheta & Family

RALPH C. ARNOLD
Just a thought of sweet remembrance,
Just a memory sad and true,
Just the love and sweet devotion,
Of those who think of you.
His wife, Veta Arnold & Family
—o—
CAPTAIN CHARLES G. COCHRANE
The world changes year to year,
And friends from day to day,
But never will the one I loved
From memory pass away.
His loving wife, Mary Cochrane
—o—
IN MEMORY of Don J. CRANDALL. Your blessed memory comforts those you left behind.
Mrs. Margaret Crandall & Family
—o—
In memory of OTTO H. CRONACHER, who passed away May 26, 1964.
Just a token of love's devotion
That our hearts still long for you.
Sadly missed by his wife, Anna K. Cronacher; his sister, Addie Lull; his brother, Garfield Cronacher.
—o—
In memory of CHARLES M. FORREST, who passed away March 12, 1963.
Days we knew with you
Are just a memory,
Just a memory, that is all that is left to us.
Happiness, I guess, is just a memory.
In our dreams it seems your face is near to us.
And it's dear to us though its just a memory.
Mrs. Frances Forrest, Mrs. Carol Jackson, Mr. Charles W. Forrest.
—o—
In Loving Memory of
EDWARD E. GRIFFITHS
We cannot Lord, Thy purpose see,
But all is well that's done by Thee.
Sadly missed by his wife Helen
—o—
In memory of MARTHA A. GIBSON and ERNEST T. GIBSON.
Because God knew your work was o'er,
Your children taught and grown,
He called you both to come and dwell,
Where no more work is done;
Where the golden sun doth never set,
And the sky's forever blue;
It's there, we hope in God's good time,
Dear Parents, to be with you.
Erma Draper and Family
Helen Murphy and Family
Perle Weaver and Family
Earl J. Gibson and Family
—o—
In memory of BONNIE SUE HARRIS.
Though the days of our babe were so meager
And the days she's been sleeping, so many
The memories we stored while we had her
Are so precious we'll ne'er forget any Daddy, Mama and Annette
—o—
In memory of ELIZABETH MARY HOWES who passed away Mar. 21, 1963.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true.
There is not a day dear mother,
That we do not think of you.
Sadly missed by daughter Viola Mae Smittie.
—o—
JOHN B. JONES
Just a thought of sweet remembrance,
Just a memory sad and true,
Just the love and sweet devotion,
Of one who thinks of you.
His loving wife Martha A. Jones
—o—
MRS. MAURINE KING
Til memory fades and life departs
You live forever in our hearts
Bernard King, Sr. and Family

Your cherished memory still lives in our hearts.
Alvin Mann; Gertrude Dolot and Helen Diederich
—o—
In memory of our dearly beloved son, JAMES R. MANSON, who passed away May 31, 1958 at the age of 28.
Though you are gone from us dear Jimmie:
In our hearts you linger still:
No one knows how much we miss you:
No one ever, ever will.
Sadly missed by Mother & Dad
—o—
In memory of DAVID B. MARTI
He concealed his sorrows
And shared his joys.
His devoted wife, Margaret Marti and Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Marti; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bryce; Jack Marti
—o—
In memory of NORA J. MASON who passed away April 1, 1949.
Time may heal the broken heart.
Time may make the wound less sore.
But time can never stop the longing
For the loved one gone before.
Marvin and Maria Mason
—o—
In memory of IKE N. MEANS
Just a token of love's devotion
That our hearts still long for you.
Charlotte L. Means, Forrest R. Means and Hinda Keith.

MRS. MAUDIE MENDENHALL
None knew her but to love her,
None named her but in praise.
Her husband, Joseph Mendenhall.
—o—
In memory of LEONARD G. MILLER who passed away March 30, 1964.
The years may wipe out many things
But this they'll wipe out never,
The memory of those happy days
Which we have spent together.
Wife, Maxine Miller; daughters, Audrey Bess, Darlene Lewis; granddaughters, Debbie, Kathy and Cindy Bess.

Frances A. Allord
—o—
In memory of EVA L. McCLINTICK who passed away Sept. 25, 1964.
The depths of sorrow we cannot tell,
Of the loss of one we loved so well,
And while she sleeps a peaceful sleep,
Her memory we shall always keep. Fred McClintick, Kenneth McClintick, Dora Sacco, Phyllis Hirschi, Merle West & Jack Illingworth.
—o—
CHARLES LYMAN PAGE
Where eternal suns are shining,
And skies are ever blue;
We pray your soul is resting,
Till we may come to you.
Mrs. CHARLES L. PAGE AND DEVOTED FAMILY
—o—
IN MEMORY of our beloved son and brother, RUSSELL, who passed away July 12, 1965.
Mr. and Mrs. ROBB; Larry Robb and Doris Piper.
—o—
AL ROSE
The world sees but our smiling faces, Thus maybe thinks you've been forgot; But you can look deep in our hearts, And see the scars that prove you're not.
Devoted Wife and Children: Mrs. Betty Rose, Bill, Mike & Mary Lou.
—o—
In Memory of TOM SANDERS
Just when his days seemed brightest,
Just when his hopes seemed best;
God called him from amongst us,
To his eternal rest,
Sadly missed, but God knows best.
His wife, Virginia and mother.
—o—
In loving Memory of TOM SAWYER who passed away November 27, 1963. Silent days & lonely nights bring many a tear for the loved one who though absent is just as dear.

Fondly loved and deeply mourned,
Heart of my heart. I Miss you so.
Adelaide Shadel & Family
—o—
In Memory of BERTHA P. SCOTT, who passed away Jan. 26, 1960.
Today recalls sad memories,
Of a dear mother gone to rest;
And the ones who think of her today,
Are the ones who loved her best.
Marie Mason, Opal Kaufman, Joe Scott.
—o—
In Memory of THOMAS L. SCOTT who passed away Aug. 22, 1960.
Your presence is ever near us,
Your love remains with us yet;
You were the kind of a father,
Your loved ones would never forget.
Marie Mason, Opal Kaufman, Joe Scott.

In memory of MARIE SHAMP
Love's greatest gift —
Remembrance
Her son and daughter.
—o—
ROBERT H. SHORTER
October 2nd, 1960
Death broke the link that bound you to earth;
But it can never sever
The golden knot that our love tied—'twill bind us close forever. Devoted Wife & loving children.
—o—
JAN SUTHERLAND
We do not forget her,
We love her too dearly
For her memory to fade
From our lives like a dream.
Our lips need not speak
When our hearts mourn sincerely,
For grief often dwells
Where it seldom is seen.

The Bennetts and the Sutherlands
—o—
Our Beloved Son
RONALD PAUL TARKINGTON
The crown you wear in Heaven
Was yours when you were seven.
—o—
JEANNE WIENSS
Because in her life she was saintly;
Because in her heart she was pure;
Her reward, we are sure, must be Heaven.
And our grief we must try to endure.
IN LOVING MEMORY
Mr. & Mrs. Ray Horner & family
—o—
MARGARET ANN WILLIAMS
1865 - 1964
Ever loving, ever true.
To the task God set for you;
Mother dear, He knew 'twas done.
So called you home, our dearest one.
Loving daughter, Margaret Loopeker.
—o—
JIM WILSON — Laid to rest August 14, 1963.
When you took the Lord's stretched-out hand,
You walked that path not alone;
Your precious memory is our dearest treasure.
For those who are left at home.

Burial Insurance

Persons ages 1 to 80 years are now eligible to register under a plan of burial insurance. Costs only a few cents a day. In time of need, regardless of how little has been paid, the plan pays the face amount as specified. For example, $500 was paid recently on a funeral bill when only $4.58 had been paid.

Issued by an admitted legal reserve insurer. Good anywhere in the world.
Other plans also available.
For free information mail coupon today.

Barbie's Long Weekend

Barbie's really enjoying the three day weekend—you should see her tan! But come Tuesday morning she'll be back in the swing of things at Mattel. The buildings are new and modern and the atmosphere inside them, exciting. You've never met a nicer or more interesting group of guys and girls, they're great to work with.

Right now we're looking for several bright young gals to help us get our toys to market. We have a variety of clerical and other job opportunities—some requiring typing, some requiring some shorthand, and some a good numerical aptitude. Chances are if you've had at least six months experience in the business world you can land one of these position.

We offer a fine starting salary and lots of free benefits. Want to learn more? Call:

In Memoriam to those who have gone but are not forgotten

In memory of ALFREDO ANCHETA, who passed away March 11, 1965.
You're not forgotten father, dear,
Nor ever shall you be;
As long as life and memory last
We shall remember thee.
Mrs. Julia Ancheta & Family

—o—

RALPH C. ARNOLD
Just a thought of sweet remembrance,
Just a memory sad and true,
Just the love and sweet devotion,
Of those who think of you.
His wife, Veta Arnold & Family

—o—

CAPTAIN CHARLES G. COCHRANE
The world changes year to year,
And friends from day to day,
But never will the one I loved
From memory pass away.
His loving wife, Mary Cochrane

—o—

IN MEMORY of Don J. CRANDALL. Your blessed memory comforts those you left behind.
Mrs. Margaret Crandall & Family

—o—

In memory of OTTO H. CRONACHER, who passed away May 26, 1964.
Just a token of love's devotion
That our hearts still long for you.
Sadly missed by his wife, Anna K. Cronacher; his sister, Addie Luit; his brother, Garfield Cronacher.

—o—

In memory of CHARLES M. FORREST, who passed away March 12, 1963.
Days we knew with you
Are just a memory.
Just a memory, that is all that is left to us.
Happiness, I guess, is just a memory.
In our dreams it seems your face is near to us.
And it's dear to us though its just a memory.
Mrs. Frances Forrest, Mrs. Carol Jackson, Mr. Charles W. Forrest.

—o—

In Loving Memory of
EDWARD E. GRIFFITHS
We cannot Lord, Thy purpose see,
But all is well that's done by Thee.
Sadly missed by his wife Helen

—o—

In memory of MARTHA A. GIBSON and ERNEST T. GIBSON.
Because God knew your work was o'er,
Your children taught and grown,
He called you both to come and dwell,
Where no more work is done;
Where the golden sun doth never set,
And the sky's forever blue;
It's there, we hope in God's good time,
Dear Parents, to be with you.
Erma Draper and Family
Helen Murphy and Family
Perle Weaver and Family
Earl J. Gibson and Family

—o—

In memory of BONNIE SUE HARRIS.
Though the days of our babe were so meager
And the days she's been sleeping, so many
The memories we stored while we had her
Are so precious we'll ne'er forget any Daddy, Mama and Annette

—o—

In memory of ELIZABETH MARY HOWES who passed away Mar. 21, 1963.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true,
There is not a day dear mother,
That we do not think of you.
Sadly missed by daughter Viola Mae Smittle.

—o—

JOHN B. JONES
Just a thought of sweet remembrance,
Just a memory sad and true,
Just the love and sweet devotion,
Of one who thinks of you.
His loving wife Martha A. Jones

—o—

MRS. MAURINE KING
Til memory fades and life departs
You live forever in our hearts
Bernard King, Sr. and Family

—o—

IN MEMORY of GERTRUDE MANN, who passed away April 23, 1965. God rest your beautiful soul, Gertie.
Your cherished memory still lives in our hearts.
Alvin Mann; Gertrude Dolot and Helen Diederich

—o—

In memory of our dearly beloved son, JAMES R. MANSON, who passed away May 31, 1958 at the age of 28.
Though you are gone from us dear Jimmie:
In our hearts you linger still:
No one knows how much we miss you:
No one ever, ever will.
Sadly missed by Mother & Dad

—o—

In memory of DAVID B. MARTI
He concealed his sorrows
And shared his joys.
His devoted wife, Margaret Marti and Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Marti; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bryce; Jack Marti.

—o—

In memory of NORA J. MASON, who passed away April 1, 1949.
Time may heal the broken heart,
Time may make the wound less sore,
But time can never stop the longing
For the loved one gone before.
Marvin and Marie Mason

—o—

In memory of IKE N. MEANS
Just a token of love's devotion
That our hearts still long for you.
Charlotte L. Means, Forrest R. Means and Hinda Keith.

MRS. MAUDIE MENDENHALL
None knew her but to love her.
None named her but in praise.
Her husband, Joseph Mendenhall.

—o—

In memory of LEONARD G. MILLER who passed away March 30, 1964.
The years may wipe out many things
But this they'll wipe out never,
The memory of those happy days
Which we have spent together.
Wife, Maxine Miller; daughters, Audrey Bess, Darlene Lewis; granddaughters, Debbie, Kathy and Cindy Bess.

—o—

GEORGE W. MILLS
OCT. 21, 1924 - APRIL 24, 1945
IN GRATEFUL MEMORY
Louise A. and Earl Van Buskirk
Frances A. Alford

—o—

In memory of EVA L. McCLINTICK who passed away Sept. 25, 1964.
The depths of sorrow we cannot tell,
Of the loss of one we loved so well,
And while she sleeps a peaceful sleep,
Her memory we shall always keep. Fred McClintick, Kenneth McClintick, Dora Sacco, Phyllis Hirschl, Merle West & Jack Illingworth.

CHARLES LYMAN PAGE
Where eternal suns are shining,
And skies are ever blue;
We pray your soul is resting,
Till we may come to you.
Mrs. CHARLES L. PAGE AND DEVOTED FAMILY

—o—

IN MEMORY of our beloved son and brother, RUSSELL, who passed away July 12, 1965.
Mr. and Mrs. ROBB; Larry Robb and Doris Piper.

—— AL ROSE ——
The world sees but our smiling faces, Thus maybe thinks you've been forgot; But you can look deep in our hearts. And see the scars that prove you're not.
Devoted Wife and Children: Mrs. Betty Rose, Bill, Mike & Mary Lou.

—o—

In Memory of TOM SANDERS
Just when his days seemed brightest,
Just when his hopes seemed best;
God called him from amongst us,
To his eternal rest.
Sadly missed, but God knows best.
His wife, Virginia and mother.

—o—

In loving Memory of TOM SAWYER who passed away November 27, 1963, Silent days & lonely nights bring many a tear for the loved one who though absent is just as dear. Sadly missed by Twila Ward.

—o—

In Memory of
CHESTER L. SCHADEL
Fondly loved and deeply mourned.
Heart of my heart, I Miss you so.
Adelaide Shadel & Family

—o—

In Memory of BERTHA P. SCOTT, who passed away Jan. 26, 1960.
Today recalls sad memories,
Of a dear mother gone to rest;
And the ones who think of her today,
Are the ones who loved her best.
Marie Mason, Opal Kaufman, Joe Scott.

—o—

In Memory of THOMAS L. SCOTT who passed away Aug. 22, 1960.
Your presence is ever near us,
Your love remains with us yet;
You were the kind of a father,
Your loved ones would never forget.
Marie Mason, Opal Kaufman, Joe Scott.

—o—

In memory of MARIE SHAMP
Love's greatest gift —
Remembrance
Her son and daughter.

—o—

ROBERT H. SHORTER
October 2nd, 1960
Death broke the link that bound you to earth;
But it can never sever
The golden knot that our love tied—'twill bind us close forever. Devoted Wife & loving children.

—o—

JAN SUTHERLAND
We do not forget her,
We love her too dearly
For her memory to fade
From our lives like a dream.
Our lips need not speak
When our hearts mourn sincerely,
For grief often dwells
Where it seldom is seen.

The Bennetts and the Sutherlands

—o—

Our Beloved Son,
RONALD PAUL TARKINGTON
The crown you wear in Heaven
Was yours when you were seven.

JEANNE WIENSS
Because in her life she was saintly;
Because in her heart she was pure;
Her reward, we are sure, must be Heaven,
And our grief we must try to endure.
IN LOVING MEMORY
Mr. & Mrs. Ray Horner & family

—o—

MARGARET ANN WILLIAMS
1865 - 1954
Ever loving, ever true,
To the task God set for you;
Mother dear, He knew 'twas done.
So called you home, our dearest one.
Loving daughter, Margaret Loopeker.

—o—

JIM WILSON — Laid to rest August 14, 1963.
When you took the Lord's stretched-out hand.
You walked that path not alone;
Your precious memory is our dearest treasure,
For those who are left at home.
Joan & David

Burial Insurance

Persons ages 1 to 80 years are now eligible to register under a plan of burial insurance. Costs only a few cents a day. In time of need, regardless of how little has been paid, the plan pays the face amount as specified. For example, $500 was paid recently on a funeral bill when only $4.58 had been paid.

Issued by an admitted legal reserve insurer. Good anywhere in the world.

Other plans also available. For free information mail coupon today.

Barbie's Long Weekend

Barbie's really enjoying the three day weekend—you should see her tan! But come Tuesday morning she'll be back in the swing of things at Mattel. The buildings are new and modern and the atmosphere inside them, exciting. You've never met a nicer or more interesting group of guys and girls, they're great to work with.

Right now we're looking for several bright young gals to help us get our toys to market. We have a variety of clerical and other job opportunities—some requiring typing, some requiring some shorthand, and some a good numerical aptitude. Chances are if you've had at least six months experience in the business world you can land one of these position.

We offer a fine starting salary and lots of free benefits. Want to learn more? Call:

PARAMOUNT

Luxury Newlyweds Can Afford?

We mean apartment that has everything already in it to start happy housekeeping, without having to go out and buy a million things.

Well—There is such an apartment. The brand new PARAMOUNT SQUARE Apartment Homes that gladden the hearts of newlyweds and young-marrieds. Attractive, fully furnished apt. suites that make every day living as joyous as a plush honeymoon resort.

Your PARAMOUNT SQUARE apt. is air-conditioned and bountifully furnished. There's a large swimming pool for summertime fun. A recreation room too (with fireplace, kitchen facilities for entertaining, even free coffee).

This is the kind of elegance that only the wealthier set could enjoy until now. But we've brought PARAMOUNT SQUARE rentals down into the price range of all young marrieds. Apartment value like this is worth hurrying right from the altar to see.

PARAMOUNT

Luxury
Newlyweds
Can Afford?

We mean apartment that has everything already in it to start happy housekeeping, without having to go out and buy a million things.

Well—There is such an apartment. The brand new PARAMOUNT SQUARE Apartment Homes that gladden the hearts of newlyweds and young-marrieds. Attractive, fully furnished apt. suites that make every day living as joyous as a plush honeymoon resort.

Your PARAMOUNT SQUARE apt. is air-conditioned and bountifully furnished. There's a large swimming pool for summertime fun. A recreation room too (with fireplace, kitchen facilities for entertaining, even free coffee).

This is the kind of elegance that only the wealthier set could enjoy until now. But we've brought PARAMOUNT SQUARE rentals down into the price range of all young marrieds. Apartment value like this is worth hurrying right from the altar to see.

Your Car . . .

. . . is not only one of the most important single investments of a lifetime; it is a treasured reflection of your WAY OF LIFE. This basic fact is recognized by every used car dealer of good conscience. This concept, held by such a dealer, is a price reason why he is attempting always to be a guide to your selection of the proper car for you. We, as dealers in this association, trust that you may discover the true value of our experience and integrity in making the purchase of a used car a most happy experience.

Your Car . . .

. . . is not only one of the most important single investments of a lifetime; it is a treasured reflection of your WAY OF LIFE. This basic fact is recognized by every used car dealer of good conscience. This concept, held by such a dealer, is a price reason why he is attempting always to be a guide to your selection of the proper car for you. We, as dealers in this association, trust that you may discover the true value of our experience and integrity in making the purchase of a used car a most happy experience.

La Fleur Will Build Plant Just West of Long Beach

By VERN ANTHONY
Progress Section Editor

Development in the Watson Industrial Center area just west of Long Beach has moved another step forward with announcement that the La Fleur Corp., an affiliate of Douglas Aircraft Co., will build a manufacturing plant there.

La Fleur will consolidate its four Los Angeles locations in the Long Beach area, but will retain corporate headquarters in Century City.

The plans were announced at signing of a long-term lease with Watson Land Co., co-owners of the Watson Industrial Center, for a 10-acre site near the Center. The site, owned by the Watson company, is along the east bank of Dominguez Channel, south of Sepulveda Boulevard.

Both La Fleur and Watson were represented by Coldwell, Banker & Co., Realtors.

* * * *

LA FLEUR is engaged in the design, engineering and construction of cryogenic plants and facilities and in the manufacture of related equipment. The company also manufactures and distributes liquified gases (oxygen, helium and nitrogen) to such industries as aerospace, steel and food processing.

The company's new Watson-area facilities will include "the nation's first prototype air-separation plant using the patented La Fleur closed-cycle helium refrigeration system," a spokesman said.

Engineering offices, industrial gas sales headquarters and fabrication shops also will be built. The new facilities will ployes, with space for further expansion.

* * * *

THE COMPANY said the move "is being made to give us room for expansion and put us in an environment with similar types of industry." It was estimated that the move would be made in October.

The lease was signed in the La Fleur corporate offices, in Los Angeles' Century City, by James K. La Fleur, the company's president, and William T. Huston, president of Watson Land.

Watson Land is co-owner, with the Southern Pacific Co., of the 600-acre, $150 million Watson Industrial Center.

PARTICIPATE IN LEASE-SIGNING
La Fleur Corp. has signed lease for acreage near the Watson Industrial Center west of Long Beach for new manufacturing plant. Taking part in signing are (from left) William T. Huston, Watson Land Co. president; John D. O'Donnell, of Coldwell, Banker & Co.; and James K. La Feur, president of leasing company.

Penney's Will Add 2nd Floor

Expansions in two Long Beach area shopping centers calling for nearly $2.5 million in new construction were announced Saturday.

In Los Altos Center, Bellflower Boulevard and Stearns Street, a major expansion at the J. C. Penney Co. store will be launched early in July, Robert P. Graham, vice president of Westgate-California Realty Co., owners of the Center, disclosed.

A buildinig development program for 25 additional acres is Rossmoor Shopping Center, Los Alamitos, was announced by Lakewood Rancho Land Co.

* * * *

JOHN M. BERNARDS, Penney's Los Altos store manager, announced that the existing store, which now contains 28,000 square feet of selling area, will be expanded to have approximately 70,000 square feet, not including special storage facilities.

An entire second floor will be added to the store, in the expansion program. All of the lower level will be turned into a sales floor area, much of which has been used for storage.

Under the construction plans, Penney's storage facilities will be extended under other units in the center. Also, the credit, lay-away and executive offices will be installed in the newly construct areas adjacent to the store on the lower level.

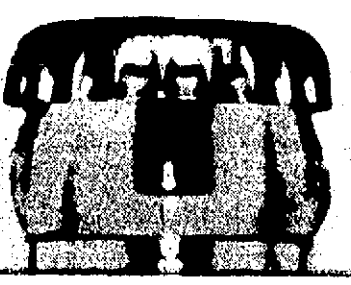

* * * *

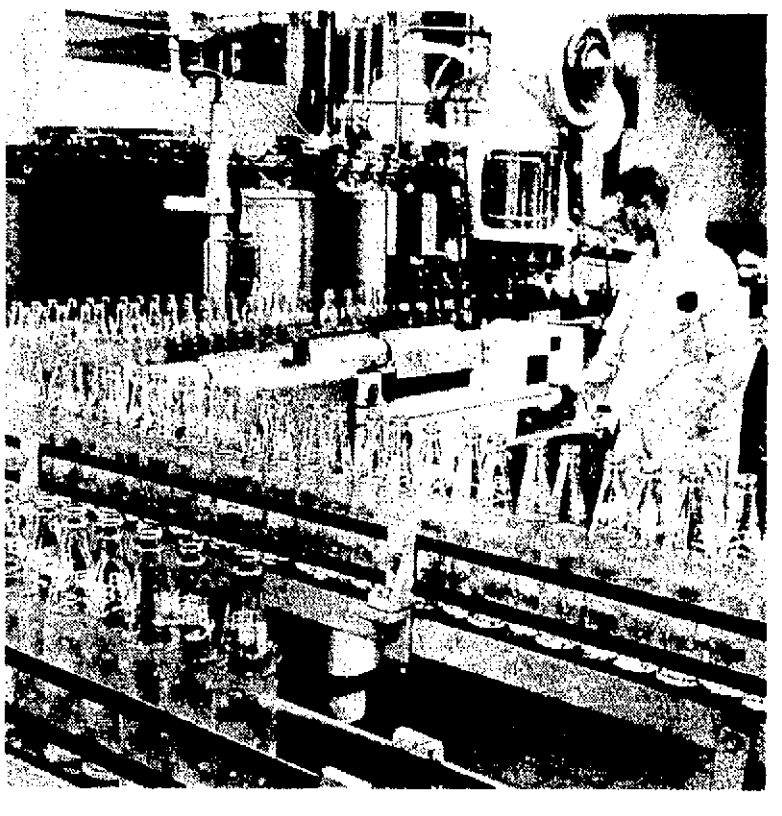

THE STORE will be completely remodeled throughout including new fixtures and lighting for existing areas. Both escalators and a passenger elevator will serve all three floors.

Current construction in Los Altos Center includes the complete rebuilding and refurbishing of U. S. National Bank's branch. This project is slated for completion the first week in July, about the time the Penney work will get under way.

Lynwood Plant Gets 2 Awards

LYNWOOD—Western Gear Corp. was honored recently as recipient of two awards by major companies in the aircraft-aerospace industry for supplying components which met the highest standards of excellence and also met precise requirements of cost reduction.

General Electric Co., Lynn, Mass., Small Aircraft Engine Department, honored Western Gear as its "Vendor of the Month."

E. J. Murray, GE manager of material, made presentation of the award to Thomas J. Bannan, chairman of Western Gear, at the company headquarters, 2600 E. Imperial Highway, Lynwood.

The "Vendor" award, based on standards of quality, delivery and price, was a "first" on the West Coast made by GE to one of its 400 suppliers located in North America and Europe.

* * * *

IN A JOINT CEREMONY at Denver facilities, Martin Company and the Air Force honored Western Gear with the T-10 Award for maintaining perfomance excellence in the fabrication, test and delivery of Titan II Shock Isolation System while reducing costs.

The award was given to B. A. Bannan, Western Gear vice president, for making an outstanding contribution to the Department of Defense Cost Reduction Program.

Dividend Voted

The board of directors of Dominguez Water Corp. recently declared the regular quarterly dividend of 10 cents per share on the 266,241 outstanding shares of common stock, payable June 15 to shareholders of record at the close of business on May 28.

Breakfasts Too Early, So They'll Have Luncheons

SAN PEDRO—Luncheons will replace the regular monthly breakfast meetings for the San Pedro Board of Realtors effective Thursday, June 10, according to Betty Childs, executive secretary.

The next meeting will be at the Tasman Sea Restaurant. Sessions will continue to be on Thursdays, but at different locations, she said.

With meetings at noon instead of early morning, it is expected attendance will improve . . . and give the "sleepy-heads" a break.

Property Transfer Tax Proposal Draws Fire

BELLFLOWER—Ray T. Smith, president of the Bellflower District Board of Realtors, Saturday, described the property transfer tax measure now before the state legislature as "striking at the wellsprings of California's growth by discouraging the sale of real property."

He was referring to a provision in Assembly Bill 2270, the Petris-Unruh omnibus tax "reform" bill which has cleared committee and now is on the floor of the Assembly for consideration.

"This bill authorizes a new burden—a tax on the property owner every time he sells his property," Smith said.

* * * *

"THIS ALSO means," he continued, "that a new industry coming into California, if this tax were applied, would have to pay for the privilege of locating here. The tax will be on the seller, but he certainly will pass it on to the buyer in the selling price."

Smith said the bill provides for a 1% tax on improved property selling for $15,000 to $25,000, 1½% over that figure, the transfer tax on undeveloped land as 1% on the first $25,000, 1½% on the balance. Improved property selling for under $15,000 is exempted, he said.

The measure authorizes county boards of supervisors to impose the tax. "However," Smith added, "the bill also takes away from the local jurisdiction substantial amounts of other tax monies, so that the adoption of such an ordinance throughout the state by boards of supervisors would be almost inevitable."

* * * *

"WE URGE the people of this area," he said, "to write their legislators in Sacramento asking them to oppose such a transfer tax as detrimental to the growth of California."

He contended that the exemption for the first $15,000 is "just window dressing," aimed at eliminating opposition from a large number of small property owners.

Turner Manages New L.B. Gypsum Facility

Mardis B. "Mardy" Turner has assumed duties as manager of the new National Gypsum Co. plant under construction at 1850 W. 8th St., Long Beach.

His appointment was announced recently from Buffalo, N. Y., headquarters by Leonard L. Hank, senior vice president for operations of National Gypsum.

Turner comes from Richmond, Calif., where he opened another new plant in April of 1964. He also managed the company's new Waukegan, Ill., plant when it opened in 1959.

* * * *

WHEN SCHOOL is out next month, Turner's wife, Donna, and children—Linda, 18, Marcia, 16, and Dale, 14—also will move to Long Beach.

National Gypsum currently maintains a warehouse operation at the Long Beach site and expects to complete its plant and start production there in September. This will be one of the largest in National's network of 72 plants. It will produce gypsum wallboard, lath, plaster and joint cement for West Coast construction markets.

Turner started with the company in 1953 as assistant plant manager of the National City, Mich., plant, moving to the company's Shoals, Ind., plant as manager in 1956. He attended the University of Illinois after primary and secondary schools in Argenta, Ill.

* * * *

THE LONG BEACH plant will serve the important Southern California construction markets, Turner said last week. It is the second National Gypsum plant on the West Coast—Richmond being the first. A warehouse is maintained for distribution in Tacoma, Wash.

In 1964, National Gypsum reported sales of $257 million.

New 'Coke' Plant Thirsts for Work

Things are vastly different in Coca-Cola's recently expanded Downey bottling plant than they were way back in Atlanta, Ga., in 1886, when a wholesale druggist first put together a syrup for carbonated drinks.

During his first year of operation, John S. Pemberton put out $46 for advertising and sold 25 gallons of syrup. Last year Coca-Cola put out more than $60 million for advertising and more than four billion gallons of syrup have been sold since Pemberton started his bottling business.

The new $800,000 plant at 11536 S. Patton Road, Downey, is a good example of the expansion of the company operations. Everything in the 20,000 square foot plant is automated.

From the time the empty bottles are wheeled in the back door on pallets until they go out a side door after having been sorted, washed, filled and capped they are continually in machines. Production: 1,200 bottles a minute of Coke, Tab and Bar-B.

John Pemberton certainly would be startled today to see what Coca-Cola hath wrought.

MILLIKAN STUDENT TOP ORATOR

Brian Jones (second from left) of Millikan High School, receives plaque for being top winner among students from 80 Southland high schools in recent speech contest sponsored by the Foreign Trade Association during World Trade Week. His topic was "World Trade—A Two-Way Street to Prosperity." He and students from three other Long Beach schools were honored at a luncheon last week by the Port Ambassadors of Long Beach. Plaques were presented by Ken Austin (right), Port Ambassadors chairman. Others in photo (from left), Dennis Dunn of Jordan High; James Furman of Poly; and Mary Pinola of Wilson. Miss Pinola was fifth over-all winner in the competition. The Millikan winner placed third last year. The four Long Beach students also received gifts from the Long Beach District Board of Realtors. Austin praised the students and expressed hope that local schools would continue cooperation in the speech program. He said the local Ambassadors were especially proud the top winner this year was from Long Beach. The students competed at a luncheon in the Biltmore Bowl, Los Angeles, during World Trade Week.

PENNEY'S LOS ALTOS CENTER STORE TO HAVE MAJOR EXPANSION

Business Districts Expanding

Allen Abramson and Michael Sims as leasing brokers, has been named to complete the Rossmoor Center expansion.

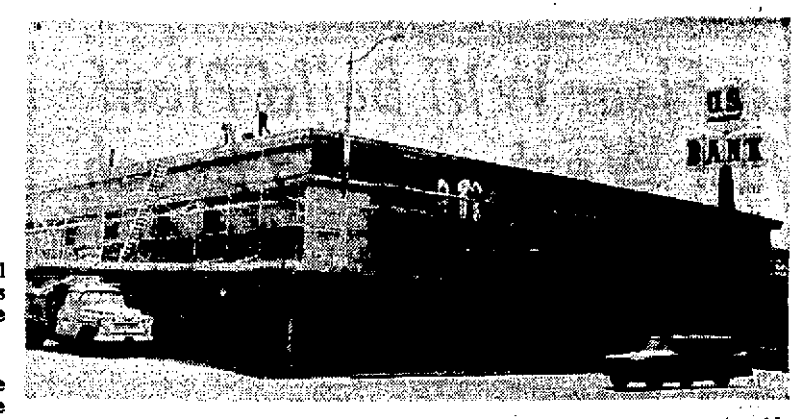

* * * *

THE WORK will include construction of 70,000 square feet of store area and expanded parking facilities on the 25 additional acres adjacent to the original 20 acres.

The original Rossmoor Center was developed on 20 acres at a cost of $4 million. Occupants include Food Giant Market, Crocker-Citizens Bank, Boston Stores, Thrifty Drug, Kress, Fox Theater, Union Federal Savings and Loan, Rossmoor Bowl and numerous specialty shops.

Sims said the Lakewood Rancho Co. is now the sole owner of the regional center. Heavy demands on existing facilities require that the master plan be speeded to completion, he added. Negotiations are under way with several major firms for leasing facilities in the expanded area, he added.

Meanwhile, the major expansion program at Lakewood Center is continuing with Buffums' Department Store slated for opening Aug. 1.

Jordan Student Wins S&L Award

Douglas Clark, 18, a graduating senior from David Starr Jordan High School, has been named winner of the outstanding student award in the annual program sponsored by Community Savings & Loan Association in cooperation with the statewide California Savings and Loan League.

Clark received a $100 cash award and an engraved medallion on behalf of the local thrift and home-financing institutions. Son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Clark of 6090 Lewis Ave., Douglas is president of the senior class and active in both speech and debate. He plans to attend the University of Redlands, where he will major in law.

El Segundo Firm Has Record Sales

EL SEGUNDO — Record sales and earnings were revealed last week at the Annual Shareholders' Meeting of Automation Industries by President Corwin D. Denney.

First quarter sales increased 47% to $5,098,216 while net earnings were up 52% to $234,498, or 18c a share. For the like 1964 quarter, sales were $3,479,988 and net earnings were $154,269, or 13c per share.

Automation shareholders voted to approve the merger with Chemical Contour Corp., whose stockholders earlier had voted approval. Also announced was the decision to pay a 6% stock dividend payable on July 31 to shareholders of record on June 30.

A continuing upward trend

Community Work of Realtors Lauded

COMPTON—R. L. Dressendorfer, president of the Compton-Lynwood Board of Realtors, Saturday commended board members who participate in community affairs. In doing so, he urged all board members to increase their service.

The commendation came at the close of Realtor Week.

"Surveys have shown that one out of five Realtors has held public office at sometime in his business career," said Dressendorfer. "That is a record possibly unmatched by any other profession."

Dressendorfer also lauded accomplishments of the Compton, Lynwood Citizens' Association in community betterment.

$47,786 Paid in Dividends

A dividend totalling $47,786.40 was paid last week by Holly Oil Co.

Checks mailed to 1,675 shareholders in 47 states, the District of Columbia and six foreign countries represent 10 cents a share, according to James A. Magruder, president.

It is the 54th dividend in the 44 years of the company's history.

Among other things, Magruder told shareholders in an interim letter:

"The company has 186.4% of the working interest in the Dominguez E-1 Unit (de Francis lease) Dominguez Hills, of which Shell Oil Co. is the operator. Despite sanding and mechancial problems in recent months, gross production has increased from 207 barrels a day in April 1962 to in excess of 600 barrels a day at this time. Production continues to rise."

Wins Honor as Top Salesman

Creighton Lacey-Baker, of Pfizer Laboratories, who lives at 3121 Woodruff Ave., Long Beach, has been elected one of the 10 top Southern California Salesmen of the Year by members of the Sales and Marketing Executives of Los Angeles, according to an announcement by President R. E. Baum, general manager of the Coast Book Cover Co.

C. LACEY-BAKER

The awards were made during ceremonies at the Biltmore Bowl with more than 1,000 business leaders from the area attending.

Each winner was presented with a gold "Sammy" statuette, the equivalent of the motion picture Oscar in the sales profession.

Nearly 80% of all winners during the 15 previous years years the awards have been made by SMEALA are now in management positions in sales and marketing fields, Baum said.

OLIVER SPERAW
Talks Tuesday

Board of Realtors Will Hear Speraw

"Ethics of Communication, or How to Leave a Customer Knowing What Happened to Him" will be the speaker's theme at the Tuesday breakfast meeting of the Long Beach District Board of Realtors.

Oliver M. Speraw, who operates his real estate business under the name of Sparow Realty, will be guest speaker, according to Dick Saxon, program chairman for the 7:15 a.m. meeting in the Crown cafeteria.

Speraw is moving into a new office at 5625 E. Willow St. this week. He is widely known as a salesman and teacher in the real estate field and a specialist in investment planning.

L.B. Realtors Honor Top City Employes

Inaugurating a new Realtor Week feature last Tuesday, the Long Beach District Board of Realtors presented awards to outstanding city employes from cities within the board's membership.

Chosen for the honors were:

Conrad Feierabend, of Seal Beach, whose award was presented by Mayor Anderson of that city;

Russell Churchman of Lakewood; award presented by W. W. Smith, Lakewood councilman and Realtor;

City Administrator Fred Baxter, Signal Hill; award handed out by Councilman Thomas Denhim; and Leoda B. Baynham, Planning Commission secretary, and Brennan S. Thomas, Water Department manager and chief engineer, both City of Long Beach employes. The Long Beach awards were presented by Councilman William Graham.

* * * *

OFFICIALS from the four cities were invited guests for the breakfast meeting, held at the Crown cafeteria.

Special music was provided by Harvey Waggoner and Mrs. John Webster of the Long Beach Light Opera group, who sang accompanied at the piano by Charles Ritchey.

Guest speaker was Roland Bach; and Harry Kayajanian and Ed Shaheen were in charge of the program.

Aid in Highway Safety Program

The Aetna Life Affiliated Companies, pioneers in development of classroom driving simulators, have announced they are intensifying their highway safety program by lending more than $1 million to a new corporation to produce the instruction devices.

The loan is being made to provide the major financing for formation of Drivex Corp., a wholly owned subsidiary of Edex Corporation of Mountain View, Calif.

Drivex will manufacture, sell and service the Aetna Life companies in 1953 and now widely used in high school driver education courses.

The Aetna Life Companies, which sponsor the driver training devices as part of their safety education program, will continue to produce, without profit, the Drivotrainer film course and instructional guides used with the devices.

As an additional public service, some 700 teachers have been trained by Aetna specialists or in college courses attended under Aetna grants.

Regular Dividend

Directors of United California Bank have declared the regular quarterly dividend of 45c per share payable June 29 to shareholders of record June 11, it was announced last week by Frank L. King, chairman of the board.

Like Easy Steering

NEW YORK (UPI)—The American motoring public apparently is more interested in moving than stopping. Although power brakes were introduced 35 years ago, only 30% of today's new car buyers order them. Power steering, introduced much later, now attracts more than 60% of new car purchasers, according to The Bendix Corporation, which introduced both of these developments to the motor industry.

La Fleur Will Build Plant Just West of Long Beach

By VERN ANTHONY
Progress Section Editor

Development in the Watson Industrial Center area just west of Long Beach has moved another step forward with announcement that the La Fleur Corp., an affiliate of Douglas Aircraft Co., will build a manufacturing plant there.

La Fleur will consolidate its four Los Angeles locations in the Long Beach area, but will retain corporate headquarters in Century City.

The plans were announced at signing of a long-term lease with Watson Land Co., co-owners of the Watson Industrial Center, for a 10-acre site near the Center. The site, owned by the Watson company, is along the east bank of Dominguez Channel, south of Sepulveda Boulevard.

Both La Fleur and Watson were represented by Coldwell, Banker & Co., Realtors.

* * * *

LA FLEUR is engaged in the design, engineering and construction of cryogenic plants and facilities and in the manufacture of related equipment. The company also manufactures and distributes liquified gases (oxygen, helium and nitrogen) to such industries as aerospace, steel and food processing.

The company's new Watson-area facilities will include "the nation's first prototype air-separation plant using the patented La Fleur closed-cycle helium refrigeration system," a spokesman said.

Engineering offices, industrial gas sales headquarters and fabrication shops also will be built. The new facilities will provide employes, with space for further expansion.

* * * *

THE COMPANY said the move "is being made to give us room for expansion and put us in an environment with similar types of industry." It was estimated that the move would be made in October.

The lease was signed in the La Fleur corporate offices, in Los Angeles' Century City, by James K. La Fleur, the company's president, and William T. Huston, president of Watson Land.

Watson Land is co-owner, with the Southern Pacific Co., of the 600-acre, $150 million Watson Industrial Center.

Penney's Will Add 2nd Floor

Expansions in two Long Beach area shopping centers calling for nearly $2.5 million in new construction were announced Saturday.

In Los Altos Center, Bellflower Boulevard and Stearns Street, a major expansion at the J. C. Penney Co. store will be launched early in July, Robert P. Graham, vice president of Westgate-California Realty Co., owners of the Center, disclosed.

A buildinig development program for 25 additional acres is Rossmoor Shopping Center, Los Alamitos, was announced by Lakewood Rancho Land Co.

* * * *

JOHN M. BERNARDS, Penney's Los Altos store manager, announced that the existing store, which now contains 28,000 square feet of selling area, will be expanded to have approximately 70,000 square feet, not including special storage facilities.

An entire second floor will be added to the store, in the expansion program. All of the lower level will be turned into a sales floor area, much of which has been used for storage.

Under the construction plans, Penney's storage facilities will be extended under other units in the center. Also, the credit, lay-away and executive offices will be installed in the newly construct areas adjacent to the store on the lower level.

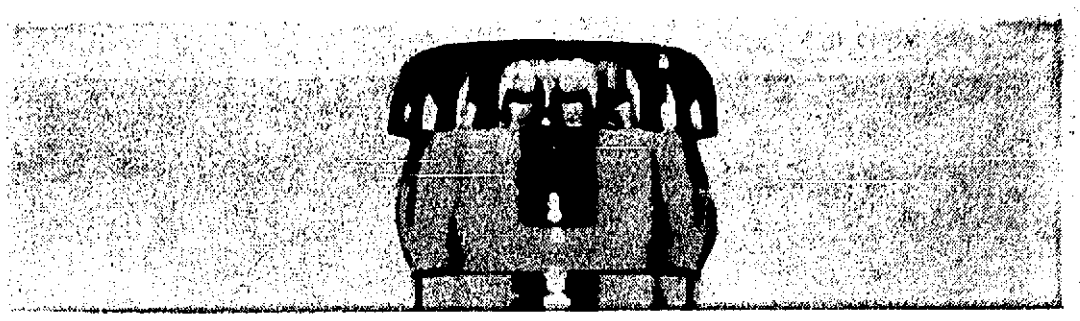

* * * *

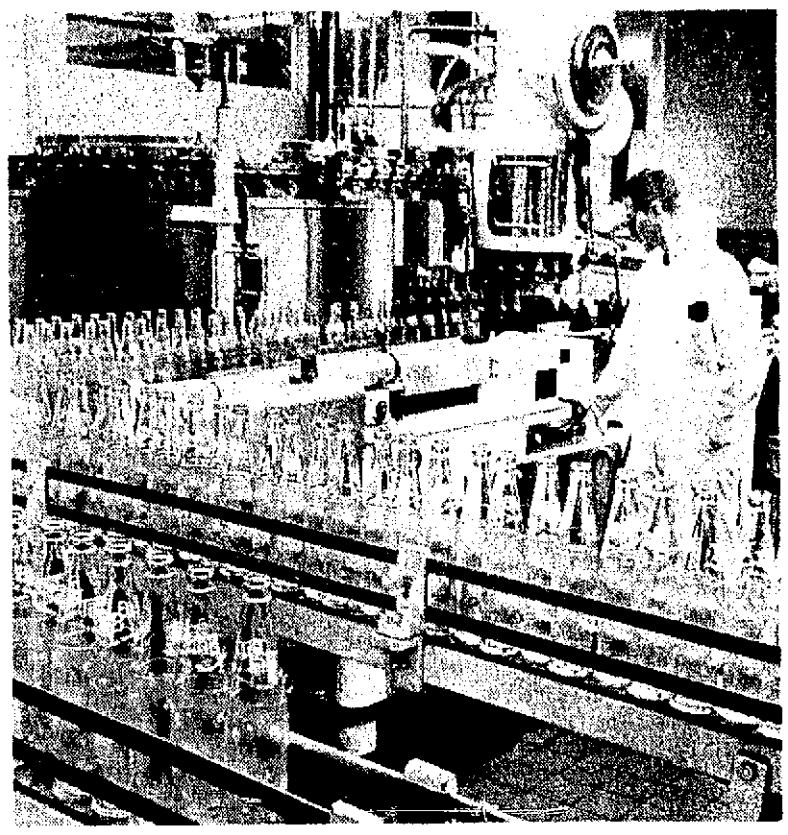

THE STORE will be completely remodeled throughout including new fixtures and lighting for existing areas. Both escalators and a passenger elevator will serve all three floors.

Current construction in Los Altos Center includes the complete rebuilding and refurbishing of U. S. National Bank's branch. This project is slated for completion the first week in July, about the time the Penney work will get under way.

Lynwood Plant Gets 2 Awards

LYNWOOD—Western Gear Corp. was honored recently as recipient of two awards by major companies in the aircraft-aerospace industry for supplying components which met the highest standards of excellence and also met precise requirements of cost reduction.

General Electric Co., Lynn, Mass., Small Aircraft Engine Department, honored Western Gear as its "Vendor of the Month."

E. J. Murray, GE manager of material, made presentation of the award to Thomas J. Bannan, chairman of Western Gear, at the company headquarters, 2600 E. Imperial Highway, Lynwood.

The "Vendor" award, based on standards of quality, delivery and price, was a "first" on the West Coast made by GE to one of its 400 suppliers located in North America and Europe.

* * * *

IN A JOINT CEREMONY at Denver facilities, Martin Company and the Air Force honored Western Gear with the T-10 Award for maintaining perfomance excellence in the fabrication, test and delivery of Titan II Shock Isolation System while reducing costs.

The award was given to B. A. Bannan, Western Gear vice president, for making an outstanding contribution to the Department of Defense Cost Reduction Program.

Dividend Voted

The board of directors of Dominguez Water Corp. recently declared the regular quarterly dividend of 10 cents per share on the 266,241 outstanding shares of common stock, payable June 15 to shareholders of record at the close of business on May 28.

Breakfasts Too Early, So They'll Have Luncheons

SAN PEDRO—Luncheons will replace the regular monthly breakfast meetings for the San Pedro Board of Realtors effective Thursday, June 10, according to Betty Childs, executive secretary.

The next meeting will be at the Tasman Sea Restaurant. Sessions will continue to be on Thursdays, but at different locations, she said.

With meetings at noon instead of early morning, it is expected attendance will improve . . . and give the "sleepy-heads" a break.

Property Transfer Tax Proposal Draws Fire

BELLFLOWER—Ray T. Smith, president of the Bellflower District Board of Realtors, Saturday, described the property transfer tax measure now before the state legislature as "striking at the wellsprings of California's growth by discouraging the sale of real property."

He was referring to a provision in Assembly Bill 2270, the Petris-Unruh omnibus tax "reform" bill which has cleared committee and now is on the floor of the Assembly for consideration.

"This bill authorizes a new burden—a tax on the property owner every time he sells his property," Smith said.

* * * *

"THIS ALSO means," he continued, "that a new industry coming into California, if this tax were applied, would have to pay for the privilege of locating here. The tax will be on the seller, but he certainly will pass it on to the buyer in the selling price."

Smith said the bill provides for a 1% tax on improved property selling for $15,000 to $25,000, 1½% over that figure, the transfer tax on undeveloped land as 1% on the first $25,000, 1½% on the balance. Improved property selling for under $15,000 is exempted, he said.

The measure authorizes county boards of supervisors to impose the tax. "However," Smith added, "the bill also takes away from the local jurisdiction substantial amounts of other tax monies, so that the adoption of such an ordinance throughout the state by boards of supervisors would be almost inevitable."

* * * *

"WE URGE the people of this area," he said, "to write their legislators in Sacramento asking them to oppose such a transfer tax as detrimental to the growth of California."

He contended that the exemption for the first $15,000 is "just window dressing," aimed at eliminating opposition from a large number of small property owners.

Turner Manages New L.B. Gypsum Facility

Mardis B. "Mardy" Turner has assumed duties as manager of the new National Gypsum Co. plant under construction at 1850 W. 8th St., Long Beach.

His appointment was announced recently from Buffalo, N. Y., headquarters by Leonard L. Hank, senior vice president for operations of National Gypsum.

Turner comes from Richmond, Calif., where he opened another new plant in April of 1964. He also managed the company's new Waukegan, Ill., plant when it opened in 1959.

* * * *

WHEN SCHOOL is out next month, Turner's wife, Donna, and children—Linda, 18, Marcia, 16, and Dale, 14 — also will move to Long Beach.

National Gypsum currently maintains a warehouse operation at the Long Beach site and expects to complete its plant and start production there in September. This will be one of the largest in National's network of 72 plants. It will produce gypsum wallboard, lath, plaster and joint cement for West Coast construction markets.

Turner started with the company in 1953 as assistant plant manager of the National City, Mich., plant, moving to the company's Shoals, Ind., plant as manager in 1956. He attended the University of Illinois after primary and secondary schools in Argenta, Ill.

* * * *

THE LONG BEACH plant will serve the important Southern California construction markets, Turner said last week. It is the second National Gypsum plant on the West Coast—Richmond being the first. A warehouse is maintained for distribution in Tacoma, Wash.

In 1964, National Gypsum reported sales of $257 million.

New 'Coke' Plant Thirsts for Work

Things are vastly different in Coca-Cola's recently expanded Downey bottling plant than they were way back in Atlanta, Ga., in 1886, when a wholesale druggist first put together a syrup for carbonated drinks.

During his first year of operation, John S. Pemberton put out $46 for advertising and sold 25 gallons of syrup. Last year Coca-Cola put out more than $60 million for advertising and more than four billion gallons of syrup have been sold since Pemberton started his bottling business.

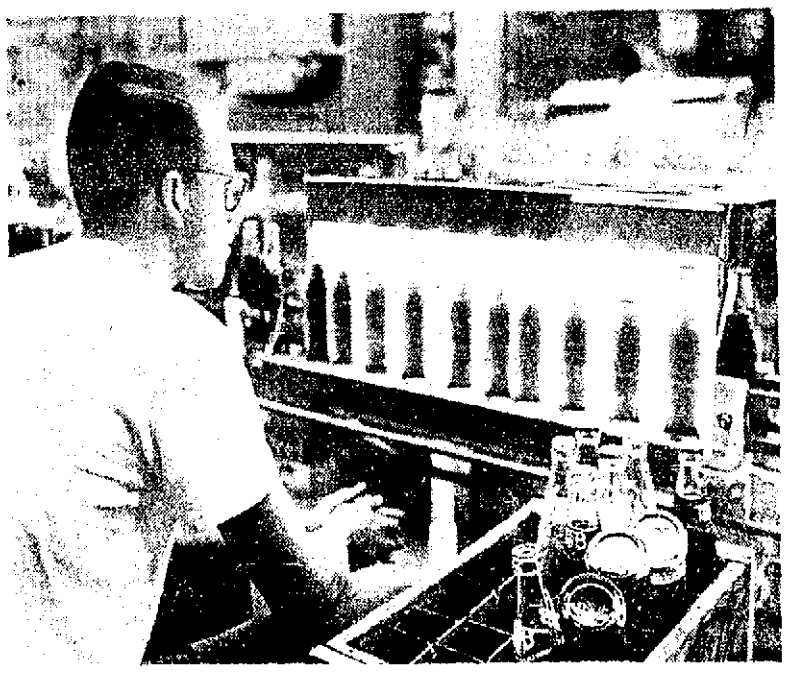

The new $800,000 plant at 11536 S. Patton Road, Downey, is a good example of the expansion of the company operations. Everything in the 20,000 square foot plant is automated.

From the time the empty bottles are wheeled in the back door on pallets until they go out a side door after having been sorted, washed, filled and capped they are continually in machines. Production: 1,200 bottles a minute of Coke, Tab and Bar-B.

John Pemberton certainly would be startled today to see what Coca-Cola hath wrought.

New Von's Market Will Open June 3

Von's, one of the oldest and most respected West Coast food chains, will open a new store in Long Beach on Thursday, June 3, at 8145 E. Wardlow Road at the intersection of Norwalk Boulevard (Los Alamitos Boulevard).

The store, which exceeds 25,000 square feet, will be open to the public following traditional ribbon cutting ceremonies at 9 a.m., in which civic dignitaries and business officials will participate.

* * * *

SPECIAL GIFTS will be presented at the door to the first shoppers and prizes will be awarded to lucky winners. A gala four-day Grand Opening Sale will feature specially reduced prices in all departments.

This will be the 92nd unit in the rapidly expanding chain, which has been serving Southern California since 1906.

Von's new Long Beach store is the last word in architectural design and features the most modern merchandising techniques for customer convenience and service. The market boasts unique and attractive color schemes and decor.

Venetian terrazzo floors are seen throughout. Colorful, contemporary ceramic tile murals are featured for special effects. Interior colors are gay and vibrant.

* * * *

SOFT MUSIC from hidden speakers, the harmoniously decorated interior and scientifically cooled air will help make shopping more pleasant. A large wall directory may be seen and read from any point in the store and the wide aisles will keep the flow of traffic moving smoothly.

The frozen food section stretches a lengthy 255 feet while meat will be displayed on a 76-foot-long self-service meat counter. The store also will feature an extensive liquor department, a customer convenience center, which handles check cashing, money orders and free utility bill payment service, a plant bar and variety section.

Von's East Long Beach store was designed by Maxwell Starkman & Associates, Architects, and constructed by E. W. Hahn.

C. W. LUMBERT
Management Society Prexy

AMS Post to Lumbert

Chesley W. Lumbert, supervisor of stores and properties for the Long Beach Harbor Dept., will assume duties as president of the Long Beach Chapter of the Administrative Management Society June 1.

Lumbert is well known in marine circles having been the executive officer of the USMSTS, American Seafarer during World War II. Also since coming to Long Beach he was the past governor of District 51, Toastmasters International.

Other officers and directors elected were: Cliff Cailland, Macmillan Ring-Free Oil Co., senior vice-president; Vern Aufdenkamp, Consolidated Hooper Produce Co., junior vice-president; Robert Wilkinson, Dominquez Water Co., treasurer and Imogene Shelton, Long Beach Unified School Employes Federal Credit Union, secretary.

Directors are Wressey Cocke, Lew Goodrich, Frank Schooley, Ed Norvell, Joe Davide and Al Hopkins.

Kitchens Rank First

Kitchens outrank bathrooms as targets for home remodeling.

A home improvement survey showed that 43% of those surveyed modernized their kitchens, while 31% had work done to their bathrooms. In addition, 25% of those expanding their homes added another bathroom.

Barometric Ink

FORT MADISON, Ia. (UPI)—Red ink last year retained its traditional role as a barometer of economic conditions. Business failures in the United States in 1964 were six per cent lower than in the previous 12 months. For the same period sales of Sheaffer's red writing fluid dropped 5.6% below 1963 totals.

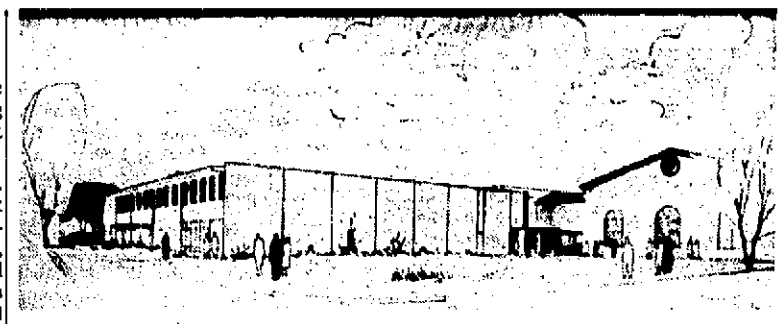

Insurance Firm Tallies Investments

The Prudential Insurance Co. invested $411,486 in Long Beach real estate in the first four months of this year.

According to Kenneth C. Foster, senior vice president in charge of western operations who reported the figure, $76,486 was for residential properties, and $335,000 was for commercial and industrial projects.

At the same time, Prudential has invested $61,708,555 in real estate in California.

Foster also reported that throughout the 13 western states the Prudential invested $92,977,337 in the first four months of the year.

BELLFLOWER BAPTISTS BUILD

Construction has begun on new social-educational unit of First Baptist Church in Bellflower. It is a $375,000 project, including cost of land. Church is at 9063 Belmont Ave., with membership exceeding 800. Rev. J. Eugene Wright is pastor. Long-range master building plan calls for new sanctuary to be built later at corner of Oak and Ardmore. Social-educational unit is being built by J. H. Kuhl & Sons of Los Angeles.

Goes to Meeting at Sun Valley, Ida.

Dick E. Richardson, a representative of the Aetna Life Insurance Co. in Long Beach, will attend the 27th annual meeting of the company's Corps of Regionnaires today through Wednesday at Sun Valley Lodge, Sun Valley, Idaho.

Richardson gained membership in the national honorary organization because of his production record during the past year. He ranked fifth in the company in 1964 of men in their first year in life insurance business.

MILLIKAN STUDENT TOP ORATOR

Brian Jones (second from left) of Millikan High School, receives plaque for being top winner among students from 80 Southland high schools in recent speech contest sponsored by the Foreign Trade Association during World Trade Week. His topic was "World Trade—A Two-Way Street to Prosperity." He and students from three other Long Beach schools were honored at a luncheon last week by the Port Ambassadors of Long Beach. Plaques were presented by Ken Austin (right), Port Ambassadors chairman. Others in photo (from left), Dennis Dunn of Jordan High; James Furman of Poly; and Mary Pinola of Wilson. Miss Pinola was fifth over-all winner in the competition. The Millikan winner placed third last year. The four Long Beach students also received gifts from the Long Beach District Board of Realtors. Austin praised the students and expressed hope that local schools would continue cooperation in the speech program. He said the local Ambassadors were especially proud the top winner this year was from Long Beach. The students competed at a luncheon in the Biltmore Bowl, Los Angeles, during World Trade Week.

PENNEY'S LOS ALTOS CENTER STORE TO HAVE MAJOR EXPANSION

REBUILDING OF U. S. NATIONAL'S LOS ALTOS BRANCH UNDER WAY

Business Districts Expanding

Allen Abramson and Michael Sims as leasing brokers, has been named to complete the Rossmoor Center expansion.

* * * *

THE WORK will include construction of 70,000 square feet of store area and expanded parking facilities on the 25 additional acres adjacent to the original 20 acres.

The original Rossmoor Center was developed on 20 acres at a cost of $4 million. Occupants include Food Giant Market, Crocker-Citizens Bank, Boston Stores, Thrifty Drug, Kress, Fox Theater, Union Federal Savings and Loan, Rossmoor Bowl and numerous specialty shops.

Sims said the Lakewood Rancho Co. is now the sole owner of the regional center. Heavy demands on existing facilities require that the master plan be speeded to completion, he added. Negotiations are under way with several major firms for leasing facilities in the expanded area, he added.

Meanwhile, the major expansion program at Lakewood Center is continuing with Buffums' Department Store slated for opening Aug. 1.

Jordan Student Wins S&L Award

Douglas Clark, 18, a graduating senior from David Starr Jordan High School, has been named winner of the outstanding student award in the annual program sponsored by Community Savings & Loan Association in cooperation with the statewide California Savings and Loan League.

Clark received a $100 cash award and an engraved medallion on behalf of the local thrift and home-financing institutions. Son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Clark of 6090 Lewis Ave., Douglas is president of the senior class and active in both speech and debate. He plans to attend the University of Redlands, where he will major in law.

El Segundo Firm Has Record Sales

EL SEGUNDO — Record sales and earnings were revealed last week at the Annual Shareholders' Meeting of Automation Industries by President Corwin D. Denney.

First quarter sales increased 47% to $5,098,216 while net earnings were up 52% to $234,498, or 18c a share. For the like 1964 quarter, sales were $3,479,988 and net earnings were $154,269, or 13c per share.

Automation shareholders voted to approve the merger with Chemical Contour Corp., whose stockholders earlier had voted approval. Also announced was the decision to pay a 6% stock dividend payable on July 31 to shareholders of record on June 30.

A continuing upward trend

Community Work of Realtors Lauded

COMPTON—R. L. Dressendorfer, president of the Compton-Lynwood Board of Realtors, Saturday commended board members who participate in community affairs. In doing so, he urged all board members to increase their service.

The commendation came at the close of Realtor Week.

"Surveys have shown that one out of five Realtors has held public office at sometime in his business career," said Dressendorfer. "That is a record possibly unmatched by any other profession."

Dressendorfer also lauded accomplishments of the Compton, Lynwood Citizens' Association in community betterment.

$47,786 Paid in Dividends

A dividend totalling $47,786.40 was paid last week by Holly Oil Co.

Checks mailed to 1,675 shareholders in 47 states, the District of Columbia and six foreign countries represent 10 cents a share, according to James A. Magruder, president.

It is the 54th dividend in the 44 years of the company's history.

Among other things, Magruder told shareholders in an interim letter:

"The company has 186.4% of the working interest in the Dominguez E-1 Unit (de Francis lease) Dominguez Hills, of which Shell Oil Co. is the operator. Despite sanding and mechancial problems in recent months, gross production has increased from 207 barrels a day in April 1962 to in excess of 600 barrels a day at this time. Production continues to rise."

Wins Honor as Top Salesman

Creighton Lacey-Baker, of Pfizer Laboratories, who lives at 3121 Woodruff Ave., Long Beach, has been elected one of the 10 top Southern California Salesmen of the Year by members of the Sales and Marketing Executives of Los Angeles, according to an announcement by President R. E. Baum, general manager of the Coast Book Cover Co.

C. LACEY-BAKER

The awards were made during ceremonies at the Biltmore Bowl with more than 1,000 business leaders from the area attending.

Each winner was presented with a gold "Sammy" statuette, the equivalent of the motion picture Oscar in the sales profession.

Nearly 80% of all winners during the 15 previous years years the awards have been made by SMEALA are now in management positions in sales and marketing fields, Baum said.

OLIVER SPERAW
Talks Tuesday

Board of Realtors Will Hear Speraw

"Ethics of Communication, or How to Leave a Customer Knowing What Happened to Him" will be the speaker's theme at the Tuesday breakfast meeting of the Long Beach District Board of Realtors.

Oliver M. Speraw, who operates his real estate business under the name of Sparow Realty, will be guest speaker, according to Dick Saxon, program chairman for the 7:15 a.m. meeting in the Crown cafeteria.

Speraw is moving into a new office at 5625 E. Willow St. this week. He is widely known as a salesman and teacher in the real estate field and a specialist in investment planning.

L.B. Realtors Honor Top City Employes

Inaugurating a new Realtor Week feature last Tuesday, the Long Beach District Board of Realtors presented awards to outstanding city employes from cities within the board's membership.

Chosen for the honors were:

Conrad Feierabend, of Seal Beach, whose award was presented by Mayor Anderson of that city;

Russell Churchman of Lakewood; award presented by W. W. Smith, Lakewood councilman and Realtor;

City Administrator Fred Baxter, Signal Hill; award handed out by Councilman Thomas Denhim; and Leoda B. Baynham, Planning Commission secretary, and Brennan S. Thomas, Water Department manager and chief engineer, both City of Long Beach employes. The Long Beach awards were presented by Councilman William Graham.

* * * *

OFFICIALS from the four cities were invited guests for the breakfast meeting, held at the Crown cafeteria.

Special music was provided by Harvey Waggoner and Mrs. John Webster of the Long Beach Light Opera group, who sang accompanied at the piano by Charles Ritchey.

Guest speaker was Roland Bach; and Harry Kayajanian and Ed Shaheen were in charge of the program.

Aid in Highway Safety Program

The Aetna Life Affiliated Companies, pioneers in development of classroom driving simulators, have announced they are intensifying their highway safety program by lending more than $1 million to a new corporation to produce the instruction devices.

The loan is being made to provide the major financing for formation of Drivex Corp., a wholly owned subsidiary of Edex Corporation of Mountain View, Calif.

Drivex will manufacture, sell and service the Aetna Life companies in 1953 and now widely used in high school driver education courses.

The Aetna Life Companies, which sponsor the driver training devices as part of their safety education program, will continue to produce, without profit, the Drivotrainer film course and instructional guides used with the devices.

As an additional public service, some 700 teachers have been trained by Aetna specialists or in college courses attended under Aetna grants.

Regular Dividend

Directors of United California Bank have declared the regular quarterly dividend of 45c per share payable June 29 to shareholders of record June 11, it was announced last week by Frank L. King, chairman of the board.

Like Easy Steering

NEW YORK (UPI)—The American motoring public apparently is more interested in moving than stopping. Although power brakes were introduced 35 years ago, only 30% of today's new car buyers order them. Power steering, introduced much later, now attracts more than 60% of new car purchasers, according to The Bendix Corporation, which introduced both of these developments to the motor industry.

LUCKY MARKET IN LAKEWOOD CENTER REMODELED

Lakewood Center Lucky Opens With 'New Look'

Lucky Stores' Supermarket, 4601 Silva St. in Lakewood Center, which had been closed for remodeling and redecorating, reopened Thursday with a complete "new look" and a new concept of supermarkel merchandising.

In addition to providing a complete easier-to-shop-in grocery, meat and liquor facility, Lucky has added an enlarged, new variety department which will feature an expanded line of housewares, giftware, stationery, luggage, health and beauty aids, hardware, paint and plumbing supplies, auto accessories, electrical appliances, toys and games, etc., to provide complete one-stop shopping.

* * * *

THIS "NEW LOOK" extends not only to the outside appearance but to the entire inside as well.

The exterior has been modernized with new Glaswell paneling and new entrances with fully automatic doors.

The interior has been completely redecorated and refixtured with the most modern equipment including new refrigerated produce cases.

Ten new automatic-type checkstands are being used. A new cart-runway with a customer service aisle for car to door service has been installed. Every consideration for customer convenience has been inaugurated. Color consultants were retained to give the enlarged store a pleasing color effect.

Among the many new departments is a watch repair and jewelry department. A barbeque section features ready-to-eat, take-out barbequed chicken and spare ribs.

* * * *

WAYNE H. FISHER, Lucky Stores' vice president and general manager said:

"We are indeed appreciative of the patronage by the people of this area. It is because of their display of confidence in Lucky that we have gone to considerable expense to rebuild this Lakewood store and we will soon start the complete renovation of our Spring and Palo Verde store.

"We will, of course, continue with our policy of low discount pricing. The same high quality, guaranteed meats, and nationally advertised grocery brands will continue to be available at Lucky's Lower Prices.

The grand opening announcement of the Lakewood store renovation is being withheld to coincide with the completion of the Spring Street and Palo Verde Avenue store, which will be closed June 7 to reopen with the "new look" on Thursday, June 10.

For Hardier Hearts, They Use Asbestos

Some people literally owe their lives to asbestos.

This material, a principal component of mineral fiber house siding and automobile brake linings, is now being used in heart surgery.

In an operation on persons afflicted with artery diseases, powdered asbestos is sprinkled on the heart to create inflammation which will help the heart grow new blood vessels.

Plane Parts Bonded With New 'Glue'

FORT WORTH—The F-111 tactical fighter with variable sweep wings is being built here by General Dynamics using several high-strength adhesives including four B. F. Goodrich high performance Plastilock adhesive systems.

Parts of the wings, fuselage, tail and outer skin are made separately, then bonded together. The adhesives create a bond that is stronger than the metal itself and help to keep down the weight of the plane.

The weight is doubly important because the plane will take off from aircraft carriers and short, unimproved runways.

Corporations Pay Out Half Billion to Figure Taxes

People who wrestled with their income tax forms recently probably would like to forget the time, effort and money that went into the operation. But the memory lingers on.

For many, there was an unpleasent surprise as a result of the 1964 law that reduced the withholding rates and left so many people owing larger sums than they had expected. There were also problems of more new provisions to cope with, and more paperwork.

If it's any consolation — though it won't be much — the nation's corporations reportedly spent an estimated half a billion dollars last year just to figure their taxes.

All of this may lead to a simplification of certain rules that are especially troublesome, including the the new income-averaging provisions. Just the back-and-forth arithmetic alone is enough to stump many a poor taxpayer, and it's no wonder more and more individuals asked for professional help.

New Von's Market Will Open June 3

Von's, one of the oldest and most respected West Coast food chains, will open a new store in Long Beach on Thursday, June 3, at 8145 E. Wardlow Road at the intersection of Norwalk Boulevard (Los Alamitos Boulevard).

The store, which exceeds 25,000 square feet, will be open to the public following traditional ribbon cutting ceremonies at 9 a.m., in which civic dignitaries and business officials will participate.

* * * *

SPECIAL GIFTS will be presented at the door to the first shoppers and prizes will be awarded to lucky winners. A gala four-day Grand Opening Sale will feature specially reduced prices in all departments.

This will be the 92nd unit in the rapidly expanding chain, which has been serving Southern California since 1906.

Von's new Long Beach store is the last word in architectural design and features the most modern merchandising techniques for customer convenience and service. The market boasts unique and attractive color schemes and decor.

Venetian terrazzo floors are seen throughout. Colorful, contemporary ceramic tile murals are featured for special effects. Interior colors are gay and vibrant.

* * * *

SOFT MUSIC from hidden speakers, the harmoniously decorated interior and scientifically cooled air will help make shopping more pleasant. A large wall directory may be seen and read from any point in the store and the wide aisles will keep the flow of traffic moving smoothly.

The frozen food section stretches a lengthy 255 feet while meat will be displayed on a 76-foot-long self-service meat counter. The store also will feature an extensive liquor department, a customer convenience center, which handles check cashing, money orders and free utility bill payment service, a plant bar and variety section.

Von's East Long Beach store was designed by Maxwell Starkman & Associates, Architects, and constructed by E. W. Hahn.

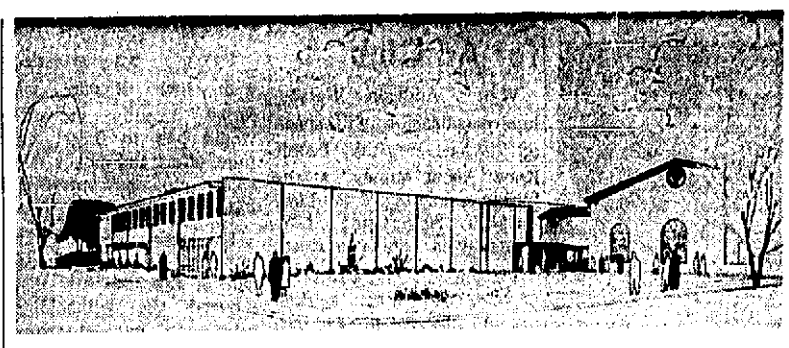

Insurance Firm Tallies Investments

The Prudential Insurance Co. invested $411,486 in Long Beach real estate in the first four months of this year.

According to Kenneth C. Foster, senior vice president in charge of western operations who reported the figure, $76,486 was for residential properties, and $335,000 was for commercial and industrial projects.

At the same time, Prudential has invested $61,708,555 in real estate in California.

Foster also reported that throughout the 13 western states the Prudential invested $92,977,337 in the first four months of the year.

Other officers and directors elected were: Cliff Cailland, Macmillan Ring-Free Oil Co., senior vice-president; Vern Aufdenkamp, Consolidated Hooper Produce Co., junior vice-president; Robert Wilkinson, Dominquez Water Co., treasurer and Imogene Shelton, Long Beach Unified School Employes Federal Credit Union, secretary.

Directors are Wressey Cocke, Lew Goodrich, Frank Schooley, Ed Norvell, Joe Davide and Al Hopkins.

Kitchens Rank First

Kitchens outrank bathrooms as targets for home remodeling.

A home improvement survey showed that 43% of those surveyed modernized their kitchens, while 31% had work done to their bathrooms. In addition, 25% of those expanding their homes added another bathroom.

Barometric Ink

FORT MADISON, Ia. (UPI) —Red ink last year retained its traditional role as a barometer of economic conditions. Business failures in the United States in 1964 were six per cent lower than in the previous 12 months. For the same period sales of Sheaffer's red writing fluid dropped 5.6% below 1963 totals.

LUCKY MARKET IN LAKEWOOD CENTER REMODELED

Lakewood Center Lucky Opens With 'New Look'

Lucky Stores' Supermarket, 4601 Silva St. in Lakewood Center, which had been closed for remodeling and redecorating, reopened Thursday with a complete "new look" and a new concept of supermarket merchandising.

In addition to providing a complete easier-to-shop-in grocery, meat and liquor facility, Lucky has added an enlarged, new variety department which will feature an expanded line of housewares, giftware, stationery, luggage, health and beauty aids, hardware, paint and plumbing supplies, auto accessories, electrical appliances, toys and games, etc., to provide complete one-stop shopping.

* * * *

THIS "NEW LOOK" extends not only to the outside appearance but to the entire inside as well.

The exterior has been modernized with new Glaswell paneling and new entrances with fully automatic doors.

The interior has been completely redecorated and refixtured with the most modern equipment including new refrigerated produce cases.

Ten new automatic-type checkstands are being used. A new cart-runway with a customer service aisle for car to door service has been installed. Every consideration for customer convenience has been inaugurated. Color consultants were retained to give the enlarged store a pleasing color effect.

Among the many new departments is a watch repair and jewelry department. A barbeque section features ready-to-eat, take-out barbequed chicken and spare ribs.

* * * *

WAYNE H. FISHER, Lucky Stores' vice president and general manager said:

"We are indeed appreciative of the patronage by the people of this area. It is because of their display of confidence in Lucky that we have gone to considerable expense to rebuild this Lakewood store and we will soon start the complete renovation of our Spring and Palo Verde store.

"We will, of course, continue with our policy of low discount pricing. The same high quality, guaranteed meats, and nationally advertised grocery brands will continue to be available at Lucky's Lower Prices.

The grand opening announcement of the Lakewood store renovation is being withheld to coincide with the completion of the Spring Street and Palo Verde Avenue store, which will be closed June 7 to reopen with the "new look" on Thursday, June 10.

For Hardier Hearts, They Use Asbestos

Some people literally owe their lives to asbestos.

This material, a principal component of mineral fiber house siding and automobile brake linings, is now being used in heart surgery.

In an operation on persons afflicted with artery diseases, powdered asbestos is sprinkled on the heart to create inflammation which will help the heart grow new blood vessels.

Plane Parts Bonded With New 'Glue'

FORT WORTH—The F-111 tactical fighter with variable sweep wings is being built here by General Dynamics using several high-strength adhesives including four B. F. Goodrich high performance Plastilock adhesive systems.

Parts of the wings, fuselage, tail and outer skin are made separately, then bonded together. The adhesives create a bond that is stronger than the metal itself and help to keep down the weight of the plane.

The weight is doubly important because the plane will take off from aircraft carriers and short, unimproved runways.

Corporations Pay Out Half Billion to Figure Taxes

People who wrestled with their income tax forms recently probably would like to forget the time, effort and money that went into the operation. But the memory lingers on.

For many, there was an unpleasant surprise as a result of the 1964 law that reduced the withholding rates and left so many people owing larger sums than they had expected. There were also problems of more new provisions to cope with, and more paperwork.

If it's any consolation — though it won't be much — the nation's corporations reportedly spent an estimated half a billion dollars last year just to figure their taxes.

All of this may lead to a simplification of certain rules that are especially troublesome, including the the new income-averaging provisions. Just the back-and-forth arithmetic alone is enough to stump many a poor taxpayer, and it's no wonder more and more individuals asked for professional help.

Beneficial Plaza Under Way at L.A.

Groundbreaking ceremonies were held Wednesday for a $16½ million building complex by the Beneficial Insurance Group (BIG) at 3700 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles.

It will be known as Beneficial Plaza. First phase, the Home Office Building, will feature a 315-foot setback from Wilshire Boulevard for an elaborate plaza.

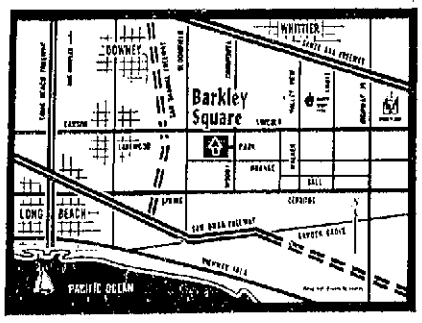

The complex will occupy a city block on the south side of Wilshire.

Wide Selection of Models at Premier

Premier Homes North and South provide buyers with an exceptionally wide choice of exterior stylings, reports Frank McFarland of McFarland and Mattocks, sales agents.

The Realtor explained that Premier's styling appeal was due to more than the number of elevations offered—16 in all. Premier offers the same floor plan in as many as three radically different exteriors. "A homebuyer at Premier will find not just casual rearrangements of exterior trim offered as elevations, but quite distinct architectural stylings," he said.

* * * *

IN THE POPULAR four-bedroom two-bath Plan 116, which McFarland cited as an example, the three exteriors available are "Briarwood," a traditional styling which would appeal to lovers of Early Americana; "Outrigger," a Polynesian styling with strong appeal to families owning rattan furniture and with a feeling for the South Seas approach; and "Beverlywood," a bold, clean ultra-modern exterior ideally suited for families seeking the contemporary mood.

* * * *

THE SIX floor plans include three- and four-bedroom models, all with two baths, and five of the plans have a "Premium Fun Area" in addition. An extra-large, fully finished room with plumbing roughed in for either a wet bar or a third bath, is one of Premier's top features.

Premier prices range from $24,750. Flexible financing includes VA no down, FHA minimum down and Conventional Financing.

Visitors take Bolsa Chica Road south from San Diego Freeway to Warner Ave. and go left on Warner to Beach Blvd. (Hwy. 39). Turn left on Beach two blocks to Terry St. and the model display, which adjoins the south side of Fantastic Fair department store.

Huntington Beach Prestige Homes Prove in Big Demand

A new unit of Prestige Homes Unit 8, in Huntington Beach, was recently opened to the home buying public and in just two weeks over 50% of the homes were purchased, according to Dan Mytinger, marketing director for the Doyle & Shields Development Co., Inc., builders.

"Prestige Homes are selling so fast—over 300 since the first of the year—we just can't seem to keep ahead of the market," Mytinger said. "The homes that were recently purchased are slated for occupancy in the summer. We do have a few homes that are ready for immediate occupancy."

Prestige Homes offer 34 elevations and eight floor plans in one and two-story; three, four and five-bedroom; two and three bathrooms; two and three-car garage homes. The largest homes contain almost 2,500 square feet of area.

* * * *

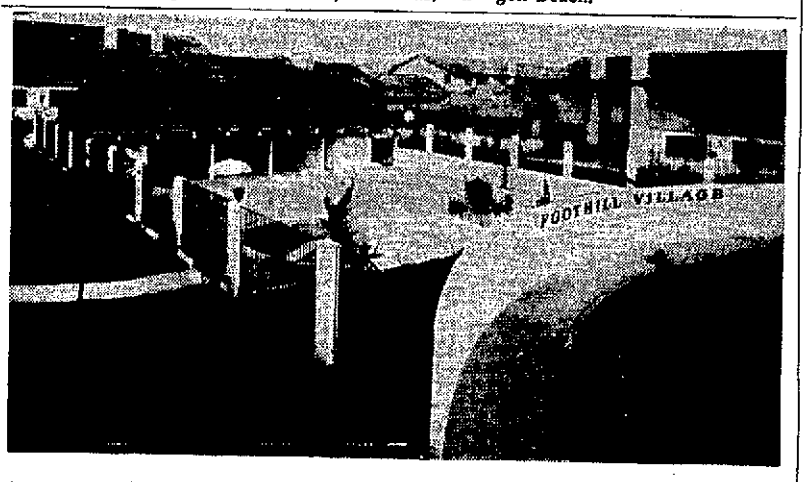

THE HOMES are priced from $25,300 with FHA, Cal-Vet and many conventional financing plans available. Mytinger also pointed out that the company tailors financing plans to fit an individual's needs in cases where the family does not meet the requirements of the standard plans available.

Mytinger also noted that the Prestige Homes location: 10 minutes or less from the beaches, marinas, a golf course, the San Diego Freeway and the Douglas Space Center; as well as within walking distance of both grade and high schools and two shopping centers has been an instrumental factor in the sensational success of the development.

The furnished model homes are open from 10 to 8 daily, with refreshments served from 12 to 5 each Sunday afternoon. From the Long Beach area take the San Diego Freeway south to Bolsa Chica Road, turn right to Edinger Ave., then left to Springdale St., right on Springdale a short distance to the homes in Huntington Beach.

A new unit of Prestige Homes was recently opened to the public and is already over 50% purchased. The one and two-story, three, four and five-bedroom; two and three-bathroom; two and three-car garage homes contain as much as 2,500 square feet of area and are priced from $25,300 with FHA, conventional and Cal-Vet terms all available for the buyer's convenience.

SUMMER SETTING

Combining carefree indoor and recreational outdoor living, Foothill Village Townhouses are ready for summer. The community of homes welcomes visitors from 10 in the morning until sundown at the corner of Placentia Avenue and Madison Avenue in Fullerton.

Foothill Village Townhouses Ready for Summer Occupancy

Two things happen this time of year that can be classified as harbingers of Summer. One is Daylight Saving Time and the other is the end of school.

W. E. Flaharty, partner-developer of Foothill Village Townhouses, observed yesterday that Forest E. Olson's sales team has quite a list of prospective buyers who are waiting for the end of the semester.

"When school's out," Flaharty said, "It's time for vacations and it's time for change. Moving into one of our townhouses can be the equivalent to a whole new vacation-way of life." Commenting on the swimming pool, putting greens, shuffleboard courts and recreation building he said that some residents refer to Foothill Village as 'vacation village.'

* * * *

"THE WONDERFUL school system we have also appeals to families," Flaharty continued. "There is much interest in the California State College at Fulierton, just half a mile away."

Foothill Village Townhouses are ready for the family influx that will begin next weekend. The two-story Plan A Townhouse boasts of four bedrooms (all upstairs) and three baths. The large living room and family room, with sliding glass doors opening onto the patio, gives an interconnected sweep of spaciousness rarely found these days.

Flaharty is quite proud of the 30-year loans that can be arranged, the small down payment required and the unusually low interest rate.

Foothill Village Townhouses are located at Madison Avenue and Placentia Avenue in Fullerton. Prices start at $18,900 with payment as low as $91 per month, principal and interest.

Future Need Seen for Training in Three Jobs

Experts predict the typical American worker in the future may require training for not just one job in his lifetime, but for as many as three entirely different jobs to provide him with a productive and salable working career.

And, according to the Bank of America, "Vocational education has an expanding role to play in this training and retaining process."

The latest edition of the firm's periodical, "Small Business Reporter," notes that recent massive changes in industry and business have created a new kind of employe — the "gray collar worker."

* * * *

THIS WORKER "must possess more techinacl skill than the average blue collar worker," the bank report states, and the vocational school or course offers the know-how he needs.

Indicative of the increasing popularity of vocational schools, which provide training designed to be of immediate practical value in earning a living, is the following fact:

One of the most familiar types of private vocational schools, the business school or college, has shown an 18% increase in enrollment throughout the nation from 1962-63 to 1963-64.

* * * *

IN CALIFORNIA alone, there now are more than 1,000 private vocational schools, enrolling about 100,000.

The bank report points out that a number of private vocational schools have been started by former public school teachers, but that competition in the field is fierce.

Subsidiary Now Fully Owned by Oil Tool Firm

Smith Industries International, Inc., Los Angeles, has completed acquisition of the outstanding 30% minority interest in its subsidiary, Dyna-Drill Corp., Donald E. Graham, president of Smith Industries announced last week.

The acquisition provides Smith with 100% ownership of the company. Dyna-Drill was organized in 1963 to produce and lease a newly-developed directional drilling control tool used in oil and gas exploration.

Although introduced initially in California, the tool is now available on the Gulf Coast and in Canada and will be made available in other foreign countries before the end of the year.

E. P. Garrison is vice president and general manager of the company.

Smith Industries is a leading manufacturer of drilling bits and tools for the oil and mining industries, for tunneling, and in addition manufactures industrial grating.

American Can Chief to Retire

William C. Stolk, president and chief executive officer of the American Can Co., which has a plant in Wilmington at 110 E. Sepulveda Blvd., was elected chairman and chief executive officer of the company by the board of directors at a recent meeting in New York City. Simultaneously, he announced his retirement effective Sept. 1, 1965.

At the same time, the board elected William F. May, executive vice president, administration, to the newly created position of vice chairman and E. T. Klassen, executive vice president, operations, to the position of president. The two vacated positions of executive vice president will not be filled.

The board said the post of vice chairman was created to cover the transitional period between now and the date of Stolk's retirement. At that time May will assume the position of chairman and chief executive officer and the position of vice chairman will be eliminated.

BIG BUSINESS CENTER TO BE UNDER ONE ROOF

Located near Bristol Street offramp of San Diego Freeway (left), this is how South Coast Plaza shopping center will look on completion at Costa Mesa. A covered mall will encompass May Co., Sears Roebuck & Co., and 70 specialty stores under one roof. Mall, designed on two levels, will offer sidewalk cafes, import bazaars, landscaped sculpture gardens and a Carousel Court. It is being developed by the Segerstrom family and is due for completion in 1966. Later expansion into the South Coast Town Center will include other stores, office buildings, motels, hotel, convention center, according to plans.

2,000 Years Ago

A shortage of adequate middle - income apartments existed 2,000 years ago in Rome, according to Cicero, who wrote that the situation made rents twice as high in that city as in the neighboring countryside.

Sales Continue to Soar in California Home Fair

Each weekend since the opening, visitors from all parts of Southern California have converged on the California Home Fair in Huntington Beach boosting sales to new records, reports Baxter Caterson, sales director for Alco-Pacific Construction Co., builders.

With 60% of the first and second units sold out, more than $3,000,000 in new housing has been sold since January of 1965.

The three, four and five-bedroom award-winning homes are priced from $29,550 to $35,975 with many exceptional features designed for California's sunny climate. Low overhanging roofs, covered patios, central atriums and garden patios enhance the concept of indoor-outdoor family living and entertaining.

* * * *

OTHER PREMIUM design features included are full attic insulation, weatherstripping, hand-split shake, shingle or colored rock roofs, concrete driveways, walks, porches and patios. In every home, there are five telephone outlets including a built-in flush-mounted phone conveniently located adjacent to the serving counter between the family room and kitchen.

Visitors may view the five furnished model homes, striking sales pavilion and decorator studio daily from 10 a.m. at 16661 Beach Blvd., in Huntington Beach.

Every Home in Park South Is Noted for Distinctive Style

Distinctive exterior designs of the homes at Park South, a private, walled community at 190th and Main Streets, has proved one of the most attractive sales features at the development, according to sales director Reed Clark.

Clark notes that each of the plans is available to prospective buyers in three fashionable exterior styles. Extensive use is made of stone and brick in chimneys and front entry planters. Long shake roof overhangs highlight the home's rustic exterior design.

"Park South is one of the few remaining developments offering impressive, single family homes in a convenient, close-in location," states Clark.

* * * *

THE CENTRALLY-LOCATED community of two-story, three and four-bedroom homes is located just half-a-mile from the Harbor Freeway-San Diego Freeway interchange

In the near future, a wealth of recreational facilities—including an 18-hole golf course—will be available for use by Park South residents at the Los Angeles County's new 177-acre Victoria Park, adjacent to the development and slaated for completion early next year.

The individual homes feature all-electric kitchens with complete built-ins including dishwasher. Fireplaces of stone, brick and veneer are in the living rooms. Full baths are provided both upstairs and down with dual lavatories, cultured marble pullmans and tiled stall showers and baths. Two-car garages and large patios are part of each home.

A moderate price scale begins at $24,500.

Taxed Goods Prices Cut

J. C. Penney Co. last week announced it had reduced by 10% retail prices on several lines of merchandise on which federal excise taxes are levied at the manufacturers' level.

Merchandise on which prices were cut includes ranges, refrigerators, freezers, dishwashers, dehumidifiers, clothes dryers, radios, phonographs, stereo sets, television sets, and cameras and projectors.

Praising President Johnson's proposal for reducing excise taxes, the company explained it was acting in anticipation of favorable action by Congress. The department store chain said it felt customers should not have to wait until July 1 to get benefits from tax deductions and that it was taking the action to encourage customers to buy now.

A PARK SOUTH HOME
Distinctive design of this Park South home is accented by brick chimney, shake roof, exterior flagstone veneers and stone entryway planter. Park South is located at Victoria and Main Street near the intersection of the Harbor and San Diego Freeways.

Broadway Sales Up

Both sales and earnings of Broadway-Hale Stores, Inc. rose to record levels during the first quarter of fiscal 1965 and the outlook for the balance of the year is satisfactory, Edward W. Carter, president, reported to stockholders.

Sales for the 13-week period ended May 1, were $47,066,947 compared with $45,015,810 in the prior year. Earnings total $934,867 or 25 cents per common share whereas earnings in the similar 1964 period amounted to $845,728 or 24 cents per share.

For the 52-week period ended the same date sales totaled $221,343,822 compared with $205,760,250 for the previous period. Earnings advanced to $8,305,586 or $2.32 per share from $7,112,359 or $2.05 per share.

Wall-to-Wall Water

Troubled with a leaky basement? That's minor, when you consider your grandchildren may live entirely under water some day.

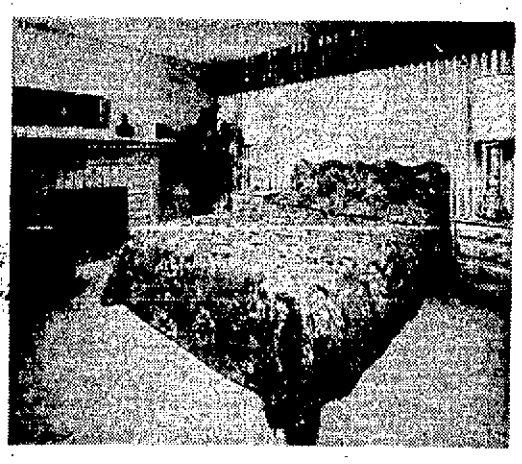

Habitation of the ocean floor is not only possible, but likely, when man decides to tap the ocean's resources, writes Dr. John W. Clark in Battelle Technical Review.

High Praise Given to El Dorado Park

MASTER BEDROOM
This lovely master bedroom at El Dorado Park, Long Beach, has private fireplace as well as private bath and dressing room.

El Dorado Park Estates, in Long Beach, is receiving raves from visitors that include many Hollywood-type superlatives, according to Dick Winchester, sales and marketing manager for S & S construction Co., builders and developers.

"Visitors coming through our Avenue of Furnished Homes comment with 'raves' that rival the superlatives used to describe films in Hollywood," Winchester said. "It is this kind of recognition that has resulted in the fine sales record for S & S Construction, which has built more than 15,000 homes in the Southland."

* * * *

AT EL DORADO PARK Estates there are one, two-story and tri-level models with five, four or three bedrooms. A family room and three or two baths are found in eight floor plans and 34 exterior elevations.

Typical of the extraordinary designs is the tri-level plan No. 201 in which three floors are devoted to three factors of family living. Sleeping is upstairs where three bedrooms are served by two baths. On the main level the eating and general living is accommodated with the kitchen, dining room, breakfast nook, and living room with fireplace. Downstairs is the recreation and service area, served by the third bath.

Conventional financing is offered at El Dorado Park Estates and prices start from $32,000.

Furnished models are on Spring Street west of Los Alamitos, in Long Beach, and may be reached via San Diego Freeway to Bellflower offramp, north to Spring, and east to the homes.

Salesmen 'Singing' in Barkley Square

Runaway sales at Barkley Square, the newest prestige community in Cypress, have been attributed to several factors. Add to the fact that Barkley Square offers the right house at the right price in the right location . . . excellent design . . . and a deluxe patio-kitchen with all built-in's . . . and you have a "new home package" that many families have been unable to resist, says Stanley W. Sampson, president of Barkley Development Co.

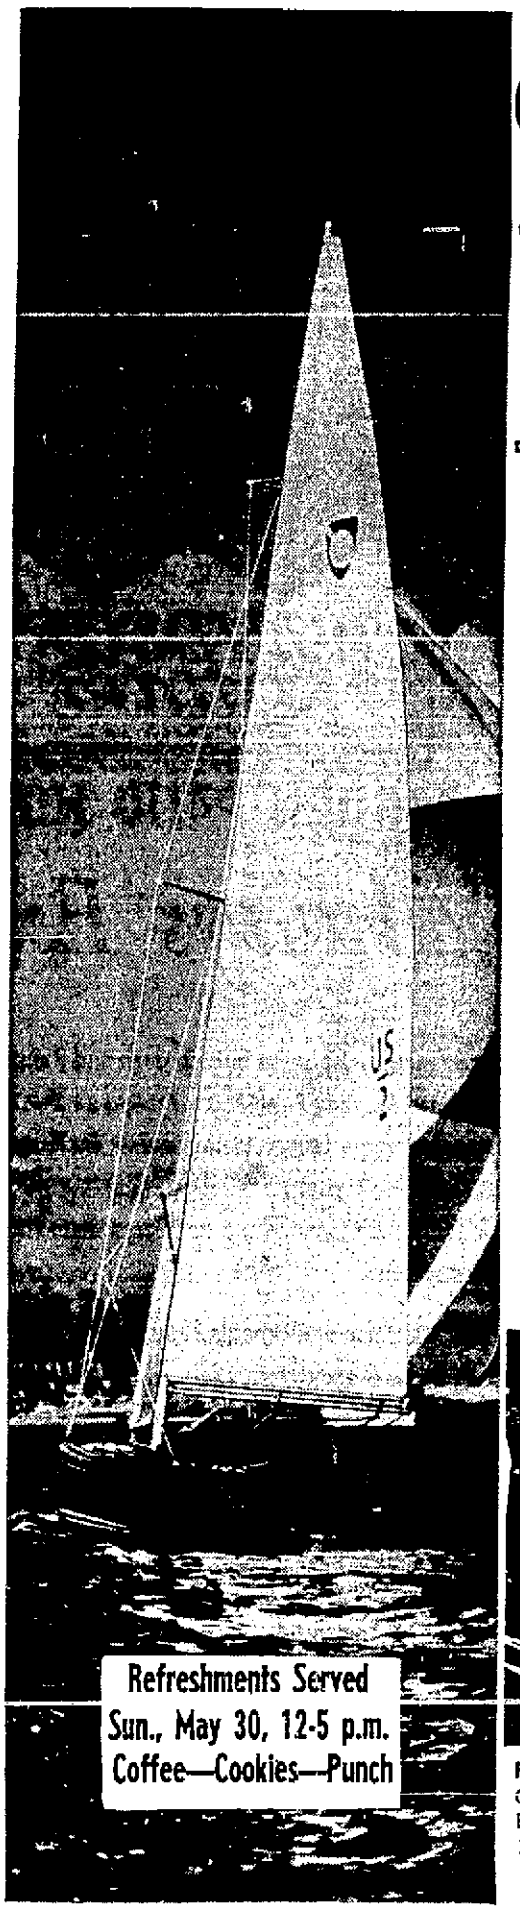

"We are 50% sold out since our grand opening a few weeks ago," he reported.

* * * *

UP TO FOUR-BEDROOM paciousness with two to three baths, large family rooms, and raised or sunken living rooms makes these luxurious homes sales leaders.

VA, FHA and conventional financing is available at Barkley Square on nomes priced from $27,950.

Models may be reached from Long Beach by driving east on Carson to Moody, then right to Barkley Square. Or drive east on Spring (which becomes Cerritos) to Moody, then left to model homes.

Wide Selection of Models at Premier

Premier Homes North and South provide buyers with an exceptionally wide choice of exterior stylings, reports Frank McFarland of McFarland and Mattocks, sales agents.

The Realtor explained that Premier's styling appeal was due to more than the number of elevations offered—16 in all. Premier offers the same floor plan in as many as three radically different exteriors. "A homebuyer at Premier will find not just casual rearrangements of exterior trim offered as elevations, but quite distinct architectural stylings," he said.

* * * *

IN THE POPULAR four-bedroom two-bath Plan 116, which McFarland cited as an example, the three exteriors available are "Briarwood," a traditional styling which would appeal to lovers of Early Americana; "Outrigger," a Polynesian styling with strong appeal to families owning rattan furniture and with a feeling for the South Seas approach; and "Beverlywood," a bold, clean ultra-modern exterior ideally suited for families seeking the contemporary mood.

* * * *

THE SIX floor plans include three- and four-bedroom models, all with two baths, and five of the plans have a "Premium Fun Area" in addition. An extra-large, fully finished room with plumbing roughed in for either a wet bar or a third bath, is one of Premier's top features.

Premier prices range from $24,750. Flexible financing includes VA no down, FHA minimum down and Conventional Financing.

Visitors take Bolsa Chica Road south from San Diego Freeway to Warner Ave. and go left on Warner to Beach Blvd. (Hwy. 39). Turn left on Beach two blocks to Terry St. and the model display, which adjoins the south side of Fantastic Fair department store.

Huntington Beach Prestige Homes Prove in Big Demand

A new unit of Prestige Homes Unit 8, in Huntington Beach, was recently opened to the home buying public and in just two weeks over 50% of the homes were purchased, according to Dan Mytinger, marketing director for the Doyle & Shields Development Co., Inc., builders.

"Prestige Homes are selling so fast—over 300 since the first of the year—we just can't seem to keep ahead of the market," Mytinger said. "The homes that were recently purchased are slated for occupancy in the summer. We do have a few homes that are ready for immediate occupancy."

Prestige Homes offer 34 elevations and eight floor plans in one and two-story; three, four and five-bedroom; two and three bathrooms; two and three-car garage homes. The largest homes contain almost 2,500 square feet of area.

* * * *

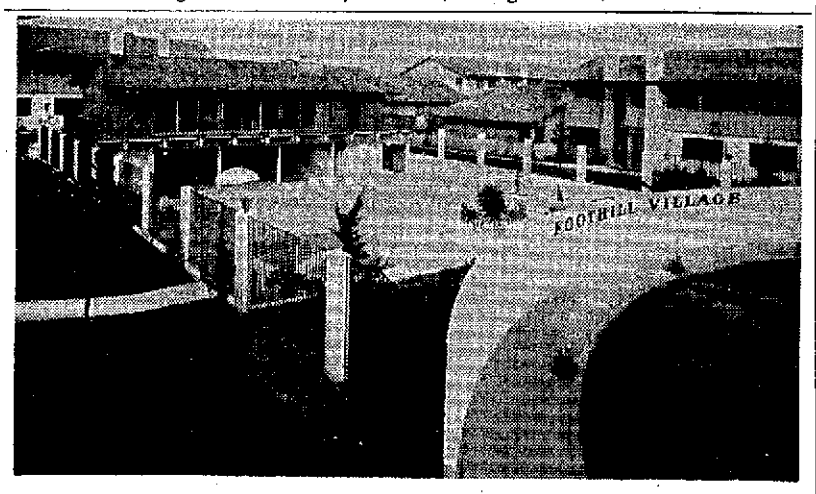

THE HOMES are priced from $25,300 with FHA, Cal-Vet and many conventional financing plans available. Mytinger also pointed out that the company tailors financing plans to fit an individual's needs in cases where the family does not meet the requirements of the standard plans available.

Mytinger also noted that the Prestige Homes location: 10 minutes or less from the beaches, marinas, a golf course, the San Diego Freeway and the Douglas Space Center; as well as within walking distance of both grade and high schools and two shopping centers has been an instrumental factor in the sensational success of the development.

The furnished model homes are open from 10 to 8 daily, with refreshments served from 12 to 5 each Sunday afternoon. From the Long Beach area take the San Diego Freeway south to Bolsa Chica Road, turn right to Edinger Ave., then left to Springdale St., right on Springdale a short distance to the homes in Huntington Beach.

A new unit of Prestige Homes was recently opened to the public and is already over 50% purchased. The one and two-story, three, four and five-bedroom; two and three-bathroom; two and three-car garage homes contain as much as 2,500 square feet of area and are priced from $25,300 with FHA, conventional and Cal-Vet terms all available for the buyer's convenience.

Future Need Seen for Training in Three Jobs

Experts predict the typical American worker in the future may require training for not just one job in his lifetime, but for as many as three entirely different jobs to provide him with a productive and salable working career.

And, according to the Bank of America, "Vocational education has an expanding role to play in this training and retaining process."

The latest edition of the firm's periodical, "Small Business Reporter," notes that recent massive changes in industry and business have created a new kind of employe — the "gray collar worker."

* * * *

THIS WORKER "must possess more techinacl skill than the average blue collar worker," the bank report states, and the vocational school or course offers the know-how he needs.

Indicative of the increasing popularity of vocational schools, which provide training designed to be of immediate practical value in earning a living, is the following fact:

One of the most familiar types of private vocational schools, the business school or college, has shown an 18% increase in enrollment throughout the nation from 1962-63 to 1963-64.

* * * *

IN CALIFORNIA alone, there now are more than 1,000 private vocational schools, enrolling about 100,000.

The bank report points out that a number of private vocational schools have been started by former public school teachers, but that competition in the field is fierce.

Subsidiary Now Fully Owned by Oil Tool Firm

Smith Industries International, Inc., Los Angeles, has completed acquisition of the outstanding 30% minority interest in its subsidiary, Dyna-Drill Corp., Donald E. Graham, president of Smith Industries announced last week.

The acquisition provides Smith with 100% ownership of the company. Dyna-Drill was organized in 1963 to produce and lease a newly-developed directional drilling control tool used in oil and gas exploration.

Although introduced initially in California, the tool is now available on the Gulf Coast and in Canada and will be made available in other foreign countries before the end of the year.

E. P. Garrison is vice president and general manager of the company.

Smith Industries is a leading manufacturer of drilling bits and tools for the oil and mining industries, for tunneling, and in addition manufactures industrial grating.

Foothill Village Townhouses Ready for Summer Occupancy

Two things happen this time of year that can be classified as harbingers of Summer. One is Daylight Saving Time and the other is the end of school.

W. E. Flaharty, partner-developer of Foothill Village Townhouses, observed yesterday that Forest E. Olson's sales team has quite a list of prospective buyers who are waiting for the end of the semester.

"When school's out," Flaharty said, "It's time for vacations and it's time for change. Moving into one of our townhouses can be the equivalent to a whole new vacation-way of life." Commenting on the swimming pool, putting greens, shuffleboard courts and recreation building he said that some residents refer to Foothill Village as 'vacation village.'

* * * *

"THE WONDERFUL school system we have also appeals to families," Flaharty continued. "There is much interest in the California State College at Fullerton, just half a mile away."

Foothill Village Townhouses are ready for the family influx that will begin next weekend. The two-story Plan A Townhouse boasts of four bedrooms (all upstairs) and three baths. The large living room and family room, with sliding glass doors opening onto the patio, gives an interconnected sweep of spaciousness rarely found these days.

Flaharty is quite proud of the 30-year loans that can be arranged, the small down payment required and the unusually low interest rate.

Foothill Village Townhouses are located at Madison Avenue and Placentia Avenue in Fullerton. Prices start at $18,900 with payment as low as $91 per month, principal and interest.

American Can Chief to Retire

William C. Stolk, president and chief executive officer of the American Can Co., which has a plant in Wilmington at 110 E. Sepulveda Blvd., was elected chairman and chief executive officer of the company by the board of directors at a recent meeting in New York City. Simultaneously, he announced his retirement effective Sept. 1, 1965.

At the same time, the board elected William F. May, executive vice president, administration, to the newly created position of vice chairman and E. T. Klassen, executive vice president, operations, to the position of president. The two vacated positions of executive vice president will not be filled.

The board said the post of vice chairman was created to cover the transitional period between now and the date of Stolk's retirement. At that time May will assume the position of chairman and chief executive officer and the position of vice chairman will be eliminated.

Lockheed Establishing Major Ocean Science Study Facility

By KEN CHILCOTE
Business Editor

Lockheed Aircraft Corp. is establishing a major ocean sciences research and engineering facility in San Diego as the first major step in a planned program of marine-oriented activities.

The pioneer aerospace firm feels that mankind's progress in meeting the challenge of the skies will be matched in the years immediately ahead by equally spectacular breakthroughs in the realms of oceanography, reports Daniel J. Haughton, Lockheed president.

The firm is leasing 2.7 acres near the San Diego airport on a harbor channel and arrangements are under way to purchase a now-idle building the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics owns.

* * * *

IT IS PLANNED to occupy the facilities in July and the project will be known as "Lockheed Marine Laboratory."

Lockheed for several years has utilized a small building in San Diego Harbor as headquarters for studies and development of underwater acoustical and specialized studies for antisubmarine programs.

Strongly established in the marine programs through its Polaris and Poseidon fleet ballistic missile projects, Lockheed is building a research submarine, the Deep Quest, that will probe the ocean depths.

Lockheed also has a contract with the U.S. Bureau of Mines to explore possibilities of underseas mining.

* * * *

AMONG VARIOUS other projects planned for the new development will be sonar work for antisubmarine warfare tactics, development of an emergency ballast expulsion system for submarines, using a solid propellant to produce pressurization and electro-mechanical systems to provide corrosion protection for ship hulls and fittings.

Adm. John H. Sides (ret.), former commander-in-chief of the Pacific Fleet is Lockheed's corporate coordinator for the ocean systems planning.

* * * *

DEVELOPMENT of a new chromium-coated sheet steel designed to compete with more expensive stainless grades in certain applications was announced by Bethlehem Steel. It will be known as Bethlehem Chromized Steel.

Items already fabricated and tested include mufflers, tailpipes and parts for combustion chambers. The performance of the new steel has brought much enthusiasm from some industries, the company reports. The metal is readily weldable and standard spot welding procedures give sound welds which retain complete corrosion resistance of the coating.

BENDIX CORP. has entered into a contract to acquire United Geophysical Corp., 2650 E. Foothill Blvd., Pasadena. The latter firm has more than 1,400 employes and is a world-wide organization providing geophysical services to oil companies. With the acquisition Bendix will launch an important new activity in the exploration services for natural resources.

WE ARE BECOMING a push-button race! Aerosol Division of Chemical Specialties Manufacturers Association reports that production of all aerosol products zoomed to 1,365,000,000 units last year. Of these 607 million units went for personal products such as shaving lathers, hair sprays, colognes and deodorants. Insecticides used 79 million units; spray paints 150 million units and housewives used 386 million units for such things as room deodorants, starchers and waxers.

Plans for L.B. Terminal Dropped

General American Transportation Corp. has withdrawn from plans for a fats and vegetable oils terminal at Long Beach as a joint venture with Koppel Bulk Terminals, Inc., it has been announced by Spencer D. Moseley, General American president.

"In the development of plans announced early this year, it became apparent that the Long Beach terminal would not fit logically into the growth pattern of McGuire Terminal Co., our West Coast subsidiary," Moseley said.

He added that the McGuire subsidiary, acquired in 1964, operates tank storage terminals in San Pedro and Oakland, Calif., and Vancouver, Wash.

Installations of the General American Terminals Division are located on the Gulf and Atlantic coasts and on the Great Lakes.

Appeal to Active Adults

Popularity of Huntington Bay, an adult recreational community three minutes from Huntington Beach State Park, even extends to the youngsters and teenagers, says Jack Scougall, vice president of marketing for Kaufman and Broad Homes Inc.

Every weekend, there is a great amount of recreational activity at the community, located at Brookhurst and Adams Aves. in Huntington Beach.

"We have everything from potluck dinners to swimming," Scougall said. "The public always is invited to come down and enjoy the fun."

* * * *

LAST WEEKEND, Scougall said, Huntington Bay residents and guests enjoyed a spaghetti dinner.

The group of approximately 200 also heard the folk singing of Jane Rice of 308 Carol St., Anaheim, who sang many of the popular folk songs. There was also talented community singing.

Huntington Bay townhouses offer the finest in adult living in Cape Cod architectural styling he added. The townhouses are one to three bedrooms or three bedrooms and den and sell from $12,990.

"Only a few of our residents are retired," reports Scougall. "They enjoy the outdoor activities here such as vollyball, badminton, shuffleboard and swimming."

* * * *

SCOUGALL SAID that while Huntington Bay is an all-adult community, youngsters and teenagers frequently spend a lot of time there with aunts, uncles, grandparents and friends of the family.

"We are only minutes from Huntington Beach State Park, and this is some attraction to anyone who loves the ocean and its swimming, sunbathing, fishing and boating," Scougall said.

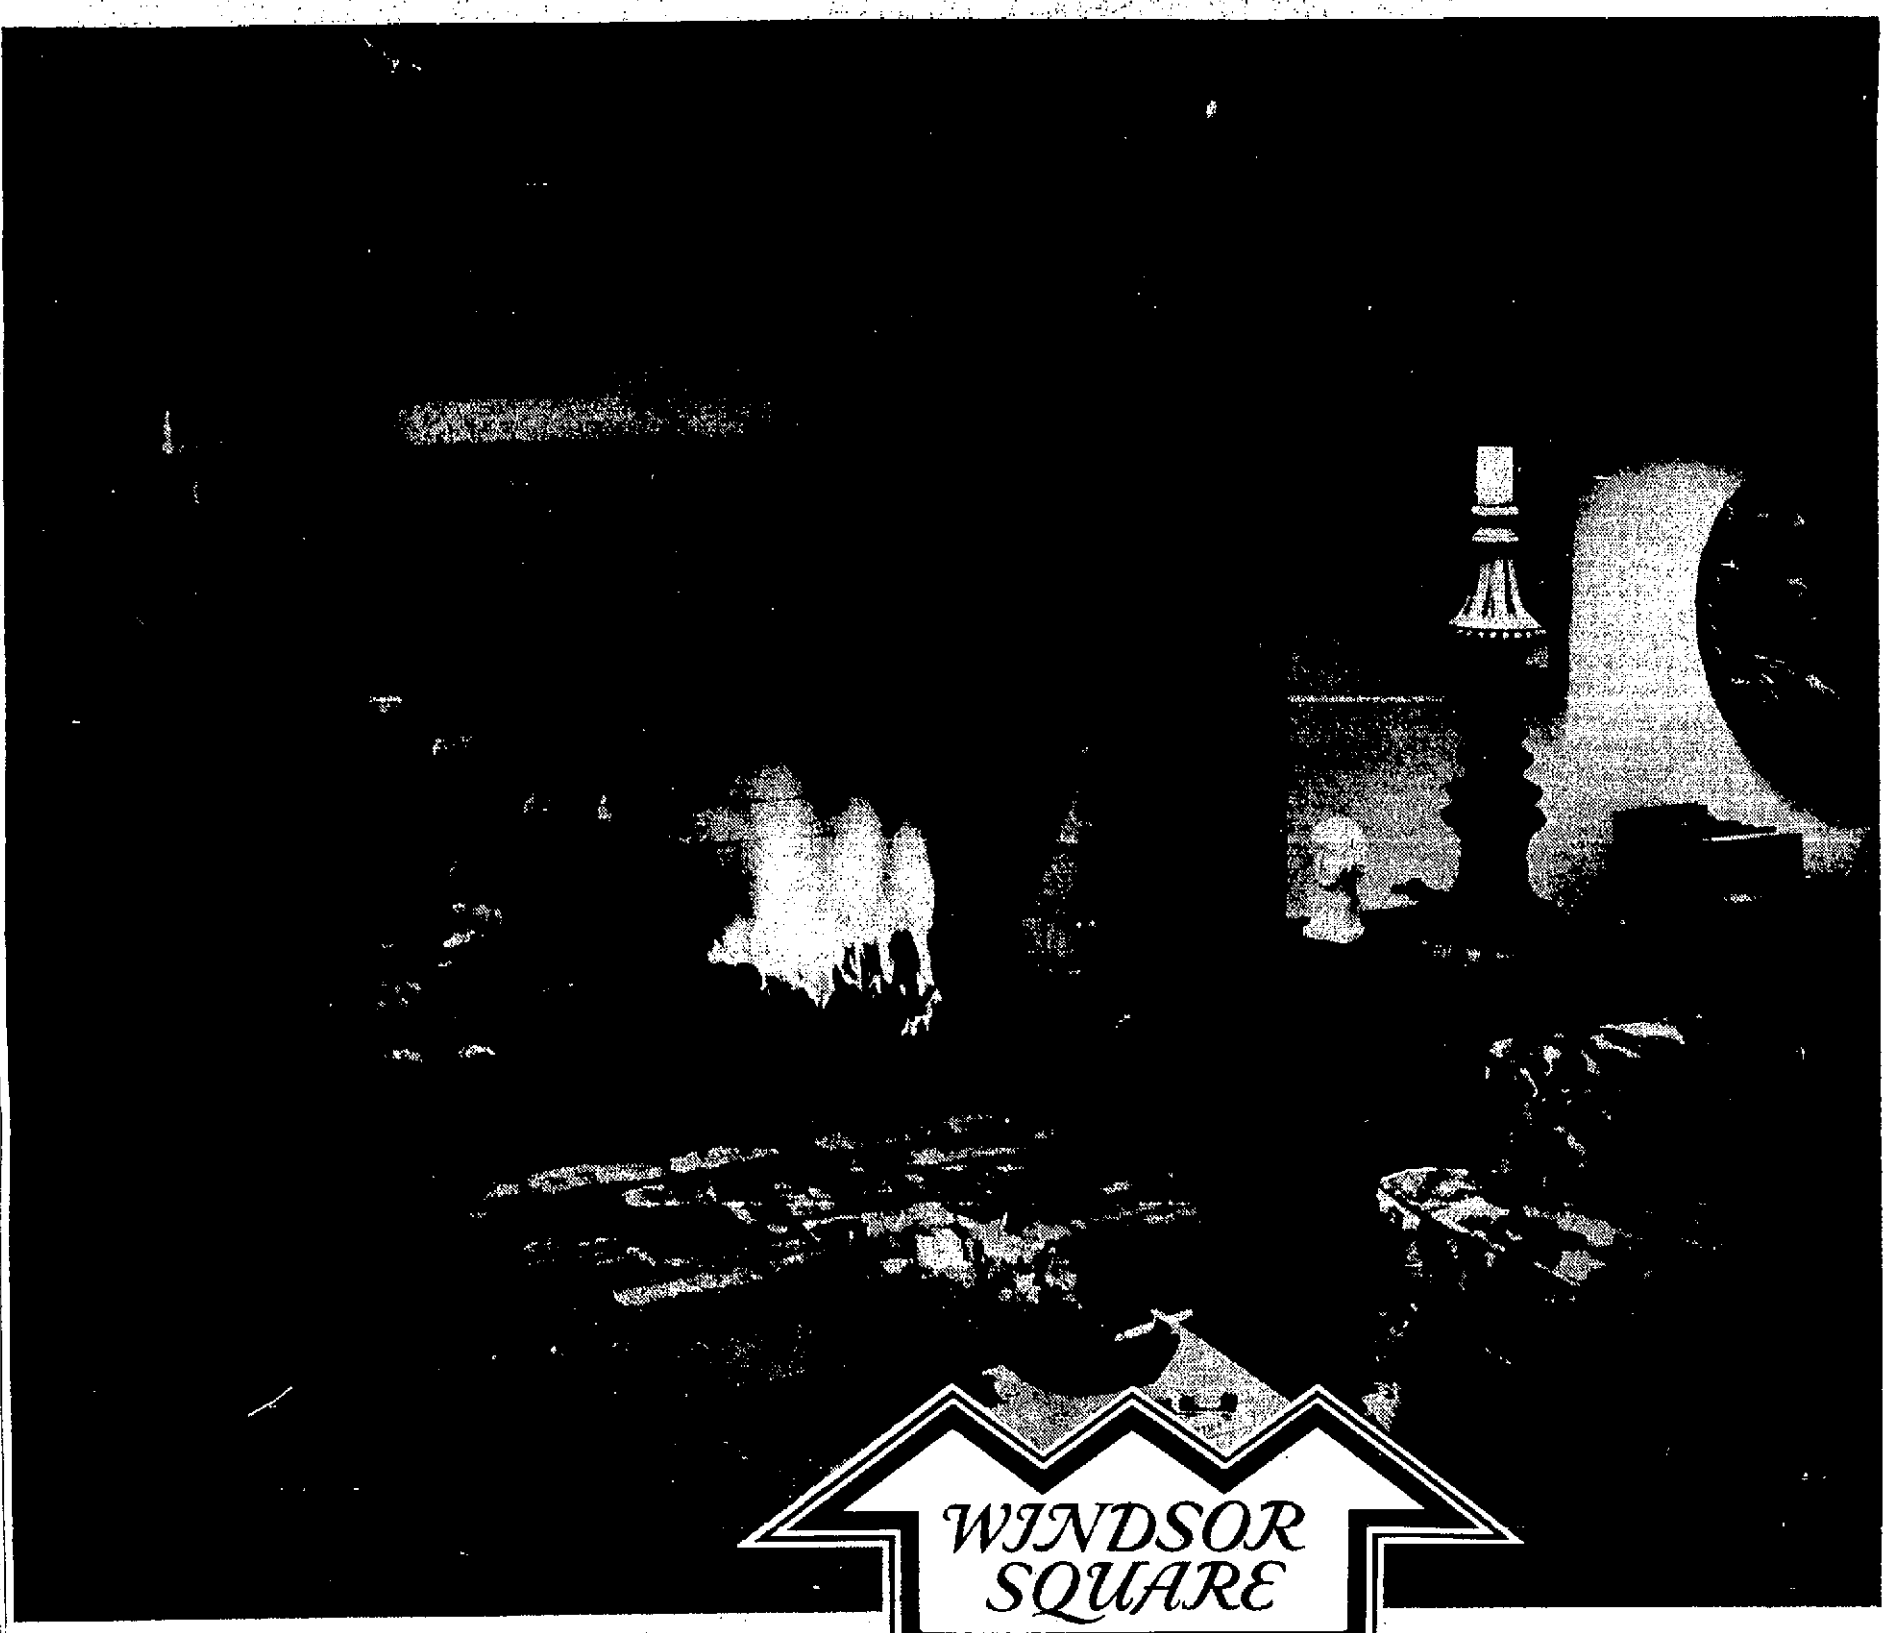

"Huntington Bay has a built-in love of life with its recreational activities programming, ranging from the beach to some very delicious dinners prepared in the kitchen of the clubhouse."

Multiple Listing Contest Now On

Barbara Moss, chairman of the Multiple Listing Committee of the Long Beach District Board of Realtors, has announced that a multiple listing contest is now in progress.

The contest will run to July 31. Monthly listing and selling winners will be awarded plaques at the board breakfast on the first Tuesday of each month, plus publicity in the Realtor News and press.

Grand winners — both listing and selling salesmen—will receive a vacation trip for a weekend, or government bonds, whichever they choose.

Sales Continue to Soar in California Home Fair

Each weekend since the opening, visitors from all parts of Southern California have converged on the California Home Fair in Huntington Beach boosting sales to new records, reports Baxter Caterson, sales director for Alco-Pacific Construction Co., builders.

With 60% of the first and second, units sold out, more than $3,000,000 in new housing has been sold since January of 1965.

The three, four and five-bedroom award-winning homes are priced from $29,550 to $35,975 with many exceptional features designed for California's sunny climate. Low overhanging roofs, covered patios, central atriums and garden patios enhance the concept of indoor-outdoor family living and entertaining.

* * * *

OTHER PREMIUM design features included are full attic insulation, weather-stripping, hand-split shake, shingle or colored rock roofs, concrete driveways, walks, porches and patios. In every home, there are five telephone outlets including a built-in flush-mounted phone conveniently located adjacent to the serving counter between the family room and kitchen.

Visitors may view the five furnished model homes, striking sales pavilion and decorator studio daily from 10 a.m. at 16661 Beach Blvd., in Huntington Beach.

Every Home in Park South Is Noted for Distinctive Style

Distinctive exterior designs of the homes at Park South, a private, walled community at 190th and Main Streets, has proved one of the most attractive sales features at the development, according to sales director Reed Clark.

Clark notes that each of the plans is available to prospective buyers in three fashionable exterior styles. Extensive use is made of stone and brick in chimneys and front entry planters. Long shake roof overhangs highlight the home's rustic exterior design.

"Park South is one of the few remaining developments offering impressive, single family homes in a convenient, close-in location," states Clark.

* * * *

THE CENTRALLY-LOCATED community of two-story, three and four-bedroom homes is located just half-a-mile from the Harbor Freeway-San Diego Freeway interchange

In the near future, a wealth of recreational facilities—including an 18-hole golf course—will be available for use by Park South residents at the Los Angeles County's new 177-acre Victoria Park, adjacent to the development and slaated for completion early next year.

The individual homes feature all-electric kitchens with complete built-ins including dishwasher. Fireplaces of stone, brick and veneer are in the living rooms. Full baths are provided both upstairs and down with dual lavatories, cultured marble pullmans and tiled stall showers and baths. Two-car garages and large patios are part of each home.

A moderate price scale begins at $24,500.

A PARK SOUTH HOME
Distinctive design of this Park South home is accented by brick chimney, shake roof, exterior flagstone veneers and stone entryway planter. Park South is located at Victoria and Main Street near the intersection of the Harbor and San Diego Freeways.

Taxed Goods Prices Cut

J. C. Penney Co. last week announced it had reduced by 10% retail prices on several lines of merchandise on which federal excise taxes are levied at the manufacturers' level.

Merchandise on which prices were cut includes ranges, refrigerators, freezers, dishwashers, dehumidifiers, clothes dryers, radios, phonographs, stereo sets, television sets, and cameras and projectors.

Praising President Johnson's proposal for reducing excise taxes, the company explained it was acting in anticipation of favorable action by Congress. The department store chain said it felt customers should not have to wait until July 1 to get benefits from tax deductions and that it was taking the action to encourage customers to buy now.

Broadway Sales Up

Both sales and earnings of Broadway-Hale Stores, Inc. rose to record levels during the first quarter of fiscal 1965 and the outlook for the balance of the year is satisfactory, Edward W. Carter, president, reported to stockholders.

Sales for the 13-week period ended May 1, were $47,066,947 compared with $45,015,810 in the prior year. Earnings total $934,867 or 25 cents per common share whereas earnings in the similar 1964 period amounted to $845,728 or 24 cents per share.

For the 52-week period ended the same date sales totaled $221,343,822 compared with $205,760,250 for the previous period. Earnings advanced to $8,305,586 or $2.32 per share from $7,112,359 or $2.05 per share.

Wall-to-Wall Water

Troubled with a leaky basement? That's minor, when you consider your grandchildren may live entirely under water some day.

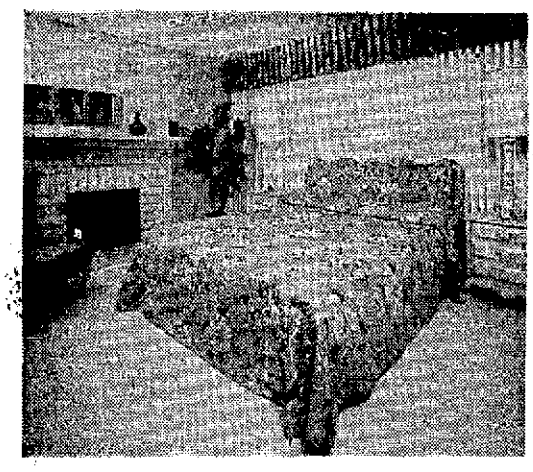

Habitation of the ocean floor is not only possible, but likely, when man decides to tap the ocean's resources, writes Dr. John W. Clark in Battelle Technical Review.

Haven for nation's Gold Star Mothers

—Staff Photos by JOE RISINGER

Colorful gardens such as this surround living units at American Gold Star Home

By JOYCE KENT
I, P-T Club Editor

The uninitiated motorist traveling north on heavily industrial Santa Fe Avenue is provided a surprise as he approaches Spring Street and spies acres of rolling lawn and tree-lined walks.

If he hasn't already gone by, perhaps he notices the American flag fluttering in the breeze over a sign lettered in gold, "American Gold Star Home."

Within the "fence" of leafy trees reside 523 women and 163 men with one thing in common. Each has lost a son or daughter in the service of his country.

Since 1960 these moms and dads, average age of 69, have come from every state in the Union to live side by side in the muted-pink one- and two-story homes that dot the expanse of green.

The sprawling 93-acre facility, owned by American Gold Star Mothers, Inc., is composed of 1,000 units, some 600 occupied by Gold Star moms and dads with the remaining units (rent slightly higher) given over to Navy housing.

Within the area are a recreation center and library, auditorium, clubhouse for the men with fixit and carpentry shops, also shuffle board courts, nine-hole golf course and a memorial park planted with 230 trees of 58 varieties in memory of lost children.

According to George D. Lyon, executive director of the home since its beginning in what formerly was wartime Navy housing, the complex is entirely supported by rental and is operated by a board of directors appointed by the presiding judge of the Superior Court.

Spirit behind the home comes from the 18,000 members of American Gold Star Mothers, Inc., who belong to 550 chapters throughout the United States. Only these members are eligible to reside in the home, according to Rose Decker, long-time resident, who currently serves as national second vice president of the organization.

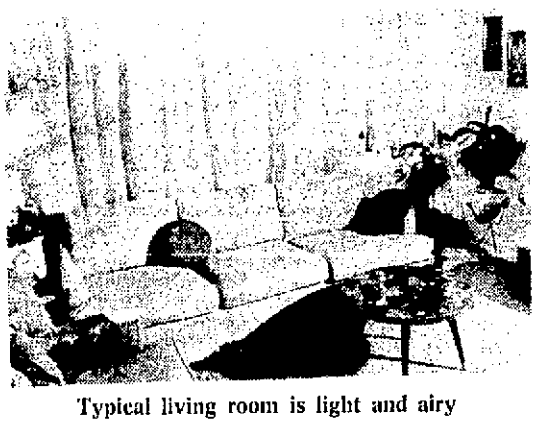

While activities offered at the home would make a highly-organized Boy Scout camp pale by comparison, emphasis is on individuality and occupants may be as active or as passive as they please.

Judging from the riot of color surrounding the housing units, gardening must be number one hobby and awards are given annually for the best tended garden.

Behind the blooms are well cared for apartments, furnished either by the home or by the residents, according to wish. All units are provided with television sets, kept in repair without charge. Rental per unit, including utilities and all facilities of the home, is $39 per month. If the residents, the majority of whom are widows, are living on only small pensions, the rent is probably less. Nobody tells.

And at 9 o'clock this morning a wreath of poppies will be placed on the home memorial and members will pause as they have so many times—to re-read the words engraved there:

"Spirit
that made these heroes dare to die
to leave their children free
bid time and nature gently spare

Memories of Lyndon linger

By VERA WILLIAMS

A breathless youth, always in a hurry, his socks in his pockets and his shoe laces untied.

That's the most vivid memory Leola Tarbutton has of the President of the United States.

It was the spring of 1928 and she and Lyndon Johnson were in the same psychology class at Southwestern State Teachers College at San Marcus, Tex. Both were freshmen.

"My maiden name was Camp," she explains. "We sat alphabetically. No one had a name between Camp and Johnson, so Lyndon sat next to me, on my right.

"THE STORIES about his earning his way are true. He did janitorial work on the campus, sweeping out classrooms and the like, and he slept in the attic at the home of one of the college officials.

"He had to start work at 5 or so in the morning, then he had to change his clothes and make our class at 8. He usually just got in under the wire. Sometimes he had to hurry so he didn't quite finish dressing. I hope the President doesn't mind if I tell it, but sometimes he carried his socks in his pocket and his shoe laces still weren't tied."

WHAT KIND of a person was Lyndon Johnson then?

"Tall, lanky, of course, with a lot of dark wavy hair. Very friendly. Everybody liked him. Grades better than average. He was a go-getter even then. He was elected president of his freshman class."

The next year Mrs. Tarbutton attended St. Mary's University in San Antonio, Lyndon Johnson continued at Southwestern. They never saw each other again.

"I FOLLOWED HIS career, though," she says, "when he taught in Cotulla and other Texas schools and I wasn't surprised when he went into politics. I'm not surprised that he is President."

Mrs. Tarbutton came to Long Beach in 1944 when her husband, Ira, a Navy yeoman first class, had Pacific duty. They live at 3626 E. Pacific Coast Highway. Mrs. Tarbutton teaches fifth grade at McKinley elementary school.

Heath helps when cupid needs counsel

(United Way of Long Beach area, 1047 Pine Ave., offers troubled families aid in solving everyday problems. The family counseling service, open to everyone within the large United Way area, charges according to ability to pay. Following Al Heath, head counselor, sets forth his views on marriage and divorce.)

Ask Al Heath what he believes to be the main cause of divorce and he'll tell you—in one word.

"Marriage."

Heath's answer isn't as facetious as it might first appear.

As head of the United Way's Family Counseling Service of Long Beach, his concern over the spiraling divorce rate is far from flip.

As he sees it the boom in divorce is the direct result of the modern outlook on marriage: the changing pattern of American living, the new status of women.

"In California one out of four marriages ends in divorce. If the trend were to continue one might well expect more divorce than marriage eventually," says Heath, "but I'm not so pessimistic."

HEATH'S SURE marriage is here to stay. He's also sure that it's time for many to reevaluate the time worn institution.

As a counselor for cupid he and his staff help individual couples do just that.

"Some of the finest people in the world walk through my door," he says. "Recognizing the need for help and seeking it is a sign of strength—not weakness."

What mistake does Heath feel most people make in marriage?

"They expect too much. They confuse romance and love. Marriage is no cure-all for personal unhappiness, but a lot of people seem to approach it this way."

To put across his point, Heath cites the response he got when he asked a young girl why she wanted to get married. Her answer: "because I'm in love. Because I'm happy when I'm with him. I like the way he looks and the way he treats me."

"PRETTY SELFISH outlook when you analyze it, don't you think?" says Heath.

"The next thing she may be saying is 'if he really loved me' he wouldn't act like he does."

What does make a happy marriage? "Emotional maturity and self understanding help," says Heath.

"If you never take the time to delve into your own personality, you're liable to keep repeating the same mistakes."

Here Heath uses as example, the case of a woman who married five times, each time to an alcoholic or dope addict.

"In reality she just was remar-

Lockheed Establishing Major Ocean Science Study Facility

By KEN CHILCOTE
Business Editor

Lockheed Aircraft Corp. is establishing a major ocean sciences research and engineering facility in San Diego as the first major step in a planned program of marine-oriented activities.

The pioneer aerospace firm feels that mankind's progress in meeting the challenge of the skies will be matched in the years immediately ahead by equally spectacular breakthroughs in the realms of oceanography, reports Daniel J. Haughton, Lockheed president.

The firm is leasing 2.7 acres near the San Diego airport on a harbor channel and arrangements are under way to purchase a now-idle building the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics owns.

* * * *

IT IS PLANNED to occupy the facilities in July and the project will be known as "Lockheed Marine Laboratory."

Lockheed for several years has utilized a small building in San Diego Harbor as headquarters for studies and development of underwater acoustical and specialized studies for antisubmarine programs.

Strongly established in the marine programs through its Polaris and Poseidon fleet ballistic missile projects, Lockheed is building a research submarine, the Deep Quest, that will probe the ocean depths.

Lockheed also has a contract with the U.S. Bureau of Mines to explore possibilities of underseas mining.

* * * *

AMONG VARIOUS other projects planned for the new development will be sonar work for antisubmarine warfare tactics; development of an emergency ballast expulsion system for submarines, using a solid propellant to produce pressurization and electro-mechanical systems to provide corrosion protection for ship hulls and fittings.

Adm. John H. Sides (ret.), former commander-in-chief of the Pacific Fleet, is Lockheed's corporate coordinator for the ocean systems planning.

* * * *

DEVELOPMENT of a new chromium-coated sheet steel designed to compete with more expensive stainless grades in certain applications was announced by Bethlehem Steel. It will be known as Bethlehem Chromized Steel.

Items already fabricated and tested include mufflers, tailpipes and parts for combustion chambers. The performance of the new steel has brought much enthusiasm from some industries, the company reports. The metal is readily weldable and standard spot welding procedures give sound welds which retain complete corrosion resistance of the coating.

BENDIX CORP. has entered into a contract to acquire United Geophysical Corp., 2650 E. Foothill Blvd., Pasadena. The latter firm has more than 1,400 employes and is a world-wide organization providing geophysical services to oil companies. With the acquisition Bendix will launch an important new activity in the exploration services for natural resources.

WE ARE BECOMING a push-button race! Aerosol Division of Chemical Specialties Manufacturers Association reports that production of all aerosol products zoomed to 1,365,000,000 units last year. Of these 607 million units went for personal products such as shaving lathers, hair sprays, colognes and deodorants. Insecticides used 79 million units, spray paints 150 million units and housewives used 386 million units for such things as room deodorants, starcheers and waxers.

Plans for L.B. Terminal Dropped

General American Transportation Corp. has withdrawn from plans for a fats and vegetable oils terminal at Long Beach as a joint venture with Koppel Bulk Terminals, Inc., it has been announced by Spencer D. Moseley, General American president.

"In the development of plans announced early this year, it became apparent that the Long Beach terminal would not fit logically into the growth pattern of McGuire Terminal Co., our West Coast subsidiary," Moseley said.

He added that the McGuire subsidiary, acquired in 1964, operates tank storage terminals in San Pedro and Oakland, Calif., and Vancouver, Wash.

Installations of the General American Terminals Division are located on the Gulf and Atlantic coasts and on the Great Lakes.

Appeal to Active Adults

Popularity of Huntington Bay, an adult recreational community three minutes from Huntington Beach State Park, even extends to the youngsters and teenagers, says Jack Scougall, vice president of marketing for Kaufman and Broad Homes Inc.

Every weekend, there is a great amount of recreational activity at the community, located at Brookhurst and Adams Aves. in Huntington Beach.

"We have everything from potluck dinners to swimming," Scougall said. "The public always is invited to come down and enjoy the fun."

* * * *

LAST WEEKEND, Scougall said, Huntington Bay residents and guests enjoyed a spaghetti dinner.

The group of approximately 200 also heard the folk singing of Jane Rice of 308 Carol St., Anaheim, who sang many of the popular folk songs. There was also talented community singing.

Huntington Bay townhouses offer the finest in adult living in Cape Cod architectural styling he added. The townhouses are one to three bedrooms or three bedrooms and den and sell from $12,990.

"Only a few of our residents are retired," reports Scougall. "They enjoy the outdoor activities here such as vollyball, badminton, shuffleboard and swimming."

* * * *

SCOUGALL SAID that while Huntington Bay is an all-adult community, youngsters and teenagers frequently spend a lot of time there with aunts, uncles, grandparents and friends of the family.

"We are only minutes from Huntington Beach State Park, and this is some attraction to anyone who loves the ocean and its swimming, sunbathing, fishing and boating," Scougall said.

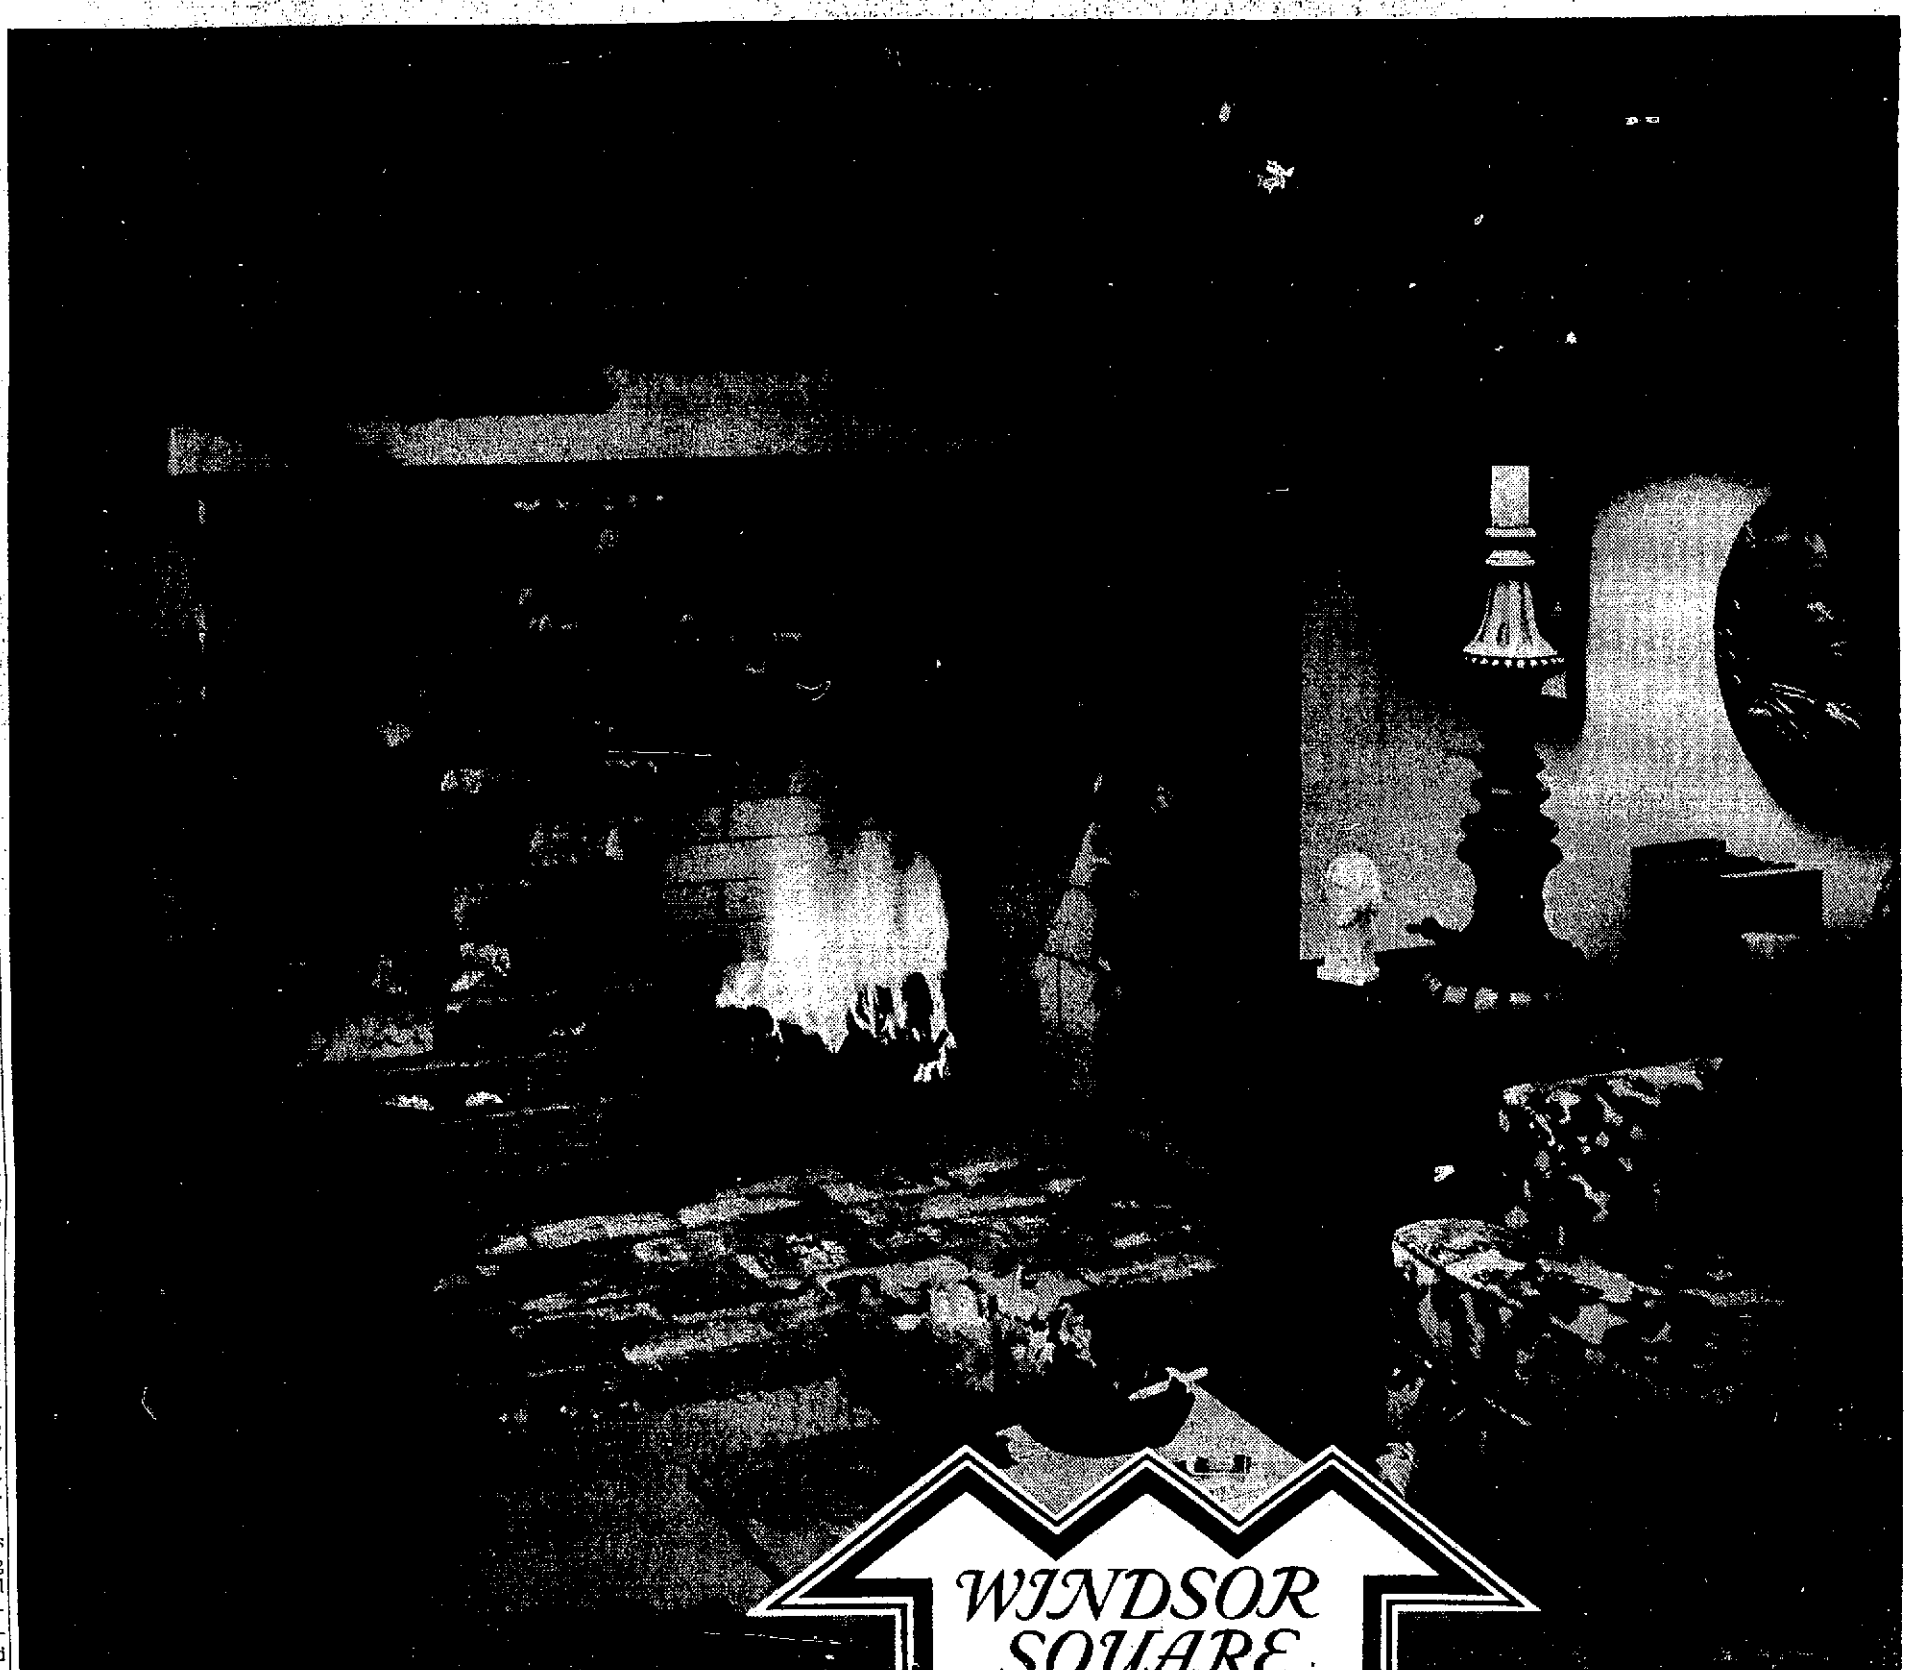

"Huntington Bay has a built-in love of life with its recreational activities programming, ranging from the beach to some very delicious dinners prepared in the kitchen of the clubhouse."

Multiple Listing Contest Now On

Barbara Moss, chairman of the Multiple Listing Committee of the Long Beach District Board of Realtors, has announced that a multiple listing contest is now in progress.

The contest will run to July 31. Monthly listing and selling winners will be awarded plaques at the board breakfast on the first Tuesday of each month, plus publicity in the Realtor News and press.

Grand winners — both listing and selling salesmen—will receive a vacation trip for a weekend, or government bonds, whichever they choose.

WILD WAVES SAY

Heady stuff--prison cap, party hats

By Iola Masterson
I, P-T Society Editor

INFORMATION this week focuses on hats that will go to people's heads. Some will lead to annual, glamorous headdress ball— and one, in fun, leads a stalwart citizen to prison. Well, sort of.

First about that prison bit. Dr. Norman Moore, with wife Donna's full approval, (see photo right), is giving up his private dental practice here to go on staff (professional, not inmate!) of the medical facility for state prisons at Vacaville.

Anyhoo, Barbara and Fred Barnes and Marilyn and Don Geiger had a farewell spree for the Moores. Captured as party honorees for a night, they gave ol' Norm the full treatment, presenting him with ball, chain, striped uniform and handcuffs to wear. They gave Donna posie bedecked hat, play garden tools to indicate she should be ready for plenty of country gardening when they make home in nearby Napa. Reason for this seemingly drastic move?

The Moores want to get out of the hustle, bustle of big city life and move to wide open spaces where their children can have horses, living is easier, air fresher and cleaner.

ABOUT THE other hat (below) it's a mock-up of one chapeau made by Lois (Mrs. Anthony) Vena for the headdress ball committee's first luncheon and planning session at Betty (Mrs. Wallace) Arntzen's home.

Although ball, sponsored by Long Beach Auxiliary to Southern California Symphony Association, won't take place until Nov. 20, Betty, general chairman, is on the ball for the ball and off to a flying start. Theme will be Chapeaux Haute Couture and will give those wishing to compete ample leeway in dreaming up high fashion headdress.

BETTY ARNTZEN, LOIS VENA
. . . headdress fit for a ball

Staff photo by Curt Johnson

MARILYN (MRS. DON) GEIGER, D R. NORMAN AND DONNA MOORE
. . . this family sentenced themselves, perhaps for life, to Vacaville!

One thing the gals stress — such committee members as Jessie Lee Malcolm, Lia Krempels, Artie Stevenson, Florence Cole and Virginia Milton — is that they want to catch spirit of years gone by when every woman attending headdress ball, in competition or not, wore some form of pretty head decoration — even if only a sophisticated flower!

They would also like to have clubs sponsor entries with members there to cheer their candidates on.

JUNE 10 will be a materially rewarding day for Shari (Arkush) Wentworth. She'll be honoree at a linen shower to be given by Helen Jones and her daughter, Nada Richards, at Nada's home.

SCANT three weeks after Zoltan Szilard received his private pilot's license he and wife, Nancy, took off in a Cessna 172 for Winnipeg, Alberta, for vacation. They're back — but not without a couple of experiences even seasoned flyers would talk about for a long time to come.

Between Las Vegas and Salt Lake City a cloud cover, blanketing the entire way, made it necessary for him to fly by instrument. Then, over the Rockies, they hit extremely bouncy air conditions. Fortunately, Nancy was taking a nap when he noticed the gas tank was registering empty AND they were too far from any airport to make radio contact.

At what must have been the last possible (gulp!) moment they were picked up by a Caspar, Wyo., radio and guided in for safe landing. After that, trip was routine. In fact, really great.

THERE'S ONLY so much a man can bear. Betty and C. Duane Mooney's son, Mike, 5½, had, it turned out, secretly fumed for some time that bedtime always came too early for him to be included in adult parties, his favorite kind.

What really teed him off was being ring bearer in a wedding and NOT being invited to rehearsal dinner. He bided his time, then one day marched up to his mother and announced, "My dear friend is home and I want to give her a welcome back party." His dear friend is Betty East, retired school teacher, who returned recently from trip to Mid-west.

So Mike was granted his wish. He scurried around the neighborhood and rounded up 10 willing guests—all adults, by the way. He told his mother he'd manage everything if she'd just take care of the food. Party was from 5 to 7 p.m. and Mike didn't miss a moment of it — from time he greeted first guest until he said goodbye to the last. He served all the food (Betty just prepared the tidbits) and was a charming, beaming host. Victory at last!

MOVING INTO a much larger new home in Palos Verdes (this weekend) are Ann and Dalton Lee. It's on an enormous lot — as yet unlandscaped. And do you know what? Dalton can hardly wait to get started on the yard work. No kidding. He loves it. Wotta guy.

City of Hope fund drive to take place next Sunday

On Hope Sunday, June 6, when thousands of volunteers in Long Beach will march door-to-door asking for contributions for the City of Hope Medical Center, it will have a special meaning for Mrs. Ruth E. Christensen, 2780 Adriatic Ave.

She recently received extensive care including surgery at the Medical Center and continues to receive care through visits to the outpatient clinic. Of special importance to Mrs. Christensen, a widow, is the fact that no patient ever pays at City of Hope.

WORDS CANNOT express the warm, friendly feeling you get at the City of Hope," Mrs. Christensen said. "I can never thank them enough for all they did for me."

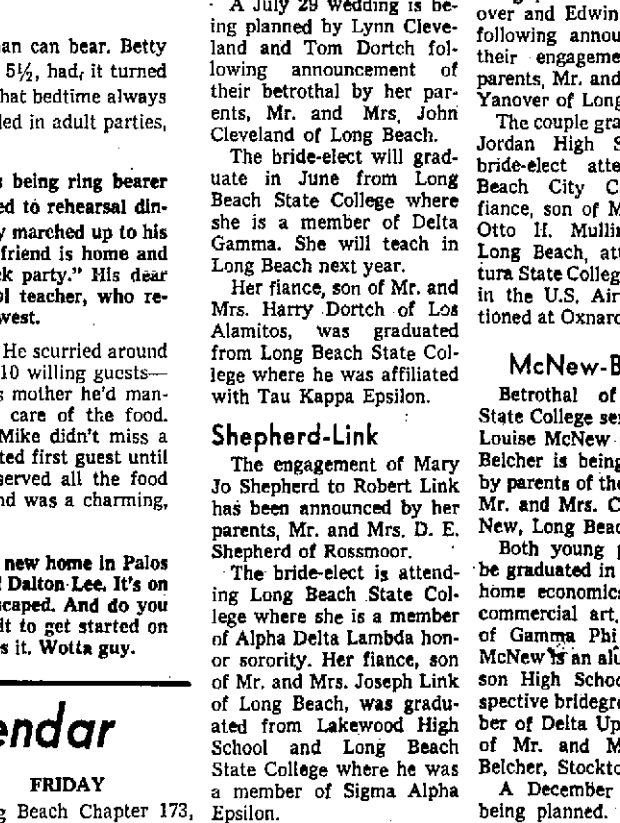

The volunteer drive on Hope Sunday is under the direction of Joan Crawford, Southern California chairman.

Now in its 52nd year, the City of Hope's fight against cancer, leukemia, blood, heart and chest diseases is supported solely by contributions.

Haven for nation's Gold Star Mothers

—Staff Photos by JOE RISINGER

Colorful gardens such as this surround living units at American Gold Star Home

By JOYCE KENT
I, P-T Club Editor

The uninitiated motorist traveling north on heavily industrial Santa Fe Avenue is provided a surprise as he approaches Spring Street and spies acres of rolling lawn and tree-lined walks.

If he hasn't already gone by, perhaps he notices the American flag fluttering in the breeze over a sign lettered in gold, "American Gold Star Home."

Within the "fence" of leafy trees reside 523 women and 163 men with one thing in common. Each has lost a son or daughter in the service of his country.

Since 1960 these moms and dads, average age of 69, have come from every state in the Union to live side by side in the muted-pink one- and two-story homes that dot the expanse of green.

The sprawling 93-acre facility, owned by American Gold Star Mothers, Inc., is composed of 1,000 units, some 600 occupied by Gold Star moms and dads with the remaining units (rent slightly higher) given over to Navy housing.

Within the area are a recreation center and library, auditorium, clubhouse for the men with fixit and carpentry shops, also shuffle board courts, nine-hole golf course and a memorial park planted with 230 trees of 58 varieties in memory of lost children.

According to George D. Lyon, executive director of the home since its beginning in what formerly was wartime Navy housing, the complex is entirely supported by rental and is operated by a board of directors appointed by the presiding judge of the Superior Court.

Spirit behind the home comes from the 18,000 members of American Gold Star Mothers, Inc., who belong to 550 chapters throughout the United States. Only these members are eligible to reside in the home, according to Rose Decker, long-time resident, who currently serves as national second vice president of the organization.

While activities offered at the home would make a highly-organized Boy Scout camp pale by comparison, emphasis is on individuality and occupants may be as active or as passive as they please.

Judging from the riot of color surrounding the housing units, gardening must be number one hobby and awards are given annually for the best tended garden.

Behind the blooms are well cared for apartments, furnished either by the home or by the residents, according to wish. All units are provided with television sets, kept in repair without charge. Rental per unit, including utilities and all facilities of the home, is $39 per month. If the residents, the majority of whom are widows, are living on only small pensions, the rent is probably less. Nobody tells.

And at 9 o'clock this morning a wreath of poppies will be placed on the home memorial and members will pause as they have so many times—to re-read the words engraved there:

"Spirit
that made these heroes dare to die
to leave their children free
bid time and nature gently spare
this memorial to them and thee."

As head of the United Way's Family Counseling Service of Long Beach, his concern over the spiraling divorce rate is far from flip.

As he sees it the boom in divorce is the direct result of the modern outlook on marriage; the changing pattern of American living, the new status of women.

"In California one out of four marriages ends in divorce. If the trend were to continue one might well expect more divorce than marriage eventually," says Heath, "but I'm not so pessimistic."

HEATH'S SURE marriage is here to stay. He's also sure that it's time for many to reevaluate the time worn institution.

As a counselor for cupid he and his staff help individual couples do just that.

"Some of the finest people in the world walk through my door," he says. "Recognizing the need for help and seeking it is a sign of strength—not weakness."

What mistake does Heath feel most people make in marriage?

"They expect too much. They confuse romance and love. Marriage is no cure-all for personal unhappiness, but a lot of people seem to approach it this way."

To put across his point, Heath cites the response he got when he asked a young girl why she wanted to get married. Her answer; "because I'm in love. Because I'm happy when I'm with him. I like the way he looks and the way he treats me."

"PRETTY SELFISH outlook when you analyze it, don't you think?" says Heath.

"The next thing she may be saying is 'if he really loved me' he wouldn't act like he does."

What does make a happy marriage? "Emotional maturity and self understanding help," says Heath.

"If you never take the time to delve into your own personality, you're liable to keep repeating the same mistakes."

Here Heath uses as example, the case of a woman who married five times, each time to an alcoholic or dope addict.

"In reality she just was remar-

WEEKEND WEDDINGS

Newlyweds say 'I do' in church rites

Anderson-Friesel

A honeymoon trip to Carmel followed the wedding of Barbara Cathleen Friesel and Dennis Lee Anderson Saturday evening in All Saints Episcopal Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Jane Friesel of 4302 Palo Verde Ave., Lakewood. She wore a gown with bodice of silk organza and rose point lace with sabrina neckline. The front of the gown was tiered in lace with side panels of organza appliqued in lace and sequins. The tiered lace skirt cascaded into a chapel train.

* * * *

SUE BAXLEY was maid of honor with Linda Searle and Bonnie Miller as bridesmaids. The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Anderson of 110 Platt St., chose Joe McNabb as best man with Larry, Ricky and Randy Anderson, seating guests.

The couple, both Lakewood High School graduates, attended Long Beach City College. They will reside in Long Beach.

Moore-Murray

In a Cahill gown of silk organza over taffeta featuring a chapel train, Marilyn Murray repeated nuptial vows with Paul Harris Moore Jr. Saturday afternoon in the Huntington Beach First Christian Church.

The bride, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward D. Murray, chose Mrs. Ron Baichtal as matron of honor. Mrs. Marlene Johnson and Mary Moore completed the entourage.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul H. Moore of Huntington Beach, chose his brother Larry as best man. Ben Duncan, William Shumate, Dennis and Joseph Moore, brothers of the groom; and James Koscelnik, brother-in-law of the groom seated guests.

* * * *

THE NEW Mrs. Moore, a graduate of Poly High School, was also graduated from Long Beach State College where she was president of Student Affiliates of American Chemical Society. She was also a member of Zeta Tau Alpha and Long Beach Symphonettes. Her husband, also a graduate of LBSC, attended the University of Nebraska. He received his Ph.D from UCLA.

Following a honeymoon trip to Yosemite and Carmel, the couple will reside in Los Angeles.

Wolfe-Kyle

Itiline Marie Kyle and Glenn Dean Wolfe recited nuptial vows Friday evening in Los Alto Methodist Church.

The bride, who is attending Millikan High School, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Kyle Jr. of 2164 Stevely Ave. She chose Susan Clay as maid of honor with Pamela Jean Johnson and Barbara Jean Wilson as bridesmaids.

* * * *

THE NEW Mrs. Wolfe wore a gown with fitted bodice and skirt, formed of tier upon tier of lace, featuring a train cascading from the back.

Her husband, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy W. Wolfe of Kearney, Neb., chose Kermit Downing Kyle as best man with John C. Kyle III, and Roland Edmoid Fink seating guests. He is now serving in the U.S. Marine Corps.

The couple will reside in Long Beach.

Buldan-Kaiser

A home in Long Beach awaits Mr. and Mrs. Casimir S. Buldan (the former Loretta Anna Kaiser) following their honeymoon trip to Las Vegas. The couple recited vows Saturday afternoon in the Trinity Lutheran Church of Norwalk.

The bride of Long Beach, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John E. Kaiser, wore a floor-length gown of peau de soie with silk organza lined Chantilly lace train edged withp eau de soie starting from the neckline.

* * * *

CAROLYN Simpson was maid of honor with Carol Quinn and Phyllis Bradish as bridesmaids.

The groom, son of John Buldan of Buffalo, N.Y., and the late Mrs. Buldan, chose Lt. John Takacs, USA, as best man with John Saunders and Lawrence Newbill as ushers.

The new Mrs. Buldan was graduaaed from Excelsior High School and Long Beach State College where she was afilliated with Sigma Kappa and Alpha Mu Gamma. Her husband was graduated from the University of Buffalo and is now working on his master's degree at LBSC.

Newlyweds honeymoon in San Diego

Lakewood Village Community Church was scene of the marriage of Carolyn Sue Wilford and Michael L. Oram Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul B. Wilford of 4340 Rutgers Ave. are parents of the bride. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Pendleton of 1611 Gish Ave.

In a gown of Chantilly lace, trimmed with sequins and seed pearls and featuring a short train, the bride, a Lakewood High School graduate, was preceeded by her sister; Joanne was was matron of honor. Patricia West, Patricia Burdett and Mrs. Richard Wilford, the bride's sister-in-law, completed the entourage.

* * * *

THE GROOM chose Richard Wilford, the bride's brother, as best man with Clyde Moore III, Ralph Rina and Harry Beck Jr. as ushers.

The new Mrs. Oram was graduated from Long Beach City College with an Associate Arts Registered Nurse degree. She was a member of Entre Nous and Iota Chi. Her husband, a Millikan High School graduate, attended LBCC and was a member of The Order of Tong International.

Following a honeymoon trip to San Diego, the newlyweds will reside in Long Beach.

HOW TO GET MARRIED

Big day for all—your wedding

By JUDY HAZLETT
I-PT Staff Writer
(Another in a Series)

The wedding is only a few days away . . . preliminary plans have been made, invitations mailed, wedding portraits taken and notice given to the newspapers. Now its time to get down to the business at hand.

A rehearsal for the ceremony is very important whether you plan a small simple wedding or a large formal church ceremony. You, as the bride, and your family will find that working out the details before the wedding takes place will make the ceremony successful and your wedding day more pleasant.

Let us imagine, for the sake of this column, that you are having a church wedding with a maid of honor, four bridesmaids and a flower girl. The groom plans on four ushers, a best man and ring bearer.

One of the first things to do is pair off the ushers and bridesmaids according to height. The shortest pair of ushers will lead.

The bridesmaids will proceed accordingly followed by the maid of honor. Then comes the ring bearer, the flower girl, and you, the bride, on your father's RIGHT arm.

* * * *

THERE will be less confusion if the wedding party lines up in this arrangement before the music begins. On the first beat of the march, the processional starts down the aisle — each member starting on his or her left foot.

There is usually two to three pews between each pair of ushers . . . the bridesmaids beginning the same distance behind the last set of ushers.

At the same time the ushers begin the processional, the clergyman, the groom and the best man will enter from the vestry taking their positions immediately in front of the first pew on the right where the groom's parents are seated. The best man takes his place in line with the groom and a step to the right. (They should never approach the altar together).

Your father should always hug the left side of the aisle to keep you well in the center, permitting the bridal train and veil to have adequate space. When you arrive at the first pew, he should draw you slightly to the left so you will be directly in front of the clergyman's right hand — the groom will be opposite the left hand.

(Remember not to take the groom's arm when your father releases you to the rest of the bridal party. This is a common mistake . . . your father has not yet given you in marriage.)

* * * *

WHEN THE bridal party reaches the altar, the first two ushers will take their positions in the middle of the first pew.

The next two ushers will follow suit, taking their positions on the right of the preceding pair. The same alignment follows for the bridesmaids.

The maid of honor will take her position between the last bridesmaid and the bride. The ring bearer will then take his position at the right of the best man. The flower girl stands beside the maid of honor.

Each religious order has its own ceremony which your minister, priest or rabbi will explain to you during the rehearsal.

Don't be afraid to ask questions of your clergyman and be sure to leave plenty of time for your rehearsal.

As the music begins for the recessional, you will take the groom's arm and move slowly forward so the maid of honor can arrange your train and veil. Walk slowly and gracefully — everyone is eager to see your happy faces.

* * * *

THE WEDDING party will leave the altar in the same arrangement they began the ceremony, all walking slowly and watching the ones in front of them.

The question often arises, if the bride's father is not living who will give her away? The bride's mother can perform this part of the ceremony, a brother, or some other male relative or perhaps an old friend of the family. If the mother takes part, she may either accompany her daughter down the aisle, or she may join her as she arrives alone at the front pew where the mother is seated on the left.

With the rehearsal an event of the past now, be sure to get a good night's rest so you will look your loviest on YOUR WEDDING DAY.

Good luck and happy wedding day!

WILD WAVES SAY

Heady stuff--prison cap, party hats

By Iola Masterson
I, P-T Society Editor

INFORMATION this week focuses on hats that will go to people's heads. Some will lead to annual, glamorous headdress ball— and one, in fun, leads a stalwart citizen to prison. Well, sort of.

First about that prison bit. Dr. Norman Moore, with wife Donna's full approval, (see photo right), is giving up his private dental practice here to go on staff (professional, not inmate!) of the medical facility for state prisons at Vacaville.

Anyhoo, Barbara and Fred Barnes and Marilyn and Don Geiger had a farewell spree for the Moores. Captured as party honorees for a night, they gave ol' Norm the full treatment, presenting him with ball, chain, striped uniform and handcuffs to wear. They gave Donna posie bedecked hat, play garden tools to indicate she should be ready for plenty of country gardening when they make home in nearby Napa. Reason for this seemingly drastic move?

The Moores want to get out of the hustle, bustle of big city life and move to wide open spaces where their children can have horses, living is easier, air fresher and cleaner.

ABOUT THE other hat (below) it's a mock-up of one chapeau made by Lois (Mrs. Anthony) Vena for the headdress ball committee's first luncheon and planning session at Betty (Mrs. Wallace) Arntzen's home.

Although ball, sponsored by Long Beach Auxiliary to Southern California Symphony Association, won't take place until Nov. 20, Betty, general chairman, is on the ball for the ball and off to a flying start. Theme will be Chapeaux Haute Couture and will give those wishing to compete ample leeway in dreaming up high fashion headdress.

MARILYN (MRS. DON) GEIGER, D R. NORMAN AND DONNA MOORE
. . . this family sentenced themselves, perhaps for life, to Vacaville!

One thing the gals stress — such committee members as Jessie Lee Malcolm, Lia Krempels, Artie Stevenson, Florence Cole and Virginia Milton — is that they want to catch spirit of years gone by when every woman attending headdress ball, in competition or not, wore some form of pretty head decoration — even if only a sophisticated flower!

They would also like to have clubs sponsor entries with members there to cheer their candidates on.

JUNE 10 will be a materially rewarding day for Shari (Arkush) Wentworth. She'll be honoree at a linen shower to be given by Helen Jones and her daughter, Nada Richards, at Nada's home.

SCANT three weeks after Zoltan Szilard received his private pilot's license he and wife, Nancy, took off in a Cessna 172 for Winnipeg, Alberta, for vacation. They're back — but not without a couple of experiences even seasoned flyers would talk about for a long time to come.

Between Las Vegas and Salt Lake City a cloud cover, blanketing the entire way, made it necessary for him to fly by instrument. Then, over the Rockies, they hit extremely bouncy air conditions. Fortunately, Nancy was taking a nap when he noticed the gas tank was registering empty AND they were too far from any airport to make radio contact.

At what must have been the last possible (gulp!) moment they were picked up by a Caspar, Wyo., radio and guided in for safe landing. After that, trip was routine. In fact, really great.

THERE'S ONLY so much a man can bear. Betty and C. Duane Mooney's son, Mike, 5½, had, it turned out, secretly fumed for some time that bedtime always came too early for him to be included in adult parties, his favorite kind.

What really teed him off was being ring bearer in a wedding and NOT being invited to rehearsal dinner. He bided his time, then one day marched up to his mother and announced, "My dear friend is home and I want to give her a welcome back party." His dear friend is Betty East, retired school teacher, who returned recently from trip to Mid-west.

So Mike was granted his wish. He scurried around the neighborhood and rounded up 10 willing guests— all adults, by the way. He told his mother he'd manage everything if she'd just take care of the food. Party was from 5 to 7 p.m. and Mike didn't miss a moment of it — from time he greeted first guest until he said goodbye to the last. He served all the food (Betty just prepared the tidbits) and was a charming, beaming host. Victory at last!

MOVING INTO a much larger new home in Palos Verdes (this weekend) are Ann and Dalton Lee. It's on an enormous lot — as yet unlandscaped. And do you know what? Dalton can hardly wait to get started on the yard work. No kidding. He loves it. Wotta guy.

City of Hope fund drive to take place next Sunday

On Hope Sunday, June 6, when thousands of volunteers in Long Beach will march door-to-door asking for contributions for the City of Hope Medical Center, it will have a special meaning for Mrs. Ruth E. Christensen, 2780 Adriatic Ave.

She recently received extensive care including surgery at the Medical Center and continues to receive care through visits to the outpatient clinic. Of special importance to Mrs. Christensen, a widow, is the fact that no patient ever pays at City of Hope.

WORDS CANNOT express the warm, friendly feeling you get at the City of Hope," Mrs. Christensen said. "I can never thank them enough for all they did for me."

The volunteer drive on Hope Sunday is under the direction of Joan Crawford, Southern California chairman.

Now in its 52nd year, the City of Hope's fight against cancer, leukemia, blood, heart and chest diseases is supported solely by contributions.

TELEPHONES AND MOPPETS

Can ring up a jangling experience!

THE THOMAS COMISKEY'S 5-YEAR-OLD DAUGHTER, JEAN
. . . a pleasure to do (telephone) business with—rarity among children!

By IOLA MASTERSON

In this business you do a lot of telephoning. One of the most frustrating things in the world is something I call, "The Baby Booby Trap."

It means allowing a child, too young to do so, to answer the phone.

Generally, they fall in such classifications as the talker, the realist, the leaver, the non-talker, the gem.

A typical conversation with a gregarious moppet goes:

"Hehyo" (giggle) "does you calling my house?" Right then you know you have your work cut out for you.

"May I speak with your mother?"

"Who, who, who's dis?"

"THIS IS the Independent, Press-Telegram." You say it automatically and you're sorry.

Long pause then—"Huh?????"

"It's the paper. Is your mother there?"

Instant recognition and desire for high level discussion:

"I'se gots some paypur."

"Is your mama home?" (it must be said sweetly, kindly).

"I drawed a cat."

"Well, now, that's nice and I'm sure it's pretty"—then slowly and distinctly, this time with more emphasis—"is-your-mama-there?"

"Uh huh."

"May I speak with her?"

IF CHILD ANSWERS, ANYTHING CAN HAPPEN
. . . Iola faces common dilemma: will she—won't she?

Pause. Then another "Hehyo" (another smothered giggle) "my cat's is got babies."

"That's fine. How many kittens does she have?"

"Huh!?"

"How many BABIES does your cat have?"

"Der eyes is closed."

"Now, honey, will you please hurry and call your mother to the phone."

"Otay,"—Susie's tired of the conversation herself by now and eventually toddles off to bring mama to the phone.

Then there is the realist. You ask the standard "Is your mother home?" The toddler gives you a frank answer "Yes" —and hangs up.

The non-talker, taciturn toddler hurries to the phone and answers, "Hi."

After that you can say all you want and there's not a peep on the other end except background noises. It's a challenge but, so far, I've never learned how to get anything out of this sort but maybe one additional, "Hi."

The leaver answers promptly and just as promptly goes off to get mother. Unfortunately, along the way something catches his or her fancy and you have two lines tied up until an adult discovers phone off the hook.

From my standpoint the most charming ones are the very, very honest and straightforward types. When you ask if mama is there they say, "Yeth, but hers in da bathroom going . . ." You interrupt quickly, say you'll call later.

CHILDREN first learning to print are frequently terribly accommodating about taking a message. I mean, they insist. So you tell them your name and begin spelling. It's slow work. Like, when you come to a letter they haven't conquered and they ask you to describe it, it's time to give up. How, for instance, can you teach an H or an M on the phone?

The rarity is the little gem who has mastered the phone bit and goes about it like a professional answering service. Rattling it off like a recording, machine gun style, they'll say, "ThisistheSmithresidence (deep breath) MarySmith speaking. Mayltakcamessage?

'Kindness' is theme of Emblem benefit

"Kindness" has been chosen the theme that will be carried out through the Children's Charity Card Party sponsored by Long Beach Emblem Club Saturday.

The event, one of the group's major projects of the year, will be held at 1 p.m. in the Toast Room of the Elks Lodge, 4101 E. Willow St.

Proceeds from the party will help further work with under-privileged and handicapped children at the Fairview Hospital for the mentally retarded. Other institutions obtaining assistance through the program are the Tichenor Clinic, Exceptional Children's Foundation, Children's Dental Health, Long Beach Children's Club, and the Elks Cerebral Palsy Fund.

Refreshments will be served at the event. The public is invited.

DEAR ABBY

Balderdash! friend's story is untrue

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow, age 49, but I am far from "old," if you know what I mean. A very prominent, well-to-do professional man (he is a widower) has asked to marry me. I've been a widow for six years. Melvin is very affectionate and full of fun, and he seems young at heart, but you never know. Please don't think I am silly, but a friend of mine, who was widowed twice and stung three times with older men, told me that men who lose their hair early in life do not have much "drive" romantically. (I hope you get what I am trying to put across.) I've known Melvin practically all my life. (His wife and I were good friends.) Melvin started to go bald in his late 20's and this worries me. I don't know what to believe. Is there any truth in what my friend says? Sign me . . . YPSILANTI

DEAR YPSI: Absolutely not! Just because there's chrome on the dome doesn't mean there's no power under the hood. Tell your widow friend to get her oars out of your water.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: We are a family of five. Last week my ever-lovin' husband went downtown all by himself and traded in a perfectly good two-year-old, five-passenger sedan for a little two-seater sports car. What would you say he had in mind?—MAD

DEAR MAD: Himself.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: It is always nice to be remembered with a gift on Mother's Day —even an inexpensive one, because it's the thought behind it that counts. When a gift is bought in the line of duty, it is meaningless. My sons are married and live a short distance from me. I have never been a butting-in mother-in-law, but my sons' wives never cared much for me. I've never gone to their homes without an invitation, and those invitations were very rare. But the wives' families were always in and out. I wasn't missed. My sons slowly turned away from me. On Mother's Day I always get expensive gifts with beautiful cards with verses saying what a wonderful mother I am and how much they love me! It is like rubbing salt in the wound. One son hasn't been in my home for three years, but every Mother's Day he sends an extravagant gift. I hope you'll find space in your column to let young daughters-in-law know that all their husbands' mothers want from them is to love their sons and to take good care of their families. And if they showed a little respect for an aging mother-in-law who might not be around too many more years, they wouldn't regret it. Thank you. — A HURT MOTHER

Sherlock mystery

"My dear Watson," remarked Sherlock Holmes, "here is a little mystery for you. South was Sir Percy Adair one of the best players in England. East was Colonel Sebastian Moran the second most dangerous man in London and the most dangerous one at the card table. The scene was the finals of the Diogenes Club championship and when the Colonel fooled Percy and held him to five hearts he received a top score and won the event. How did he fool Sir Percy?"

Watson studied the hand carefully and replied, "This time I have you, Holmes! The Colonel won the club opening and returned the six of trumps. Sir Percy decided that the Colonel was too good a player to lead away from a king and rose with the ace in the hope of finding West with a singleton king."

"Wrong as usual!" snapped Holmes. "Sir Percy would know that Moran was fully capable of leading from a king.

"You are right in one respect," said Holmes. "The swindle was executed at trick two, but it was a far more delicate one than the obvious trump lead. Sir Percy would never fall for anything like that."

* * * *

"WELL, WHAT was it?" said Watson. "Even a poor player like myself would finesse trumps and spades and make 12 tricks. What did happen?"

If you readers have not solved the mystery as yet the answer is that the wily Colonel led the five of spades at trick two. West played the ten and Sir Percy decided that the spade lead had to be a singleton. Therefore, Sir Percy refused to take the trump finesse. He feared losing to the king in the West hand and then running into a ruff.

WEEKEND WEDDINGS

Newlyweds say 'I do' in church rites

Anderson-Friesel

A honeymoon trip to Carmel followed the wedding of Barbara Cathleen Friesel and Dennis Lee Anderson Saturday evening in All Saints Episcopal Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Jane Friesel of 4302 Palo Verde Ave., Lakewood. She wore a gown with bodice of silk organza and rose point lace with sabrina neckline. The front of the gown was tiered in lace with side panels of organza appliqued in lace and sequins. The tiered lace skirt cascaded into a chapel train.

* * * *

SUE BAXLEY was maid of honor with Linda Searle and Bonnie Miller as bridesmaids. The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Anderson of 110 Platt St., chose Joe McNabb as best man with Larry, Ricky and Randy Anderson, seating guests.

The couple, both Lakewood High School graduates, attended Long Beach City College. They will reside in Long Beach.

Moore-Murray

In a Cahill gown of silk organza over taffeta featuring a chapel train, Marilyn Murray repeated nuptial vows with Paul Harris Moore Jr. Saturday afternoon in the Huntington Beach First Christian Church.

The bride, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward D. Murray, chose Mrs. Ron Baichtal as matron of honor. Mrs. Marlene Johnson and Mary Moore completed the entourage.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul H. Moore of Huntington Beach, chose his brother Larry as best man. Ben Duncan, William Shumate, Dennis and Joseph Moore, brothers of the groom; and James Koscelnik, brother-in-law of the groom seated guests.

* * * *

THE NEW Mrs. Moore, a graduate of Poly High School, was also graduated from Long Beach State College where she was president of Student Affiliates of American Chemical Society. She was also a member of Zeta Tau Alpha and Long Beach Symphonettes. Her husband, also a graduate of LBSC, attended the University of Nebraska. He received his Ph.D from UCLA.

Following a honeymoon trip to Yosemite and Carmel, the couple will reside in Los Angeles.

Wolfe-Kyle

Itiline Marie Kyle and Glenn Dean Wolfe recited nuptial vows Friday evening in Los Alto Methodist Church.

The bride, who is attending Millikan High School, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Kyle Jr. of 2164 Stevely Ave. She chose Susan Clay as maid of honor with Pamela Jean Johnson and Barbara Jean Wilson as bridesmaids.

* * * *

THE NEW Mrs. Wolfe wore a gown with fitted bodice and skirt, formed of tier upon tier of lace, featuring a train cascading from the back.

Her husband, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy W. Wolfe of Kearney, Neb., chose Kermit Downing Kyle as best man with John C. Kyle III, and Roland Edmoid Fink seating guests. He is now serving in the U.S. Marine Corps.

The couple will reside in Long Beach.

Buldan-Kaiser

A home in Long Beach awaits Mr. and Mrs. Casimir S. Buldan (the former Loretta Anna Kaiser) following their honeymoon trip to Las Vegas. The couple recited vows Saturday afternoon in the Trinity Lutheran Church of Norwalk.

The bride of Long Beach, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John E. Kaiser, wore a floor-length gown of peau de soie with silk organza lined Chantilly lace train edged withp eau de soie starting from the neckline.

* * * *

HOW TO GET MARRIED

Big day for all—your wedding

By JUDY HAZLETT
I-PT Staff Writer
(Another in a Series)

The wedding is only a few days away . . . preliminary plans have been made, invitations mailed, wedding portraits taken and notice given to the newspapers. Now its time to get down to the business at hand.

A rehearsal for the ceremony is very important whether you plan a small simple wedding or a large formal church ceremony. You, as the bride, and your family will find that working out the details before the wedding takes place will make the ceremony successful and your wedding day more pleasant.

Let us imagine, for the sake of this column, that you are having a church wedding with a maid of honor, four bridesmaids and a flower girl. The groom plans on four ushers, a best man and ring bearer.

One of the first things to do is pair off the ushers and bridesmaids according to height. The shortest pair of ushers will lead.

The bridesmaids will proceed accordingly followed by the maid of honor. Then comes the ring bearer, the flower girl, and you, the bride, on your father's RIGHT arm.

* * * *

THERE will be less confusion if the wedding party lines up in this arrangement before the music begins. On the first beat of the march, the processional starts down the aisle — each member starting on his or her left foot.

There is usually two to three pews between each pair of ushers . . . the bridesmaids beginning the same distance behind the last set of ushers.

At the same time the ushers begin the processional, the clergyman, the groom and the best man will enter from the vestry taking their positions immediately in front of the first pew on the right where the groom's parents are seated. The best man takes his place in line with the groom and a step to the right. (They should never approach the altar together).

Your father should always hug the left side of the aisle to keep you well in the center, permitting the bridal train and veil to have adequate space. When you arrive at the first pew, he should draw you slightly to the left so you will be directly in front of the clergyman's right hand — the groom will be opposite the left hand.

(Remember not to take the groom's arm when your father releases you to the rest of the bridal party. This is a common mistake . . . your father has not yet given you in marriage.)

* * * *

WHEN THE bridal party reaches the altar, the first two ushers will take their positions in the middle of the first pew.

The next two ushers will follow suit, taking their positions on the right of the preceding pair. The same alignment follows for the bridesmaids.

The maid of honor will take her position between the last bridesmaid and the bride. The ring bearer will then take his position at the right of the best man. The flower girl stands beside the maid of honor.

Each religious order has its own ceremony which your minister, priest or rabbi will explain to you during the rehearsal.

Don't be afraid to ask questions of your clergyman and be sure to leave plenty of time for your rehearsal.

As the music begins for the recessional, you will take the groom's arm and move slowly forward so the maid of honor can arrange your train and veil. Walk slowly and gracefully — everyone is eager to see your happy faces.

* * * *

THE WEDDING party will leave the altar in the same arrangement they began the ceremony, all walking slowly and watching the ones in front of them.

The question often arises, if the bride's father is not living who will give her away? The bride's mother can perform this part of the ceremony, a brother, or some other male relative or perhaps an old friend of the family. If the mother takes part, she may either accompany her daughter down the aisle, or she may join her as she arrives alone at the front pew where the mother is seated on the left.

With the rehearsal an event of the past now, be sure to get a good night's rest so you will look your loviest on YOUR WEDDING DAY.

Good luck and happy wedding day!

New leaders for symphony units

Enthusiasm marked the 30th annual meeting of the Long Beach Symphony Association, conducted at the Elks Club, as officers were installed and plans announced for the coming year.

Officers for the Symphony Association and Long Beach Symphony Guild, dedicated to support the local orchestra, were presented. Robert Westmyer, installing officer, inducted Mrs. Earl J. Marks Jr. as president of Long Beach Symphony Association. Taking office with her were William Maschal, Mrs. John H. Dale, Kenneth Delene, Mrs. Malcolm Todd, Dr. Lester de Noyelles, Clarence Knox and Dr. Paul Woudenberg. Mottell Peek is immediate past president.

* * * *

WESTMYER also installed Long Beach Symphony Guild officers. They are Mrs. Leroy Hyde, president, also Mmes. Julius Coronado, Jack Enlow, David Kline, Clarence Knox.

Mrs. Robert Westmyer, immediate past president of guild and chairman of the Symphony Pearl Anniversary Ball, held recently at the Lafayette Hotel, presented the association with a check for $2,600, net proceeds from the colorful event.

Plans announced for the coming season include Sunday evening concerts in Concert Hall, Municipal Auditorium, Saturday evening concerts at Long Beach College auditorium, youth concerts and the tremendously popular Starlight Serenades at Bixby Park.

* * * *

FIRST OF the serenades at the park will be Tuesday, June 29 at 8 p.m.

Soloists for the 1965-66 Sunday evening series will include Marilyn Horne, soprano; Leonard Pennario, pianist; and Joseph Schuster, cellist. Lauris Jones will continue to conduct the orchestra.

STUDENTS TO BE INITIATED

Long Beach site of third FSA unit

Forty students from both campuses of Long Beach City College will gather next Sunday in the North Long Beach YWCA to be initiated as charter members of the Future Secretaries Association.

Sponsored by Queen Beach Chapter, Natinnal Secretaries Association, it is the third FSA chapter in California. There are a total of 150 chapters with 4,500 members throughout the country.

Preliminary work on establishment of the group has been handled by Miss Flora Mahannah, CPS, Queen Beach Chapter; and Chris Cain, secretarial student at LBCC, LAC.

TELEPHONES AND MOPPETS

Can ring up a jangling experience!

By IOLA MASTERSON

THE THOMAS COMISKEY'S 5-YEAR-OLD DAUGHTER, JEAN
. . . a pleasure to do (telephone) business with—rarity among children!

In this business you do a lot of telephoning. One of the most frustrating things in the world is something I call, "The Baby Booby Trap."

It means allowing a child, too young to do so, to answer the phone.

Generally, they fall in such classifications as the talker, the realist, the leaver, the non-talker, the gem.

A typical conversation with a gregarious moppet goes:

"Hehyo" (giggle) "does you calling my house?" Right then you know you have your work cut out for you.

"May I speak with your mother?"

"Who, who, who's dis?"

"THIS IS the Independent, Press-Telegram." You say it automatically and you're sorry.

Long pause then—"Huh?????"

"It's the paper. Is your mother there?"

Instant recognition and desire for high level discussion: "I'se gots some paypur."

"Is your mama home?" (it must be said sweetly, kindly).

"I drawed a cat."

"Well, now, that's nice and I'm sure it's pretty"—then slowly and distinctly, this time with more emphasis—"is-your-mama-there?"

"Uh huh."

"May I speak with her?"

IF CHILD ANSWERS, ANYTHING CAN HAPPEN
. . . Iola faces common dilemma: will she—won't she?

Pause. Then another "Hehyo" (another smothered giggle) "my cat's is got babies."

"That's fine. How many kittens does she have?"

"Huh!?"

"How many BABIES does your cat have?"

"Der eyes is closed."

"Now, honey, will you please hurry and call your mother to the phone."

"Otay,"—Susie's tired of the conversation herself by now and eventually toddles off to bring mama to the phone.

Then there is the realist. You ask the standard "Is your mother home?" The toddler gives you a frank answer "Yes"—and hangs up.

The non-talker, taciturn toddler hurries to the phone and answers, "Hi."

After that you can say all you want and there's not a peep on the other end except background noises. It's a challenge but, so far, I've never learned how to get anything out of this sort but maybe one additional, "Hi."

The leaver answers promptly and just as promptly goes off to get mother. Unfortunately, along the way something catches his or her fancy and you have two lines tied up until an adult discovers phone off the hook.

From my standpoint the most charming ones are the very, very honest and straightforward types. When you ask if mama is there they say, "Yeth, but hers in da bathroom going . . ." You interrupt quickly, say you'll call later.

CHILDREN first learning to print are frequently terribly accommodating about taking a message. I mean, they insist. So you tell them your name and begin spelling. It's slow work. Like, when you come to a letter they haven't conquered and they ask you to describe it, it's time to give up. How, for instance, can you teach an H or an M on the phone?

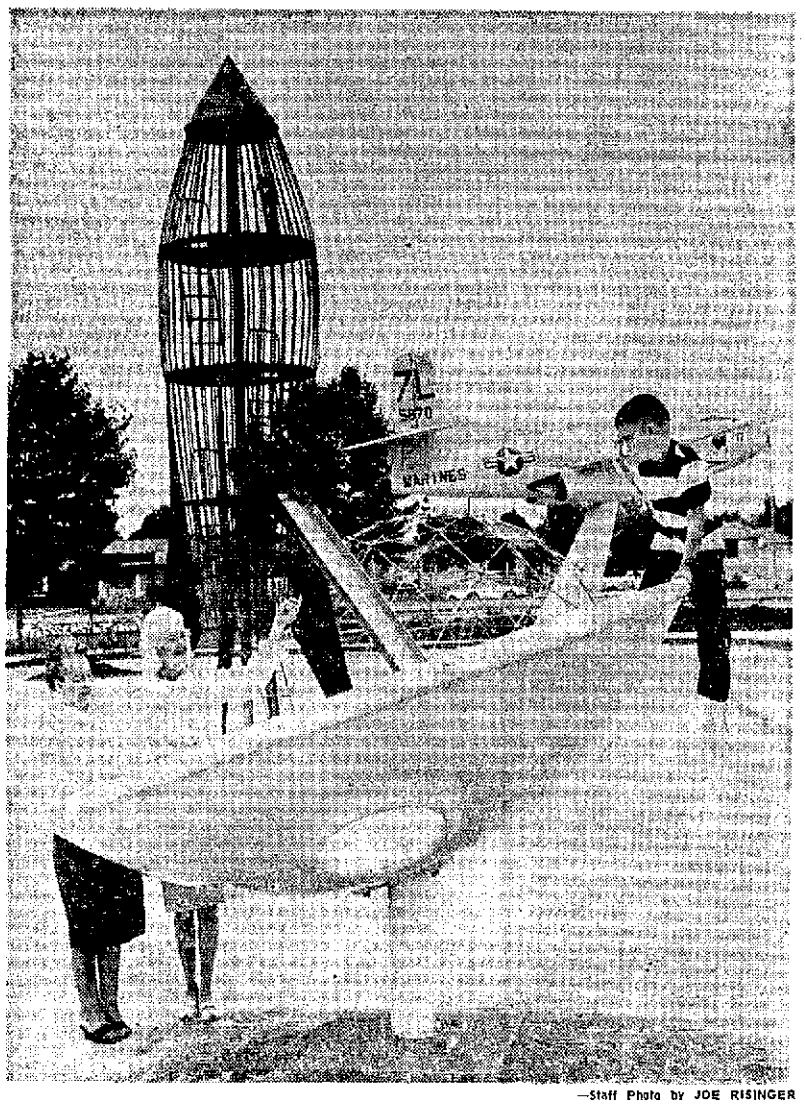

The rarity is the little gem who has mastered the phone bit and goes about it like a professional answering service. Rattling it off like a recording, machine gun style, they'll say, "ThisistheSmithresidence (deep breath) MarySmith speaking. MayItakeamessage?

Ah, mission accomplished!

Miss Thienhaus makes debut

. . . Mrs. Andrew Anderson (left), Mrs. Harry Gallagher and Ronald Thomas.

'Kindness' is theme of Emblem benefit

"Kindness" has been chosen the theme that will be carried out through the Children's Charity Card Party sponsored by Long Beach Emblem Club Saturday.

The event, one of the group's major projects of the year, will be held at 1 p.m. in the Toast Room of the Elks Lodge, 4101 E. Willow St.

Proceeds from the party will help further work with under-privileged and handicapped children at the Fairview Hospital for the mentally retarded. Other institutions obtaining assistance through the program are the Tichenor Clinic, Exceptional Children's Foundation, Children's Dental Health, Long Beach Children's Club, and the Elks Cerebral Palsy Fund.

Refreshments will be served at the event. The public is invited.

DEAR ABBY

Balderdash! friend's story is untrue

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow, age 49, but I am far from "old," if you know what I mean. A very prominent, well-to-do professional man (he is a widower) has asked to marry me. I've been a widow for six years. Melvin is very affectionate and full of fun, and he seems young at heart, but you never know. Please don't think I am silly, but a friend of mine, who was widowed twice and stung three times with older men, told me that men who lose their hair early in life do not have much "drive" romantically. (I hope you get what I am trying to put across.) I've known Melvin practically all my life. (His wife and I were good friends.) Melvin started to go bald in his late 20's and this worries me. I don't know what to believe. Is there any truth in what my friend says? Sign me . . . YPSILANTI

DEAR YPSI: Absolutely not! Just because there's chrome on the dome doesn't mean there's no power under the hood. Tell your widow friend to get her oars out of your water.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: We are a family of five. Last week my ever-lovin' husband went downtown all by himself and traded in a perfectly good two-year-old, five-passenger sedan for a little two-seater sports car. What would you say he had in mind?—MAD

DEAR MAD: Himself.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: It is always nice to be remembered with a gift on Mother's Day—even an inexpensive one, because it's the thought behind it that counts. When a gift is bought in the line of duty, it is meaningless. My sons are married and live a short distance from me. I have never been a butting-in mother-in-law, but my sons' wives never cared much for me. I've never gone to their homes without an invitation, and those invitations were very rare. But the wives' families were always in and out. I wasn't missed. My sons slowly turned away from me. On Mother's Day I always get expensive gifts with beautiful cards with verses saying what a wonderful mother I am and how much they love me! It is like rubbing salt in the wound. One son hasn't been in my home for three years, but every Mother's Day he sends an extravagant gift. I hope you'll find space in your column to let young daughters-in-law know that all their husbands' mothers want from them is to love their sons and to take good care of their families. And if they showed a little respect for an aging mother-in-law who might not be around too many more years, they wouldn't regret it. Thank you.—A HURT MOTHER

Sherlock mystery

"My dear Watson," remarked Sherlock Holmes, "here is a little mystery for you. South was Sir Percy Adair one of the best players in England. East was Colonel Sebastian Moran the second most dangerous man in London and the most dangerous one at the card table. The scene was the finals of the Diogenes Club championship and when the Colonel fooled Percy and held him to five hearts he received a top score and won the event. How did he fool Sir Percy?"

Watson studied the hand carefully and replied, "This time I have you, Holmes! The Colonel won the club opening and returned the six of trumps. Sir Percy decided that the Colonel was too good a player to lead away from a king and rose with the ace in the hope of finding West with a singleton king."

"Wrong as usual!" snapped Holmes. "Sir Percy would know that Moran was fully capable of leading from a king.

"You are right in one respect," said Holmes. "The swindle was executed at trick two, but it was a far more delicate one than the obvious trump lead. Sir Percy would never fall for anything like that."

* * * *

"WELL, WHAT was it?" said Watson. "Even a poor player like myself would finesse trumps and spades and make 12 tricks. What did happen?"

If you readers have not solved the mystery as yet the answer is that the wily Colonel led the five of spades at trick two. West played the ten and Sir Percy decided that the spade lead had to be a singleton. Therefore, Sir Percy refused to take the trump finesse. He feared losing to the king in the West hand and then running into a ruff.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD

Glutton for punishment

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:
My boyfriend and I broke up, mostly because he thought I was too fat. He told me if I didn't lose weight he would quit me. I went on a diet but it didn't do any good, so he stopped coming over.

I started going with another boy and as soon as Jeff found out, he wanted to come back. I really liked him the most so we started going together again.

A few weeks later my best friend (or so I thought) took him away from me. I knew she liked to steal boyfriends but I didn't think she'd do it to me.

What do I do now? I like Jeff better than any other boy but I can't seem to keep him.—E.H.

DEAR E.H.:

You're a glutton for punishment if you ever take Jeff back, that's all I can say! You need him like you need another hole in your head. Go out with other guys and when (and if) Jeff decides he wants you back, tell him to get lost.

Watch that diet business—some of them are harmful. The very best way to lose weight is to cut down on the food intake.—M.M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I am disabled, so my wife, our four children and I have to live on social security checks. We never have any money left over but we do manage to live from month to month on these checks.

Last month, someone stole my wallet and all the money. We know who it was and had him jailed but the money was gone. The thief was a relative and it never occurred to us he was dishonest. Believe me, it was quite a shock.

For us to lose one month's income is disastrous. We can never catch up because one check is barely enough to pay a month's expenses. Our landlord will wait but what do we do for food? What do people do when something like this happens? —BROKE

DEAR BROKE:

I just don't know, more's the pity. I suppose they depend on friends and neighbors to see them through. Where there are children involved, surely some public agency will see that they have food. How about the Salvation Army? Or Child Welfare Association? Or Council for Community Service?

It seems only fair that the thief be made to repay the money before he is cleared by the law. I suppose there isn't any way to collect from him but Legal Aid might be able to advise you. —M.M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

We have been married two years and have a little girl. Our life is very unsatisfactory and I know we are not living as a family should.

My husband has been out of work for a long time and we are living with his parents. I want our own place and I want us to assume our responsibilities.

How does one cope with a situation like this? We were married very young; he was 19 and I was 17, but I still think we shouldn't be dependent on his parents. —B.M.

DEAR B.M.:

Of course you two should assume your own responsibilities. I can see how that may be difficult when the husband is out of work but surely he can find something to do, even if it is only part time work.

In this crisis, I would suggest someone (perhaps a grandparent) baby-sit and you go out and get some kind of work. Between the two of you and cooperative grandparents, it seems you could make enough to provide at least a room and food for the three of you. —M.M.

Marriage is no panacea

rying the same person over and over again."

The unhappy lady, it seems, was bound and determined to be a martyr.

Heath also believes couple's should decide on their roles and stick to them.

"Someone has to be boss — have the last word. If there is no consistent voice of authority children are sure to be confused.

HERE HE concedes the changing role of today's women adds a few snaris to the fabric of modern matrimony.

If the woman works, perhaps even has a more responsible job than her husband, it may be difficult for her to bow to his complete authority.

In such as case, Heath believes the couple must sit down and talk things over—work out a way of presenting a strong united front to the children.

In concluding this man of counsel suggests that every couple contemplating divorce ask themselves these questions.

What will it really get you? Are you ready to live with divorce and the problems it brings?

You gambled on marriage and lost. Now are you sure you won't be a loser again?

Do you have the courage to face why you feel your marriage is failing? Why you are disillusioned, disappointed and hurt? Why you no longer feel the same towards your marriage partner as on your wedding day?

DON PHILLIPS

CHEF OF THE WEEK

Poultry—pumkin pies are his dish

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
I.-P-T Food Editor

From Navy Air Corps to engineering, mathematics to insurance to chicken pies, describes the vocational "tour" taken by today's Chef of the Week, Don Phillips.

President of the Independent Business Men's Association, Phillips operates the Chicken Pie Shop at 737 Pine Ave., with two "to go" shops at Eighth and Pacific, and in Belmont Shore, on East Second Street.

Phillips' father owned and operated a general store in the heart-of-corn belt, Grand Ridge, Ill. The family remained there until young Don had completed elementary school. His high school career ran thusly: first year, Grand Ridge; second year, Streeter, Ill.; third year, Santa Monica; fourth year, back to Streeter. And then came the Navy!

* * * *

PHILLIPS joined the Naval Air Corps in 1943. He was all prepared for an overseas junket, when his orders were changed . . . he was sent to college instead. Not just one college, either—to Newberry College, South Carolina; Louisiana State Normal School; Great Lakes Naval Training School; Wabash College, Crawfordsville, Ind.; and to University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. It all began in the field of engineering, but ended in "math."

By this time, the war was over and Phillips enrolled at USC with a pre-law course in mind. However, with the GI Bill and the innumerable GIs, classes were filled, so he decided to stay out a semester and then return. He never went back.

Phillips' first business venture was as waste-basket-emptier in an insurance company. He climbed to cash clerk, then to all-line special agent. Then came the opportunity to buy into a Long Beach insurance firm, which he did.

* * * *

ONE OF HIS clients happened to be Al Moffit, who owned the Chicken Pie Shop, and wanted to sell. Don Phillips became the buyer in November of 1960.

A member of the Downtown Lions Club, he serves on the board of directors Downtown Long Beach Associates, He belongs to both the Chamber of Commerce, the Better Business Bureau, and pledged Sigma Chi.

Phillips and his wife, Margaret, have sons, Ron, 7, David, 5, and daughter, Kathy, 3.

Interested in sports, he's a strong supporter of the Dodgers, and has accompanied them on their last two spring training trips. He likes golf, too, but wishes he could whip the golf ball as expertly as he does a batch of chicken gravy "enbulk."

Were Phillips prowling his own kitchen for something to eat, he'd probably go for the peanut butter jar—but in the shop, it's a different story.

Our "Chef's" recipe for Pumpkin Pie is a mathematical equation of his recipe for 64 pie crusts and 16 pies. So—if it doesn't work out, he'll be glad to sell you one.

PUMPKIN PIE BY PHILLIPS

1 cup flour
½ cup shortening
2 tsps. sugar
¼ tsp. salt
Just enough cold milk to hold dough

Mix thoroughly and place in pie shell.

PUMPKIN MIXTURE

1 No. 2 can strained pumpkin
7 tbsps. sugar
1 egg
¼ tsp. salt
¾ tsp. corn starch
Not quite 2 tbsps. evaporated milk
Spices as follows:
¼ tsp. cinnamon, a pinch each of ginger, cloves, allspice and nutmeg

Mix thoroughly.

Scald 1 cup milk (just before it reaches rolling boil). Pour into pumpkin mixture and mix thoroughly. Pour into pie shell and bake in 350-degree oven for one hour.

Karen Kloos married in Catholic rite

Karen Louise Kloos and Thomas William Weddick recited nuptial vows Saturday morning in St. Pancratius Catholic Church.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter G. Kloos, 4741 Pepperwood Ave., wore a silk organza gown with lace bodice and satin train.

Mrs. Edwin Shellhorn was patron of honor for her sister; Alan Weddick was best man for his brother. Rudy Comacho and Melvin Barker seated guests. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Weddick, 3934 Charlemagne Ave.

The new Mrs. Weddick was graduated from Lakewood High School; her husband from St. Anthony's High School. She graduated from Long Beach City College which the groom attended.

Following a honeymoon trip to Sequoia the couple will reside in Long Beach.

TRAVEL and RESORTS

"We are flying to Europe from New York. This is our first trip. Is there any special airport procedure we should know?"

ALL AIRLINES ask you to check in an hour ahead of flight time. But you don't have to panic if you make it a half hour. They do double-checking on names, reservations etc.

I would try to make it an hour or more though. Because—there's always a line-up. And a cushion of time lets you exchange some dollars for money of the foreign port of arrival — handy for tips and taxis. And — you have time to go to the free port shop in the airport — (there's one of these and a bank in each terminal) — and buy cigarettes and liquor if you like.

These free port cigarettes cost about $2 a carton. They'll cost $7 in England, $6 in France etc. Scotch will run $2.50 compared to $7 in Scotland itself.

* * * *

". . . and how much duty-free items can we take in?"

THE GENERAL rule is a bottle of liquor and two cartons of cigarettes. But England is the only country I've seen recently who asked me or even looked in my bags. And in England, they allow more than the law allows if you have a ticket onward to other countries. It's up to the customs inspector. And he's generous.

* * * *

"Whom do we tip?"

THE REDCAP at New York airport gets 35 cents per bag—a fixed fee. England a shilling a bag. France a franc. Spain five pesetas. (All around 15 to 20 cents U.S.)

* * * *

"Any things that we should take that are lacking in Europe?"

EUROPE has just about everything. However, I usually put three or four of the airline's soap bars in my flight bag en route.

Shoe shines are a problem in Britain—and I never found any answer for it. There—and all over Europe—leave your shoes in the hotel corridor at night. The night porter will WIPE them off. But the British do their own shoe-shining at home.

There is a one-man stand in Piccadilly. And I did see a One-foot-at-a-time stand in the London Hilton. (But nobody and no shine equipment there.) The British tell me they feel it is demeaning for both the shiner and the person whose shoes are being shined. And it's a kind of Sunday hobby to shine your shoes at home.

Not so in Italy, France etc. And in Spain, shoeshine stands are everywhere.

* * * *

"Should we take Kleenex, paper towels? Anything like that?"

TOWELS, no. You can buy Kleenex or other tissues anywhere—though at somewhat higher prices than at home in most countries. They're handy in the flight bag. On many trains—(crack trains of Italy for example) — very necessary. Planes furnish them.

* * * *

"Anything to watch out for?"

I DON'T leave money lying around. But I've never had anything taken from my room in any country. The other day in Pisa, an Italian boy chased me half a block to give me a small coin I'd dropped accidentally.

Taxis are confusing. Because they can't adjust meters to changing rates. But in countries where they have changed rates, or there is a night supplemental charge etc. the rates are posted — usually in all languages.

Whoever makes your hotel reservations, ask them what do you do if the hotel simply doesn't hold to it. I saw an American couple in Rome whose reservation at the posh Excelsior didn't hold.

Italy is jammed as usual. And the hotels are pretty arrogant. One cute little thing you don't find out until you get here: The hotel tells you you must take at least two meals in the hotel. Raising your room rate about $7 to $10. If you don't like it, no room.

British, Swiss, and German hotel reservations are always OK. Spain probably. France maybe. Italy — who knows.

Travelers Tote Less Luggage

Most Americans are traveling lighter these days.

"It's a rare traveler who carries more than one bag—and that bag is lighter than it's ever been in the past," reports Dan Pavis, general manager of O'Hare Inn adjoining Chicago's O'Hare International Airport.

The trend towards less baggage has led the airlines to consider dropping their weight limit of 40 pounds for passengers and instead imposing a limit on the number of pieces carried per person. The Federal Aviation Agency is currently thinking over the idea.

Fine Arts Affiliates

Mrs. Roland D. Driscoll was elected president of The Fine Arts Affiliates of Long Beach State College Friday at a dinner meeting on campus.

Mrs. Driscoll attended Washington Seminary in Atlanta, St. Mary's in Raleigh, N.C., and the University of Illinois. She is a volunteer with the American Red Cross and Board of St. Luke's Presbyterian Hospital in Chicago.

Serving with the new president are Mmes. John E. Roggeveen, Manuel Mayuga, David Moseley, John O. MacDonald, Sidney Felix, Bruce Murray, Martin Garron and Clifford Millspaugh. Also serving on the board are Alfred Schmidt and Drs. Lawrence Peterson, Leon Pinsker, Paul Stroud, John Green, James Crafts and Russel Squire.

Adviors to the Affiliates include Mmes. Carl McIntosh, Raymond Lindgren, Eric J. Laddey, Peterson and Squire.

Anyone interested in participation in invited to contact Mrs. Moseley, 1022 Tehachapi Drive.

Downtown Opti-Mrs.

A nautical theme will be carried out Tuesday by members of the Downtown Opti-Mrs. as they bid bon voyage to the retiring officers and install the new board at the Captain's Inn at noon.

Mrs. Alfred I. Stubbs will be installed as president with Mmes. Sam Iantorno, Otto Mayfield, Bud Budnick, Tim Oltman and Eric Bolin, her new board.

Mrs. Stubbs has been a member of the Long Beach school PTA for 18 years and member of Tri Psi, a national sorority of Tri Delta mothers. She is also affiliated with the Long Beach YWCA, Dinner Club and South Course Recreation Golf Club.

Leisure World

The Woman's Club of Leisure World, Seal Beach, will hold an installation tea Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. in the Northwood Clubhouse.

Mrs. Paul Williams was re-elected president. Her board will include Mmes. Charles Wallin, C. G. Reinochl, Thomas Hughes, Frank DeShields, Bigelow Urich, Frank L. Petty, Guy Mensch, Kenneth Andrews, John Fairfield and J. F. Fudge.

The program for the day will be entitled "The Sweethearts of Song," with Marjorie and David Glismann.

Mrs. Naomi E. Heinl is chairman of the tea assisted by Mmes. Tom Patterson, Leah Cram, Cecil Cole, John Perry, Dorothy Philpott, Maurice Morgan and James Moon.

Music Teachers

Mrs. Florence Zook will be installed as president of Long Beach Branch, Music Teachers Association, at 7 p.m. Wednesday in Alfred's Restaurant, 700 E. 45th St.

Mrs. Zook has taught piano for 24 years in the Long Beach area and has been an active member of the board of the Long Beach branch for five years. She is also assistant executive director of the Southwestern Youth Music Festival.

Other officers to be installed are Lorraine Leininger, Frank Arhold, Dean Wissler, Ellen Carrol and Lura Sederstrom.

Directors are Greta Sariege, Rilla Branyon, Dorothy Judy Klein, Leah Sekora, Romaine Preuss, John Fitzer and Henny Warner.

Church of Religious Science

Mrs. Kasper Caspersen will assume the presidency of the Women's Guild, Church of Religious Science, on Thursday during ceremonies at a potluck luncheon in Guild Hall, 505 E. 36th St.

Mrs. Caspersen, a native of Newfoundland, is past president of the Lynwood Women's Club, a chairman for Los Cerritos District California Federation of Women's Clubs, founder-president of the Newfoundland Club of California and a member of the Sierra Mountain Climbing Club. She is also former governess of the late President Kennedy's sisters, Kathleen, Eunice, Patricia and Rosemary.

Also taking office are Mmes. Frank Scesney, Walter Gooding, Elmer Schnell and Pete Batcheller.

Insurance Women

Hoefly's Restaurant, 4911 E. Second St., will be the scene of an installation dinner for the Insurance Women of Long Beach on Thursday at 7 p.m.

Mrs. Clarence Dean will be installed as president. Her board will include Margaret Earl, Frances Welty, Fern Weaver, Elma Carlson, Emily Lease and Ennis Mae Kirby.

The board of directors include Bonnie Van Leeuwen, Vivian Warinner and Doris Spillman.

Mrs. Dean, who is associated with her husband in the Dean Insurance Agency, has been a member of the club since 1953, serving the club as president 1960. She has served the Region VIII of the National Association of Insurance Women as their key chairman and regional by-laws chairman of 1964.

AAUW

Miss Marion Tripeny will be intalled as president of the Long Beach Branch of the American Association of University Women at its luncheon meeting Saturday in the Pacific Coast Club, 850 E. Ocean Blvd.

Others to be installed are Mmes. Edward Mara Jr., Edward Babbush, Hugh McHugh, R. J. Krogstad, Conrad J. Gaiser, Richard L. Bell, Carl H. Macklin II, Harry L. Lee, William L. Tyra and Misses Claudia Pendleton, Frances Ridgley, Eillen Sparks and Beulah Ware.

Miss Tripeny attended UCLA and Mt. St. Mary's College in Los Angeles. She obtained her master's degree from Long Beach State College and is now working in the doctorate program at USC. She teaches speech correction in the Bellflower Unified School District and has been active in the Long Beach Community Playhouse and Pilots International.

ABWA Chapter

Helen Minges has been elected to serve as president of Long Beach Jubilee Chapter, American Business Women's Association. Serving as her officers for the coming year will be Madrene Baider, Mary Holzem, Ada Talley and Barbara Eye.

Chapter meets first Tuesday monthly at 7 p.m. at Mr. C's Restaurant. Guest speaker for June meeting will be John Campbell, president of American Corporation Shares, whose topic will be "How to Accumulate $100,000—or Financial Facts of Life."

ABWA's purpose is to elevate both business and social standing of career women through club-sponsored educational programs.

National Secretaries

In a candlelight installation ceremony Tuesday at Sam's Seafood, Glea Bobbs will be inducted as president of Queen Beach Chapter, National Secretaries Association.

Others taking office will be Grace Oakley, Pat DeShields, Flora Mahannah, Betty Bainter, Maxine Chaney and Marion Freer. Peggy Fitzmorris will conduct installation.

At this time, chapter's annual scholarship award of $200 will be presented to Miss Janet Parks, Jordan High senior, whose goal is to become a legal secretary. She will enroll at Long Beach State College to complete her education.

Miss Trina Jensen, president of Future Secretaries Association at Long Beach City College, will be an honored guest.

Membership in NSA is open to all qualified secretaries. Inquiries may be directed to Mrs. Jack Stewart, Park Avalon Trailer Lodge, Space 23, 750 Carson St., Torrance.

New leaders for symphony units

Enthusiasm marked the 30th annual meeting of the Long Beach Symphony Association, conducted at the Elks Club, as officers were installed and plans announced for the coming year.

Officers for the Symphony Association and Long Beach Symphony Guild, dedicated to support the local orchestra, were presented. Robert Westmyer, installing officer, inducted Mrs. Earl J. Marks Jr. as president of Long Beach Symphony Association. Taking office with her were William Maschal, Mrs. John H. Dale, Kenneth Delene, Mrs. Malcolm Todd, Dr. Lester de Noyelles, Clarence Knox and Dr. Paul Woudenberg. Mottell Peek is immediate past president.

* * * *

WESTMYER also installed Long Beach Symphony Guild officers. They are Mrs. Leroy Hyde, president, also Mmes. Julius Coronado, Jack Enlow, David Kline, Clarence Knox.

Mrs. Robert Westmyer, immediate past president of guild and chairman of the Symphony Pearl Anniversary Ball, held recently at the Lafayette Hotel, presented the association with a check for $2,600, net proceeds from the colorful event.

Plans announced for the coming season include Sunday evening concerts in Concert Hall, Municipal Auditorium, Saturday evening concerts at Long Beach College auditorium, youth concerts and the tremendously popular Starlight Serenades at Bixby Park.

* * * *

FIRST OF the serenades at the park will be Tuesday, June 29 at 8 p.m.

You can be a big sport at sea if you like salt air

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Travel Editor

Ask a dozen people why they plan a cruise this year and you'll get more answers than you think.

Aside from the fact that most sail off into the Pacific to see far lands and a glimpse of how other races live, cruise enthusiasts like the swish of water as they go for a stroll under the moon. They enjoy the camaraderie aboard ship, the leisure that sailing affords.

And the salt air.

If a smog control engineer on a trans-Pacific liner were to take a sample of sea air a day's journey out of Los Angeles, his analysis probably would read: pollutants—hydrocarbons, none; auto fumes, none; industrial irritants, none; sodium chloride, lots; sunshine, saturate.

It is this fresh salt air, explains Howard Green, secretary-chairman of the Trans-Pacific Passenger Conference, that accounts for the "sailor's appetite."

* * * *

"SAILOR'S appetite" is what makes eating such a looked-forward-to adventure on a cruise ship.

And, while not everyone realizes it, the salt air also accounts for the tremendous rise in the popularity of deck sports.

It's simple: the salt air generates a feeling of well-being and sharpens the appetite for the next 10-course shipboard meal. So passengers leave the deck chairs in droves to toss quoits or dive for spoons in the ship's pool.

All the liners plying the Pacific have generous open deck space for quoits, shuffleboard, pools and deck tennis. Indoors, there's table tennis and dancing.

And now, on the big British P&O - Orient ships, there's a softball version of cricket, with the field laid out on deck and with nets to keep the ball from going into the drink. And there's bricket, a game that combines the best features of baseball and cricket.

* * * *

MATSON has installed 48-foot bowling alleys on its Hawaii liner Lurline. Green says bowling at sea presents no problems under normal cruise conditions. An "inclinometer" indicates the extent of the ship's roll and this allows the bowler to compensate with each shot at the pins.

Golfers can keep their skills sharp aboard the cruise ships of American President Lines. The Presidents Wilson, Cleveland and Roosevelt, serving the Orient, are equipped with putting greens, and canvas screens keep the balls from getting lost in the Pacific after a drive.

Besides, who wouldn't give or take a little exercise for a good appetite? And, out on deck, a nice tan?

* * * *

UPCOMING months will see a rash of cruises in the Pacific, and the travel hungry are making bookings like in no other year. Here are some of the special ones:

American President Lines and Matson announce special interest tours for those who wish to learn more about their favorite sport or hobby while cruising.

APL's President Roosevelt sails next Jan. 20 on a 90-day cruise around the world from San Francisco, and will visit 25 ports in 16 countries.

Swedish American Line's Gripsholm sails out of New York next Jan. 7 on a world cruise, embarks at Los Angeles on Jan. 21.

Holland - America Line's Statendam departs Los Angeles next Sept. 21 on a "60-Day Pacific Adventure Cruise" in the Pacific.

P&O - Orient's big luxury liners have several trips planned in the Pacific throughout the year.

Air France and Zim Lines join efforts with a variety of itineraries arranged by American Express. They begin with a jet flight to Europe for sightseeing in Europe and the Near East and the trip back to the U.S. by ship from Naples.

LUXURY LINERS plying the Pacific have generous open deck space for sports. Photo shows cricket being played on the big British liners of P&O-Orient.

NEW FILM ON FISHING AVAILABLE

A new fishing film, "Reel Fun in Oregon," is available to sportsmen's clubs and other groups in the Long Beach area.

The movie shows excellent scenes of fishermen catching steelhead, trout, salmon and sea bass, as well as a wide variety of angling — including fly fishing and fishing with bait, and stream, lake and ocean fishing. The film is 25 minutes long, 16 mm., color and sound.

Interested groups should write Travel Information Division, 102 State Highway Bldg., Salem, Ore. 97310.

Chance to walk it off in Paris

English-speaking tourists in Paris can now take advantage of a portable record player offered by American Express, which enables them to guide themselves through 9 different walks in Paris.

Each record has an hour-long commentary on a "promenade," lasting about two hours. A detailed plan of the district to be visited and the means of transportation available for getting there are printed on the cover of the record. The "promenades" which have been recorded include the Arch of Triumph and the Champs Elysees, the Palais de Chaillot and the Eiffel Tower, the Invalides and UNESCO, the Latin Quarter, the Ile-Saint-Louis and the Ile de la Cite, the Tuileries and the Louvre, as well as others.

The records cost 5 F ($1) in winter and 15 F ($3) in summer, and a 50 F ($10) deposit is requested for the record-player.

Couple to lead Universe tours

Dr. and Mrs. Charles L. McClain, experienced tour operators from Texas, have joined the staff of Universe Travel, Inc., 4087 Long Beach Blvd. and will conduct two tours in the months ahead.

The first tour, a 32-day cruise of the South Seas aboard a Matson liner, departs Sept. 3 from Long Beach. The second, a six-week tour around the world, including the Holy Land, will leave next March 27.

Mission Bay officer named

John Wood, 26, has been named director of public relations for Mission Bay Park, San Diego. He has been manager of public relations at Sea World, ocean arium on the bay.

The 4,600-acre park includes five major hotels, Sea World, a day and night golf course, three marinas, yacht club, two boat and ski clubs, bait supplier, two sports-fishing firms, a seafood market and service station.

Speeding in Italy

There is no speed limit on Italy's Superhighway of the Sun which sweeps down the peninsula from Milan to Naples, says Pan Am. Daredevils, however, are restrained by warning signals and road patrols which check tire conditions at all access points.

TRAVEL and RESORTS

Newest U.S. park

ANGEL ARCH, in Canyonlands National Park, Utah, is a graceful sandstone span guarded by a brooding angel with folded wings.

SCARRED, eroded, yet hauntingly beautiful, a quarter-million acres of Utah's remote back-country lying athwart the junction of the Colorado and Green Rivers has been set aside in perpetuity as Canyonlands National Park. Signing into law the measure establishing the nation's newest scenic-recreational preserve, President Johnson expressed certainty future generations will "praise the foresight of those who have established a national park of this magnitude with scenery unequalled anywhere in the world."

Comprising 257,640 acres in the southeastern section of Utah, Canyonlands National Park includes plateaus and mesas rising over 7,800 feet above sea level, and low-lying basin lands at the water's edge of the two cliff-rimmed rivers. Above the confluence of the Colorado and Green are Grandview Point with vistas comparable to those seen by millions at Grand Canyon; Upheaval Dome, labeled "the outstanding geologic feature of the canyon country;" Monument Canyon, a 4,720 acre region of pinnacles and monoliths; High Mesa, a 1,280 acre "island in the sky"; and The Neck, a 640-acre connection between two escarpments barely wide enough for a road—with a 2,000 foot deep gorge on either side.

SOUTH AND EAST of the junction of the two canyon-cutting rivers, the new park includes the 55,000 acre area dubbed The Needles, a region in which meadowlands and natural "parks" are shadowed by monumental rock spires and pinnacles, carved into odd, multi-colored forms by eons of erosion. Just west of the confluence of the Colorado and the Green is a 25,000 acre maze locally known as "The Land of Standing Rocks." Here, only partially explored, and inaccessible except by horseback or four-wheel drive vehicles, fantastic rock "fins" rear nearly 1,000 feet high, often standing in soldier-like ranks.

Roadbuilding will be a major problem for park planners, and it will be at least five years before Canyonlands National Park can be made as accessible as Zion and Bryce Canyon National Parks, which are also situated in Utah. While present-day vacationists would need a jeep and several weeks to explore the inner reaches of this canyon-girt wilderness, it is possible for today's visitors to safely sample much of the scenery—although no paved roads as yet reach into the park.

A WELL-GRADED dry-weather road, cutting west and south from U.S. 160 near Arches National Monument a dozen miles north of Moab, reaches Dead Horse Point State Park and provides access across "The Neck" to Grandview Point. In addition to entering the bounds of the new park, this route gives visitors extensive views across the Canyonlands area at highly scenic locations.

Another trail, best left to four-wheel drive vehicles, extends from the Grandview road to Upheaval Dome, a deep vertical-walled crater in the bottom of which a cream and white colored mass of stone thrust up through the surrounding red-tinged sandstone by violent geologic action millions of years ago.

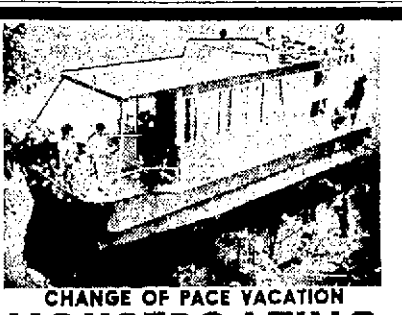

Portions of the new park can be safely entered by boat.

Glutton for punishment

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My boyfriend and I broke up, mostly because he thought I was too fat. He told me if I didn't lose weight he would quit me. I went on a diet but it didn't do any good, so he stopped coming over.

I started going with another boy and as soon as Jeff found out, he wanted to come back. I really liked him the most so we started going together again.

A few weeks later my best friend (or so I thought) took him away from me. I knew she liked to steal boyfriends but I didn't think she'd do it to me.

What do I do now? I like Jeff better than any other boy but I can't seem to keep him.—E.H.

DEAR E.H.:

You're a glutton for punishment if you ever take Jeff back, that's all I can say! You need him like you need another hole in your head. Go out with other guys and when (and if) Jeff decides he wants you back, tell him to get lost.

Watch that diet business—some of them are harmful. The very best way to lose weight is to cut down on the food intake.—M.M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I am disabled, so my wife, our four children and I have to live on social security checks. We never have any money left over but we do manage to live from month to month on these checks.

Last month, someone stole my wallet and all the money. We know who it was and had him jailed but the money was gone. The thief was a relative and it never occurred to us he was dishonest. Believe me, it was quite a shock.

For us to lose one month's income is disastrous. We can never catch up because one check is barely enough to pay a month's expenses. Our landlord will wait but what do we do for food? What do people do when something like this happens? —BROKE

DEAR BROKE:

I just don't know, more's the pity. I suppose they depend on friends and neighbors to see them through. Where there are children involved, surely some public agency will see that they have food. How about the Salvation Army? Or Child Welfare Association? Or Council for Community Service?

It seems only fair that the thief be made to repay the money before he is cleared by the law. I suppose there isn't any way to collect from him but Legal Aid might be able to advise you. —M.M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

We have been married two years and have a little girl. Our life is very unsatisfactory and I know we are not living as a family should.

My husband has been out of work for a long time and we are living with his parents. I want our own place and I want us to assume our responsibilities.

How does one cope with a situation like this? We were married very young; he was 19 and I was 17, but I still think we shouldn't be dependent on his parents. —B.M.

DEAR B.M.:

Of course you two should assume your own responsibilities. I can see how that may be difficult when the husband is out of work but surely he can find something to do, even if it is only part time work.

In this crisis, I would suggest someone (perhaps a grandparent) baby-sit and you go out and get some kind of work. Between the two of you and cooperative grandparents, it seems you could make enough to provide at least a room and food for the three of you. —M.M.

Marriage is no panacea

rying the same person over and over again."

The unhappy lady, it seems, was bound and determined to be a martyr.

Heath also believes couple's should decide on their roles and stick to them.

"Someone has to be boss — have the last word. If there is no consistent voice of authority children are sure to be confused.

HERE HE concedes the changing role of today's women adds a few snarls to the fabric of modern matrimony.

If the woman works, perhaps even has a more responsible job than her husband, it may be difficult for her to bow to his complete authority.

In such as case, Heath believes the couple must sit down and talk things over—work out a way of presenting a strong united front to the children.

In concluding this man of counsel suggests that every couple contemplating divorce ask themselves these questions.

What will it really get you? Are you ready to live with divorce and the problems it brings?

You gambled on marriage and lost. Now are you sure you won't be a loser again?

Do you have the courage to face why you feel your marriage is failing? Why you are disillusioned, disappointed and hurt? Why you no longer feel the same towards your marriage partner as on your wedding day?

DON PHILLIPS

CHEF OF THE WEEK

Poultry—pumkin pies are his dish

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
I.-P-T Food Editor

From Navy Air Corps to engineering, mathematics to insurance to chicken pies, describes the vocational "tour" taken by today's Chef of the Week, Don Phillips.

President of the Independent Business Men's Association, Phillips operates the Chicken Pie Shop at 737 Pine Ave., with two "to go" shops at Eighth and Pacific, and in Belmont Shore, on East Second Street.

Phillips' father owned and operated a general store in the heart-of-corn belt, Grand Ridge, Ill. The family remained there until young Don had completed elementary school. His high school career ran thusly: first year, Grand Ridge; second year, Streeter, Ill.; third year, Santa Monica; fourth year, back to Streeter. And then came the Navy!

* * * *

PHILLIPS joined the Naval Air Corps in 1943. He was all prepared for an overseas junket, when his orders were changed . . . he was sent to college instead. Not just one college, either—to Newberry College, South Carolina; Louisiana State Normal School; Great Lakes Naval Training School; Wabash College, Crawfordsville, Ind.; and to University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. It all began in the field of engineering, but ended in "math."

By this time, the war was over and Phillips enrolled at USC with a pre-law course in mind. However, with the GI Bill and the innumerable GIs, classes were filled, so he decided to stay out a semester and then return. He never went back.

Phillips' first business venture was as waste-basket-emptier in an insurance company. He climbed to cash clerk, then to all-line special agent. Then came the opportunity to buy into a Long Beach insurance firm, which he did.

* * * *

ONE OF HIS clients happened to be Al Moffit, who owned the Chicken Pie Shop, and wanted to sell. Don Phillips became the buyer in November of 1960.

A member of the Downtown Lions Club, he serves on the board of directors Downtown Long Beach Associates. He belongs to both the Chamber of Commerce, the Better Business Bureau, and pledged Sigma Chi.

Phillips and his wife, Margaret, have sons, Ron, 7, David, 5, and daughter, Kathy, 3.

Interested in sports, he's a strong supporter of the Dodgers, and has accompanied them on their last two spring training trips. He likes golf, too, but wishes he could whip the golf ball as expertly as he does a batch of chicken gravy "enbulk."

Were Phillips prowling his own kitchen for something to eat, he'd probably go for the peanut butter jar—but in the shop, it's a different story.

Our "Chef's" recipe for Pumpkin Pie is a mathematical equation of his recipe for 64 pie crusts and 16 pies. So—if it doesn't work out, he'll be glad to sell you one.

PUMPKIN PIE BY PHILLIPS

1 cup flour
½ cup shortening
2 tsps. sugar
¼ tsp. salt
Just enough cold milk to hold dough

Mix thoroughly and place in pie shell.

PUMPKIN MIXTURE

1 No. 2 can strained pumpkin
7 tbsps. sugar
1 egg
¼ tsp. salt
¾ tsp. corn starch
Not quite 2 tbsps. evaporated milk
Spices as follows:
¼ tsp. cinnamon, a pinch each of ginger, cloves, allspice and nutmeg

Mix thoroughly.

Scald 1 cup milk (just before it reaches rolling boil). Pour into pumpkin mixture and mix thoroughly. Pour into pie shell and bake in 350-degree oven for one hour.

Karen Kloos married in Catholic rite

Karen Louise Kloos and Thomas William Weddick recited nuptial vows Saturday morning in St. Pancratius Catholic Church.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter G. Kloos, 4741 Pepperwood Ave., wore a silk organza gown with lace bodice and satin train.

Mrs. Edwin Shellhorn was patron of honor for her sister; Alan Weddick was best man for his brother. Rudy Comacho and Melvin Barker seated guests. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Weddick, 3934 Charlemagne Ave.

The new Mrs. Weddick was graduated from Lakewood High School; her husband from St. Anthony's High School. She graduated from Long Beach City College which the groom attended.

Following a honeymoon trip to Sequoia the couple will reside in Long Beach.

Traveling with Stan Delaplane

"We are flying to Europe from New York. This is our first trip. Is there any special airport procedure we should know?"

ALL AIRLINES ask you to check in an hour ahead of flight time. But you don't have to panic if you make it a half hour. They do double-checking on names, reservations etc.

I would try to make it an hour or more though. Because—there's always a line-up. And a cushion of time lets you exchange some dollars for money of the foreign port of arrival — handy for tips and taxis. And — you have time to go to the free port shop in the airport — (there's one of these and a bank in each terminal) — and buy cigarettes and liquor if you like.

These free port cigarettes cost about $2 a carton. They'll cost $7 in England, $6 in France etc. Scotch will run $2.50 compared to $7 in Scotland itself.

* * * *

". . . and how much duty-free items can we take in?"

THE GENERAL rule is a bottle of liquor and two cartons of cigarettes. But England is the only country I've seen recently who asked me or even looked in my bags. And in England, they allow more than the law allows if you have a ticket onward to other countries. It's up to the customs inspector. And he's generous.

* * * *

"Whom do we tip?"

THE REDCAP at New York airport gets 35 cents per bag—a fixed fee. England a shilling a bag. France a franc. Spain five pesetas. (All around 15 to 20 cents U.S.)

* * * *

"Any things that we should take that are lacking in Europe?"

EUROPE has just about everything. However, I usually put three or four of the airline's soap bars in my flight bag en route.

Shoe shines are a problem in Britain—and I never found any answer for it. There—and all over Europe—leave your shoes in the hotel corridor at night. The night porter will WIPE them off. But the British do their own shoe-shining at home.

There is a one-man stand in Piccadilly. And I did see a One-foot-at-a-time stand in the London Hilton. (But nobody and no shine equipment there.) The British tell me they feel it is demeaning for both the shiner and the person whose shoes are being shined. And it's a kind of Sunday hobby to shine your shoes at home.

Not so in Italy, France etc. And in Spain, shoeshine stands are everywhere.

* * * *

"Should we take Kleenex, paper towels? Anything like that?"

TOWELS, no. You can buy Kleenex or other tissues anywhere—though at somewhat higher prices than at home in most countries. They're handy in the flight bag. On many trains—(crack trains of Italy for example) — very necessary. Planes furnish them.

* * * *

"Anything to watch out for?"

I DON'T leave money lying around. But I've never had anything taken from my room in any country. The other day in Pisa, an Italian boy chased me half a block to give me a small coin I'd dropped accidentally.

Taxis are confusing. Because they can't adjust meters to changing rates. But in countries where they have changed rates, or there is a night supplemental charge etc. the rates are posted — usually in all languages.

Whoever makes your hotel reservations, ask them what do you do if the hotel simply doesn't hold to it. I saw an American couple in Rome whose reservation at the posh Excelsior didn't hold.

Italy is jammed as usual. And the hotels are pretty arrogant. One cute little thing you don't find out until you get here: The hotel tells you you must take at least two meals in the hotel. Raising your room rate about $7 to $10. If you don't like it, no room.

British, Swiss, and German hotel reservations are always OK. Spain probably. France maybe. Italy — who knows.

Travelers Tote Less Luggage

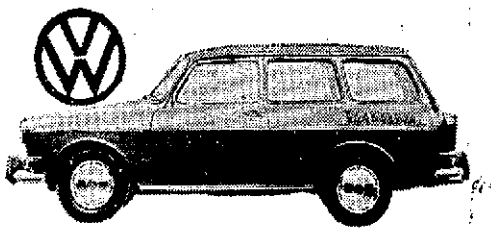

Most Americans are traveling lighter these days.

"It's a rare traveler who carries more than one bag—and that bag is lighter than it's ever been in the past," reports Dan Pavis, general manager of O'Hare Inn adjoining Chicago's O'Hare International Airport.

The trend towards less baggage has led the airlines to consider dropping their weight limit of 40 pounds for passengers and instead imposing a limit on the number of pieces carried per person. The Federal Aviation Agency is currently thinking over the idea.

Bowl season tickets on mail order sale

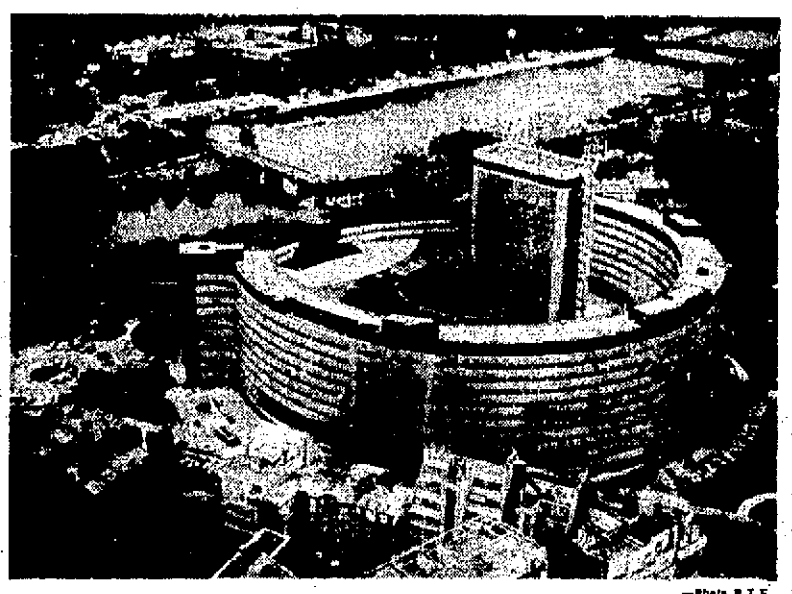

The mail order season sale of boxes and reserved seats for the 1965 Hollywood Bowl season of Symphonies Under the Stars and Pops concerts is underway. The Bowl will open its 44th season July 6.

Orders should be directed to the Hollywood Bowl Association, 135 N. Grand Avenue, Los Anegeles, 90012. During the nine-week season, internationally known conductors and soloists will appear with the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra.

Four performances of the Royal Ballet, two major choral works, symphony concerts and special attractions are scheduled for the summer.

CONDUCTOR Andre Previn and pianist Leonard Pennario will be on the opening-night program. Other conductors will be Zubin Mehta, music director of the Philharmonic; Rafael Kubelik, Sixten Ehrling, Alfred Wallenstein, Andre Kostelanetz, and composer Igor Stravinsky for the symphony nights.

In addition to Pennario, soloists will be pianists Rudolph Firkusny, Leon Fleisher, John Browning and Eugene Istomin; violinists Issac Stern, Ruggiero Ricci and Sidney Harth; cellist Leonard Rose; and singers Elisabeth Schwarzkopf, Roberta Peters, Gladys Kuchta, Maureen Forrester, Jan Peerce, and Brian Sullivan.

Dedicated to French culture

This $40 million complex, completed in the summer of 1963, was designed by Henry Bernard, who won the first Grand Prix de Rome in Architecture.

FROM THE HEART OF PARIS

Enrichment for all France

(Julien Musafia, an Independent, Press - Telegram music critic, pianist, and member of the Long Beach State College music faculty, recently completed an 11-country concert tour in Europe.

He received wide critical acclaim and in Vienna was brought back for 12 curtain calls after his performance of Copland's "Danzon Cubano." This work was written for two pianos, but Musafia played both parts on one piano. The Vienna Volksblatt music critic wrote: "He has an amazing technique and his expression is equal to the technique in the best meaning."

In the spring of 1966, Musafia will concertize in Europe, then go to Africa for extensive ethno-musicological research.

During his recent tour, he wrote nine articles for the Independent, Press-Telegram on concert life in Europe. In this one he describes the impressive new French Radio-Television complex.)

By JULIEN MUSAFIA

Dedicated to the "needs for information, culture, education and amusement," the recently finished building of the French Radio-Television gleams incongruously among the patina-covered stodgy apartment houses of Paris. Situated on the Avenue du President Kennedy, it dominates the Seine and towers high above its environment.

Upon entering this very complex structure, one quickly senses that this is not just another broadcasting station. Indeed, one of the avowed purposes for its construction was "to utilize the quasi-totality of French authors, composers, actors and performing musicians."

The performing musicians find an outlet primarily in three large organizations: the National Orchestra, most famous of them; the Philharmonic; and the Lyric Orchestra, which specializes in accompaniments for opera productions.

* * * *

A CHAMBER music group revives old music and also solicits works from modern composers of all nationalities.

An ensemble, Ars Nova, performs contemporary music. It consists of 17 instrumentalists and dedicates itself entirely to avant garde compositions. These musicians are skilled not only at reading new notation systems, but also at improvising, since many of the new scores require the performer to furnish his own notes and time values on the basis of outlines supplied by the composer.

* * * *

THE FRENCH Radio-Television provides much desk space to those connected with its workings. There are 800 offices placed in the multi-story, 1,600-foot-long exterior circular crown forming the facade of the building. Musicologists, who are considered part of the fraternity, conduct their research in the 21-story rectangular Archive Tower situated in the heart of the complex.

Live music is performed daily in the five public halls, some of them in the 1,000-seat category.

From this large investment of personnel and materiel emerge three simultaneous programs. One is a 24-hour program of information and entertainment. The second is a 20-hour program of recorded and live symphonic, chamber and instrumental music, operas, folklore, music criticism, musicology and great anniversaries such as the "Wagner Cycle," complete works of Bach, etc.

* * * *

THE THIRD program, shorter in duration but broadcast on the most powerful transmitters, is named France-Culture. It groups its materials along five lines of orientation: general culture, documentation, creativity, updating knowledge in all fields, and didactic teaching, such as foreign languages. These programs are relayed to several dozen stations in the provinces, though many of these support their own symphony orchestras.

More than 300 transmitters broadcast over long, medium, short and metric wave lengths these programs, which, by the vastness of their scope attest both to the influence of French Radio-Television on the metropolitan audiences and to the concern of the government for the preservation of French culture.

Art auction lively

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

"Eminently successful!" is the report Friends of the Museum of Art give of the auction which they sponsored last Sunday at the museum.

Attendance was good — 415 persons registered in the guest book and there were many others who didn't take time to sign.

For the first time, food was sold on the grounds and planners underestimated the demand—the supply ran out in mid-afternoon.

Of the 91 items sold, 59 were paintings and prints, 32 were ceramics and pieces of sculpture. Sales totaled $2,434. Of this, $450 goes to the Friends for their purchase prize for next year's fourth annual Southern California exhibition and annual juried show.

Minimum price paid was $2.50 for a ceramic piece. Maximum was $118 bid by the Samuel Pilchmans for an untitled impressionistic oil by Los Angeles artist Herbert Kornfeld. The Pilchmans were so pleased by Kornfeld's work that they bought a second of his paintings.

A trend that appeared for the first time this year vastly pleases the Friends. Many young folks from junior high through senior high school age brought their own money and bid spiritedly and selectively. As a result, the Friends hope to have a wider selection of lower priced items for next year's auction. Those young budgets are slender but the buyers are eager.

* * * *

THE FRIENDS announce that their Art Rental Gallery, normally open from 2 to 4 p.m. Sundays, will be closed today because of the holiday. The museum, at 2300 E. Ocean Blvd., will be open, however. This is the final day to see the "Arts of Southern California XV: Marine Paintings." "Southern California Hard-Edge Painters" will open next Sunday.

THE ANNUAL Student Art Show at Long Beach State College will open Tuesday in the Main and Little Galleries.

About 200 students will exhibit 300 works which they have completed during the year. Drawings, paintings, prints, ceramics, jewelry, textiles, interior design, industrial design, graphics, sculpture and crafts are included.

The exhibit will run through the middle of September. Hours are 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m.

* * * *

DESIGN classes from 12 Southern California colleges and universities will show "Design West," their joint annual display of colorful and original design projects at the California Museum of Science and Industry in Exposition Park through July 4.

The trend this year is toward architectural and industrial design projects, according to Dr. William P. Fitzgerald, museum director.

* * * *

"THE MUSEUM and the Critics" will be discussed at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday as the second session of a lecture series in Westside Jewish Community Center, 5870 W. Olympic Blvd. Edward Biberman is moderator.

On the panel will be Henry T. Hopkins, director of educational services, and James Elliott, chief curator, both of the Los Angeles County Museum of Art; William Wilson, UCLA art history instructor; Rosalind G. Wholden, writer-critic for "Arts and Architecture" and "Arts" magazines; and Helen Wurdemann, director of Los Angeles Art Association and correspondent for "Arts in America."

LICIA ALBANESE

Two operas to go round

Licia Albanese will be starred with Barry Morell and Frank Guarrera, all of the Metropolitan Opera, in Puccini's "La Boheme," scheduled for June 1, 3 and 5 at Melodyland, theater-in-the-round at Anaheim. It will be followed by Mildred Miller, Theodor Uppman and Richard Verreau, also from the Metropolitan, in Bizet's "Carmen" on June 8, 10 and 12.

Both the operas will be presented with a full symphony orchestra conducted by Allen Jensen. Hal Shafer is stage director.

Mail orders are now being accepted at the theater.

Wilder awarded top prize

Los Cancioneros, South Bay Peninsula chorale under direction of Mrs. Thomas H. Mabin, will present "Bach to Brigadoon" as their 16th annual concert at Redondo Union High School Auditorium Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m.

On the program will be a choral composition, "All in Green Went My Love Riding," adapted by Roland Wilder from a poem by E. E. Cummings. For the work, Wilder, a graduate student in music at Long Beach State College, won the $200 Student Composer's Award sponsored by Los Cancioneros. All entrants based their works on contemporary American poetry or prose.

Formal opening for 'Dodo'

"A Dodo in Love" by Harold Brooke and Kay Bannerman will have its United States premiere with a formal opening Friday at 8:30 p.m. in Community Playhouse, 5021 E. Anaheim St. John McNamara directs.

The comedy has been given previously in England only. "A Dodo," an extinct species, is, in the play, a romanticist of the old school. Young people are introduced as realists who believe that love is just a question of two adults whose minds and emotions are in harmony.

* * * *

THE WRITERS describe their play as one of moods and contrasts and a work created for fun.

Lana Holmes Smith and Vernon Smith play leads as a husband and wife acting team. Terrence Doyle, Crossen Doreen and Hal Slatton complete the cast.

LBSC bills two free concerts

Two free concerts will be given by Long Beach State College, one Friday and the other next Sunday.

"The Classics Revisited," Friday at 8 p.m. in the Little Theater will include two one-act operas and "The American Jazz Mass."

"Gallantry," by Douglass Moore and Arnold Sundgaard, and "In A Garden," by Gertrude Stein and Meyer Kupferman, will be sung by the A Cappella Choir under direction of senior Alex Von Wetter.

Student Robert McCandless will direct "The American Jazz Mass," a complete Mass put to jazz in a reverent style by Frank Tiro.

* * * *

NEXT SUNDAY, the "Glory Mass" by Puccini will be performed by the oratorio chorus in the theater at 4 p.m. Dr. Charles Neiswender will direct the 90-voice group. Soloists will be Pamela Satzman, Louis Owens and Charles Smith.

Bright, cheery show takes light look at art

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

The Pavillon Gallery, 400 Main St., Balboa, has a completely delightful exhibition which will run through June 20, Wednesdays through Sundays, from 1 to 5 p.m. "Collectors' Show" includes 160 pictures, a book of etchings, a kinetic construction, 15 sculptures, and 2 wood constructions. The show emphasizes the lighter side of contemporary art.

Mrs. Thomas Wilder is responsible for this show; she traveled to galleries in Seattle, San Francisco, Palo Alto, Santa Barbara, Los Angeles, Laguna, and San Diego to make the selections. The works are hung, generally, by geographic area.

* * * *

THE OBJECTS are most wonderful. There is one, "Black Tulip Box" by Anthony Berlant, about a foot square, which is covered with enameled tin ads, used as collage. When picked up and tipped, the box emits a most unusual, sinking sound.

David Thompkins' "Hippopotamus Bug" is fun to pull on a string. It scampers along on its spindly iron wheels with great jaws opening and closing. Charles Mattox's "Geneva Yellow Wheel" starts moving in a creepy way when the viewer steps on an electric button. Its moving parts are bright, sharp colors.

* * * *

ROY DE FOREST paints an existentialist possibility, "Indian Joe Reads the Major Works of Edmund Russeryl" which is large with brassy colors in which a gritty substance is frequently imbedded. Its textures and patterns are strong and intricate.

The embossed print folio by Kathan Brown, called "The Ocean's Warning to the Skin Diver," is done in subtle and delicate lines with legends accompanying the illustrations.

* * * *

THERE are, as well, among the 179 works, many which are very fine and not in a "kooky" vein at all. The overall effect of the show is one of bright cheery colors. Most of the great West Coast artists are represented.

We visited on the third day it was open; a great many of the works were sold. Make haste!

A Beauty Hint

Give your skin a delightful bloom to last through the driest and hottest of summers. Damp a cloth in the cold water from your refrigerator and smooth it over your face and neck, or better still, cool and tone your bottle of lemon Jelvyn instead. Feel the skin respond to the refreshing Jelvyn toning action. Now, to hold the bloom, smooth on your oil of Olay and use it always under your make-up to protect against the weather and to give the skin that young dewy look.

Lecturer to discuss 'Romantics'

"The Romantics in Retrospect," an admission-free lecture and demonstration performance, is scheduled at 8 p.m. Thursday in Studio C of the Long Beach City College music building, Clark Avenue and Harvey Way.

Lecturer will be Duane Gurnee, chairman of the LBCC music department. Guest performer will be Dorothy Judy Klein, concert pianist and member of the American College of Musicians.

The Thursday night lecture is the third in the current series on "European Music in 20th Century Retrospect." The series will conclude June 10 with a program on "Haydn and the Symphony," to be presented by Akira Endo and the City College Chamber Orchestra.

Better still, we'll deliver it to your door. A Weinheimer trunk complete with carpet & furniture cleaning specialist, the most modern equipment and over 18 years experience. Call GE 3-9906 for a free estimate. Carpet & furniture will last years longer. You'll see.

You can be a big sport at sea if you like salt air

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Travel Editor

Ask a dozen people why they plan a cruise this year and you'll get more answers than you think.

Aside from the fact that most sail off into the Pacific to see far lands and a glimpse of how other races live, cruise enthusiasts like the swish of water as they go for a stroll under the moon. They enjoy the camaraderie aboard ship, the leisure that sailing affords.

And the salt air.

If a smog control engineer on a trans-Pacific liner were to take a sample of sea air a day's journey out of Los Angeles, his analysis probably would read: pollutants —hydrocarbons, none; auto fumes, none; industrial irritants, none; sodium chloride, lots; sunshine, saturate.

It is this fresh salt air, explains Howard Green, secretary - chairman of the Trans-Pacific Passenger Conference, that accounts for the "sailor's appetite."

* * * *

"SAILOR'S appetite" is what makes eating such a looked-forward-to adventure on a cruise ship.

And, while not everyone realizes it, the salt air also accounts for the tremendous rise in the popularity of deck sports.

It's simple: the salt air generates a feeling of well-being and sharpens the appetite for the next 10-course shipboard meal. So passengers leave the deck chairs in droves to toss quoits or dive for spoons in the ship's pool.

All the liners plying the Pacific have generous open deck space for quoits, shuffleboard, pools and deck tennis. Indoors, there's table tennis and dancing.

And now, on the big British P&O - Orient ships, there's a softball version of cricket, with the field laid out on deck and with nets to keep the ball from going into the drink. And there's bricket, a game that combines the best features of baseball and cricket.

* * * *

MATSON has installed 48-foot bowling alleys on its Hawaii liner Lurline. Green says bowling at sea presents no problems under normal cruise conditions. An "inclinometer" indicates the extent of the ship's roll and this allows the bowler to compensate with each shot at the pins.

Golfers can keep their skills sharp aboard the cruise ships of American President Lines. The Presidents Wilson, Cleveland and Roosevelt, serving the Orient, are equipped with putting greens, and canvas screens keep the balls from getting lost in the Pacific after a drive.

Besides, who wouldn't give or take a little exercise for a good appetite? And, out on deck, a nice tan?

* * * *

UPCOMING months will see a rash of cruises in the Pacific, and the travel hungry are making bookings like in no other year. Here are some of the special ones:

American President Lines and Matson announce special interest tours for those who wish to learn more about their favorite sport or hobby while cruising.

APL's President Roosevelt sails next Jan. 20 on a 90-day cruise around the world from San Francisco, and will visit 25 ports in 16 countries.

Swedish American Line's Gripsholm sails out of New York next Jan. 7 on a world cruise, embarks at Los Angeles on Jan. 21.

Holland - America Line's Statendam departs Los Angeles next Sept. 21 on a "60-Day Pacific Adventure Cruise" in the Pacific.

P&O - Orient's big luxury liners have several trips planned in the Pacific throughout the year.

Air France and Zim Lines join efforts with a variety of itineraries arranged by American Express. They begin with a jet flight to Europe for sightseeing in Europe and the Near East and the trip back to the U.S. by ship from Naples.

LUXURY LINERS plying the Pacific have generous open deck space for sports. Photo shows cricket being played on the big British liners of P&O-Orient.

NEW FILM ON FISHING AVAILABLE

A new fishing film, "Reel Fun in Oregon," is available to sportsmen's clubs and other groups in the Long Beach area.

The movie shows excellent scenes of fishermen catching steelhead, trout, salmon and sea bass, as well as a wide variety of angling — including fly fishing and fishing with bait, and stream, lake and ocean fishing. The film is 25 minutes long, 16 mm., color and sound.

Interested groups should write Travel Information Division, 102 State Highway Bldg., Salem, Ore. 97310.

Chance to walk it off in Paris

English-speaking tourists in Paris can now take advantage of a portable record player offered by American Express, which enables them to guide themselves through 9 different walks in Paris.

Each record has an hour-long commentary on a "promenade," lasting about two hours. A detailed plan of the district to be visited and the means of transportation available for getting there are printed on the cover of the record. The "promenades" which have been recorded include the Arch of Triumph and the Champs Elysees, the Palais de Chaillot and the Eiffel Tower, the Invalides and UNESCO, the Latin Quarter, the Ile-Saint-Louis and the Ile de la Cite, the Tuileries and the Louvre, as well as others.

The records cost 5 F ($1) in winter and 15 F ($3) in summer, and a 50 F ($10) deposit is requested for the record-player.

Couple to lead Universe tours

Dr. and Mrs. Charles L. McClain, experienced tour operators from Texas, have joined the staff of Universe Travel, Inc., 4087 Long Beach Blvd. and will conduct two tours in the months ahead.

The first tour, a 32-day cruise of the South Seas aboard a Matson liner, departs Sept. 3 from Long Beach. The second, a six-week tour around the world, including the Holy Land, will leave next March 27.

Mission Bay officer named

John Wood, 26, has been named director of public relations for Mission Bay Park, San Diego. He has been manager of public relations at Sea World, ocean arium on the bay.

The 4,600-acre park includes five major hotels, Sea World, a day and night golf course, three marinas, yacht club, two boat and ski clubs, bait supplier, two sports-fishing firms, a seafood market and service station.

Speeding in Italy

There is no speed limit on Italy's Superhighway of the Sun which sweeps down the peninsula from Milan to Naples, says Pan Am. Daredevils, however, are restrained by warning signals and road patrols which check tire conditions at all access points.

TRAVEL and RESORTS

Newest U.S. park

ANGEL ARCH, in Canyonlands National Park, Utah, is a graceful sandstone span guarded by a brooding angel with folded wings.

SCARRED, eroded, yet hauntingly beautiful, a quarter - million acres of Utah's remote back-country lying athwart the junction of the Colorado and Green Rivers has been set aside in perpetuity as Canyonlands National Park. Signing into law the measure establishing the nation's newest scenic-recreational preserve, President Johnson expressed certainty future generations will "praise the foresight of those who have established a national park of this magnitude with scenery unequalled anywhere in the world."

Comprising 257,640 acres in the southeastern section of Utah, Canyonlands National Park includes plateaus and mesas rising over 7,800 feet above sea level, and low-lying basin lands at the water's edge of the two cliff-rimmed rivers. Above the confluence of the Colorado and Green are Grandview Point with vistas comparable to those seen by millions at Grand Canyon; Upheaval Dome, labeled "the outstanding geologic feature of the canyon country;" Monument Canyon, a 4,720 acre region of pinnacles and monoliths; High Mesa, a 1,280 acre "island in the sky"; and The Neck, a 640-acre connection between two escarpments barely wide enough for a road—with a 2,000 foot deep gorge on either side.

SOUTH AND EAST of the junction of the two canyon-cutting rivers, the new park includes the 55,000 acre area dubbed The Needles, a region in which meadowlands and natural "parks" are shadowed by monumental rock spires and pinnacles, carved into odd, multi-colored forms by eons of erosion. Just west of the confluence of the Colorado and the Green is a 25,000 acre maze locally known as "The Land of Standing Rocks." Here, only partially explored, and inaccessible except by horseback or four-wheel drive vehicles, fantastic rock "fins" rear nearly 1,000 feet high, often standing in soldier-like ranks.

Roadbuilding will be a major problem for park planners, and it will be at least five years before Canyonlands National Park can be made as accessible as Zion and Bryce Canyon National Parks, which are also situated in Utah. While present-day vacationists would need a jeep and several weeks to explore the inner reaches of this canyon-girt wilderness, it is possible for today's visitors to safely sample much of the scenery—although no paved roads as yet reach into the park.

A WELL-GRADED dry-weather road, cutting west and south from U.S. 160 near Arches National Monument a dozen miles north of Moab, reaches Dead Horse Point State Park and provides access across "The Neck" to Grandview Point. In addition to entering the bounds of the new park, this route gives visitors extensive views across the Canyonlands area at highly scenic locations.

Another trail, best left to four-wheel drive vehicles, extends from the Grandview road to Upheaval Dome, a deep vertical-walled crater in the bottom of which a cream and white colored mass of stone thrust up through the surrounding red-tinged sandstone by vinlent geologic action millions of years ago.

Portions of the new park can be safely entered by boat

Bert's Eye View

Second Year for 'Daniel Boone'

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

IT LOOKS LIKE Broadway will have to wait.

Fess Parker was thinking about doing a musical next season along The Great White Way but "Daniel Boone" tommy-hawked the idea.

Fess, who has the title role of "Daniel Boone," is happy about the tommy-hawking.

For "Daniel Boone," an NBC-TV Thursday night series, has been picked up for a second season and will be back in COLOR next fall.

"I think we can improve from 50 to 75% the second season," said Fess.

Not that he's minimizing the quality of the series the first season.

"I think we put more action into this show than anything around," he said.

DURING THE SECOND SEASON, however, Fess thinks there will be more time to prepare. This season, by the way of contrast, he sometimes received the script as late as a day before the segment was to start being taped.

So the Broadway musical will wait, but there will come a day.

Fess got a taste of the musical way of life when he appeared in a 10-week summer road tour of "Oklahoma" before they started "Daniel Boone" production.

He had the role of "Curly" and "sang the whole ball of wax."

Also on the future horizon, hopefully, is the opportunity to "have the experience of making a movie with top creative elements—just to see what happens."

DON'T GET THE IDEA he's down-grading television.

It's just that, as an actor, television doesn't provide a full scense of accomplishment.

"Creatively," said Fess, "you don't get a lot of satisfaction out of rubbing your head and patting your stomach at the same time.

"That's what I mean about television. It's a physical coordination problem to try to get it done."

Not that it's extremely difficult. For example, Fess can rapidly learn any number of pages from his television script and then, just as rapidly, forget them when the scenes are shot.

"Trouble is," he said, "that facility for forgetting goes along with other things.

"Like flying a plane. You learn rapidly what you are supposed to do, then do it, then the next time forget 'yesterday's dialogue.'"

FESS WILL NEVER FORGET yesterday's reaction to his portrayal of Davey Crockett, a role which put him into show-business prominence.

It was a prominence, after the role was over, that was comparatively short-lived. Fess was signed for three motion pictures, but not in leading-man roles.

He came back to television for one season as a senator in "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington." It did nothing for him except remind show-business that he was still around.

Show-business needs no reminding now. Fess is a hit as "Daniel Boone" and it's the role that he likes best.

"That's mainly," he smiled, "because it's what I'm doing now."

Bowl season tickets on mail order sale

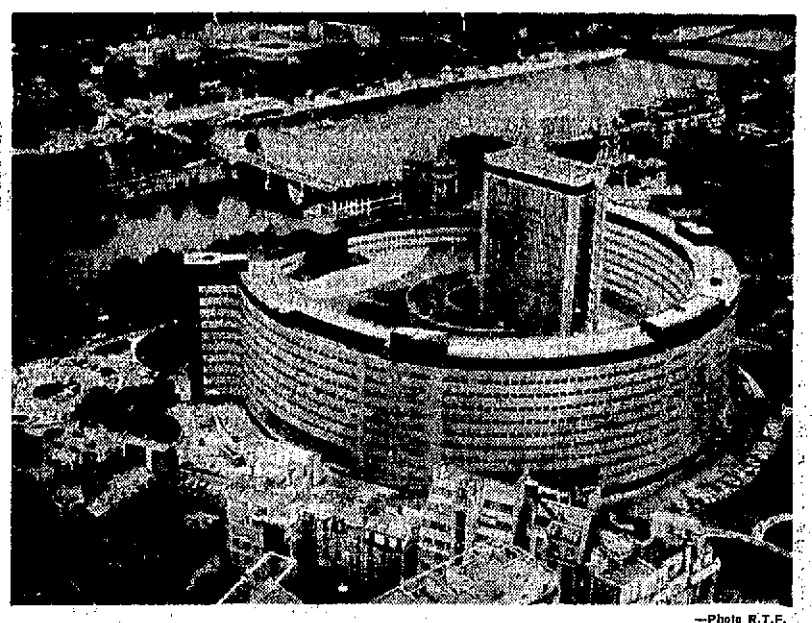

The mail order season sale of boxes and reserved seats for the 1965 Hollywood Bowl season of Symphonies Under the Stars and Pops concerts is underway. The Bowl will open its 44th season July 6.

Orders should be directed to the Hollywood Bowl Association, 135 N. Grand Avenue, Los Anegeles, 90012. During the nine-week season, internationally known conductors and soloists will appear with the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra.

Four performances of the Royal Ballet, two major choral works, symphony concerts and special attractions are scheduled for the summer.

CONDUCTOR Andre Previn and pianist Leonard Pennario will be on the opening-night program. Other conductors will be Zubin Mehta, music director of the Philharmonic; Rafael Kubelik, Sixten Ehrling, Alfred Wallenstein, Andre Kostelanetz, and composer Igor Stravinsky for the symphony nights.

In addition to Pennario, soloists will be pianists Rudolph Firkusny, Leon Fleisher, John Browning and Eugene Istomin; violinists Issac Stern, Ruggiero Ricci and Sidney Harth; cellist Leonard Rose; and singers Elisabeth Schwarzkopf, Roberta Peters, Gladys Kuchta, Maureen Forrester, Jan Peerce, and Brian Sullivan.

Art auction lively

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

"Eminently successful!" is the report Friends of the Museum of Art give of the auction which they sponsored last Sunday at the museum.

Attendance was good — 415 persons registered in the guest book and there were many others who didn't take time to sign.

For the first time, food was sold on the grounds and planners underestimated the demand—the supply ran out in mid-afternoon.

Of the 91 items sold, 59 were paintings and prints, 32 were ceramics and pieces of sculpture. Sales totaled $2,434. Of this, $450 goes to the Friends for their purchase prize for next year's fourth annual Southern California exhibition and annual juried show.

Minimum price paid was $2.50 for a ceramic piece. Maximum was $118 bid by the Samuel Pilchmans for an untitled impressionistic oil by Los Angeles artist Herbert Kornfeld. The Pilchmans were so pleased by Kornfeld's work that they bought a second of his paintings.

A trend that appeared for the first time this year vastly pleases the Friends. Many young folks from junior high through senior high school age brought their own money and bid spiritedly and selectively. As a result, the Friends hope to have a wider selection of lower priced items for next year's auction. Those young budgets are slender but the buyers are eager.

* * * *

THE FRIENDS announce that their Art Rental Gallery, normally open from 2 to 4 p.m. Sundays, will be closed today because of the holiday. The museum, at 2300 E. Ocean Blvd., will be open, however. This is the final day to see the "Arts of Southern California XV: Marine Paintings." "Southern California Hard-Edge Painters" will open next Sunday.

* * * *

THE ANNUAL Student Art Show at Long Beach State College will open Tuesday in the Main and Little Galleries.

About 200 students will exhibit 300 works which they have completed during the year. Drawings, paintings, prints, ceramics, jewelry, textiles, interior design, industrial design, graphics, sculpture and crafts are included.

The exhibit will run through the middle of September. Hours are 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m.

* * * *

DESIGN classes from 12 Southern California colleges and universities will show "Design West," their joint annual display of colorful and original design projects at the California Museum of Science and Industry in Exposition Park through July 4.

The trend this year is toward architectural and industrial design projects, according to Dr. William P. Fitzgerald, museum director.

* * * *

"THE MUSEUM and the Critics" will be discussed at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday as the second session of a lecture series in Westside Jewish Community Center, 5870 W. Olympic Blvd. Edward Biberman is moderator.

On the panel will be Henry T. Hopkins, director of educational services, and James Elliott, chief curator, both of the Los Angeles County Museum of Art; William Wilson, UCLA art history instructor; Rosalind G. Wholden, writer-critic for "Arts and Architecture" and "Arts" magazines; and Helen Wurdemann, director of Los Angeles Art Association and correspondent for "Arts in America."

LICIA ALBANESE

Two operas to go round

Licia Albanese will be starred with Barry Morell and Frank Guarrera, all of the Metropolitan Opera, in Puccini's "La Boheme," scheduled for June 1, 3 and 5 at Melodyland, theater-in-the-round at Anaheim. It will be followed by Mildred Miller, Theodor Uppman and Richard Verreau, also from the Metropolitan, in Bizet's "Carmen" on June 8, 10 and 12.

Both the operas will be presented with a full symphony orchestra conducted by Allen Jensen. Hal Shafer is stage director.

Mail orders are now being accepted at the theater.

Wilder awarded top prize

Los Cancioneros, South Bay Peninsula chorale under direction of Mrs. Thomas H. Mabin, will present "Bach to Brigadoon" as their 16th annual concert at Redondo Union High School Auditorium Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m.

On the program will be a choral composition, "All in Green Went My Love Riding," adapted by Roland Wilder from a poem by E. E. Cummings. For the work, Wilder, a graduate student in music at Long Beach State College, won the $200 Student Composer's Award sponsored by Los Cancioneros. All entrants based their works on contemporary American poetry or prose.

Formal opening for 'Dodo'

"A Dodo in Love" by Harold Brooke and Kay Bannerman will have its United States premiere with a formal opening Friday at 8:30 p.m. in Community Playhouse, 5021 E. Anaheim St. John McNamara directs.

The comedy has been given previously in England only. "A Dodo," an extinct species, is, in the play, a romanticist of the old school. Young people are introduced as realists who believe that love is just a question of two adults whose minds and emotions are in harmony.

* * * *

THE WRITERS describe their play as one of moods and contrasts and a work created for fun.

Lana Holmes Smith and Vernon Smith play leads as a husband and wife acting team. Terrence Doyle, Crossen Doreen and Hal Slatton complete the cast.

LBSC bills two free concerts

Two free concerts will be given by Long Beach State College, one Friday and the other next Sunday.

"The Classics Revisited," Friday at 8 p.m. in the Little Theater will include two one-act operas and "The American Jazz Mass."

"Gallantry," by Douglass Moore and Arnold Sungaard, and "In A Garden," by Gertrude Stein and Meyer Kupferman, will be sung by the A Cappella Choir under direction of senior Alex Von Wetter.

Student Robert McCandless will direct "The American Jazz Mass," a complete Mass put to jazz in a reverent style by Frank Tiro.

* * * *

NEXT SUNDAY, the "Glory Mass" by Puccini will be performed by the oratorio chorus in the theater at 4 p.m. Dr. Charles Neiswender will direct the 90-voice group. Soloists will be Pamela Satzman, Louis Owens and Charles Smith.

FROM THE HEART OF PARIS

Enrichment for all France

(Julien Musafia, an Independent, Press-Telegram music critic, pianist, and member of the Long Beach State College music faculty, recently completed an 11-country concert tour in Europe.

He received wide critical acclaim and in Vienna was brought back for 12 curtain calls after his performance of Copland's "Danzon Cubano." This work was written for two pianos, but Musafia played both parts on one piano. The Vienna Volksblatt music critic wrote: "He has an amazing technique and his expression is equal to the technique in the best meaning."

In the spring of 1966, Musafia will concertize in Europe, then go to Africa for extensive ethno-musicological research.

During his recent tour, he wrote nine articles for the Independent, Press-Telegram on concert life in Europe. In this one he describes the impressive new French Radio-Television complex.)

By JULIEN MUSAFIA

Dedicated to the "needs for information, culture, education and amusement," the recently finished building of the French Radio-Television gleams incongruously among the patina-covered stodgy apartment houses of Paris. Situated on the Avenue du President Kennedy, it dominates the Seine and towers high above its environment.

Upon entering this very complex structure, one quickly senses that this is not just another broadcasting station. Indeed, one of the avowed purposes for its construction was "to utilize the quasi-totality of French authors, composers, actors and performing musicians."

The performing musicians find an outlet primarily in three large organizations: the National Orchestra, most famous of them; the Philharmonic; and the Lyric Orchestra, which specializes in accompaniments for opera productions.

* * * *

A CHAMBER music group revives old music and also solicits works from modern composers of all nationalities.

An ensemble, Ars Nova, performs contemporary music. It consists of 17 instrumentalists and dedicates itself entirely to avant garde compositions. These musicians are skilled not only at reading new notation systems, but also at improvising, since many of the new scores require the performer to furnish his own notes and time values on the basis of outlines supplied by the composer.

* * * *

THE FRENCH Radio-Television provides much desk space to those connected with its workings. There are 800 offices placed in the multi-story, 1,600-foot-long exterior circular crown forming the facade of the building. Musicologists, who are considered part of the fraternity, conduct their research in the 21-story rectangular Archive Tower situated in the heart of the complex.

Live music is performed daily in the five public halls, some of them in the 1,000-seat category.

From this large investment of personnel and materiel emerge three simultaneous programs. One is a 24-hour program of information and entertainment. The second is a 20-hour program of recorded and live symphonic, chamber and instrumental music, operas, folklore, music criticism, musicology and great anniversaries such as the "Wagner Cycle," complete works of Bach, etc.

* * * *

THE THIRD program, shorter in duration but broadcast on the most powerful transmitters, is named France-Culture. It groups its materials along five lines of orientation: general culture, documentation, creativity, updating knowledge in all fields, and didactic teaching, such as foreign languages. These programs are relayed to several dozen stations in the provinces, though many of these support their own symphony orchestras.

More than 300 transmitters broadcast over long, medium, short and metric wave lengths these programs, which, by the vastness of their scope attest both to the influence of French Radio-Television on the metropolitan audiences and to the concern of the government for the preservation of French culture.

Bright, cheery show takes light look at art

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

The Pavilion Gallery, 400 Main St., Balboa, has a completely delightful exhibition which will run through June 20, Wednesdays through Sundays, from 1 to 5 p.m. "Collectors' Show" includes 160 pictures, a book of etchings, a kinetic construction, 15 sculptures, and 2 wood constructions. The show emphasizes the lighter side of contemporary art.

Mrs. Thomas Wilder is responsible for this show; she traveled to galleries in Seattle, San Francisco, Palo Alto, Santa Barbara, Los Angeles, Laguna, and San Diego to make the selections. The works are hung, generally, by geographic area.

* * * *

THE OBJECTS are most wonderful. There is one, "Black Tulip Box" by Anthony Berlant, about a foot square, which is covered with enameled tin ads, used as collage. When picked up and tipped, the box emits a most unusual, sinking sound.

David Thompkins' "Hippopotamus Bug" is fun to pull on a string. It scampers along on its spindly iron wheels with great jaws opening and closing. Charles Mattox's "Geneva Yellow Wheel" starts moving in a creepy way when the viewer steps on an electric button. Its moving parts are bright, sharp colors.

* * * *

ROY DE FOREST paints an existentialist possibility, "Indian Joe Reads the Major Works of Edmund Russeryl" which is large with brassy colors in which a gritty substance is frequently imbedded. Its textures and patterns are strong and intricate.

The embossed print folio by Kathan Brown, called "The Ocean's Warning to the Skin Diver," is done in subtle and delicate lines with legends accompanying the illustrations.

* * * *

THERE are, as well, among the 179 works, many which are very fine and not in a "kooky" vein at all. The overall effect of the show is one of bright cheery colors. Most of the great West Coast artists are represented.

We visited on the third day it was open; a great many of the works were sold. Make haste!

A Beauty Hint

Give your skin a delightful bloom to last through the driest and hottest of summers. Damp a cloth in the cold water from your refrigerator and smooth it over your face and neck, or better still, cool and use your bottle of lemon Jelvyn instead. Feel the skin respond to the refreshing Jelvyn toning action. Now, to hold the bloom, smooth on your oil of Olay and use it always under your make-up to protect against the weather and to give the skin that young dewy look.

Bert's Eye View

Second Year for 'Daniel Boone'

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

IT LOOKS LIKE Broadway will have to wait.

Fess Parker was thinking about doing a musical next season along The Great White Way but "Daniel Boone" tommy-hawked the idea.

Fess, who has the title role of "Daniel Boone," is happy about the tommy-hawking.

For "Daniel Boone," an NBC-TV Thursday night series, has been picked up for a second season and will be back in COLOR next fall.

"I think we can improve from 50 to 75% the second season," said Fess.

Not that he's minimizing the quality of the series the first season.

"I think we put more action into this show than anything around," he said.

DURING THE SECOND SEASON, however, Fess thinks there will be more time to prepare. This season, by the way of contrast, he sometimes received the script as late as a day before the segment was to start being taped.

So the Broadway musical will wait, but there will come a day.

Fess got a taste of the musical way of life when he appeared in a 10-week summer road tour of "Oklahoma" before they started "Daniel Boone" production.

He had the role of "Curly" and "sang the whole ball of wax."

Also on the future horizon, hopefully, is the opportunity to "have the experience of making a movie with top creative elements—just to see what happens."

DON'T GET THE IDEA he's down-grading television.

It's just that, as an actor, television doesn't provide a full scense of accomplishment.

"Creatively," said Fess, "you don't get a lot of satisfaction out of rubbing your head and patting your stomach at the same time.

"That's what I mean about television. It's a physical coordination problem to try to get it done."

Not that it's extremely difficult. For example, Fess can rapidly learn any number of pages from his television script and then, just as rapidly, forget them when the scenes are shot.

"Trouble is," he said, "that facility for forgetting goes along with other things.

"Like flying a plane. You learn rapidly what you are supposed to do, then do it, then the next time forget 'yesterday's dialogue.'"

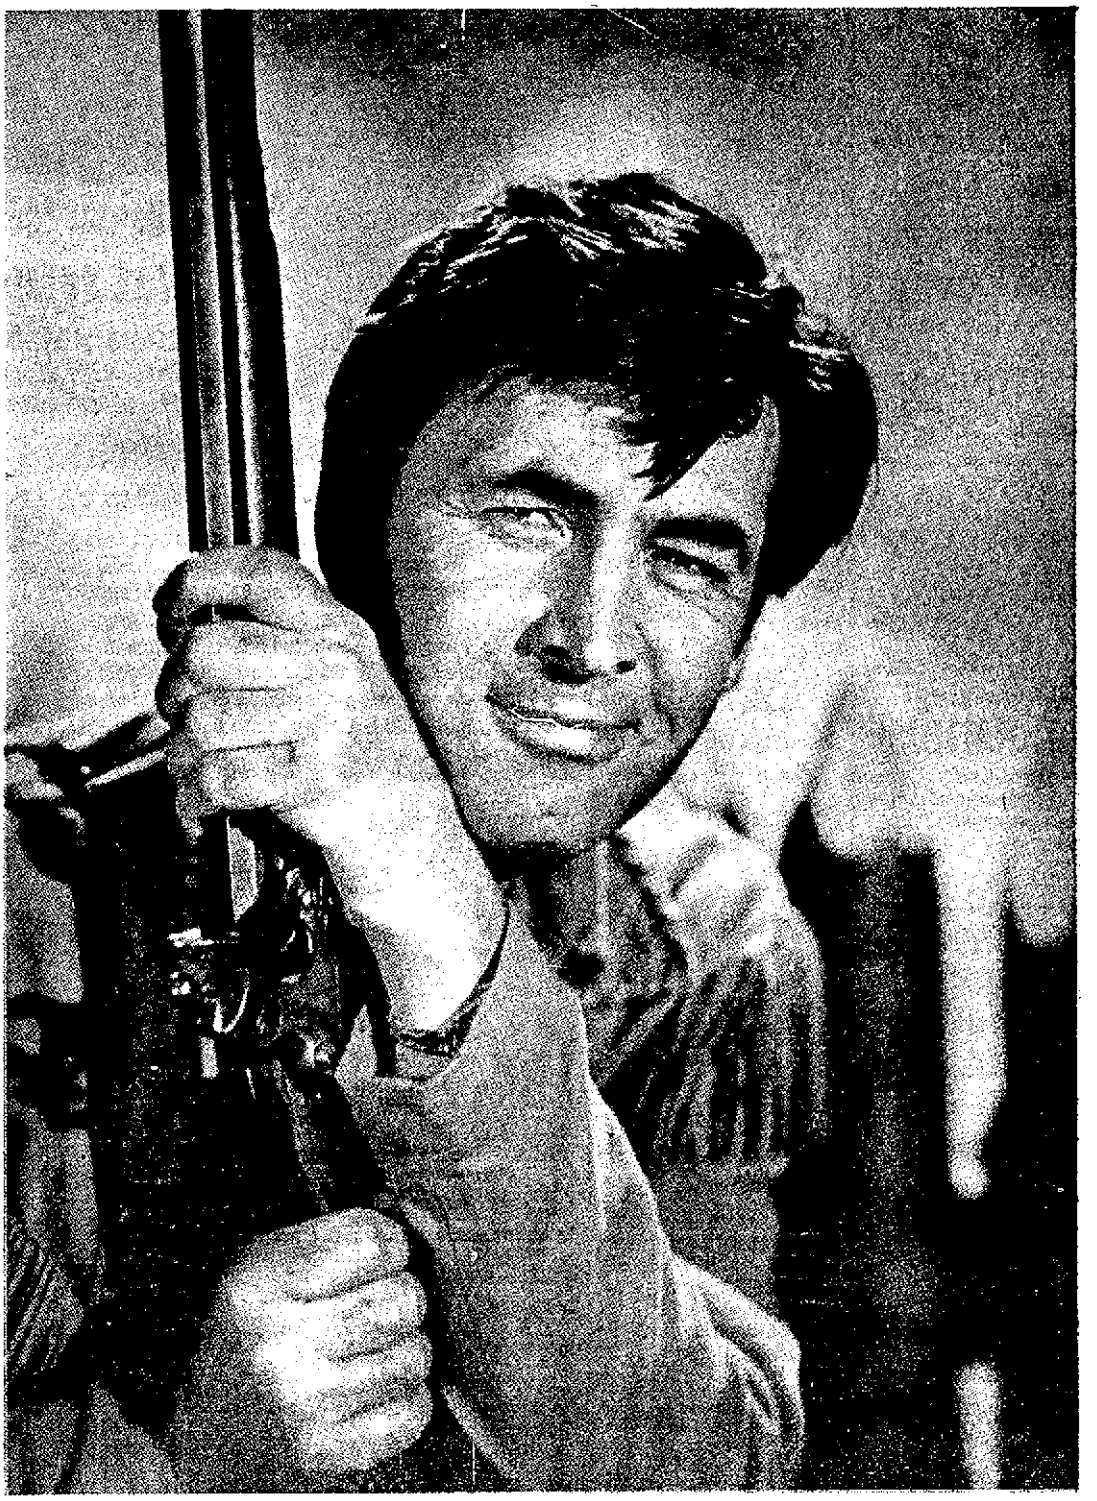

FESS WILL NEVER FORGET yesterday's reaction to his portrayal of Davey Crockett, a role which put him into show-business prominence.

It was a prominence, after the role was over, that was comparatively short-lived. Fess was signed for three motion pictures, but not in leading-man roles.

He came back to television for one season as a senator in "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington." It did nothing for him except remind show-business that he was still around.

Show-business needs no reminding now. Fess is a hit as "Daniel Boone" and it's the role that he likes best.

"That's mainly," he smiled, "because it's what I'm doing now."

Sports Today

BASEBALL, 11 a.m., ch. 5, finds Buddy Blattner and Don Wells at Baltimore's Memorial Stadium as the Angels take on the Orioles.

NBC SPORTS in Action, 6:30 p.m., ch. 4, has Jim Simpson with tapes of last month's 26 - mile Boston Marathon for international long-distance runners, and Lou Bada at Charlotte, N.C., with tapes of the 600-mile '600,' won last Sunday by Fred Lorenzen. (Next week's show devotes the full hour to the Compton Relays.)

SPECIAL

SUNDAY CONCERT—Return premiere. Taped concerts of the Boston Symphony, under the baton of Erich Leinsdorf, return at 12 noon, ch. 11, with a program including Walter Schumann's "Symphony No. 4" and Richard Strauss' "Till Eulenspiegel."

MARTIN'S LIE—The American premiere of Fian-Carlo Menott's new opera, commissioned by CBS in 1962, is seen at 4 p.m., ch. 2, starring Michael Wennink, William McAlpine and Noreen Berry. Preempted on its original Jan. 24 scheduled airdate by a special tribute to Winston Churchill, story deals with a young orphan in medieval Europe who must choose between truth and love. By lying, he saves the life of a man who perhaps is not worthy of his love and of his ultimate sacrifice. (Hour was taped in Bristol, England, following its world premiere there last June as part of the Bath Festival.)

SPECIAL

WHAT WENT WRONG in Santo Domingo?—Charles Kuralt is principal reporter for a step-by-step examination and evaluation of the events and policies which led to the present crisis in the Dominican Republic. Deposed President Juan Bosch, rebel leader and "constitutional president" Col. Francisco Caamano Deno, U.S. Presidential envoy John Bartlow Martin and others connected with the crisis take part in the 10 p.m., ch. 2 hour, along with Eric Sevareid, Robert Schakne, Bert Quint and Marvin Kalb, as U.S. policy, past and present, is evaluated, as well as developments in Santo Domingo from the days of assassinated dictator Rafael Trujillo to the present.

BEN CASEY—June Reed of Sepulveda, deaf since she was 22 months old and with no dramatic experience, was picked over normal actress-children to star in the segment at 10 p.m., ch. 7, which following its October original airing won for ABC the Alexander Graham Bell award "for an outstanding contribution to public understanding of the problems of deafness, and the capabilities of children who are deaf." Dane Clark plays the girl's father, a flamboyant necktie salesman, who wants to send her to a school for retarded children rather than one for the deaf. June and seven other "profoundly deaf" children in the story are all from L.A.'s Mary E. Bennett School for the Deaf.

Sports Today

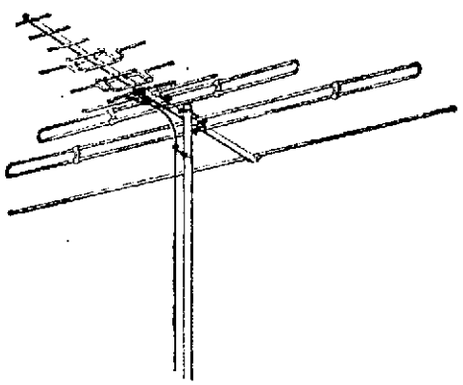

NAT'L GOLF DAY, 2 p.m., in color, ch. 4, pits PGA champion Bobby Nichols against National Open king Ken Venturi in an 18-round duel on the Laurel Valley Golf Club course in Ligonier, Pa., with golfers around the country watching to see if their certified handicapped scores have topped the winner. Jim Simpson, Chick Hearn and Tony Lema are mikeside.

HORSE RACING, 10:30 p.m., ch. 5, has tapes of today's Jersy Derby (Garden State) and Metropolitan Derby (Aquaduct).

TV COLOR FROM WHITE HOUSE

'Red Room' Perfect for Speech on Deficit

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Backstairs at the White House:

It is a long way off, but the television people are talking about wiring the White House for color.

When and if the plan comes off—and it is being explored quite seriously—it will be possible to bring President Johnson or any succeeding chief executive to the nation in glorious color from such brilliant settings as the famous red, green or blue rooms of the executive mansion.

Thousands of tourists see these colorful rooms daily on conducted tours. Color television, assuming they have the proper equipment, would make it possible for less-traveled Americans to see the same sights without leaving their living rooms.

As it is now, the built-in TV facilities at the White House are equipped to handle only black-and-white telecasts. Color from the White House is entirely possible, but this requires bringing in tons of special equipment from the outside. And this certainly would not fit the recent Johnson formula of going on television somewhat suddenly, using the east-wing-studio which is manned and supported by the three major networks.

OPERATION OF WHAT has been called "Instant TV" at the White House still is a sensitive subject in certain industry circles as well as in upper official levels.

This sensitivity has to do with technical difficulty encountered recently during the Dominican Republic crisis when the President on several occasion rushed before the resident cameras with little advance notice.

For many technical reasons, some of these telecasts were less than "instant" because the networks were not geared for such quick action or because they did not know the content of his upcoming remarks to the point where they felt justified in breaking into regular programming.

In any case, these difficulties are being attacked, leaving us free to contemplate a brighter, more colorful tomorrow.

COLOR TV POSSIBILITIES at the White House are endless and exciting. In the winter, for example, there could be a cheery logfire crackling in a background fireplace to add a note of color to a not-so-cheerful recital of budget figures.

The red room would be perfect for a speech dealing with the deficit.

The green room might lend itself ideally to a broad range of topics from highway beautification to St. Patrick's Day greetings.

Presidential speeches from the blue room, however, would have to be considered carefully. If motivational research specialists know what they are talking about, blue is a tricky color and would and can induce all sorts of mixed emotions.

Many supermarkets, for example, avoid even a suggestion of blue light on their dairy products. It makes the milk and cottage cheese look thin and watery. By the same token, it might be a frightful mistake for a president to speak from the blue room in behalf of dairy price supports.

Our color-conditioned housewives might think of nothing but blue milk and write sharp letters to their congressmen.

When the era of built-in color TV arrives at the White House the President, to be safe, surely will want to hire a color specialist as part of his speech-writing team.

Perhaps the day will come when a White House adviser interjects into a speech-writing conference, "Frankly, fellows, this paragraph suggests burnt umber to me and it has absolutely no place in a blue room speech."

Such are the promises of decades ahead.

WHAT WENT WRONG in Santo Domingo?—Charles Kuralt is principal reporter for a step-by-step examination and evaluation of the events and policies which led to the present crisis in the Dominican Republic. Deposed President Juan Bosch, rebel leader and "constitutional president" Col. Francisco Caamano Deno, U.S. Presidential envoy John Bartlow Martin and others connected with the crisis take part in the 10 p.m., ch. 2 hour, along with Eric Sevareid, Robert Schakne, Bert Quint and Marvin Kalb, as U.S. policy, past and present, is evaluated, as well as developments in Santo Domingo from the days of assassinated dictator Rafael Trujillo to the present.

BEN CASEY—June Reed of Sepulveda, deaf since she was 22 months old and with no dramatic experience, was picked over normal actress-children to star in the segment at 10 p.m., ch. 7, which following its October original airing won for ABC the Alexander Graham Bell award "for an outstanding contribution to public understanding of the problems of deafness, and the capabilities of children who are deaf." Dane Clark plays the girl's father, a flamboyant necktie salesman, who wants to send her to a school for retarded children rather than one for the deaf. June and seven other "profoundly deaf" children in the story are all from L.A.'s Mary E. Bennett School for the Deaf.

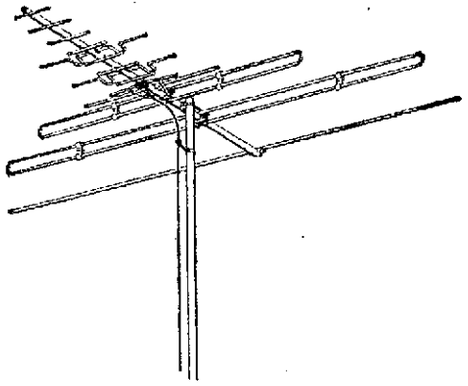

Sports Today

NAT'L GOLF DAY, 2 p.m., in color, ch. 4, pits PGA champion Bobby Nichols against National Open king Ken Venturi in an 18-round duel on the Laurel Valley Golf Club course in Ligonier, Pa., with golfers around the country watching to see if their certified handicapped scores have topped the winner. Jim Simpson, Chick Hearn and Tony Lema are mikeside.

HORSE RACING, 10:30 p.m., ch. 5, has tapes of today's Jersy Derby (Garden State) and Metropolitan Derby (Aquaduct).

SPECIAL

G-T4 PREVIEW — Chet Huntley, David Brinkley and Frank McGee are anchormen for an hour's preview of Thursday's Gemini-Titan IV space flight, a 2-man, 4-day, walk-in-space mission, with Huntley and Brinkley at the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston and McGee with Merrill Mueller at the Cape Kennedy launch site. The 9 p.m., ch. 4 color hour includes a tour of the Houston center, interviews with the two astronauts and flight director Christopher Kraft Jr., plus a profile on Paul Haney, the "voice of Gemini control." Special show preempts "Cloak of Mystery," which yields again next week for a reprise of "The Louvre."

GRAND CANYON — Distinguished American naturalist and author Joseph Wood Krutch, who in 1963 lead a camera journey through Arizona's Sonora Desert, tonight goes to the northern part of the state for a trip into the Grand Canyon, describing its beauty and wonders in excerpts from his own writings. The 10 p.m., ch. 4 color hour follows Krutch on muleback into the mile-deep canyon, on a visit to the ancient Havasupai Indians, and contrasts their adapting themselves to nature to Hoover Dam a few miles downstream where modern man tries to conquer nature and tamper with its balance. (A special hour on voting rights gets this slot next week.)

TV COLOR FROM WHITE HOUSE

'Red Room' Perfect for Speech on Deficit

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Backstairs at the White House:

It is a long way off, but the television people are talking about wiring the White House for color.

When and if the plan comes off—and it is being explored quite seriously—it will be possible to bring President Johnson or any succeeding chief executive to the nation in glorious color from such brilliant settings as the famous red, green or blue rooms of the executive mansion.

Thousands of tourists see these colorful rooms daily on conducted tours. Color television, assuming they have the proper equipment, would make it possible for less-traveled Americans to see the same sights without leaving their living rooms.

As it is now, the built-in TV facilities at the White House are equipped to handle only black-and-white telecasts. Color from the White House is entirely possible, but this requires bringing in tons of special equipment from the outside. And this certainly would not fit the recent Johnson formula of going on television somewhat suddenly, using the east-wing-studio which is manned and supported by the three major networks.

OPERATION OF WHAT has been called "Instant TV" at the White House still is a sensitive subject in certain industry circles as well as in upper official levels.

This sensitivity has to do with technical difficulty encountered recently during the Dominican Republic crisis when the President on several occasion rushed before the resident cameras with little advance notice.

For many technical reasons, some of these telecasts were less than "instant" because the networks were not geared for such quick action or because they did not know the content of his upcoming remarks to the point where they felt justified in breaking into regular programming.

In any case, these difficulties are being attacked, leaving us free to contemplate a brighter, more colorful tomorrow.

COLOR TV POSSIBILITIES at the White House are endless and exciting. In the winter, for example, there could be a cheery logfire crackling in a background fireplace to add a note of color to a not-so-cheerful recital of budget figures.

The red room would be perfect for a speech dealing with the deficit.

The green room might lend itself ideally to a broad range of topics from highway beautification to St. Patrick's Day greetings.

Presidential speeches from the blue room, however, would have to be considered carefully. If motivational research specialists know what they are talking about, blue is a tricky color and would and can induce all sorts of mixed emotions.

Many supermarkets, for example, avoid even a suggestion of blue light on their dairy products. It makes the milk and cottage cheese look thin and watery. By the same token, it might be a frightful mistake for a president to speak from the blue room in behalf of dairy price supports.

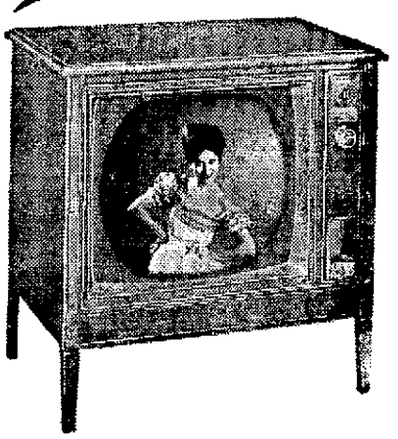

Our color-conditioned housewives might think of nothing but blue milk and write sharp letters to their congressmen.

When the era of built-in color TV arrives at the White House the President, to be safe, surely will want to hire a color specialist as part of his speech-writing team.

Perhaps the day will come when a White House adviser interjects into a speech-writing conference, "Frankly, fellows, this paragraph suggests burnt umber to me and it has absolutely no place in a blue room speech."

Such are the promises of decades ahead.

Pan and Fan Mail

After all the nasty things Pernell Roberts has said and written about his role in the western TV show "Bonanza," inferring that westerns were absurd and beneath his talents, I was amazed to see him in a western folksong act on the Ed Sullivan show.

Do you know, in my opinion, his estimate of his singing and acting ability is greatly exaggerated.

Further, in my opinion, his role in "Bonanza" gave him far more stature and dignity than singing not too melodious folksongs in a mediocre voice and skipping around the floor like a kindergartner.

Catherine Gilchrist, Long Beach

Wow! I hope Adam can take this ribbing.

* * * *

It has come to my attention that the usual "Man From UNCLE" series shown at 8 p.m. every Monday night is being changed to 10 p.m. on Friday next fall.

Considering the fact that most of the viewers are adolescents, wouldn't its ratings decrease because of the later hour?

Jean Kaufman, Long Beach

NBC-TV public relations spokesmen don't think you're considering the right fact. At any rate, it's not correct unless you believe most people between the ages of 26 and 50 are still going through their adolescence. According to NBC-TV surveys, it is the viewers in this age group that comprise the largest section of "UNCLE" watchers.

STOP HAIR LOSS

1. FREE EXAMINATION by a Turoff-trained specialist establishes your individual causes of hair loss.

3. HI-FREQUENCY THERAPY provides short rays to kill bacteria, increases scalp metabolism.

2. EXCLUSIVE ELECTRIC-THERAPY developed by Turoff technicians after years of research results are FAST!

4. EXCLUSIVE MEDICATIONS. Turoff formulas, laboratory produced, another step on the road to a strong healthy hairline.

NO OTHER TREATMENT

is quite like the one you get in your Turoff treatment. You recline in comfort in a private booth; you close your eyes and relax . . . your operator first applies pleasant, stimulating hi-frequency therapy. She then continues with laboratory produced chemicals for your particular condition. Her rapid, skillful fingers work them in with manipulations, both by hand and machine massage. Finally, unique Turoff electrical therapy is applied while you continue to relax.

It Has Taken Many Years

and over 1 million treatments to bring this unique Turoff treatment to its present perfection. If you have excessive dandruff, thinning areas, we suggest you come in quickly for a FREE HAIR AND SCALP EXAMINATION. There is no obligation.

TUROFF GUARANTEE

Stop Hair Loss: If, within four treatments the Turoff System has not stopped your excessive fall, removed dandruff scales, relieved scalp itch and made your scalp feel better than it has in years, YOUR MONEY WILL BE REFUNDED IN FULL!

NEW SCIENTIFIC METHOD

Turoff treats the problem of premature baldness scientifically, with their own exclusive chemical, physical and electro-therapy. Turoff Clinics alone provide this remarkably successful therapy. Exact formulas and therapy are known only to Turoff. No imitations can equal its power. So astounding have been the results, we have given over 1 million successful treatments. Prove this scientific thoroughness for yourself.

WITH JUST ONE TREATMENT

dead epidermis, foreign matter and dandruff scales will be removed from your scalp. It will no longer feel itchy and lifeless . . . but will be pleasantly invigorated and alive again. Yes, in just one treatment your hair will start to take on a healthy look with MORE BODY AND TEXTURE. Your VERY FIRST Turoff Treatment will enthuse you. See it, feel it, you will be convinced as other hundreds of thousands have been convinced.

PROVEN RESULTS

Thousands of enthusiastic comments and testimonials are received yearly. Why don't you start these treatments today and see what improvements they make in your hair and how much more invigorated your hair and scalp feel. Don't put off giving your hair the care it needs . . . the penalty of delay may be baldness.

HOPELESS CASES NOT ACCEPTED

If you are accepted for Turoff treatment, the cause of your unhealthy scalp will be removed, we will save and thicken your hair. The free examination will reveal just how much thicker you can expect it to be. Your hair will improve wonderfully and you will see it do so quickly. Furthermore, we will teach you to maintain a head of hair permanently. The cost for treatment is very reasonable. Remember, we cater to working people — Mr. and Mrs. Average Person.

FREE EXAMINATION

If you have a hair or scalp problem, we invite you to come in for a free examination. There is no obligation or cost. We accept for treatment only those people we sincerely feel we can help.

CRITIC'S CORNER

Excerpted Reviews

Program: "National Drivers Test," aired last Monday on channel 2.

CBS News must be rated "excellent" for its intentions and originality in "National Driver's Test," but its score for the execution of the program is that of the average driver who took the quiz—somewhere between "fair" and "poor."

Some of the photography was so fuzzy and badly lighted that viewers with small television screens could not distinguish the road hazards they were supposed to identify. Phraseology of some questions was involved and tricky.

This test-taker feels that the poor average showing of drivers in CBS' studio audiences in four cities—a score of 51 out of a possible 80—was more the result of the program's presentation than inadequacies of the drivers.

Critic Cynthia Lowry of AP

Best game show in years.

If it was ever considered as a series, it could be titled "Life or Death?"

Initial ratings estimate that the program was watched by 53 per cent of the viewing audience, the highest rating for any information special this year.

Frightening crash scenes should psychologically alert drivers over Memorial Day weekend.

Best game show in years. I passed.

SPECIAL

G-T4 PREVIEW — Chet Huntley, David Brinkley and Frank McGee are anchormen for an hour's preview of Thursday's Gemini-Titan IV space flight, a 2-man, 4-day, walk-in-space mission, with Huntley and Brinkley at the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston and McGee with Merrill Mueller at the Cape Kennedy launch site. The 9 p.m., ch. 4 color hour includes a tour of the Houston center, interviews with the two astronauts and flight director Christopher Kraft Jr., plus a profile on Paul Haney, the "voice of Gemini control." Special show preempts "Cloak of Mystery," which yields again next week for a reprise of "The Louvre."

GRAND CANYON — Distinguished American naturalist and author Joseph Wood Krutch, who in 1963 lead a camera journey through Arizona's Sonora Desert, tonight goes to the northern part of the state for a trip into the Grand Canyon, describing its beauty and wonders in excerpts from his own writings. The 10 p.m., ch. 4 color hour follows Krutch on muleback into the mile-deep canyon, on a visit to the ancient Havasupai Indians, and contrasts their adapting themselves to nature to Hoover Dam a few miles downstream where modern man tries to conquer nature and tamper with its balance. (A special hour on voting rights gets this slot next week.)

JOAN VOHS stars in a story about a deserted town on the "Rebel" at 9:30 p.m. Wednesday, channel 13.

SPECIAL

G-T4 PREVIEWS — All three networks take a last minute look at preparations for Thursday's 2-man, 4-day space launch, while KHJ-TV looks back at the 56 years leading up to the mission. Don Morrow narrates the latter, at 7:30 p.m., ch. 9, talking with Dr. John Stapp, Capt. John Winkelman, Col. Chuck Yeager and Maj. Joe Kittinger, and touring the world's only 2-bed hospital, built at the Kennedy Space Center for the Gemini astronauts. Astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White and their parents will be interviewed during CBS' preview at 8 p.m., ch. 2, as Walter Cronkite and Mike Wallace, at Cape Kennedy, examine the expected opening of a hatch in orbit, why there'll be no TV from the capsule and the reasons for moving Mission Control to Houston. "ABC Scope" previews the launch at 10:30 p.m., ch. 7, with Jules Bergman using film and animation to illustrate the goals of the G-T4 and the preparations for Project Apollo. And NBC, which aired its color preview last night, fills in at 10:43 p.m., ch. 4, with a final look at the countdown.

Sports Today

WRESTLING, 8 p.m., ch. 5, has Dick Lane with the action at the Olympic.

Pan and Fan Mail

After all the nasty things Pernell Roberts has said and written about his role in the western TV show "Bonanza," inferring that westerns were absurd and beneath his talents, I was amazed to see him in a western folksong act on the Ed Sullivan show.

Do you know, in my opinion, his estimate of his singing and acting ability is greatly exaggerated.

Further, in my opinion, his role in "Bonanza" gave him far more stature and dignity than singing not too melodious folksongs in a mediocre voice and skipping around the floor like a kindergartner.

Catherine Gilchrist, Long Beach

Wow! I hope Adam can take this ribbing.

* * * *

It has come to my attention that the usual "Man From UNCLE" series shown at 8 p.m. every Monday night is being changed to 10 p.m. on Friday next fall.

Considering the fact that most of the viewers are adolescents, wouldn't its ratings decrease because of the later hour?

Jean Kaufman, Long Beach

NBC-TV public relations spokesmen don't think you're considering the right fact. At any rate, it's not correct unless you believe most people between the ages of 26 and 50 are still going through their adolescence. According to NBC-TV surveys, it is the viewers in this age group that comprise the largest section of "UNCLE" watchers.

STOP HAIR LOSS

1. FREE EXAMINATION by a Turoff-trained specialist establishes your individual causes of hair loss.

3. HI-FREQUENCY THERAPY provides short rays to kill bacteria, increases scalp metabolism.

2. EXCLUSIVE ELECTRIC-THERAPY developed by Turoff technicians after years of research results are FAST!

4. EXCLUSIVE MEDICATIONS, Turoff formulas, laboratory produced, another step on the road to a strong healthy hairline.

NO OTHER TREATMENT

is quite like the one you get in your Turoff treatment. You recline in comfort in a private booth; you close your eyes and relax . . . your operator first applies pleasant, stimulating hi-frequency therapy. She then continues with laboratory produced chemicals for your particular condition. Her rapid, skillful fingers work them in with manipulations, both by hand and machine massage. Finally, unique Turoff electrical therapy is applied while you continue to relax.

It Has Taken Many Years

and over 1 million treatments to bring this unique Turoff treatment to its present perfection. If you have excessive dandruff, thinning areas, we suggest you come in quickly for a FREE HAIR AND SCALP EXAMINATION. There is no obligation.

TUROFF GUARANTEE

Stop Hair Loss: If, within four treatments the Turoff System has not stopped your excessive fall, removed dandruff scales, relieved scalp itch and made your scalp feel better than it has in years, YOUR MONEY WILL BE REFUNDED IN FULL!

NEW SCIENTIFIC METHOD

Turoff treats the problem of premature baldness scientifically, with their own exclusive chemical, physical and electro-therapy. Turoff Clinics alone provide this remarkably successful therapy. Exact formulas and therapy are known only to Turoff. No imitations can equal its power. So astounding have been the results, we have given over 1 million successful treatments. Prove this scientific thoroughness for yourself.

WITH JUST ONE TREATMENT

dead epidermis, foreign matter and dandruff scales will be removed from your scalp. It will no longer feel itchy and lifeless . . . but will be pleasantly invigorated and alive again. Yes, in just one treatment your hair will start to take on a healthy look with MORE BODY AND TEXTURE. Your VERY FIRST Turoff Treatment will enthuse you. See it, feel it, you will be convinced as other hundreds of thousands have been convinced.

PROVEN RESULTS

Thousands of enthusiastic comments and testimonials are received yearly. Why don't you start these treatments today and see what improvements they make in your hair and how much more invigorated your hair and scalp feel. Don't put off giving your hair the care it needs . . . the penalty of delay may be baldness.

HOPELESS CASES NOT ACCEPTED

If you are accepted for Turoff treatment, the cause of your unhealthy scalp will be removed, we will save and thicken your hair. The free examination will reveal just how much thicker you can expect it to be. Your hair will improve wonderfully and you will see it do so quickly. Furthermore, we will teach you to maintain a head of hair permanently. The cost for treatment is very reasonable. Remember, we cater to working people — Mr. and Mrs. Average Person.

FREE EXAMINATION

If you have a hair or scalp problem, we invite you to come in for a free examination. There is no obligation or cost. We accept for treatment only those people we sincerely feel we can help.

CRITIC'S CORNER

Excerpted Reviews

Program: "National Drivers Test," aired last Monday on channel 2.

CBS News must be rated "excellent" for its intentions and originality in "National Driver's Test," but its score for the execution of the program is that of the average driver who took the quiz—somewhere between "fair" and "poor."

Some of the photography was so fuzzy and badly lighted that viewers with small television screens could not distinguish the road hazards they were supposed to identify. Phraseology of some questions was involved and tricky.

This test-taker feels that the poor average showing of drivers in CBS' studio audiences in four cities—a score of 51 out of a possible 80—was more the result of the program's presentation than inadequacies of the drivers.

Critic Cynthia Lowry of AP

Best game show in years.

If it was ever considered as a series, it could be titled "Life or Death?"

Initial ratings estimate that the program was watched by 53 per cent of the viewing audience, the highest rating for any information special this year.

Frightening crash scenes should psychologically alert drivers over Memorial Day weekend.

Best game show in years. I passed.

Critic Bert Resnik of "TeleVues"

G-T4 PREVIEWS — All three networks take a last minute look at preparations for Thursday's 2-man, 4-day space launch, while KHJ-TV looks back at the 56 years leading up to the mission. Don Morrow narrates the latter, at 7:30 p.m., ch. 9, talking with Dr. John Stapp, Capt. John Winkelman, Col. Chuck Yeager and Maj. Joe Kittinger, and touring the world's only 2-bed hospital, built at the Kennedy Space Center for the Gemini astronauts. Astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White and their parents will be interviewed during CBS' preview at 8 p.m., ch. 2, as Walter Cronkite and Mike Wallace, at Cape Kennedy, examine the expected opening of a hatch in orbit, why there'll be no TV from the capsule and the reasons for moving Mission Control to Houston. "ABC Scope" previews the launch at 10:30 p.m., ch. 7, with Jules Bergman using film and animation to illustrate the goals of the G-T4 and the preparations for Project Apollo. And NBC, which aired its color preview last night, fills in at 10:43 p.m., ch. 4, with a final look at the countdown.

Sports Today

WRESTLING, 8 p.m., ch. 5, has Dick Lane with the action at the Olympic.

SPECIAL

G-T4 REPORTS — Majors McDivitt and White should have completed their first day and night in orbit, and the walk-in-space attempt completed. Channel 2 reports on the progress in a 10-min. segment at 7 a.m., plus 5-min. specials at 8 a.m. and 1:25, 4:00, 8:55 and 11:30 p.m. Channel 4 offers a half-hour at 12 noon and 15 min. at 11:30 p.m., plus news bulletins and flashcaster signs. A half-hour report at 11 a.m., with night's summary at 11:15 p.m. is the schedule for channel 7 today.

MISS USA Beauty Pageant—John Daly and Sally Ann Howes are host and hostess for a 90-min telecast from Miami Beach, to be climaxed by the selection of the girl who will represent the U.S. in the Miss Universe pageant to be telecast July 24. Jack Linkletter is on-stage emcee, with Pat Boone special guest as show is seen here by 3-hour delay at 10 p.m., ch. 2. (John Forsythe will emcee our own International Beauty Pageant when it's telecast by NBC Aug. 13, while on July 2 John Willis hosts a 3½-hour ch. 9 telecast in which Miss California is chosen to go on to the IBC finals in Long Beach.)

BOBBI Johnson, last year's winner, will present her crown to her successor during the "Miss U. S. A. Beauty Pageant" from Miami Beach at 10 p.m. Friday, channel 2.

BACKACHE & TENSION SECONDARY TO KIDNEY IRRITATION

After 21, common Kidney or Bladder Irritations affect twice as many women as men and may make you tense and nervous from too frequent, burning or itching urination both day and night. Secondarily, you may lose sleep and suffer from Headaches, Backaches and feel old, tired, depressed. In such irritation, CYSTEX usually brings fast, relaxing comfort by curbing irritating germs in strong, acid urine and by analgesic pain relief. Get CYSTEX at druggists. Feel better fast.

Chronic arthritis?

a Jacuzzi a day soothes pain away

ARTHRITIS ■ BURSITIS ■ NEURITIS ■ RHEUMATISM ■ BACKACHE
POOR CIRCULATION ■ EVERYDAY TENSIONS ■ SLEEPLESS NIGHTS ■ MINOR ACHES AND PAINS ■ JITTERY NERVES ■ MUSCLE SORENESS ■ JOINT STIFFNESS ■ TIRED FEET ■ SPRAINS ■ BRUISES

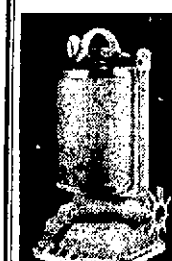

Minor aches and pains, poor circulation, jittery nerves, sleeplessness—all take their toll in everyday living . . . rob you of making the most of the joys of living life to the fullest. Now that's all changed. The remarkable portable Jacuzzi Whirlpool brings soothing relief right to the convenience of your daily bath. Warm surging aerated water gently massages your entire body. Eases daily tension, stimulates local circulation—makes you feel good all over again.

The therapeutic benefits of hydromassage have been known for centuries. But until the Jacuzzi Whirlpool Bath, it has been too expensive for everyday home use. You owe it to yourself to try it. Jacuzzi—the name that means Whirlpool Bath. Call now for free home demonstration.

Chronic arthritis?

a Jacuzzi a day soothes pain away
ARTHRITIS ■ BURSITIS ■ NEURITIS ■ RHEUMATISM ■ BACKACHE
POOR CIRCULATION ■ EVERYDAY TENSIONS ■ SLEEPLESS NIGHTS ■ MINOR ACHES AND PAINS ■ JITTERY NERVES ■ MUSCLE SORENESS ■ JOINT STIFFNESS ■ TIRED FEET ■ SPRAINS ■ BRUISES
Minor aches and pains, poor circulation, jittery nerves, sleeplessness—all take their toll in everyday living... rob you of making the most of the joys of living life to the fullest. Now that's all changed. The remarkable portable Jacuzzi Whirlpool brings soothing relief right to the convenience of your daily bath. Warm surging aerated water gently massages your entire body. Eases daily tension, stimulates local circulation—makes you feel good all over again.

The therapeutic benefits of hydromassage have been known for centuries. But until the Jacuzzi Whirlpool Bath, it has been too expensive for everyday home use. You owe it to yourself to try it. Jacuzzi—the name that means Whirlpool Bath. Call now for free home demonstration.

La Reina Rule

What Your Name Means

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90812, for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would you give brief history on GODFREY.—R.M., N.C., Long Beach.

R.M., N.C.: GODFREY ancestry is traced to Godfrey The Falconer, to whom King Henry II of England granted large estates in Kent during the 1100s. His son is recorded in 1161 as "Henry, son of Godfrey." During the late 1600s a branch of this family settled in Ireland. Godfrey, meaning "divinely peaceful," had its first usage as a baptismal name honoring Godfrey of Bouillon, brave 11th century French leader of the Crusades. The Godfrey armorial shield is black, embossed with a gold chevron between three gold pelican heads.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give brief genealogy on RALSTON. — C.K., Los Angeles; M.R., Long Beach.

C.K., M.R.: RALSTON ancestry began with Ralph, son of MacDuff, who was the chief baron of Fifeshire, Scotland in the 1100s. Ralph, whose ancient name meant "wolf-counsellor," obtained estates in Renfrew, Scotland, name after him, "Ralph's-ton," (Ralph's estate) which later was shortened to Ralston. The clan coat-of-arms has three gold acorns on a diagonal blue band across a silver shield, with the motto "Fide et Marte" or "Faithful and Brave." Andrew Ralston of Scottish ancestry went from north Ireland to Newville, Pa., in 1728. Samuel Ralston and his wife, of Augusta County, Va., married in 1766 and were the parents of 22 children.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please analyze SUTTERFIELD. — R.S., Anaheim.

R. S.: SUTTERFIELD, a rare English name, began in the 1100s as a location phrase used by the ancestors for their home site. The root phrase "Sother-felde" portrayed "southern field."

DEAR MISS RULE: Please identify VAN ZILE. — Mrs. B., Bellflower.

B.: VAN ZILE is a modern form of the Dutch surname Van Zeil. The root, Van-Zil deciphers as "from the thornbush and bramble region."

DEAR MISS RULE: Please explain the source of HAAS, DE HAAS.—G.D., T.H., J.S., Long Beach.

HAAS and DE HAAS derive from the early German

Southland

OUR COVER

There'll be action aplenty in Recreation Park, come next Sunday, when pretty models and handsome men will pose for camera fans — come one, come all; movies and still. It's the third annual Long Beach Camera Day, and today's Southland cover tells what the action can be like in this advance picture with Ed Kniss shooting this colorful scene of Dave Ritchie photographing Kathey Underwood and Darlene Ermis. There'll be ribbon awards and valuable prizes, a display of photographic equipment and prize photos and popularity contests for the models. It's all free of charge and with scores of models to pose. For more about Camera Day turn to Page 4.

NEXT WEEK

Training at the college level is certain to influence students for their lifetimes and certainly campus trained men and women will affect the future of the nation. But in the complicated life that is encountered today, what with thousands on campus, the student may become lost and alone with deleterious effect. It's a serious factor, and how a counter-agent is being sought at Cal State College is described by Larry Allison in Southland next week in "Alone in the Campus Crowd."

What Your Name Means

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90812, for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would you give brief history on GODFREY.—R.M., N.C., Long Beach.

R.M., N.C.: GODFREY ancestry is traced to Godfrey The Falconer, to whom King Henry II of England granted large estates in Kent during the 1100s. His son is recorded in 1161 as "Henry, son of Godfrey." During the late 1600s a branch of this family settled in Ireland. Godfrey, meaning "divinely peaceful," had its first usage as a baptismal name honoring Godfrey of Boullion, brave 11th century French leader of the Crusades. The Godfrey armorial shield is black, embossed with a gold chevron between three gold pelican heads.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give brief genealogy on RALSTON. — C.K., Los Angeles; M.R., Long Beach.

C.K., M.R.: RALSTON ancestry began with Ralph, son of MacDuff, who was the chief baron of Fifeshire, Scotland in the 1100s. Ralph, whose ancient name meant "wolf-counsellor," obtained estates in Renfrew, Scotland, name after him, "Ralph's-ton," (Ralph's estate) which later was shortened to Ralston. The clan coat-of-arms has three gold acorns on a diagonal blue band across a silver shield, with the motto "Fide et Marte" or "Faithful and Brave." Andrew Ralston of Scottish ancestry went from north Ireland to Newville, Pa., in 1728. Samuel Ralston and his wife, of Augusta County, Va., married in 1766 and were the parents of 22 children.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please analyze SUTTERFIELD, — R.S., Anaheim.

R. S.: SUTTERFIELD, a rare English name, began in the 1100s as a location phrase used by the ancestors for their home site. The root phrase "Sother-felde" portrayed "southern field."

DEAR MISS RULE: Please identify VAN ZILE. — Mrs. B., Bellflower.

B.: VAN ZILE is a modern form of the Dutch surname Van Zeil. The root, Van-Zil deciphers as "from the thornbush and bramble region."

DEAR MISS RULE: Please explain the source of HAAS, DE HAAS.—G.D., T.H., J.S., Long Beach.

HAAS and DE HAAS derive from the early German

Big Day for Shutterbugs

CALLING all camera enthusiasts—!

The third annual Long Beach Camera Day will be observed next Sunday in Recreation Park, with the public invited to shoot beautiful girls, handsome men, attractive children, pie-throwing contests, Western skits and what-have-you all day.

No charge. No charge for anything.

Sixty girls, amateur models and students of modeling schools, a half-dozen men and probably the same number of children will pose for the upwards of 5,000 cameramen and camerawomen expected. Miss Long Beach Camera Day and Mr. Long Beach Camera Day will be chosen by popular vote.

Camera clubs will present skits which may be photographed as movies or stills.

PRIZE PHOTOS and new photographic equipment will be displayed.

Pictures taken on Camera Day may be entered in a contest for ribbons and valuable prizes.

As if that were not enough, prizes will be awarded every hour on Camera Day.

Camera Day, the most important day on the calendar for amateur photographers, is sponsored by the Long Beach Recreation Department, Long Beach camera dealers acting as a group, and the Long Beach Camera Guild.

Shooting events will be from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., closing with a popularity contest for the models. Last year Miss Sandy Stevens and Max Grossman won the "Miss Camera Day" and "Mr. Camera Day" titles.

WINNERS of a recent photo contest will be displayed in the Recreation Building on the south side of Seventh Street, 4900 E. Seventh St.

One of the leading attractions of Camera Day will be the trade show by leading wholesale distributors of camera goods. Many of the exhibits will be fresh from the International Photo Show in New York. There will be no selling on Camera Day—only a friendly desire to show what is available and how it works. It will be like having all camera stores rolled into one and no salesmen. All major brands will be displayed, from Agfa to Zeiss.

Pictures taken on Camera Day may be entered in a contest, which will close July 1. Commercial processing is permissible.

NEXT WEEK

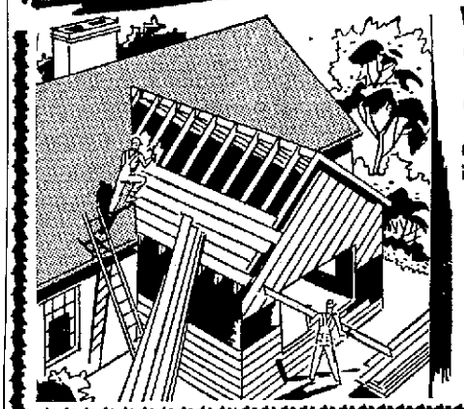

Training at the college level is certain to influence students for their lifetimes and certainly campus trained men and women will affect the future of the nation. But in the complicated life that is encountered today, what with thousands on campus, the student may become lost and alone with deleterious effect. It's a serious factor, and how a counter-agent is being sought at Cal State College is described by Larry Allison in Southland next week in "Alone in the Campus Crowd."

'DUTCH' MILLER
Chief of Life Guards

Rescue One Is Still a Spry 'Old Lady'

By Lou Jobst

Rescue Three may be sleeker than R-1 but she is no doughtier. Four boats are now serving.

CITY of Long Beach Rescue One may look a little tired and on the dowdy side these days, but don't let that throw you!

She's still the doggondest, rarin'-to-go-any-minute rescue boat on the California coast.

Put into service on the city waterfront more than 40 years ago and working virtually every day since, the weathered, wooden-hull inboard has amassed a record unparalleled in the history of water rescue work.

R-1, as she is commonly known, has, in a long and often harrowing career, saved the lives of more than 20,000 persons and has towed to safety more than $1 million in pleasure boats.

BRAVING raging seas and towering surf on innumerable mercy missions, Rescue One has been driven aground several times and swamped and sunk on at least three occasions.

Each time she has been pulled out, cleaned-up and put back to work patrolling the city's more than 40 miles of waterfront, channels and beaches.

Old R-1 is the creature of one of the west's best known lifesaving figures, affable, competent R. J. (Dutch) Miller, chief of the city lifeguards.

Miller says he first got the idea of a powerful, all purpose rescue boat able to go anywhere, in 1919, when he spent more than 30 minutes trying to drag a drowning high school girl from a roaring surf.

"I THOUGHT later how a specially-equipped boat would have come in handy that day," he recalls.

Three years later, in 1922, Miller was appointed captain of the city lifeguards, a position that gave him a chance to bring his dreamboat to reality.

He talked the city into building a special rescue boat and $8,000 was allocated for its construction and the job went to Garbutt and Walsh boatbuilders of Wilmington.

Since powered lifeguard rescue boats were virtually unheard of in those days, R-1 was one of a kind.

Designed for ruggedness and dependability rather than speed or attractiveness of line, Rescue One, originally powered by a four horsepower engine, was to become the prototype for a generation of relatively inexpensive and highly reliable rescue boats.

R-1 WENT into business in 1924, an era in which the long sandy strand at Long Beach and its 15-foot waves attracted 50,000 to 75,000 bathers a day from all over the Southland.

From the very outset, shiny and rakish R-1 made headlines, some of which, that first year, said:

"Seven Saved from Riptide," "Big Beach Crowds—R-1 Kept Hopping," "9 in Peril Saved by Rescue Boat," "Many Pulled from Wild Sea," and so forth.

During the three-day Fourth of July holiday in 1931, R-1 plucked more than 350 distressed swimmers from the water, but had to call on the help of local fishing boats who saved 150 others.

The high drama was not without its moments of comic relief.

ON ONE occasion R-1, the city's only rescue and patrol boat for 14 years, picked up four swimmers from a riptide at the foot of Linden Avenue—and then the engine burst into flames!

"What did we do?" asked Dutch Miller. "We threw the four back in the water and a couple of boys went in to hold on to them. When the fire was put out we pulled everyone back on board."

Rescue II joined the force in 1936 and in 1955 along came the speedier, more handsome and more powerful Rescue III. Two years later R-4 was put into service and R-5 is expected to hit the water later this year.

WHEN R-3 came to work 10 years ago, R-1 left the outside ocean front duty for work in and around Alamitos Bay, where she still chugs daily under the low bridges of Naples, and for service at the 1,800 boat Marina.

This can hardly be classified as retirement, or being put out to pasture.

Since moving inside R-1 has logged more than 5,300 rescues—772 in 1963 alone—and saved more than 3,000 boats.

Are her illustrous days numbered?

Hardly, says her present skipper Ralph Blood.

"The old lady has at least 10 more years in her . . . She's still tough as nails."

Rescue One, veteran boat in Long Beach lifesaving service, eases down a Naples canal on morning patrol with Ralph Blood as skipper.

A Woman Beset by Doubts

By Vera Williams
Southland Magazine Book Editor

SIMONE de Beauvoir, one of France's leading intellectuals — novelist, playwright, essayist, "high priestess" of the Existentialist movement—tells candidly about her years from the liberation of Paris to the present in "FORCE OF CIRCUMSTANCE" (Putnam, $10) translated from the French by Richard Howard.

In its pages, she relives the famous years of her Prix de Goncourt novel, "The Mandarins," the years when she and Jean-Paul Sartre, together with Albert Camus, revolutionized European intellectual life. She writes with frankness and lustrous style of her relationship with Sartre, with American novelist Nelson Algren, with Claude Luzmann. Here, too, are perceptive and entertaining analyses of her friendships with other leading literary figures of her day — Jean Genet, Hemingway, Nikos Kazantzakis, Andre Malrux, Arthur Koestler, Richard Wright. She writes of her travels to Cuba, South America, Poland, America, Africa, Spain, Egypt, Italy, Russia and Red China.

But more than anything else, "Force of Circumstance" is Simone de Beauvoir the woman — beset by doubts and dreads, uplifted by ecstasies, coping with the subtle shifts and balances of her long-term love and rivalry with Sartre.

A reader with Puritan tendencies may be shocked at her attitudes on sexual freedom of women, but every reader must admit that she has led a fascinating life and writes about it in rich detail.

WITH COMPLETION of the Italian epic, " The Bible" this year, John Huston has been involved in 34 films—an average of one per year —since 1931 when he joined his famous actor-father, Walter Huston, as a contract writer at Universal Studios. His career is spanned by William F. Nolan in "JOHN HUSTON, King Rebel" (Sherbourne, $5.95).

Huston has won two "Oscars," and the Drama Critics Award for a play on Broadway.

Directing motion pictures is only one of his many passions. He studied oil painting in Paris, played Abe Lincoln on the Chicago stage and a cardinal in the motion picture of the same name. He rode in the Mexican cavalry, sang opera on London street corners, boxed his way to a championship on the West Coast. He has been a New York newspaper reporter, he has written books and stories. He has hunted Bengal tigers. And once he lost his entire bankroll on a 60-1 shot at Saratoga.

FOR 15 IMPORTANT, creative years (1931-1946), Henry Miller, author of "Tropic of Cancer" and "Tropic of Capricorn," maintained a voluminous correspondence with his dear friend and confidante, Anais Nin. His half of the correspondence, edited by Gunther Stuhlmann, is published under the title "HENRY MILLER: LETTERS TO ANAIS NIN" (Putnam, $7.50).

Here is novelist Miller at his most creative and self-revealing — exuberant, despairing, enthusiastic, worried — during the years that he was doing his most experimental and explosive work. Over the years covered by the correspondence, Miller metamorphosed from young, poverty-stricken artist to one of the literary giants of his generation.

JACK KEROUAC, idolized by the hip movement as the "King of the Beats," penetrates the literary scene with another novel in his "Duluoz Legend," the overall title of his jazzy autobiographical series.

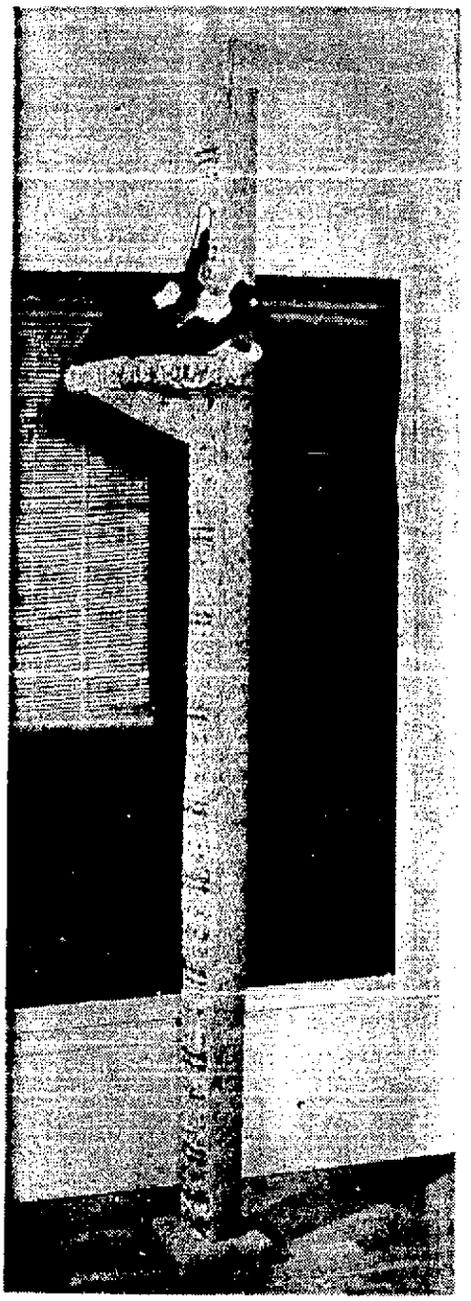

Again he is Jack Duluoz and, with his fellow bopster literati, William Burroughs, Allen Ginsberg, Peter Orlovsky and others, also under pseudonyms, roams uninhibited through "DESOLATION ANGELS" (Coward-McCann, $5.95), his memoirs of 1956-1957 and rise to fame.

First there is the contemplative "Desolation in Solitude" and "Desolation in the World," his mental impulses while perched atop a mountain as a fire-watcher. Then come avant-hipster escapades while "Passing Through" San Francisco, Mexico, New York, North Africa, Europe and America again. And what happens to free-wheeling Kerouac and his unconventional cronies explains why he writes novels, rather than straight autobiog.

Election Set

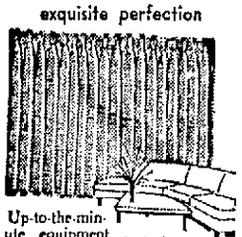

Officers for the ensuing year will be elected at a meeting of the Long Beach Camera Guild at 7:45 p.m. Wednesday in Los Altos Library. Best slides in contests of the Southern California Council of Camera Clubs will be shown.

A Cat Up a Tree

Just about everyone, including James Garbani of San Jacinto, knows that a house cat will scratch up the upholstery if nothing else is available to try his claws on. To solve the problem, Garbani built this "tree" for his feline —a 4x4-inch post covered with wall-to-wall carpeting, with a shelf attached several feet up on which the pet may get away from kids or aggressive dogs for an undisturbed nap. Garbani's cat goes up there to play, too, as you can see.—HI SIBLEY.

Rescue One Is Still a Spry 'Old Lady'

By Lou Jobst

'DUTCH' MILLER
Chief of Life Guards

CITY of Long Beach Rescue One may look a little tired and on the dowdy side these days, but don't let that throw you!

She's still the doggondest, rarin'-to-go-any-minute rescue boat on the California coast.

Put into service on the city waterfront more than 40 years ago and working virtually every day since, the weathered, wooden-hull inboard has amassed a record unparalleled in the history of water rescue work.

R-1, as she is commonly known, has, in a long and often harrowing career, saved the lives of more than 20,000 persons and has towed to safety more than $1 million in pleasure boats.

BRAVING raging seas and towering surf on innumerable mercy missions, Rescue One has been driven aground several times and swamped and sunk on at least three occasions.

Each time she has been pulled out, cleaned-up and put back to work patrolling the city's more than 40 miles of waterfront, channels and beaches.

Old R-1 is the creature of one of the west's best known lifesaving figures, affable, competent R. J. (Dutch) Miller, chief of the city lifeguards.

Miller says he first got the idea of a powerful, all purpose rescue boat able to go anywhere, in 1919, when he spent more than 30 minutes trying to drag a drowning high school girl from a roaring surf.

"I THOUGHT later how a specially-equipped boat would have come in handy that day," he recalls.

Three years later, in 1922, Miller was appointed captain of the city lifeguards, a position that gave him a chance to bring his dreamboat to reality.

He talked the city into building a special rescue boat and $8,000 was allocated for its construction and the job went to Garbutt and Walsh boatbuilders of Wilmington.

Since powered lifeguard rescue boats were virtually unheard of in those days, R-1 was one of a kind.

Designed for ruggedness and dependability rather than speed or attractiveness of line, Rescue One, originally powered by a four horsepower engine, was to become the prototype for a generation of relatively inexpensive and highly reliable rescue boats.

R-1 WENT into business in 1924, an era in which the long sandy strand at Long Beach and its 15-foot waves attracted 50,000 to 75,000 bathers a day from all over the Southland.

From the very outset, shiny and rakish R-1 made headlines, some of which, that first year, said:

"Seven Saved from Riptide," "Big Beach Crowds—R-1 Kept Hopping," "9 in Peril Saved by Rescue Boat," "Many Pulled from Wild Sea," and so forth.

During the three-day Fourth of July holiday in 1931, R-1 plucked more than 350 distressed swimmers from the water, but had to call on the help of local fishing boats who saved 150 others.

The high drama was not without its moments of comic relief.

ON ONE occasion R-1, the city's only rescue and patrol boat for 14 years, picked up four swimmers from a riptide at the foot of Linden Avenue—and then the engine burst into flames!

"What did we do?" asked Dutch Miller. "We threw the four back in the water and a couple of boys went in to hold on to them. When the fire was put out we pulled everyone back on board."

Rescue II joined the force in 1936 and in 1955 along came the speedier, more handsome and more powerful Rescue III. Two years later R-4 was put into service and R-5 is expected to hit the water later this year.

WHEN R-3 came to work 10 years ago, R-1 left the outside ocean front duty for work in and around Alamitos Bay, where she still chugs daily under the low bridges of Naples, and for service at the 1,800 boat Marina.

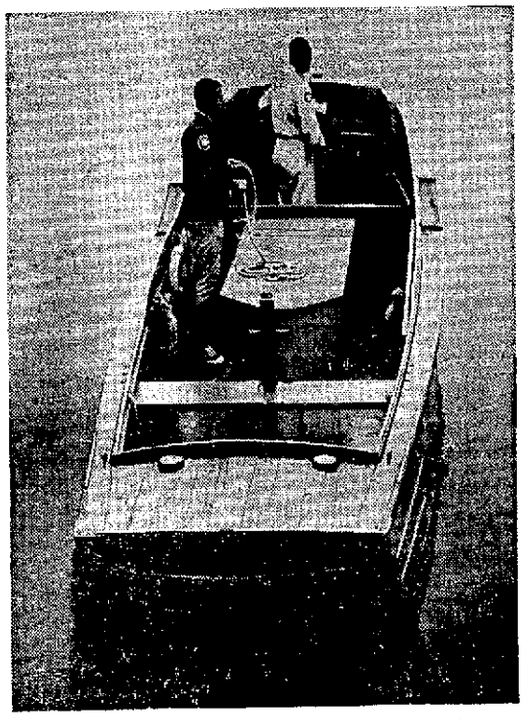

This can hardly be classified as retirement, or being put out to pasture.

Since moving inside R-1 has logged more than 5,300 rescues—772 in 1963 alone—and saved more than 3,000 boats.

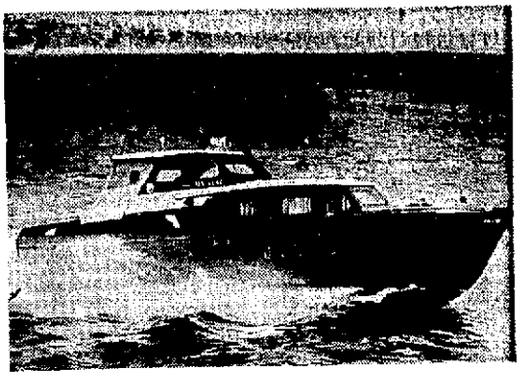

Are her illustrous days numbered?

Hardly, says her present skipper Ralph Blood.

"The old lady has at least 10 more years in her . . . She's still tough as nails."

Rescue One, veteran boat in Long Beach lifesaving service, eases down a Naples canal on morning patrol with Ralph Blood as skipper.

Rescue Three may be sleeker than R-1 but she is no doughtier. Four boats are now serving.

. . . Monday is National Golf Day and Long Beach has more than its share of . . .

The Young Swingers

Jeffrey Lake, 5, whose father and grandfather are professional golfers in Long Beach, is beginning lessons this spring.

By JEROME HALL

ROBBIE HOLLAND is 8½ years old and he wants, more than anything in the world, to be a professional golfer.

Robbie isn't thinking about that $2 million in prize money that will be divvied up along the divot trail this year. He isn't thinking about the estimated quarter of a million dollars Arnold Palmer raked in last year, nor the $50,000 or so that Jack Nicklaus earns over the span of a few days every few weeks.

Robbie wants to be a pro golfer because, as he puts it, he "wouldn't have to do anything but play golf and that sounds like the greatest life to me."

Sure, Robbie has other interests. Like marbles and Cub Scouts and a bright red bicycle he got last Christmas. But mostly it's golf. There are days when he thinks it might be keen to be a forest ranger or a doctor, but when these bright spring mornings dawn he grabs his clubs and heads for Recreation Park, just a 2-iron shot from his home, for some action.

NEXT MONTH Robbie will enroll at a unique summer school that has as its classroom the acres of green turf along E. Seventh and E. Anaheim Streets in Long Beach —the Recreation Park municipal course, one of the busiest golf courses in the United States. About 400 youngsters will further their golf education in a links little league that has gained wide recognition since it was originated by Recreation Park head pro George Lake, who has presided over the course for nearly three decades.

There are free clinics at Long Beach's four municipal courses—Recreation Park 18-hole, Recreation Park 9-hole, Skylinks and El Dorado—each summer. Next month the teaching professionals at those courses will dispense not only instructions to those youngsters but a commodity that might be even more important—enthusiasm.

Golf engenders enthusiasm perhaps more than any other sport, most any golfer will testify. How else can you explain those pre-dawn lineups in front of the clubhouses and the all-night vigils in automobiles at our courses these weekend morns to get a tee-off time before sunup?

ANY INVETERATE golfer also will tell you that among the nation's popular sports, golf is the only one that is honest through and through, completely devoid of trickery and fakery. It is a game that teaches responsibility, etiquette, honesty, character.

Too long has golf been overlooked by the parent who searches for a summertime activity, perhaps. A lad can pack his clubs ($24.95 for a good starter set) on a home-made trailer behind his bike and head for the course any day he chooses. He doesn't have to "make the team," as in junior baseball, but can play on a handicap basis so that he competes on a par with older players. After next month's series of clinics, beginning June 22 for three weeks on Tuesdays and Thursdays, the youngsters enter a summer league. For an entry fee of 10 cents they are eligible for prizes. Because of established handicaps, some of the largest prizes go to some of the smallest players.

Boys and girls as young as 6 and 8 years old enroll in the clinics. "We've had them as young as 4 and 5," recalls Brian Lake, son of the Recreation Park head pro who is now an assistant there and who himself is a product of the course's youth program, as are most of the club pros in this area.

"THE IDEA at first is to stimulate some interest, show them how to hit the ball. Then when they are 7 or 8 have them take some group lessons. If they are interested in hitting the ball, they might as well do it under some supervision so they won't develop any bad habits."

The younger Lake sounds a warning not to push children too fast, a sentiment echoed by most golf teachers. Says Ralph Guldahl Jr., a Long Beach resident who was a golf teacher for 12 years: 'You can teach a youngster the proper grip and how to swing when he's 5 or 6 but don't expect him to really play golf until he's about 9, no matter how low his daddy's handicap might be.

"The wrong way is to hover over the child. Just show him the right grip and turn him loose on a driving range until he wants lessons. He will tell you when he wants lessons.

"To keep him interested, get him some competition his own age," continues Guldahl, whose father won the U. S. Open and Masters tournaments among many during an illustrious links career. To a kid, golf is an adult's game. I had some great times with my dad, but not on a golf course. I was always trying to beat him, not enjoying his company. Golf is always competitive, even when you're playing alone."

GULDAHL SAYS, "I've seen some people teach themselves to be good golfers, but not many. The problem is, you can't see yourself swing."

All of Long Beach's courses and most of those in Southern California offer lessons at $5 each or a series of 6 for $25, the lessons lasting a half hour. Group lessons are half that and less, depending on the size of the group.

Partly because of the extensive junior program in Long Beach over the years, the courses will be crowded with adult players Monday for the annual National Golf Day. All around the nation on more than 7,000 courses, golfers of all shapes and sizes and ages will compete against two of the foremost professionals in the world, men who can make as much as $100,000 for hitting a ball about 270 times.

That might be as good a reason for parents to invest $24.95 in a set of clubs for their sons as that part about Responsibility, Etiquette, Honesty and Character.

A Woman Beset by Doubts

By Vera Williams
Southland Magazine Book Editor

SIMONE de Beauvoir, one of France's leading intellectuals — novelist, playwright, essayist, "high priestess" of the Existentialist movement—tells candidly about her years from the liberation of Paris to the present in "FORCE OF CIRCUMSTANCE" (Putnam, $10) translated from the French by Richard Howard.

In its pages, she relives the famous years of her Prix de Goncourt novel, "The Mandarins," the years when she and Jean-Paul Sartre, together with Albert Camus, revolutionized European intellectual life. She writes with frankness and lustrous style of her relationship with Sartre, with American novelist Nelson Algren, with Claude Luzmann. Here, too, are perceptive and entertaining analyses of her friendships with other leading literary figures of her day — Jean Genet, Hemingway, Nikos Kazantzakis, Andre Malrux, Arthur Koestler, Richard Wright. She writes of her travels to Cuba, South America, Poland, America, Africa, Spain, Egypt, Italy, Russia and Red China.

But more than anything else, "Force of Circumstance" is Simone de Beauvoir the woman — beset by doubts and dreads, uplifted by ecstasies, coping with the subtle shifts and balances of her long-term love and rivalry with Sartre.

A reader with Puritan tendencies may be shocked at her attitudes on sexual freedom of women, but every reader must admit that she has led a fascinating life and writes about it in rich detail.

WITH COMPLETION of the Italian epic, " The Bible" this year, John Huston has been involved in 34 films—an average of one per year —since 1931 when he joined his famous actor-father, Walter Huston, as a contract writer at Universal Studios. His career is spanned by William F. Nolan in "JOHN HUSTON, King Rebel" (Sherbourne, $5.95).

Huston has won two "Oscars," and the Drama Critics Award for a play on Broadway.

Directing motion pictures is only one of his many passions. He studied oil painting in Paris, played Abe Lincoln on the Chicago stage and a cardinal in the motion picture of the same name. He rode in the Mexican cavalry, sang opera on London street corners, boxed his way to a championship on the West Coast. He has been a New York newspaper reporter, he has written books and stories. He has hunted Bengal tigers. And once he lost his entire bankroll on a 60-1 shot at Saratoga.

FOR 15 IMPORTANT, creative years (1931-1946), Henry Miller, author of "Tropic of Cancer" and "Tropic of Capricorn," maintained a voluminous correspondence with his dear friend and confidante, Anais Nin. His half of the correspondence, edited by Gunther Stuhlmann, is published under the title "HENRY MILLER: LETTERS TO ANAIS NIN" (Putnam, $7.50).

Here is novelist Miller at his most creative and self-revealing — exuberant, despairing, enthusiastic, worried — during the years that he was doing his most experimental and explosive work. Over the years covered by the correspondence, Miller metamorphosed from young, poverty-stricken artist to one of the literary giants of his generation.

JACK KEROUAC, idolized by the hip movement as the "King of the Beats," penetrates the literary scene with another novel in his "Duluoz Legend," the overall title of his jazzy autobiographical series.

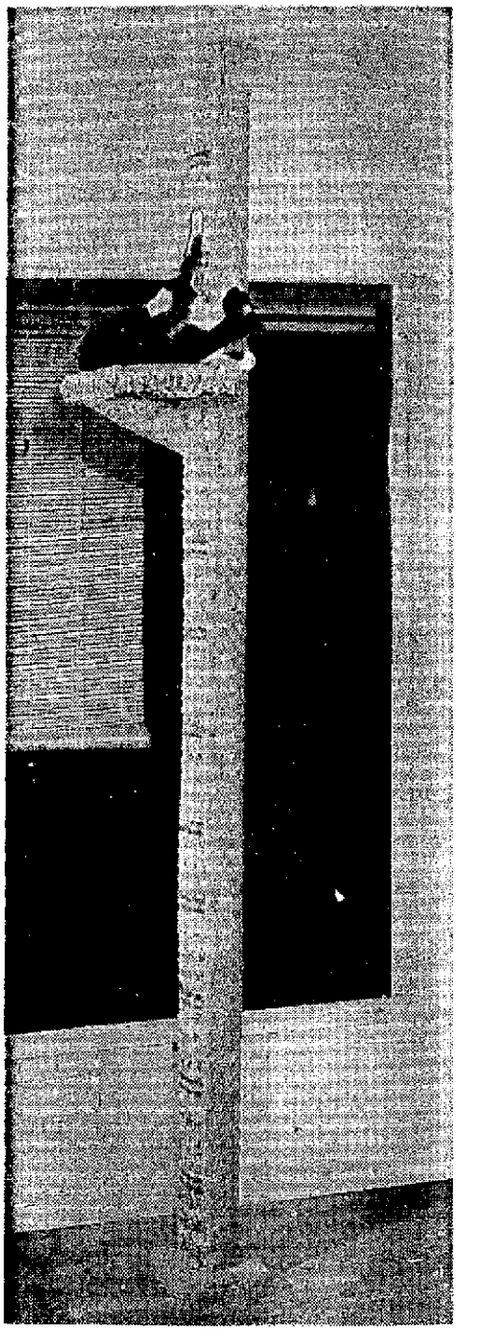

Again he is Jack Duluoz and, with his fellow bopster literati, William Burroughs, Allen Ginsberg, Peter Orlovsky and others, also under pseudonyms, roams uninhibited through "DESOLATION ANGELS" (Coward-McCann, $5.95), his memoirs of 1956-1957 and rise to fame.

First there is the contemplative "Desolation in Solitude" and "Desolation in the World," his mental impulses while perched atop a mountain as a fire-watcher. Then come avant-hipster escapades while "Passing Through" San Francisco, Mexico, New York, North Africa, Europe and America again. And what happens to free-wheeling Kerouac and his unconventional cronies explains why he writes novels, rather than straight autobiog.

A Place to Find Peace

By BOB SCHMIDT

PEACE PUZZLES the minds of the world's leaders, and achieving it sometimes seems beyond them.

But it's simple, for you and me.

Peace is spreading a blanket on green grass, and laying on your back in the warmth of the sun, listening to the carefree chirping of birds and watching white clouds shifting shapes as they drift without haste across the sky.

Serenity is a city feller trying to row a boat while a 5-year-old perches proudly in the prow and a wife watches apprehensively from the bank with the young one in her arms. And a picnic, and lettuce dropping out of sandwiches and darn it, we forgot the mustard.

PEACE IS WATCHING your kids halt their frolicking long enough to try and entice a skeptical squirrel to take some food from their fingers, and sharing their pleasure when the furry little imp darts in and grabs and retreats from the squeals and giggles.

Tranquility is doing nothing, and taking all day to do it.

Head east on Seventh Street or Willow or Spring or Carson, and take either the Santa Ana Freeway or Beach Boulevard to Chapman Avenue, and then head east again.

Through the City of Orange into the hills, staying on Chapman for six miles until a stone gate entrance announces Irvine Park.

And there is where families find fun.

And peace.

NOT THE WEARYING, run-run-run fun of the chrome-plated amusement park, but the calm and quiet kind of relaxation enjoyed by our grandfathers and their grandfathers, in Iowa and Vermont and Louisiana, in America and France and China and Rhodesia.

Anywhere that people live — where fortunate people live—there is a place like Irvine Park.

One hundred eighty acres of the "nature" that people are always going back to.

Given to Orange County by the Irvine Company in 1896, the park attracts an average of 10,000 visitors each weekend, and can accommodate them comfortably.

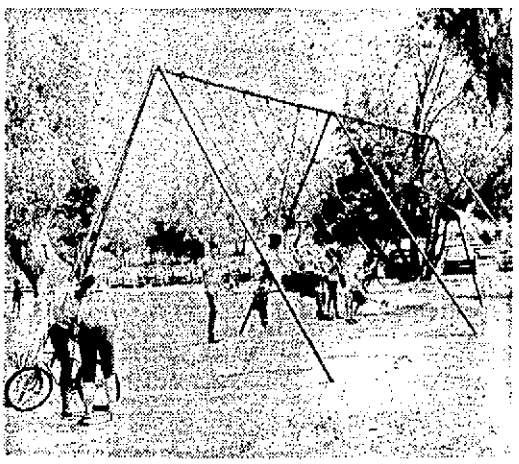

There is a man-made lake on which boaters bump into each other happily. Bicycles can be rented and bridle paths are plentiful. Or the ambitious can just hike.

TWO PLAYGROUNDS, two softball areas, and facilities for horseshoes keep the active occupied; 75 fire pits and permanent and portable picnic tables which can accommodate 6,000 take care of the hungry, and acres and acres of plain, old-fashioned grass invite the lazy.

There is a pen with deer, ducks, swans and peacocks; a bird house, and a monkey cage. And a bandshell with a public address system for large company parties.

Irvine Park in Orange County presents scenes of happy relaxation. Top right, deer pen at the park; above, Irvine Lake for boating fun; below left, another view of the lake and, right, playground area.

"We have had single groups numbering more than 5,000 people," Park Superintendent W. A. Kingsley says, "and our largest single day crowd is usually Memorial Day, when we've had nearly 40,000 guests."

"And," he says proudly, "we've never had a child lost here."

THERE IS NO overnight camping — the park opens at 7 a. m. and closes at 10 p. m. every day of the year. But about 20 miles away is another recreation area, O'Neill Park, even larger than Irvine Park, where there are 800 overnight campsites.

Acquired by Orange County in 1948 and opened in June 1950, O'Neill Park now embraces 398 acres, and has playgrounds, horseshoe facilities, softball diamonds and picnic areas as well as campsites.

It's a good deal more rugged than Irvine Park, and attracts the more serious mountain lover who can hike along Holy Jim Trail into the Saddleback area.

You get there by driving down Pacific Coast Highway to Laguna Canyon Road, then turning in to El Toro Road where signs will direct you to the park. Or, the park can be reached by driving on the Santa Ana Freeway to El Toro Road, about 12 miles south of Tustin, then traveling east and following the signs for about 11 miles.

It's about 50 miles from Long Beach to O'Neill Park, less than that to Irvine Park. Not very far to go to find peace and quiet.

It's the game that teaches Responsibility, Etiquette, Honesty, Character . . .

CHALLENGE TO BACHELORS

Hollywood's Four Most Elusive Stars

By HOYT McAFEE

AVA GARDNER
... Experienced with wolves ...

JANE FONDA
... Very much in circulation ...

UNMARRIED men who've set their sights on one of Hollywood's four most popular bachelor girls should brace for stormy weather ahead. It appears that they'll need more than an assist from Cupid to induce any one of the Big Four—Rhonda Fleming, Jane Fonda, Juliet Prowse and Ava Gardner—to take a chance (or another chance) on marriage.

For as matters now stand, movietown's most eligible bachelorettes respond to the sound of wedding bells by sticking cotton in their ears! This subject—of how they feel about marriage—came up fo a round of lively discussion recently. It was touched off, strangely enough, by a Hollywood police captain's "ad-libbing" at the tag-end of his crime report.

FIRST, he explained to his superiors that there had been an alarming increase in night-time burglaries in the Hollywood area. This unhealthy situation, he added, made it imperative that unmarried young women—the live-alone-and-like-it set and the live-alone-and-deplore-it breed—be on guard against nocturnal prowlers.

He suggested that they take these precautions:

(1) "Let no stranger know that you're alone."

(2) "Keep a watchdog around the house."

(3) "Hesitate no longer—get married now."

This reporter decided that it would prove revealing to find out what the unwed movie queens thought of that last (No. 3) recommendation. It took two visits to motion picture lots, several telephone calls, and an air mail, special delivery letter to Spain to reach—and sound out—the top four.

IN THE WINDUP, they commented quite freely—and sometimes facetiously—on the police captain's suggestion. With a sly grin, redheaded Rhonda Fleming remarked: "Get married again? Not this gal! At least, I'm in no hurry to try it again. Give me a chance to catch my wind again.

"Remember, I'm a three-time loser in the marriage sweepstakes. But, be assured of this: I feel no bitterness. There's no substitute for marriage with the right man. Maybe some knockout of a male will make me change my mind about getting married—tonight, tomorrow, or soon.

"It could happen. But until I meet such a man, I intend to do my share of real living. Three men keep me interested in staying single right now." (She was unwilling to identify the "big three," lest it prove embarrassing to them.)

JULIET PROWSE, South Africa's gift to Hollywood, has much the same straightforward look (as some others) on men, marriage, and her career. A lovely woman in her own right, Juliet's admirers are numerous. Variety in her dating has for years spiced her social life: a big-game hunter tonight, a famous columnist the following week; then a singer, colorful politician, suave young banker, and diplomat.

Beauteous Rhonda Fleming, stressing three losing trips to the altar, says: "Marry again? Not this gal . . . not soon, anyway."

What about marriage for her? Juliet dismisses it as "a subject to which I've given no serious thought lately." If she were "to meet the right man for me, I'd certainly know it. Maybe he could change my thinking in a hurry. After all, I do hope to have a husband, home, and children some day."

As to the police captain's suggestion, she responded to it with a chuckle. "It no doubt gave some of the lonely old maids around town a lift in spirit," she remarked. "But I'm sure it was meant for those women who are less than self-reliant. Strong men are good to have around; not, however, for my protection!"

JANE FONDA, one of Hollywood's high-voltage sex pots, prefers the company of "adventurous-minded and unconventional men." If they happen to be actors, producers, script writers, or others connected with the movie industry, they'll do well to avoid shop talk in their conversations with Jane. For she much prefers to discuss space flights, great bullfights, hit stage plays, new and important authors, and the like—for, as she adds, "I have no time to waste on trivial, everyday subjects."

Jane thinks that men prove better friends than women. She calls Diego Puerto, one of Spain's three best bullfighters, "my idea of a real man—his courage and gallantry make him so." She also emphasizes this point: "I'm very much in circulation, regardless of what the gossip columnists may print on the subject."

With a twinkle she opined that the police captain was "out of his depth in suggesting that Hollywood actresses get married—for their own protection. Hel's bells, numbers of them do that too hastily, too often, and to the wrong men!"

MY FORMER North Carolina nelghbor, a woman named Ava Gardner, sent me a lengthy reply. She started: "As you know, I'm in Hollywood only once fn a blue moon

A Place to Find Peace

By BOB SCHMIDT

PEACE PUZZLES the minds of the world's leaders, and achieving it sometimes seems beyond them.

But it's simple, for you and me.

Peace is spreading a blanket on green grass, and laying on your back in the warmth of the sun, listening to the carefree chirping of birds and watching white clouds shifting shapes as they drift without haste across the sky.

Serenity is a city feller trying to row a boat while a 5-year-old perches proudly in the prow and a wife watches apprehensively from the bank with the young one in her arms. And a picnic, and lettuce dropping out of sandwiches and darn it, we forgot the mustard.

PEACE IS WATCHING your kids halt their frolicking long enough to try and entice a skeptical squirrel to take some food from their fingers, and sharing their pleasure when the furry little imp darts in and grabs and retreats from the squeals and giggles.

Tranquility is doing nothing, and taking all day to do it.

Head east on Seventh Street or Willow or Spring or Carson, and take either the Santa Ana Freeway or Beach Boulevard to Chapman Avenue, and then head east again.

Through the City of Orange into the hills, staying on Chapman for six miles until a stone gate entrance announces Irvine Park.

And there is where families find fun.

And peace.

NOT THE WEARYING, run-run-run fun of the chrome-plated amusement park, but the calm and quiet kind of relaxation enjoyed by our grandfathers and their grandfathers, in Iowa and Vermont and Louisiana, in America and France and China and Rhodesia.

Anywhere that people live — where fortunate people live—there is a place like Irvine Park.

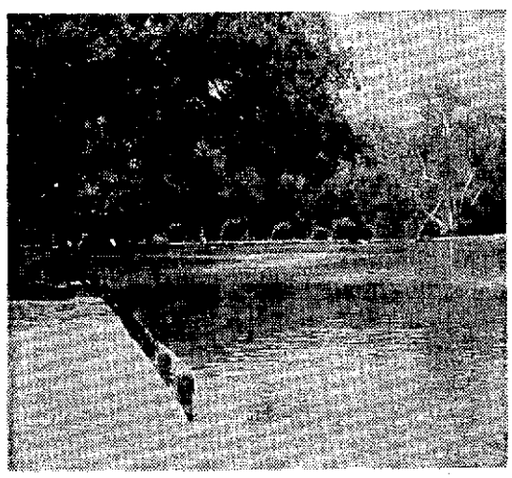

One hundred eighty acres of the "nature" that people are always going back to.

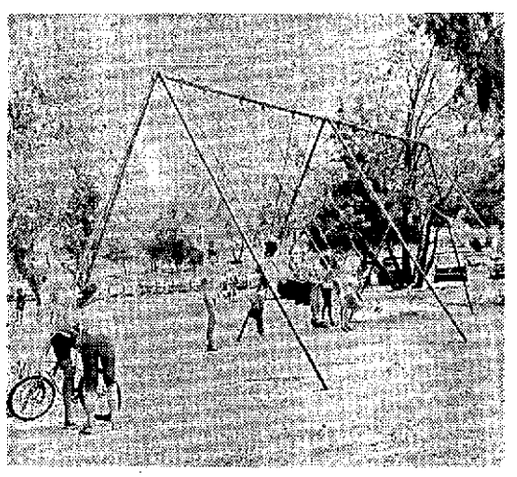

Given to Orange County by the Irvine Company in 1896, the park attracts an average of 10,000 visitors each weekend, and can accommodate them comfortably.

There is a man-made lake on which boaters bump into each other happily. Bicycles can be rented and bridle paths are plentiful. Or the ambitious can just hike.

TWO PLAYGROUNDS, two softball areas, and facilities for horseshoes keep the active occupied; 75 fire pits and permanent and portable picnic tables which can accommodate 6,000 take care of the hungry, and acres and acres of plain, old-fashioned grass invite the lazy.

There is a pen with deer, ducks, swans and peacocks; a bird house, and a monkey cage. And a bandshell with a public address system for large company parties.

Irvine Park in Orange County presents scenes of happy relaxation. Top right, deer pen at the park; above, Irvine Lake for boating fun; below left, another view of the lake and, right, playground area.

"We have had single groups numbering more than 5,000 people," Park Superintendent W. A. Kingsley says, "and our largest single day crowd is usually Memorial Day, when we've had nearly 40,000 guests."

"And," he says proudly, "we've never had a child lost here."

THERE IS NO overnight camping — the park opens at 7 a. m. and closes at 10 p. m. every day of the year. But about 20 miles away is another recreation area, O'Neill Park, even larger than Irvine Park, where there are 800 overnight campsites.

Acquired by Orange County in 1948 and opened in June 1950, O'Neill Park now embraces 398 acres, and has playgrounds, horseshoe facilities, softball diamonds and picnic areas as well as campsites.

It's a good deal more rugged than Irvine Park, and attracts the more serious mountain lover who can hike along Holy Jim Trail into the Saddleback area.

You get there by driving down Pacific Coast Highway to Laguna Canyon Road, then turning in to El Toro Road where signs will direct you to the park. Or, the park can be reached by driving on the Santa Ana Freeway to El Toro Road, about 12 miles south of Tustin, then traveling east and following the signs for about 11 miles.

It's about 50 miles from Long Beach to O'Neill Park, less than that to Irvine Park. Not very far to go to find peace and quiet.

AN ISLAND OF PEACE

Paradox of the Punchbowl

By EV HOSKING

THE ROAR of jet fighters bound for Viet Nam will be in the background today as 18,000 of the nation's war dead are honored at Hawaii's famed Punchbowl.

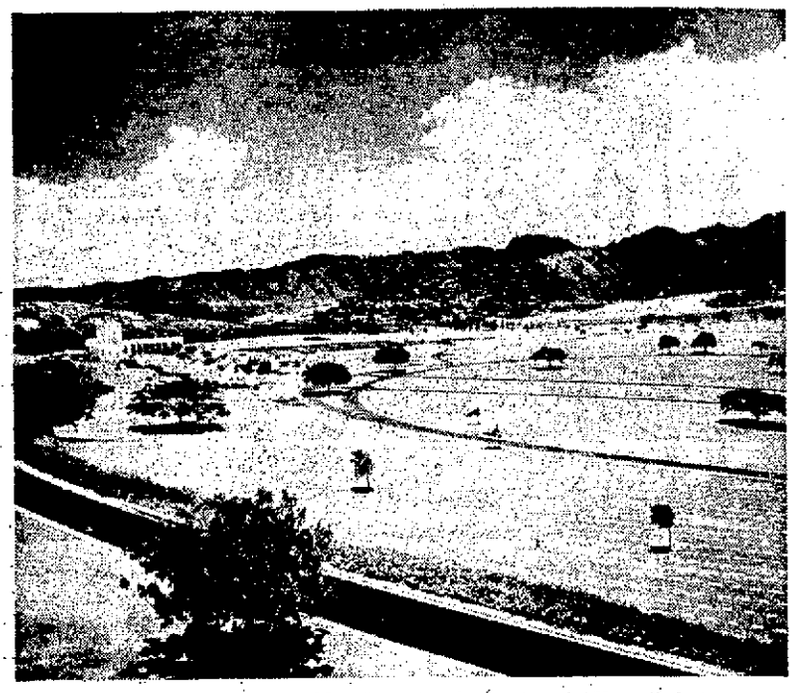

Also clearly visible from the observation point of the National Memorial Cemetery of the Pacific will be the sleek grey lines of the Navy's fighting ships as they put to sea from Pearl Harbor — bound for the Western Pacific.

Punchbowl, termed by some the most beautiful of the nation's 98 national cemeteries, ironically is a minute island of utter peace on an island bustling with military activity—an island that is a keystone of the nation's defense.

Eighteen thousand miniature American Flags will fly today over as many graves in an amazingly peaceful tropical setting in memory of those who gave their lives in thousands of isolated spots from the beaches of Guadalcanal to the frozen reaches of Korea —in memory of those who went down with their ships at sea and of those whose planes never returned from a combat mission.

FOR THOSE DEAD who are not there—who remain only in memory—a simple inscription under a statue of Columbia, the poetic image of America, suffices. It reads:

"In these Gardens are recorded the names of Americans who gave their lives in the service of their country and whose earthy resting place is known only to God."

Peace prevails in the Punchbowl, national cemetery in Hawaii, but war is all about and overhead as battle forces point for action in Viet Nam.

In Hawaii on Memorial Day—the traditional day for decorating the grave of a veteran — the people come with their flowers.

For many in Hawaii it is a pilgrimage—for war, past and present, is always close to them.

THE ISLANDERS remember all too well Pearl Harbor. Although it occurred nearly 24 years ago bomb shelters are still in evidence and the scars of machine gun shells are still clearly visible on many of the buildings at Pearl Harbor and Hickam Air Force Base.

And today Hawaii is 2,500 miles closer to Viet Nam than the other 49 states.

Punchbowl's Hawaiian name, "Puowaina," means "reverence to the highest degree, to hallow."

From the earliest times related in song and legend, rated by the Hawaiian people as a resting place for the weary.

Today it is the eternal resting place of the war dead.

It is a garden spot high on a peak where thousands solemnly view the row on row of white markers and silently offer a prayer for peace.

THE NATIONAL Memorial Cemetery of the Pacific —Punchbowl — was dedicated on Sept. 2, 1949, the fourth anniversary of V-J Day which marked the end of hostilities in the Pacific and the world.

Comprising a total of 112 acres, it is the first national cemetery to be established in the Pacific area. It is the largest of three national memorial cemeteries supervised by the U.S. Army outside of the continental limits of the United States.

The cemetery contains the remains of 13,000 World War II dead, more than any other national cemetery in the world. There are 18,000 remains interred in the cemetery.

Construction was started in August 1948 under supervision of the Honolulu District Corps of Engineers. It was completed on Sept. 30, 1949. Total cost of construction was $1,102,113. Construction was started on the War Memorial — including the statue of Columbia—in June 1958.

PUNCHBOWL gets its name from Punchbowl Crater where it is located. It is one of three large extinct volcanic craters located on the Island of Oahu.

Some estimates place the eruption which formed the crater at about 75,000 years ago.

But it was the world eruption of 1941 that determined the future of the crater—that turned it into the beautiful spot that it is.

It grows on you.

As one Air Force lieutenant said after a year spent in Hawaii before leaving for Viet Nam:

"I hope that if I am unlucky enough to get killed—I am lucky enough to be buried in Punchbowl."

Youth Classes

Art, nature and horticulture will be subjects featured in classes for students from 6 to 16 years of age in 18 workshops of two summer sessions at Los Angeles State and County Arboretum, Arcadia.

Courses will include Junior Museum Development, Life in the Lagoon, Pot Gardening, Patio Gardening, Art in Nature and Plant Adventures.

The two sessions are of three weeks each. Classes will meet twice each week and June 21 and July 12 are opening dates for Session 1 and Session 2. Pre-registration is required June 1-10. Interested children or parents may write to Youth Education, Los Angeles State and County Arboretum, 301 N. Baldwin Ave., Arcadia, for complete schedule and registration forms.

CHALLENGE TO BACHELORS

Hollywood's Four Most Elusive Stars

By HOYT McAFEE

AVA GARDNER
. . . Experienced with wolves . . .

JANE FONDA
. . . Very much in circulation . . .

UNMARRIED men who've set their sights on one of Hollywood's four most popular bachelor girls should brace for stormy weather ahead. It appears that they'll need more than an assist from Cupid to induce any one of the Big Four—Rhonda Fleming, Jane Fonda, Juliet Prowse and Ava Gardner—to take a chance (or another chance) on marriage.

For as matters now stand, movietown's most eligible bachelorettes respond to the sound of wedding bells by sticking cotton in their ears! This subject—of how they feel about marriage—came up fo a round of lively discussion recently. It was touched off, strangely enough, by a Hollywood police captain's "ad-libbing" at the tag-end of his crime report.

FIRST, he explained to his superiors that there had been an alarming increase in night-time burglaries in the Hollywood area. This unhealthy situation, he added, made it imperative that unmarried young women—the live-alone-and-like-it set and the live-alone-and-deplore-it breed—be on guard against nocturnal prowlers.

He suggested that they take these precautions:

(1) "Let no stranger know that you're alone."

(2) "Keep a watchdog around the house."

(3) "Hesitate no longer—get married now."

This reporter decided that it would prove revealing to find out what the unwed movie queens thought of that last (No. 3) recommendation. It took two visits to motion picture lots, several telephone calls, and an air mail, special delivery letter to Spain to reach—and sound out—the top four.

IN THE WINDUP, they commented quite freely—and sometimes facetiously—on the police captain's suggestion. With a sly grin, redheaded Rhonda Fleming remarked: "Get married again? Not this gal! At least, I'm in no hurry to try it again. Give me a chance to catch my wind again.

"Remember, I'm a three-time loser in the marriage sweepstakes. But, be assured of this: I feel no bitterness. There's no substitute for marriage with the right man. Maybe some knockout of a male will make me change my mind about getting married—tonight, tomorrow, or soon.

"It could happen. But until I meet such a man, I intend to do my share of real living. Three men keep me interested in staying single right now." (She was unwilling to identify the "big three," lest it prove embarrassing to them.)

JULIET PROWSE, South Africa's gift to Hollywood, has much the same straightforward look (as some others) on men, marriage, and her career. A lovely woman in her own right, Juliet's admirers are numerous. Variety in her dating has for years spiced her social life: a big-game hunter tonight, a famous columnist the following week; then a singer, colorful politician, suave young banker, and diplomat.

Beauteous Rhonda Fleming, stressing three losing trips to the altar, says: "Marry again? Not this gal . . . not soon, anyway."

What about marriage for her? Juliet dismisses it as "a subject to which I've given no serious thought lately." If she were "to meet the right man for me, I'd certainly know it. Maybe he could change my thinking in a hurry. After all, I do hope to have a husband, home, and children some day."

As to the police captain's suggestion, she responded to it with a chuckle. "It no doubt gave some of the lonely old maids around town a lift in spirit," she remarked. "But I'm sure it was meant for those women who are less than self-reliant. Strong men are good to have around; not, however, for my protection!"

JANE FONDA, one of Hollywood's high-voltage sex pots, prefers the company of "adventurous-minded and unconventional men." Juliet Prowse has had her share of romances, fancied and real, but disclaims current interest in any one man.

Monday morning and no wash day blues! Scene of an enjoyable party the weekend before, this room now is an efficient laundry and sewing center. All of the appliances are conveniently arranged to eliminate unnecessary steps. A large cutting table is folded out from the wall and joins center table to provide surface for mending, sewing and laying out patterns. Acoustical panels aid in reducing the noise of the appliances.

Laundry-Party Room

A PARTY IN THE laundry room? It's not so eccentric as it sounds. Often, the only practical solution to a family space-squeeze is to "double up" on room functions, with one room serving two distinctly different purposes. Interior designers of the Armstrong Cork Company show here, for example, how a functional basement laundry can be efficiently combined with an attractive recreation room.

"Convenience is the principal advantage of this laundry, according to Margaret Gordon Dana, AID, of Armstrong's Bureau of Interior Design. The entire cleaning operation—clothes hamper, washer, dryer, sink, and ironing board—is concentrated into one corner. Shelves above the appliances hold detergent, bleach, and other necessary items within easy reach.

Mending can be done with a portable sewing machine placed on the center table. A fold-out cutting table provides sufficient space for laying out patterns.

Changing the laundry into a party room is simple. The cutting table knocks down and folds against the wall. Colorful red, white and blue panels slide in front of the appliances. The ironing board slides under the counter, the clothes hamper tilts back into place, the sewing machine goes up on a shelf, place mats are set on the table, a swirling plastic decoration is wound around the lolly column, and presto—it's party time!

Thanks to careful planning, this room is just as practical for parties as it is convenient in its laundry role, Mrs. Dana said. The built-in refrigerator holds enough food for full course dinners or simple midnight snacks. The mobile oven-range can be rolled out from under the counter to any part of the room. If charcoal broiled steaks are on the menu, the waist-high fireplace doubles as a barbecue.

Much of the room's attractive appearance is due to its use of modern materials adapted to traditional designs. The natural beauty of real travertine marble is captured in the flooring material which is a deeply embossed vinyl-asbestos tile. Excelon Tile, with its richly textured surface, is as functional as it is attractive since the embossed surface conceals scuff marks, scratches and minor subfloor imperfections.

The traditional look of open beams sets the theme for the ceiling. These "beams" are actually part of the suspended metal framework supporting the acoustical panels. The box beams extend 2 inches below the surface of the ceiling and feature a lithographed wood graining.

Recessed lighting over the work areas is made possible by substituting translucent "luminous" panels into the metal framework under fluorescent fixtures.

Contemporary Borrows from Oriental

By STELLA GEORGE

FURNITURE pieces and accessories acquired in world travel play an important part in the decorating theme of the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. (Pete) Batcheller and daughters, Pam and Sue, of 3571 Claremore Ave. The items were acquired by Batcheller in many trips to foreign lands.

Owning a collection of furniture treasures is one thing; knowing how to display them to fullest advantage and what to blend with them for perfect coordination is another. Mrs. Batcheller engaged Bryon Waller, interior designer, to advise.

The house is two-storied. A sizeable entrance hall steps down to the living room. The stairway is at the right rear of the entry, a hallway and powder room to the left. A black velvet hanging lamp becomes a point of interest in the entrance hall, lighting the cabinet below.

CARPETING in the living room and on the stairs is called frosted honey, a shade somewhere between off-white and beige. The sofa was designed by Walker and is an amethyst-and-turquoise fabric. A small chair is in deep tones of purple, green and blue linen. Two high backed chairs are old ones which were recovered in an iridescent fabric of violet-blue.

The entire wall at the right of the living room is covered in antique mirror. One occasional table is finished in olive green lacquer, and supports a handsome lamp of silver metal with Oriental black base. A small gold table serves the linen chair. A large, goldleaf, four-panel Japanese screen hangs over the sofa to add height to an otherwise plain wall. The treatment of the area above the fireplace is especially attractive since it is so unexpected in the Oriental - contemporary decor. Paneling is oak-stained and two treasured gold - framed portraits of Batcheller's grandmother and grandfather grace the area. An antique clock is the only other ornamentation.

FAMILY ROOM, dining room and kitchen all adjoin with the kitchen separated from the family room by a service bar. Sofa and chairs are in a shade of Wedgewood blue. A thick shag blue and green rug covers the center portion of the light vinyl floor. Japanese teakwood carvings and prints are important accessories. There is an artistic display of small vases and urns on one chest. The dining room is informal and the table extends to accommodate large family dinners. The kitchen is well arranged, with cabinets and drawers finished in an oak stain.

Pam's and Sue's bedrooms upstairs are done in shades of green and gold. Orchid is the color accent in the master bedroom suite.

Oriental accents, each piece with an interesting background, decorate the pool and patio area.

An attractive walk-in bar is an important accessory in the Batchellers' family room. Kitchen is to left, entry to the right.

Portraits of grandparents grace a panel above the fireplace in the living room of the attractive home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. (Pete) Batcheller, an old-fashioned theme in contrast to 20th Century.

SOUTHLAND HOMES

Contemporary Borrows from Oriental

By STELLA GEORGE

FURNITURE pieces and accessories acquired in world travel play an important part in the decorating theme of the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. (Pete) Batcheller and daughters, Pam and Sue, of 3571 Claremore Ave. The items were acquired by Batcheller in many trips to foreign lands.

Owning a collection of furniture treasures is one thing; knowing how to display them to fullest advantage and what to blend with them for perfect coordination is another. Mrs. Batcheller engaged Bryon Waller, interior designer, to advise.

The house is two-storied. A sizeable entrance hall steps down to the living room. The stairway is at the right rear of the entry, a hallway

WORKSHOP

When the 'Surf's Up'

By Steve Ellingson

IN CASE you are a surfing devotee and in case you missed the recent offer of a full-size pattern for a surfboard you can make, here's a second chance, by request. And the board is good for "boat surfing" as well as the sea's foaming crests.

For the uninitiated, here's the "scoop" on boat surfing: Run your boat (outboards and inboards work equally well) between 8 and 12 miles an hour. The wake from your boat creates a veritable "ocean sea" behind you. Lying on your surfboard, you hang onto a 20-foot length of towline as the boat driver eases up to maximum wake speed. Keep your balance, rise to your knees and, gradually, stand up. Suddenly, you'll feel that "propulsion" drawing you along. Toss the towline clear and you're riding free. A little practice and you'll soon be cutting from wake to wake at speeds much faster than the boat.

UNLIKE THE traditional coastal surfers, who ride their waves a couple of hundred yards offshore, the "boat surfer" does his stuff a mere 20 or 30 feet behind a slow-running boat. The suction of the boat's wake carries him along for miles on end. The sport is catching fire everywhere there are boats, water and people.

Surfboards are expensive to buy, but inexpensive when you build them yourself. The board pictured with pretty surfing devotee (left) may be used either on the ocean or behind your boat. And any amateur can undertake this project with success when he uses the full-size pattern. A list of required materials along with lots of easy-to-follow illustrations and directions are included. The pattern also shows how to use the board after you have built it.

To obtain the full-size surfboard pattern No. 351 send $1 in currency, check or money order to: Steve Ellingson, Southland Magazine Pattern Dept., Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif. 91409.

Here's an Easy Relish

Mandarin Bean Relish is a happy choice to accompany clove-studded ham and potatoes.

By Mildred K. Flanary
Southland Magazine Home Economics Editor

HOMEMADE relishes, popular in Grandma's day, seem to be getting lost in today's hustle and bustle of meal preparation. Maybe some homemakers think they are simply too much extra work. Nothing could be further from the truth in the case of Mandarin Bean Relish.

For this accompaniment for clove-studded baked ham and potatoes, green beans, mandarin orange segments and sliced celery and onion in a savory dressing are marinated in the refrigerator several hours. It's simple, and the flavor and appearance are highly refreshing.

Mandarin Bean Relish

1 can (1 lb.) cut green beans
⅓ cup mandarin orange segments
3 tblspns. sliced celery
¼ cup sliced onion
½ tsp. sugar
½ tspn. salt
Dash pepper
2 tblspns. vinegar
¼ cup salad oil

Drain beans. Combine beans in shallow dish with orange segments, celery and onion. Combine all remaining ingredients in jar; cover and shake well. Pour over bean mixture. Cover and chill several hours, stirring occasionally. Serve with baked ham. Makes 6 servings.

Scalloped "Taters" and Beans

1 can (1 lb.) cut green beans
½ cup process cheese spread
Dash pepper
2 cups sliced cooked potatoes
1 tblspn. melted butter or margarine
3 tblspns. fine dry bread crumbs

Drain beans, reserving ¼ cup liquid. Blend cheese, bean liquid and pepper. Mix with beans and potatoes in 1-quart casserole. Blend butter and crumbs. Sprinkle over vegetables. Heat in 375-degree (moderately hot) oven 15 minutes or until hot. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

Recipe of the Week

GUM DROPS add novelty to this week's $5-prize-winning recipe submitted by Mrs. Paul M. Johnston, 2018 Shipway Ave., Long Beach 90815. The recipe:

Gum Drop Squares

4 eggs well beaten
2¼ cups light brown sugar
2 cups flour
¼ tsp. salt
1 cup chopped nut meats
18 orange and/or lemon gum drop slices

Grease and flour cookie sheet. Beat eggs well and then beat sugar into eggs. Add the flour, salt and chopped nut meats. Chop the gum drop slices and add to dough. Spread with spatula over cookie sheet and bake at 350° for 25 minutes or until firm. Sprinkle with powdered sugar. When cool, cut into 40 1½-inch squares. Will remain moist for an unusual period of time.

What's your favorite recipe? For each recipe published in this space, Southland will pay $5. Men are urged to submit their recipes along with the ladies. Send yours, with name and address to Recipe Contest Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90812.

Plan Colors

Pretty pastel color schemes for the garden are achieved by planting Cleome Pink Queen next to salvia Blue Bedder, or heliotrope with pale yellow dwarf marigolds. It's best to plan color schemes, pastel or otherwise, before you plant seeds.

This complete FAMILY POOL only $2095*

{including deck, electric, and everything you'll need!

Compare this pool's value! For only $27.93 a monthyou can give your family this beautiful Anthony Constellation pool. Complete. Ready for a summer's fun. Everything you'll need has been combined into one low monthly payment. This is a deluxe pool, now priced lower because of Anthony's greater summer volume. Compare. You'll find the Constellation is larger (389 sq. ft.); has a host of quality features. Ask for free sketch of this pool in your yard.

How Anthony gives greater value. By building almost four times as many pools as any other single builder†, Anthony's overhead per pool is less. This is one way prices can be cut without cutting value —and only Anthony, the world's largest pool builder, can do it.

The Anthony Constellation style 290, is 16' x 30', 389 sq. ft., 3' to 8' deep; has 88' perimeter. Lifetime structural guarantee. Features: (1) coping and deck, total of 27 inches wide around entire pool, (2) electrical hookup to 50 feet. (3) ¾ H.P. pump, (4) filter, (5) skimmer, (6) white plaster interior, (7) steps, (8) cleaning tools, (9) test kit, (10) plans, permits, earth removal. *Summer Special list price for Zone I. Subject to change for conditions of expansive soil or difficult access.

Letter from pool buyer cites fast construction schedule
"Mr. Phil Anthony:
Recently our pool was completed by you and we wish to take this opportunity to compliment you and your organization on the fine job you did. From start to finish it was handled with speed (17 days) and efficiency."
Sincerely
Gilbert and Betty Harris
The recommendation of satisfied pool owners has helped Anthony become by far the world's largest pool builder.

MEDICINE AND YOU

Germs in Space

By Ben Zinser
Southland Magazine Medical-Science Writer

GERM contamination of spacecraft interiors will be serious enough during prolonged spaceflight to require control measures, warns a researcher in Aerospace Medicine.

In earthbound situations, aerial transmission of infection is limited in part by gravitational fallout of germ-laden particles. Remaining smaller particles are diluted by the atmosphere.

But in spaceflight conditions, both gravitational fallout and atmospheric dilution of particles are drastically reduced. Consequently, airborne particles containing microorganisms pose a form of atmospheric contamination in the small gravity-free interior of a space capsule.

ULTRASOUND, sometimes used in medical diagnosis and treatment, appears to have no toxic effect in patients, researchers say.

Doctors at the University of Colorado School of Medicine say they have performed frequent ultrasonic examinations on themselves during the past 12 years without any evidence of toxic effects.

Laboratory animals—pregnant rabbits, kittens and rats—have also been exposed to long periods of continuous ultrasound without any deleterious effect. No damage was done to the offspring, either.

SOVIET physicians say they have had some success in preventing the spread of breast cancer by use of a vaccine.

The vaccine was made of killed tumor cells, according to a report in the journal Voprosy Onkologii.

In one group of 14 patients given the vaccine, six lived more than 10 years and seven lived more than five years. However, in a corresponding comparison group of 15 patients—persons not given the vaccine—all died in less than five years.

AN ALLERGIC person can expect half of his offspring to have a major allergy in childhood, a New York specialist says. Asthma, eczema, hay fever and hives are often "family diseases," says Dr. Clifford M. Tepper.

PREVALENCE of chronic respiratory disease among cigarette smokers increases markedly at some point between 3,000 and 9,000 packs of cigarettes—or after eight years of smoking one to three packs a day. The finding stems from a study of 1,261 residents of Berlin, N. H.

RECURRENT appendicitis is frequent when a surgeon cannot remove the entire appendix, according to a report in Archives of Surgery.

Five of six patients in whom a fragment of the appendix was left developed a recurrence within two to four months.

FAVORABLE reports continue to appear in medical journals regarding the new antigout drug, HPP. The still-experimental compound, also known as allopurinol, will probably be known as Zyloprim (a trade name) when it is finally released for general prescription.

A WHIRLAROUND tractor seat would reduce back discomfort for farmers, suggests Dr. Janet Travell, personal physician to the late President Kennedy.

Such a pivotal seat is needed because farmers insist on twisting to view the farm implement being towed by the tractor.

(This column frequently reports advances in medical research and opinions of medical authorities not yet accepted in general practice.)

Your Name

hero name Hazzo meaning "combatant and battler." Hazzo evolved into Hasso and Haas in dialectical German usage. De Haas is a Dutch and Flemish form meaning "son of Hazzo." The Haas armorial shield from German Silesia is blue emblazoned with a white rampant hare or rabbit. This emblem refers to another source of Haas, meaning "Hare," derived from an inn-sign picturing a leaping hare.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like data on PARKER.—L.N., A.R., E.P., Long Beach.

PARKER goes back 700 years to a "parkere," the hereditary custodian of a deer-hunting park or forest owned by medieval English royalty. The parkere's duty was protection of the forest from poaching hunters. William Le Parker, a primary forefather, was granted a Lancashire estate by King Richard II in the 1300s. The Parker shield is red, emblazoned with three gold leopard heads. The Rev. Thomas Parker, rector of the church at Newbury, Berkshire, England, settled in Massachusetts in 1634 and was the ancestor of many present day Parkers.

DEAR MISS RULE: May we have data on AMORELLI.—D.A., Garden Grove.

D.A.: AMORELLI from Italy was originally a complimentary epithet. This name means "descendant of the lovable one." No armorial shield is available for Amorelli.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly inform us on JANSSEN.—A.B., Long Beach.

A.B.: JANSSEN, which has a Danish background, originated as "Jans-sen" or "son of John." The Biblical "John" signified "God is gracious." The Janssen coat-of-arms is a shield tinted black on the left half, crossed by three narrow gold chevrons. The right half is silver, centered with a black rampant lion.

Here's an Easy Relish

Mandarin Bean Relish is a happy choice to accompany clove-studded ham and potatoes.

By Mildred K. Flanary
Southland Magazine Home Economics Editor

HOMEMADE relishes, popular in Grandma's day, seem to be getting lost in today's hustle and bustle of meal preparation. Maybe some homemakers think they are simply too much extra work. Nothing could be further from the truth in the case of Mandarin Bean Relish.

For this accompaniment for clove-studded baked ham and potatoes, green beans, mandarin orange segments and sliced celery and onion in a savory dressing are marinated in the refrigerator several hours. It's simple, and the flavor and appearance are highly refreshing.

Mandarin Bean Relish

1 can (1 lb.) cut green beans
⅓ cup mandarin orange segments
3 tblspns. sliced celery
¼ cup sliced onion
½ tsp. sugar
½ tspn. salt
Dash pepper
2 tblspns. vinegar
¼ cup salad oil

Drain beans. Combine beans in shallow dish with orange segments, celery and onion. Combine all remaining ingredients in jar; cover and shake well. Pour over bean mixture. Cover and chill several hours, stirring occasionally. Serve with baked ham. Makes 6 servings.

Scalloped "Taters" and Beans

1 can (1 lb.) cut green beans
½ cup process cheese spread
Dash pepper
2 cups sliced cooked potatoes
1 tblspn. melted butter or margarine
3 tblspns. fine dry bread crumbs

Drain beans, reserving ¼ cup liquid. Blend cheese, bean liquid and pepper. Mix with beans and potatoes in 1-quart casserole. Blend butter and crumbs. Sprinkle over vegetables. Heat in 375-degree (moderately hot) oven 15 minutes or until hot. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

Recipe of the Week

GUM DROPS add novelty to this week's $5-prize-winning recipe submitted by Mrs. Paul M. Johnston, 2018 Shipway Ave., Long Beach 90815. The recipe:

Gum Drop Squares

4 eggs well beaten
2¼ cups light brown sugar
2 cups flour
¼ tsp. salt
1 cup chopped nut meats
18 orange and/or lemon gum drop slices

Grease and flour cookie sheet. Beat eggs well and then beat sugar into eggs. Add the flour, salt and chopped nut meats. Chop the gum drop slices and add to dough. Spread with spatula over cookie sheet and bake at 350° for 25 minutes or until firm. Sprinkle with powdered sugar. When cool, cut into 40 1½-inch squares. Will remain moist for an unusual period of time.

What's your favorite recipe? For each recipe published in this space, Southland will pay $5. Men are urged to submit their recipes along with the ladies. Send yours, with name and address to Recipe Contest Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90812.

Plan Colors

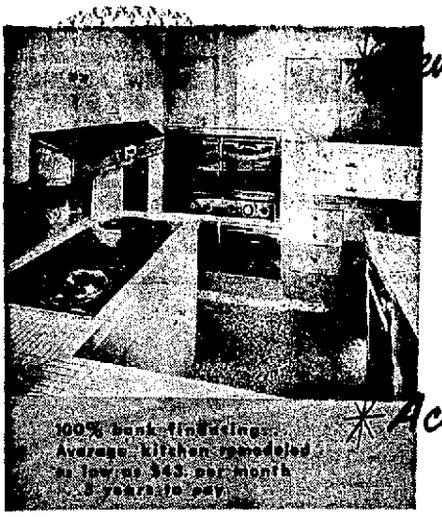

Pretty pastel color schemes for the garden are achieved by planting Cleome Pink Queen next to salvia Blue Bedder, or heliotrope with pale yellow dwarf marigolds. It's best to plan color schemes, pastel or otherwise, before you plant seeds.

Belmont Heights Garden Club will meet at 1 p.m. Tuesday in Wesley Hall, 317 Termino Ave. Mrs. Muriel Oyaas will preside and tea committee will be Mary Pringle, Gertrude Lawrence, Cora Bovyer, Beatrice Moore, Muriel Rebman and Juantia Gleckler.

Los Altos Garden Club members will attend a potluck dinner at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday at St. John's Presbyterian Church, 2345 Ximeno Ave. Carl Van Steenbergen will present a program on the theme of "Garden Spots of America." Hostesses will be Mrs. George Hennigh, Mrs. E. M. Wheeler, Mrs. Leon Sewell, Mrs. Walter Thiessen and Mrs. Jean Fields.

Gardeners are invited by Garden Grove Branch, California National Fuchsia Society, to submit problems in a question and answer session of the group when it meets at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Iva Meairs School, Newland and Trask Streets, Garden Grove. Although fuchsias and shade plants are the prime interest of the club, Bill Loos and Pat Scouten who will answer the questions have experience in broader fields. A plant table is planned. The public is invited.

"Artistry in Flowers" will be the theme of Lakewood Garden Club's spring flower show next Saturday and Sunday in the Youth Center, 4658 Woodruff Ave., Lakewood. Artistic and horticultural divisions are scheduled and entries are open, to be taken between 8 and 10:30 a.m. Saturday. Nursery and club displays and plant table are planned. Show hours will be 2 to 7 p.m. Saturday and 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday. The public is invited free of charge.

Have Foliage and Blooms, Too

By Joe Littlefield

SOUTHERN California home owners are beginning to re-learn the fact that it is just as easy to select flowering shrubs as it is to plant evergreen non-blooming plants.

As an example, instead of planting evergreen prostrate juniper which is a hardy spreading shrub, it is just as easy to plant prostrate lockwoodi rosemary, with attendant double dividends. One benefit is the blue flowers that smother the plants throughout the winter season; the other bonus is the shrubs condimental value, because the foliage is used in roasts, stews, and in herb butters.

Another good example is ground covers. Nearly everyone plants the neat looking, glossy leafed, showy Algerian ivy. Unfortunately, the foliage may burn during the unusually hot summer weather, or the area is kept too moist, thereby inviting a fungus problem.

THE SUBSTITUTE for Algerian ivy, and a very good ground cover it is too, is the sand verbena, Verbena pulchella. This rather low growing, green, feathery foliage plant flowers nearly the year around. It is exceptionally hardy, tolerates extremes of heat, cold, and soil requirements. It seems to grow well in almost any sunny location whether in the parking, on a slope, or as part of the lawn substitute.

Like any other variety of verbena grown as ground cover, it should be trimmed back in early spring, fertilized, watered till new growth matures, then water only as it really thirsts.

THIS ARTICLE is written to interest readers in being more flower — color conscious when landscaping the grounds of a new home, or when replacing shrubs or plants. The hardy, easy-to-grow flowering plants don't take any more care than do the good evergreen foilage plants!

One of the showy flowering shrubs that needs attention is bottle brush, Callistemon lancelatus. You'll help yours produce almost as showy a secondary mass of blooms about three or four months later, if you cut back the branches now just below the faded flowers, and feed them a balanced plant food. If you don't cut them back, plants still may blossom but fewer flowers.

Need Fertilizer

All vegetables are gluttons for fertilizer. It has been said that most gardeners could produce twice as much in half the space if they would give their plants sufficient fertilizer.

Directions as to quantity to use are on the package. Read them.

MEDICINE AND YOU

Germs in Space

By Ben Zinser
Southland Magazine Medical-Science Writer

GERM contamination of spacecraft interiors will be serious enough during prolonged spaceflight to require control measures, warns a researcher in Aerospace Medicine.

In earthbound situations, aerial transmission of infection is limited in part by gravitational fallout of germ-laden particles. Remaining smaller particles are diluted by the atmosphere.

But in spaceflight conditions, both gravitational fallout and atmospheric dilution of particles are drastically reduced. Consequently, airborne particles containing microorganisms pose a form of atmospheric contamination in the small gravity-free interior of a space capsule.

ULTRASOUND, sometimes used in medical diagnosis and treatment, appears to have no toxic effect in patients, researchers say.

Doctors at the University of Colorado School of Medicine say they have performed frequent ultrasonic examinations on themselves during the past 12 years without any evidence of toxic effects.

Laboratory animals—pregnant rabbits, kittens and rats—have also been exposed to long periods of continuous ultrasound without any deleterious effect. No damage was done to the offspring, either.

SOVIET physicians say they have had some success in preventing the spread of breast cancer by use of a vaccine.

The vaccine was made of killed tumor cells, according to a report in the journal Voprosy Onkologii.

In one group of 14 patients given the vaccine, six lived more than 10 years and seven lived more than five years. However, in a corresponding comparison group of 15 patients—persons not given the vaccine—all died in less than five years.

AN ALLERGIC person can expect half of his offspring to have a major allergy in childhood, a New York specialist says. Asthma, eczema, hay fever and hives are often "family diseases," says Dr. Clifford M. Tepper.

PREVALENCE of chronic respiratory disease among cigarette smokers increases markedly at some point between 3,000 and 9,000 packs of cigarettes—or after eight years of smoking one to three packs a day. The finding stems from a study of 1,261 residents of Berlin, N. H.

RECURRENT appendicitis is frequent when a surgeon cannot remove the entire appendix, according to a report in Archives of Surgery.

Five of six patients in whom a fragment of the appendix was left developed a recurrence within two to four months.

FAVORABLE reports continue to appear in medical journals regarding the new antigout drug, HPP. The still-experimental compound, also known as allopurinol, will probably be known as Zyloprim (a trade name) when it is finally released for general prescription.

A WHIRLAROUND tractor seat would reduce back discomfort for farmers, suggests Dr. Janet Travell, personal physician to the late President Kennedy.

Such a pivotal seat is needed because farmers insist on twisting to view the farm implement being towed by the tractor.

hero name Hazzo meaning "combatant and battler." Hazzo evolved into Hasso and Haas in dialectical German usage. De Haas is a Dutch and Flemish form meaning "son of Hazzo." The Haas armorial shield from German Silesia is blue emblazoned with a white rampant hare or rabbit. This emblem refers to another source of Haas, meaning "Hare," derived from an inn-sign picturing a leaping hare.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like data on PARKER.—L.N., A.R., E.P., Long Beach.

PARKER goes back 700 years to a "parkere," the hereditary custodian of a deer-hunting park or forest owned by medieval English royalty. The parkere's duty was protection of the forest from poaching hunters. William Le Parker, a primary forefather, was granted a Lancashire estate by King Richard II in the 1300s. The Parker shield is red, emblazoned with three gold leopard heads. The Rev. Thomas Parker, rector of the church at Newbury, Berkshire, England, settled in Massachusetts in 1634 and was the ancestor of many present day Parkers.

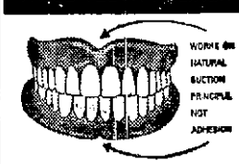

DEAR MISS RULE: May we have data on AMORELLI.—D.A., Garden Grove.

D.A.: AMORELLI from Italy was originally a complimentary epithet. This name means "descendant of the lovable one." No armorial shield is available for Amorelli.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly inform us on JANSSEN.—A.B., Long Beach.

A.B.: JANSSEN, which has a Danish background, originated as "Jans-sen" or "son of John." The Biblical "John" signified "God is gracious." The Janssen coat-of-arms is a shield tinted black on the left half, crossed by three narrow gold chevrons. The right half is silver, centered with a black rampant lion.

With ears like those of a butterfly, the Papillon is the elf of the canine world.

PET PARADE

Living in the Lap of Luxury

By Eleanor A. Price

"LEADING a dog's life" is a phrase to fit the toys of dogdom, but not in the usual connotation. The toy, while not a sissy, is accustomed to life literally in the lap of luxury.

Among the toys, the Papillon is a tiny beauty—a true elf of a dog—with wide-apart ears standing out like wings of butterflies and fringed on the edges with silky tassels. Papillon literally means butterfly. Sometimes the dog is called Chien Ecuriel or Squirrel Dog because of his beautiful gay tail. This breed is graceful, dainty, lively, hardy, needs no particular coddling, and he gets along with children as long as they don't stumble against his small legs or drop him. He can catch mice with almost as much cunningness as a cat.

THE PAPILLON is not widely publicized, possibly because it is not easy to breed for the abundance of feathering that makes him so attractive, and it is not simple to have litters of puppies all of which will develop perfectly erect ears. Many are drop-eared, but this is not supposed to count against them shows.

The Papillon breed is fairly old and was probably brought to the Americas by early Spanish settlers just as was the Chihuahua. Quite possibly the two are related. The Papillon is most popular in France.

In early history a toy dog was one that could pass through an oval 7x5 inches in its diameters. Today, some are larger but still lap-sized and usually accustomed to luxurious living. They are not sissies, and many out-perform other dogs in obedience rings. Seldom are they silent when a stranger approaches their homes.

Hub Poodle Club has a match today at South Park, Compton. Entries will be accepted until 11 a.m. At Lawndale's Alondra Park today, South Bay Kennel Club holds an all-breed practice match (no obedience), with entries closing at 11 a.m. This club is eager to obtain more members. It is young but ready for AKC approval of point shows. Anyone interested may telephone 868-5482 or 679-3261 for further information.

June 6 is the date of a Pasadena show at Brookside Park.

Golden West Toy Dog Club also has an AKC sanctioned match (no obedience) today at South Gate Park on Tweedy Boulevard in South Gate. Judges are Bob Davis, best in match; Jack Heidinger, poodles; C. L. Savage and Denver Dale Jr., other toys. Entries close at noon, and judging starts at 1 p.m. The entry fee per dog is only $1, each additional class 50 cents.

THREE EVENTS scheduled today are Hub Poodle Club match at South Park, Compton; South Bay Kennel Club match at Alondra Park, Gardena, and Golden West Toy Breeders puppy match at South Gate Park.

June 5 events include Shetland Sheepdog specialty, Monrovia Recreation Park; Irish Setter Club of Southern California specialty at 2551 Motor Ave., Los Angeles, and Cocker Spaniel specialty at Brookside Park, Pasadena. Pasadena Kennel Club show and trial is set for next Sunday at Pasadena's Brookside Park.

Crazy Quilt

Annual gaillardias have such a mixture of colors and patterns in their flowers that a planting resembles nothing as much as an old-fashioned crazy quilt.

Colors are yellows, oranges, brick and rose-reds and mixtures of these hues. Rarely can two flowers be found precisely alike in pattern, although some are of only one solid color.

Among the earliest annuals to grow, these pretty flowers are not seen nearly as often as they should be. If you are looking for something different to grow this year, try them.

'Quick' Roses

Getting overnight bloom in the garden in the form of roses is no great maneuver in these days of wide selection of roses in containers in the nurseries. And it's a good time to shop for roses because plants are in bloom and make selection easier.

An increasing number of gardeners are choosing their roses in bloom in May, rather than planting them bare-root in mid-winter. There is no waiting for results. Nursery plants are supplied with buds, blooms, and brand new foliage.

The assortment of container-grown plants is good. Nurseryman grow the new All America selections as well as the best of the old favorites. Plants were set in containers in January for the specific purpose of planting in late spring and summer.

Among the new varieties you will find the increasingly popular Tropicana as well as the 1965 All Americas, Mr. Lincoln, a dark red and Camelot, a glowing pink. Other recent introductions available now will include Granada, a two-toned scarlet and yellow, Chicago Peace, pink and yellow combination and King's Ransom, a good solid yellow. Don't overlook Queen Elizabeth and Peace, two-long time favorites.

Roses from containers are planted just like any other container-grown plant. Slit the sides of the cans with tinsnips and shovel blade, remove the ball of soil carefully and set in the hole so the bud union is slightly above ground level. Fill in with good topsoil and irrigate at once with a slow stream from your hose.

About three weeks to a month after planting, start feeding with any good rose food at the intervals recommended on the package. Spray or dust at regular intervals to keep the foliage bright and clean. Trim off spent flowers, leaving about three leaflets on each stem.

GARDEN CLUBS

Belmont Heights Garden Club will meet at 1 p.m. Tuesday in Wesley Hall, 317 Termino Ave. Mrs. Muriel Oyaas will preside and tea committee will be Mary Pringle, Gertrude Lawrence, Cora Bovyer, Beatrice Moore, Muriel Rebman and Juantia Gleckler.

Los Altos Garden Club members will attend a potluck dinner at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday at St. John's Presbyterian Church, 2345 Ximeno Ave. Carl Van Steenbergen will present a program on the theme of "Garden Spots of America." Hostesses will be Mrs. George Hennigh, Mrs. E. M. Wheeler, Mrs. Leon Sewell, Mrs. Walter Thiessen and Mrs. Jean Fields.

Gardeners are invited by Garden Grove Branch, California National Fuchsia Society, to submit problems in a question and answer session of the group when it meets at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Iva Meairs School, Newland and Trask Streets, Garden Grove. Although fuchsias and shade plants are the prime interest of the club, Bill Loos and Pat Scouten who will answer the questions have experience in broader fields. A plant table is planned. The public is invited.

"Artistry in Flowers" will be the theme of Lakewood Garden Club's spring flower show next Saturday and Sunday in the Youth Center, 4658 Woodruff Ave., Lakewood. Artistic and horticultural divisions are scheduled and entries are open, to be taken between 8 and 10:30 a.m. Saturday. Nursery and club displays and plant table are planned. Show hours will be 2 to 7 p.m. Saturday and 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday. The public is invited free of charge.

Have Foliage and Blooms, Too

By Joe Littlefield

SOUTHERN California home owners are beginning to re-learn the fact that it is just as easy to select flowering shrubs as it is to plant evergreen non-blooming plants.

As an example, instead of planting evergreen prostrate juniper which is a hardy spreading shrub, it is just as easy to plant prostrate lockwoodi rosemary, with attendant double dividends. One benefit is the blue flowers that smother the plants throughout the winter season; the other bonus is the shrubs condimental value, because the foliage is used in roasts, stews, and in herb butters.

Another good example is ground covers. Nearly everyone plants the neat looking, glossy leafed, showy Algerian ivy. Unfortunately, the foliage may burn during the unusually hot summer weather, or the area is kept too moist, thereby inviting a fungus problem.

THE SUBSTITUTE for Algerian ivy, and a very good ground cover it is too, is the sand verbena, Verbena pulchella. This rather low growing, green, feathery foliage plant flowers nearly the year around. It is exceptionally hardy, tolerates extremes of heat, cold, and soil requirements. It seems to grow well in almost any sunny location whether in the parking, on a slope, or as part of the lawn substitute.

Like any other variety of verbena grown as ground cover, it should be trimmed back in early spring, fertilized, watered till new growth matures, then water only as it really thirsts.

THIS ARTICLE is written to interest readers in being more flower — color conscious when landscaping the grounds of a new home, or when replacing shrubs or plants. The hardy, easy-to-grow flowering plants don't take any more care than do the good evergreen foilage plants!

One of the showy flowering shrubs that needs attention is bottle brush, Callistemon lancelatus. You'll help yours produce almost as showy a secondary mass of blooms about three or four months later, if you cut back the branches now just below the faded flowers, and feed them a balanced plant food. If you don't cut them back, plants still may blossom but fewer flowers.

Need Fertilizer

All vegetables are gluttons for fertilizer. It has been said that most gardeners could produce twice as much in half the space if they would give their plants sufficient fertilizer.

Directions as to quantity to use are on the package. Read them.

Southland Dining at its Finest in the Long Beach and Orange County Area

YOU ORDER something special at one restaurant and it tastes a little flat. You order the same dish at another restaurant and it sparkles with flavor and richness.

What causes the difference?

I suspect it's usually a touch of wine. Chefs at the better restaurants invariably add sherry, burgundy or a white wine to their sauces to enhance their delicate savoriness. This is true at Long Beach's Americana Restaurant, Carson Street and Bellflower Boulevard, where burgundy is used in the delectable sauce accompanying beef en brochette. This entree is a combination of many delightful flavors consisting of chunks of top sirloin broiled on a steel skewer with fresh mushrooms, onions and piquant slices of green pepper. The Americana's price is somewhat lower than average for this specialty—$2.75 with cream of chicken soup or tossed green salad; baked potato, French fries or hashed browns, and beverage.

Operated by Mike Comminos, well-known local restaurateur, and his brother-in-law, Chris Fotion, the Americana is a beautifully designed establishment with a plush dining room and a large coffeee shop which recently was redecorated with a new counter and stainless steel equipment. Organist-pianist Margaret Gordon entertains Tuesday through Saturday nights in the spacious lounge. Dinners are served Sundays from noon to 10 p.m. Other featured entrees include roast turkey with cranberry sauce, $2.25; southern fried chicken, $2.25; four large deep-fried shrimp, $1.95, and grilled halibut, $1.95.

SUNDAY TREATS — Definitely different from the usual run of Mexican entrees, the cuisine at Moreno's Restaurante, 3490 Long Beach Blvd., is prepared with imagination and great skill. Host and hostess Nolbert and Doris Moreno have perfected recipes creating such unusual delights as torta, an appetizer, and Coffee Moreno, an after-dinner drink served in a golden mug. Torta is a pizza-like treat consisting of a very thin flour tortilla topped with melted cheese and salsa de chile verde, a Mexican sauce. Coffee Moreno consists of Kahlua (a coffee liqueur), tequila, whipped cream and coffee. Both are $1 and exceedingly popular. So are this attractive restaurant's dinner specialities, served daily and Sunday from 3 to 11 p.m. Among them are classical enchiladas with sour cream and giant marinated shrimp, both $2.95.

With ears like those of a butterfly, the Papillon is the elf of the canine world.

PET PARADE

Living in the Lap of Luxury

By Eleanor A. Price

"LEADING a dog's life" is a phrase to fit the toys of dogdom, but not in the usual connotation. The toy, while not a sissy, is accustomed to life literally in the lap of luxury.

Among the toys, the Papillon is a tiny beauty—a true elf of a dog—with wide-apart ears standing out like wings of butterflies and fringed on the edges with silky tassels. Papillon literally means butterfly. Sometimes the dog is called Chien Ecuriel or Squirrel Dog because of his beautiful gay tail. This breed is graceful, dainty, lively, hardy, needs no particular coddling, and he gets along with children as long as they don't stumble against his small legs or drop him. He can catch mice with almost as much cunningness as a cat.

THE PAPILLON is not widely publicized, possibly because it is not easy to breed for the abundance of feathering that makes him so attractive, and it is not simple to have litters of puppies all of which will develop perfectly erect ears. Many are drop-eared, but this is not supposed to count against them shows.

The Papillon breed is fairly old and was probably brought to the Americas by early Spanish settlers just as was the Chihuahua. Quite possibly the two are related. The Papillon is most popular in France.

In early history a toy dog was one that could pass through an oval 7x5 inches in its diameters. Today, some are larger but still lap-sized and usually accustomed to luxurious living. They are not sissies, and many out-perform other dogs in obedience rings. Seldom are they silent when a stranger approaches their homes.

Hub Poodle Club has a match today at South Park, Compton. Entries will be accepted until 11 a.m. At Lawndale's Alondra Park today, South Bay Kennel Club holds an all-breed practice match (no obedience), with entries closing at 11 a.m. This club is eager to obtain more members. It is young but ready for AKC approval of point shows. Anyone interested may telephone 868-5482 or 679-3261 for further information.

June 6 is the date of a Pasadena show at Brookside Park.

Golden West Toy Dog Club also has an AKC sanctioned match (no obedience) today at South Gate Park on Tweedy Boulevard in South Gate. Judges are Bob Davis, best in match; Jack Heidinger, poodles; C. L. Savage and Denver Dale Jr., other toys. Entries close at noon, and judging starts at 1 p.m. The entry fee per dog is only $1, each additional class 50 cents.

THREE EVENTS scheduled today are Hub Poodle Club match at South Park, Compton; South Bay Kennel Club match at Alondra Park, Gardena, and Golden West Toy Breeders puppy match at South Gate Park.

June 5 events include Shetland Sheepdog specialty, Monrovia Recreation Park; Irish Setter Club of Southern California specialty at 2551 Motor Ave., Los Angeles, and Cocker Spaniel specialty at Brookside Park, Pasadena. Pasadena Kennel Club show and trial is set for next Sunday at Pasadena's Brookside Park.

Elusive Stars

—since I prefer to spend most of my time in Spain.

"You're aware of how I love bullfighting. In this country (Spain) I can also enjoy the best in gypsy and flamenco music. I've traveled enough and been on my own enough to look out for myself.

Crazy Quilt

Annual gaillardias have such a mixture of colors and patterns in their flowers that a planting resembles nothing as much as an old-fashioned crazy quilt.

Colors are yellows, oranges, brick and rose-reds and mixtures of these hues. Rarely can two flowers be found precisely alike in pattern, although some are of only one solid color.

Among the earliest annuals to grow, these pretty flowers are not seen nearly as often as they should be. If you are looking for something different to grow this year, try them.

'Quick' Roses

Getting overnight bloom in the garden in the form of roses is no great maneuver in these days of wide selection of roses in containers in the nurseries. And it's a good time to shop for roses because plants are in bloom and make selection easier.

An increasing number of gardeners are choosing their roses in bloom in May, rather than planting them bare-root in mid-winter. There is no waiting for results. Nursery plants are supplied with buds, blooms, and brand new foliage.

The assortment of container-grown plants is good. Nurseryman grow the new All America selections as well as the best of the old favorites. Plants were set in containers in January for the specific purpose of planting in late spring and summer.

Among the new varieties you will find the increasingly popular Tropicana as well as the 1965 All Americas, Mr. Lincoln, a dark red and Camelot, a glowing pink. Other recent introductions available now will include Granada, a two-toned scarlet and yellow, Chicago Peace, pink and yellow combination and King's Ransom, a good solid yellow. Don't overlook Queen Elizabeth and Peace, two-long time favorites.

Roses from containers are planted just like any other container-grown plant. Slit the sides of the cans with tinsnips and shovel blade, remove the ball of soil carefully and set in the hole so the bud union is slightly above ground level. Fill in with good topsoil and irrigate at once with a slow stream from your hose.

About three weeks to a month after planting, start feeding with any good rose food at the intervals recommended on the package. Spray or dust at regular intervals to keep the foliage bright and clean. Trim off spent flowers, leaving about three leaflets on each stem.

This is true at Long Beach's Americana Restaurant, Carson Street and Bellflower Boulevard, where burgundy is used in the delectable sauce accompanying beef en brochette. This entree is a combination of many delightful flavors consisting of chunks of top sirloin broiled on a steel skewer with fresh mushrooms, onions and piquant slices of green pepper. The Americana's price is somewhat lower than average for this specialty—$2.75 with cream of chicken soup or tossed green salad; baked potato, French fries or hashed browns, and beverage.

Operated by Mike Comminos, well-known local restaurateur, and his brother-in-law, Chris Fotion, the Americana is a beautifully designed establishment with a plush dining room and a large coffeee shop which recently was redecorated with a new counter and stainless steel equipment. Organist-pianist Margaret Gordon entertains Tuesday through Saturday nights in the spacious lounge. Dinners are served Sundays from noon to 10 p.m. Other featured entrees include roast turkey with cranberry sauce, $2.25; southern fried chicken, $2.25; four large deep-fried shrimp, $1.95, and grilled halibut, $1.95.

SUNDAY TREATS — Definitely different from the usual run of Mexican entrees, the cuisine at Moreno's Restaurante, 3490 Long Beach Blvd., is prepared with imagination and great skill. Host and hostess Nolbert and Doris Moreno have perfected recipes creating such unusual delights as torta, an appetizer, and Coffee Moreno, an after-dinner drink served in a golden mug. Torta is a pizza-like treat consisting of a very thin flour tortilla topped with melted cheese and salsa de chile verde, a Mexican sauce. Coffee Moreno consists of Kahlua (a coffee liqueur), tequila, whipped cream and coffee. Both are $1 and exceedingly popular. So are this attractive restaurant's dinner specialities, served daily and Sunday from 3 to 11 p.m. Among them are classical enchiladas with sour cream and giant marinated shrimp, both $2.95.

Q. Can you fill me in on what happened between June Allyson and her husband Glenn Maxwell when she called the police on him here?—R. L., Newport Beach, Calif.

A. June, 43, accused her husband of locking her out of their home and calling her "vile names." She phoned police, and on her complaint Maxwell, 33, a former barber, was charged with disturbing the peace.

Q. Is there any chance that Dr. Albert Schweitzer will return to Europe or lecture in the U.S.? — David Evans, Lansing, Mich.

A. Probably not. At 90, Schweitzer has told many friends that he will probably spend his final days working in his leper colony in Gabon, Africa, where he is supervising hospital construction.

Q. I read recently that while Warren Beatty was going with Leslie Caron in London, he was quietly dating Jackie Bissett, a doctor's daughter, and several others. My question is how can a sensible girl like Leslie Caron trade in a husband like Peter Hall, director of the Royal Shakespeare Company for a kid like Beatty? Please explain.—M. L. S. Chicago, Ill.

A. One explanation from a friend of Caron's: "In her marriage to Peter Hall, Leslie found herself in the role of a cultured, refined, genteel, intellectual. With Beatty, the appeal is primarily physical."

Q. Is it true that Ethel Kennedy — she's Bobby's wife—comes from a family wealthy enough to buy and sell the Joseph P. Kennedy family? — Laura Chambers, Burbank, Calif.

A. Ethel Kennedy whose maiden name was Ethel Skakel, comes from a multimillion-dollar family. The Skakels own the Great Lakes Carbon Corp., and recently three of Ethel's brothers purchased for $20 million the 4,615-acre Camarillo Ranch in California, 30 miles northwest of Los Angeles.

Q. How old and how tall is Mickey Rooney?—A. Stern, Miami Beach, Fla.

A. Rooney is 43, 5-feet-1.

Q. Who said: "A man used to vicissitudes is not easily dejected."?—Bob Ettinger, Dallas, Tex.

A. Samuel Johnson.

Q. Is it true that Mary Martin on the road with Hello, Dolly! refuses to go to a beauty parlor and dyes her own hair?—L. J., Newark, N.J.

A. True.

Q. I would like to know when Ringo Starr of the Beatles was married and when his wife is expecting her first baby.—Jane Guilford, Denver, Colo.

A. Ringo and Maureen Starr were married on February 12, 1965, are expecting their child in October.

Q. Françoise Sagan, the French writer, isn't she a dope addict? — Karl M., Phoenix, Ariz.

A. In 1957 after a motor crash, Sagan was in such pain that she was daily given injections of a drug called palfium. She became addicted to it, was confined to a hospital for treatment. She kept a diary which became the basis for Toxique, a book in which she describes her craving and eventual cure.

Q. Who will replace Mao Tse-tung as leader of Red China?—T. Perker, New Haven, Conn.

A. There are 5 contenders for the succession if Mao in ill health at 71 should retire: Liu Shao-chi, 66, Mao's closest friend; Chou En-lai, 65, prime minister; Ch'en Yun, 65, senior vice-premier; Teng Hsiao Ping, 63, general secretary of the Red party; P'eng Chen, mayor of Peking.

Q. Who is Arshile Gorky?—Doris Pinder, Pasadena, Tex.

A. Arshile Gorky was an Armenian—real name, Vosdanig Manoog Adoian—who came to America in 1920 at age 16, committed suicide in 1948, in between painted surrealistic art, strongly influenced "action painters" such as Jackson Pollock. Many critics believe him to be one of the most underrated of the great American painters.

Q. We have a Civil Rights Bill. Does Great Britain have one?—Russell Lawrence, Baltimore, Md.

A. The British have a bill which outlaws racial discrimination. Anyone found guilty of inciting race hatred by word or slogan faces a jail sentence of 6 months and a $560 fine. Any owner of a hotel, restaurant, cinema or other public place who raises a color bar can be fined approximately $150.

Q. Is it true that English actor Peter Finch is married to the colored singer Shirley Bassey? Finch played opposite Anne Bancroft in The Pumpkin Eater and is now in Hollywood working with Jimmy Stewart.—E. L., New York, N.Y.

A. Finch, an Australian, is not yet married to Shirley Bassey but was named in her recent divorce suit.

Q. The Murchison family of Texas was involved with Bobby Baker in a Haiti meat deal. Now I see they were also involved in buying up Texas Gulf stock. How come the Murchisons get in on the ground floor of all these great financial deals? Also what is their connection with President Johnson?—R. R., San Antonio, Tex.

A. The Murchisons are shrewd, alert investors with excellent information sources. They are friends of President Johnson.

Q. Does Jack Nicklaus (l.), the golfer, pilot his own plane? — Amy Thomas, Columbus, Ohio.

A. He owns an Aero Commander but has a full-time licensed pilot.

Q. What is the name of the banking family which runs Sweden?—Carl Levitt, Brockton, Mass.

A. The Wallenberg family whose companies and bank branches are involved in all segments of Swedish industry.

Q. Would you please run a photo of La Belle Otero, last of the great courtesans, who died a few months ago at 97? Among her lovers were Edward VII, the Kaiser, King Alfonso, and the Grand Duke Nicholas.

Geraldine Chaplin

THE EASY WAY UP

by LLOYD SHEARER

For decades the motion picture industry has been guilty of gross and shocking nepotism, the practice of favoring relatives.

Over the years film executives have hired idiot sons, moronic sons-in-law, imbecilic brothers, indigent and alcoholic nephews and placed them at exorbitant salaries in high positions where frequently they have done great harm, financially and artistically.

Some years ago at MGM there were so many relatives on the payroll that a group of these was known as "the sons of the pioneers."

Today in Hollywood, the nepotism situation is equally bad. A perusal of executives, producers, studio chiefs and the like reveals that many of these men are relatives of the industry's founding fathers. In many cases they are incompetents and proven fools, but still they occupy positions of power.

One area in which the industry generally avoided nepotism was acting. But even in this field, the practice of greasing the employment road for second generation relatives has now come to full bloom.

Think of any veteran film star with grown children; chances are excellent that such children are working in films or television. Frank Sinatra has his Nancy acting at Warner Brothers. Robert Montgomery has his daughter starring in a TV series. John Wayne has hired his sons at one time or another as actors, producers or assistants. Joel McCrea's son, Dean Martin's daughter, Loretta Young's daughter, Jerry Lewis' son, Bing Crosby's four boys, the sons of Ozzie and Harriet Nelson, Henry Fonda's daughter, Judy Garland's daughter, Bob Mitchum's son, Maureen O'Hara's daughter—the list of such youngsters goes on and on.

What they all have in common is a well-known family name permitting them easy entry into show business.

Junius Booth, the great tragedian, once said that it would prove sufficient for his two sons to inherit his name without his acting ability. "The name alone," he modestly asserted, "will assure them of success in the theater even if they can't act worth a penny."

Booth was wrong in his case. Both his sons left their own mark. Edwin Booth became an even greater actor than his father, and John Wilkes Booth leaped into the pages of history by assassinating Abraham Lincoln in Ford's Theater in Washington.

One young woman who is determined to leave her own mark as an actress—"I want to be more than a curiosity attraction in life"—is Geraldine Chaplin, 20, darkly beautiful, gray-green eyes, a birthmark beneath each, 5-feet-6, 37-23-36, the eldest of eight children of Oona O'Neill and Charles Chaplin, daughter of a man who has become one of the most celebrated, talented, condemned, and controversial figures of our time.

Half-demure, Half-beatnik

In Madrid recently, where she is working on Dr. Zhivago, MGM's big film of the year, I was struck by the refreshing candor and forthright honesty with which this girl, half-demure, half-beatnik, a character born into great wealth and paternal notoriety, describes her situation in life.

"Being Charlie Chaplin's daughter," she pointed out, "is simply amazing! Really, it is. You'd think people would realize that it's a pure biologic accident. And maybe they do, but it's the curiosity which overwhelms them. Either that or the publicity.

"Here I am, 20. What have I accomplished? Practically nothing. I've done one film with Jean-Paul Belmondo. No great thing. But the publicity I've been given, merely because of my name. It's out of all proportion to merit.

"Writers like you," she went on, "come here to Spain where we're shooting Dr. Zhivago. Do you know who's in the picture? Rod Steiger, Alec Guinness, Ralph Richardson, Omar Sharif, Siobhan McKenna, Tom Courtenay, Julie Christie. And they ask to interview me. Why? Because I'm a great actress? Because I've accomplished something? Of course, not.

"The one they should interview is our director, David Lean, probably the greatest director in the world. Great Expectations, Summertime, Bridge on the River Kwai, Lawrence of Arabia. Here's a man who's made outstanding contributions, who's lived, who has something to say. But no, they want to interview me, Charlie Chaplin's daughter. It's ridiculous, but the world is curious about the offspring of celebrated people. And there are others who are willing to capitalize on that fact.

"Already I've been signed for two more films for MGM, I'm also going to play Anne Boleyn—I think opposite Peter O'Toole—in Anne of the Thousand Nights. Vittorio De Sica wants me for a film. They say I'm penciled in for Barefoot in the Park. And after I finish Dr. Zhivago I go to Poland for an Italian film written by Zavattini. It's the kind of thing which drives my father furious. It seems like exploitation of the name and nothing else, but I've got to live with it. It's the problem of my heritage, and it's got both advantages and disadvantages.

"Two years ago when I thought I wanted to become a ballerina, I was placed in the ballet, Cinderella. I had a few very small bits, a few pirouettes, nothing much more. Altogether they lasted maybe a minute each. I was advertised on all the billboards in Paris. The theater was sold out. People expected a great thing. Every time a ballerina did a solo, the audience thought it was I, and applauded madly. When I finally came out and did my few twirls, the audience felt cheated. But it was I who got all the publicity. It was undeserved, and I knew it. I was humiliated, mortified, especially because the company had so many fine dancers, people I couldn't hold a candle to. The truth was I'd been hired because I was Charlie Chaplin's daughter. That's the sort of thing I hope in time to live down.

Geraldine Chaplin, easily recognizable: "I'm my mother from forehead to nose and my father from nose to neck."

Proud of Her Father

"People say to me if you feel so strongly, which I don't, why don't you change your name to Geraldine Jones or Geraldine Smith? It's too late. Too many people in show business know who I am. Not only that, I'm easily recognizable. I look exactly like my mother and father. I'm my mother from forehead to nose, and my father from nose to neck. Besides, I'm very proud of being Charlie Chaplin's daughter. I think my father is a very great man. And the plain truth is that when you bear a name like Chaplin, doors suddenly open.

"For example, when I left the ballet—and I must confess I just didn't have the talent or dedication to make it as a ballerina—my father warned me about that, and he was right, I just couldn't give up everything and rehearse 8 or 10 hours a day which is really necessary if you're going to become a great ballerina—it means becoming half-nun and half-robot—and I just didn't have that overpowering drive, I came to Paris where my half-brother Sydney owns a restaurant with a fellow named Moustache. Well, Sydney's wife, Noelle Adams, introduced me to her agent, Claude Briac, and one day when I didn't have any money, he said to me, 'Would you like to make a film?' And I answered, 'Why not?'

"Well, do you know that inside of a week I had 21 offers for screen tests, merely on the basis of being Charlie Chaplin's daughter. If your name is Chaplin, you get in anywhere. People are so curious. What does she look like? How does she dress? What does she say? Does she get on with her father? Does she look like her mother? How about her brother? But at the same time, once you get in, once you get a job, people expect a great deal. If you do the job well, they say, 'Why not? She's inherited her father's talent. She's been exposed to it all her life.' If you flop, then you're a traitor to your name, to your parents, to your heritage. You're a fraud, and your name should be something else, certainly not Chaplin."

What pleases Geraldine most is that she was hired for Dr. Zhivago on the basis of her ability, not her name. When she was acting in her first film with Belmondo in Spain, On a Beautiful Summer Morning, David Lean was in Madrid, preparing Zhivago. He asked her to test, and when she showed up in blue jeans and sweater, her hair cascading down her face, she looked like a French beatnik of 16, and he very much doubted that this carefree gamin could play the hero's patrician wife, a part which calls for maturity, fortitude, understanding, and practiced wifeliness.

He went ahead with the test, however. Geraldine was ordered into wardrobe, garbed in a black dress of the 1914 period, and asked to play a scene in which she feelingly reads to her father (Sir Ralph Richardson) a letter from her husband (Omar Sharif) sent from the war front.

She performed so well, with such depth, grace, and instantaneous understanding of the lines that Lean declared she was a natural and gave her the part, reportedly at $75,000. "She would have had it," he says, "on the grounds of her test no matter what her name." Lean is a director of towering integrity who casts his films with painstaking care on the basis of fitness, not publicity gimmicks. Of Geraldine he declares, "I have never seen stardom come off the screen so positively as in her test."

Like the children of many film stars, Geraldine Chaplin had no formal drama training before she entered films. She was born in Santa Monica, Calif., on July 31, 1944. Her father was 52 at the time, and her mother, daughter of the late playwright Eugene O'Neill, was 19. On both sides of her family she has roots which spread deeply into the entertainment world.

She remembers one afternoon as a child in Hollywood when her father was making Limelight. "He took me to the studio and let me work as an extra." Beyond that she had no drama experience.

When Geraldine was 8, her family departed Santa Monica for England, planning to vacation there, then return home. While the Chaplins were at sea, however, the U.S. Attorney General, James McGranery, rescinded Charlie Chaplin's entry permit. Despite becoming a multimillionaire in America, Chaplin had always insisted upon remaining a British citizen, and without an entry permit he could not return to the U.S. (Geraldine has dual citizenship but travels on a British passport).

Libertine & Leftist

Chaplin complained vociferously, but by 1952 he was none too popular in this country. He had acquired the reputation of a sexual libertine and a political leftist. He had been tried and acquitted on charges of having violated the Mann Act. He had been married four times. He had been the defendant in two paternity suits filed by Joan Barry, and in one of these, in a shocking miscarriage of justice, a jury found him guilty even though blood tests proved without a doubt that he was not the father of the baby in question.

In 1953 Chaplin returned his invalid entry permit to the American consulate in Switzerland and purchased an estate with a 20-room mansion in Vevey.

It was in this home that Geraldine Chaplin spent her weekends and holidays from age 10 to 17. The rest of her days were spent at Mont Olivet, a convent school near Lausanne. "My father has always been a fanatic on the subjects of education and discipline. He wanted me to get the best education in the world. 'It is the only defense,' he told me, 'you will ever have against the world.' "

When Geraldine first reported to Mont Olivet, she found her fellow students praying. Never baptized, never taught to pray, never taught about God—Charlie Chaplin is an agnostic—she thought the girls were merely repeating their lessons aloud. The second day when she witnessed the same procedure, she asked the girl beside her, "What are you doing?" The girl said, "Praying." Geraldine asked to whom. "To God, of course." Geraldine thought for a moment. "Who is God?" she innocently asked. Her schoolmate thought she was joking, declined to answer.

Later, Geraldine went to the nuns and asked them to identify God. "Is he the director of the school?" she asked. To the bewildered 10-year-old, the nuns explained religion as best they could.

Director David Lean explains scene to Geraldine, who plays young wife of Dr. Zhivago in forthcoming film.

When eventually Geraldine discussed the subject with her father, he honestly confessed, "I would like to be religious, but I'm not. If I could become religious, it would be a great help to me. I could trust people more."

Today, although still not a member of any religious faith, Geraldine leans towards Catholicism. "When I resolve my doubts," she says, "I'll probably get baptized."

After finishing at Mont Olivet—"The nuns really worked us hard, from 8 in the morning to 10 at night, but I don't regret it because I got a good education"—Geraldine, despite her father's objections, refused to go to a university. She decided instead that she would like to become a ballerina. Her father warned her that the dancing road was long and arduous, and called for the monastic and dedicated life. "If that's what you want," he said, "all right, but whatever you do, you must do it well."

Geraldine was enrolled in the Royal Ballet School in London. She lived with the family of a Polish prince. "I realized after a while," she truthfully says, "that I had started in too late, that most of the other students could dance rings around me. I was just another ballet student, but one time when all of us danced at Covent Garden in a fashion show attended by the Queen Mother, the photographers singled me out for most of the publicity. It was really embarrassing. The same thing happened when I went to Paris to dance in Cinderella."

Neither of the Chaplin parents showed up at any of Geraldine's dance recitals. They felt rightly that she was being exploited, and the girl, feeling the same, quit dancing, rented a one-room apartment in Paris, earned some money as a model, and then through an agent declared she would like to try films.

For the next five years, Geraldine Chaplin, half-spoiled but totally photogenic—she has no bad angles—is assured of all the film work she can handle. She will earn gobs of money of which she knows and cares little because she has rarely gone hungry—"Only one time, and that was a few years ago when I came to Spain with a group of friends and we ran out of money and had to work in a restaurant entertaining for our meals." A zoology "nut," she will continue to buy pets of all types—dogs, cats, birds, and snakes. Until recently she lived and traveled with a five-foot python. "I gave it to the Paris zoo because people thought my interest was an affectation." Her pet of the moment is a bulldog, Boris, named after Boris Godounov.

Her relationship with her mother is one of deep love and friendship. "My mother is a saint. If I could only grow into the type of woman she is, then my life would be complete. There is no one on earth like my mother."

Of her relationship with her father, she is most guarded. She respects and admires him, but he also represents an Olympian figure, inaccessible, a God-figure omnipotent, a legend upon which all his children may never cast shame or disappointment. She grew up in his shadow as have all his progeny, and she no longer cares to live in it.

'Just a Good Friend'

Her official residence is in a one-room apartment in Paris, frequently visited by her brother Michael and his pals. She has scant interest in clothes, spends most of her money on books and records, is currently "just a good friend" of Manuel Velasco, a young Spaniard who works as an apprentice cinemaphotographer.

She wants to be recognized as a person of achievement and substance in her own right, "but I assure you that if I don't make the grade I am not going to consult a psychiatrist about being Charlie Chaplin's daughter." She is blessed with a gay, easy sense of humor, is quick to smile, and even quicker to respond to the admiring glances and approaches of the opposite sex. She finds Italians and Spaniards "terribly gallant and romantic, but after a while they get boring because they become so falsely enthusiastic about everything a girl says, no matter how ridiculous." She likes British men but as yet, "I haven't dated any Americans."

She wants a stellar film career for the next five years, "and then I would like to get married and have children and all the normal things in life." She wouldn't care particularly to marry an actor. "I'd like to marry a strong man."

One of her friends describes her "as a strange combination of being very young and very old. She's charming but shy, and unfortunately she's learned to mistrust people. Whether this is a heritage from her father or because she was exploited when she was in the ballet, I don't know. Right now she is in the process of finding herself, understanding herself, making something of herself—and she is enjoying every second of it. Under the circumstances, why not? She has almost everything every girl in the world has always dreamed about—beauty, health, position, career, breeding, background—and most important of all, the admiration of handsome, talented eligible men—single men . . . Wahoo!" ■

THE EASY WAY UP

by LLOYD SHEARER

For decades the motion picture industry has been guilty of gross and shocking nepotism, the practice of favoring relatives.

Over the years film executives have hired idiot sons, moronic sons-in-law, imbecilic brothers, indigent and alcoholic nephews and placed them at exorbitant salaries in high positions where frequently they have done great harm, financially and artistically.

Some years ago at MGM there were so many relatives on the payroll that a group of these was known as "the sons of the pioneers."

Today in Hollywood, the nepotism situation is equally bad. A perusal of executives, producers, studio chiefs and the like reveals that many of these men are relatives of the industry's founding fathers. In many cases they are incompetents and proven fools, but still they occupy positions of power.

One area in which the industry generally avoided nepotism was acting. But even in this field, the practice of greasing the employment road for second generation relatives has now come to full bloom.

Think of any veteran film star with grown children; chances are excellent that such children are working in films or television. Frank Sinatra has his Nancy acting at Warner Brothers. Robert Montgomery has his daughter starring in a TV series. John Wayne has hired his sons at one time or another as actors, producers or assistants. Joel McCrea's son, Dean Martin's daughter, Loretta Young's daughter, Jerry Lewis' son, Bing Crosby's four boys, the sons of Ozzie and Harriet Nelson, Henry Fonda's daughter, Judy Garland's daughter, Bob Mitchum's son, Maureen O'Hara's daughter—the list of such youngsters goes on and on.

What they all have in common is a well-known family name permitting them easy entry into show business.

Junius Booth, the great tragedian, once said that it would prove sufficient for his two sons to inherit his name without his acting ability. "The name alone," he modestly asserted, "will assure them of success in the theater even if they can't act worth a penny."

Booth was wrong in his case. Both his sons left their own mark. Edwin Booth became an even greater actor than his father, and John Wilkes Booth leaped into the pages of history by assassinating Abraham Lincoln in Ford's Theater in Washington.

One young woman who is determined to leave her own mark as an actress—"I want to be more than a curiosity attraction in life"—is Geraldine Chaplin, 20, darkly beautiful, gray-green eyes, a birthmark beneath each, 5-feet-6, 37-23-36, the eldest of eight children of Oona O'Neill and Charles Chaplin, daughter of a man who has become one of the most celebrated, talented, condemned, and controversial figures of our time.

Half-demure, Half-beatnik

In Madrid recently, where she is working on Dr. Zhivago, MGM's big film of the year, I was struck by the refreshing candor and forthright honesty with which this girl, half-demure, half-beatnik, a character born into great wealth and paternal notoriety, describes her situation in life.

"Being Charlie Chaplin's daughter," she pointed out, "is simply amazing! Really, it is. You'd think people would realize that it's a pure biologic accident. And maybe they do, but it's the curiosity which overwhelms them. Either that or the publicity.

"Here I am, 20. What have I accomplished? Practically nothing. I've done one film with Jean-Paul Belmondo. No great thing. But the publicity I've been given, merely because of my name. It's out of all proportion to merit.

"Writers like you," she went on, "come here to Spain where we're shooting Dr. Zhivago. Do you know who's in the picture? Rod Steiger, Alec Guinness, Ralph Richardson, Omar Sharif, Siobhan McKenna, Tom Courtenay, Julie Christie. And they ask to interview me. Why? Because I'm a great actress? Because I've accomplished something? Of course, not.

"The one they should interview is our director, David Lean, probably the greatest director in the world. Great Expectations, Summertime, Bridge on the River Kwai, Lawrence of Arabia. Here's a man who's made outstanding contributions, who's lived, who has something to say. But no, they want to interview me, Charlie Chaplin's daughter. It's ridiculous, but the world is curious about the offspring of celebrated people. And there are others who are willing to capitalize on that fact.

"Already I've been signed for two more films for MGM, I'm also going to play Anne Boleyn—I think opposite Peter O'Toole—in Anne of the Thousand Nights. Vittorio De Sica wants me for a film. They say I'm penciled in for Barefoot in the Park. And after I finish Dr. Zhivago I go to Poland for an Italian film written by Zavattini. It's the kind of thing which drives my father furious. It seems like exploitation of the name and nothing else, but I've got to live with it. It's the problem of my heritage, and it's got both advantages and disadvantages.

"Two years ago when I thought I wanted to become a ballerina, I was placed in the ballet, Cinderella. I had a few very small bits, a few pirouettes, nothing much more. Altogether they lasted maybe a minute each. I was advertised on all the billboards in Paris. The theater was sold out. People expected a great thing. Every time a ballerina did a solo, the audience thought it was I, and applauded madly. When I finally came out and did my few twirls, the audience felt cheated. But it was I who got all the publicity. It was undeserved, and I knew it. I was humiliated, mortified, especially because the company had so many fine dancers, people I couldn't hold a candle to. The truth was I'd been hired because I was Charlie Chaplin's daughter. That's the sort of thing I hope in time to live down.

Geraldine Chaplin, easily recognizable: "I'm my mother from forehead to nose and my father from nose to neck."

Proud of Her Father

"People say to me if you feel so strongly, which I don't, why don't you change your name to Geraldine Jones or Geraldine Smith? It's too late. Too many people in show business know who I am. Not only that, I'm easily recognizable. I look exactly like my mother and father. I'm my mother from forehead to nose, and my father from nose to neck. Besides, I'm very proud of being Charlie Chaplin's daughter. I think my father is a very great man. And the plain truth is that when you bear a name like Chaplin, doors suddenly open.

"For example, when I left the ballet—and I must confess I just didn't have the talent or dedication to make it as a ballerina—my father warned me about that, and he was right, I just couldn't give up everything and rehearse 8 or 10 hours a day which is really necessary if you're going to become a great ballerina—it means becoming half-nun and half-robot—and I just didn't have that overpowering drive, I came to Paris where my half-brother Sydney owns a restaurant with a fellow named Moustache. Well, Sydney's wife, Noelle Adams, introduced me to her agent, Claude Briac, and one day when I didn't have any money, he said to me, 'Would you like to make a film?' And I answered, 'Why not?'

"Well, do you know that inside of a week I had 21 offers for screen tests, merely on the basis of being Charlie Chaplin's daughter. If your name is Chaplin, you get in anywhere. People are so curious. What does

LATEST VACATION WRINKLE:

STATE-RUN RESORTS

by NEAL ASHBY

JAMESTOWN, KY.

The Wirth family of Parma Heights, Ohio, has just had a grand week on the placid waters of Lake Cumberland just south of here and in the scenic woodlands that surround it.

Bob and Bette Wirth and their children, Gayle, 11, and Bobby, 9, swam, fished for bass and crappies and skimmed to Seventy-six Falls in a rented outboard motor boat. They played golf and tennis and hiked along a nature trail. Some of the fun they had is depicted in the accompanying photos.

They stayed in a roomy, modern vacation cottage which provided for all their needs—and had a TV set in the bargain. They felt the rate they paid was inexpensive. And they paid it to a new resort landlord whose identity may surprise you.

The landlord was the state of Kentucky.

The Wirths vacationed at Lake Cumberland State Park in the south-central part of the state. It's one of a dozen Vacation Parks at which Kentucky is in the resort business right down to pillowcases and fishhooks—more heavily than any other state. Kentucky owns and operates:

- Lodges containing nearly 450 rooms and dining rooms.
- More than 250 housekeeping cottages equipped with linens, china, silver and, in the newer ones, air conditioning.

Kentucky's efforts are perhaps the best example of a developing trend toward active involvement of state governments in the resort field. The twofold purpose is to assure the presence of high-standard vacation facilities and to channel travel money into state economies. Indiana now has 441 lodge rooms and 61 cabins, all operated by private concessionaires under close state regulation. In an expanding program, West Virginia has more than 200 cabins for lease in its parks and state forests, plus 3 lodges. New York has 745 rental cottages.

You—wherever you are—can benefit from what states are doing. Their facilities are open to all. More than half of Kentucky's overnight park visitors are from other states.

In coming to Lake Cumberland, the Wirths were seeing some of the "New" USA in which brand-new recreation areas and points of interest have popped up all over the map. As President Johnson has asserted, getting out to see them will help stem the heavy flow of U.S. travel dollars to countries abroad.

accommodations with all the recreation facilities they could think of, including swimming pools and riding stables that the Wirths didn't get around to. During June, July and August there is a supervised recreation program, and in the evenings, in the lodges and recreation centers, there are movies, square dancing and folk singing.

Kentucky's program is unique in that every one of the 1,500 workers—busboys, waitresses, chambermaids, lifeguards, greenskeepers—is a state employee.

The public has responded to Kentucky's initiative by swarming to the cottages and lodges as if they were rent-free. They're not, but they are nonprofit. Cottages, from small efficiencies up to 3-bedroom, rent for from $10 to $20 a day. Lodge rooms run from $4 to $9 a day, single, and $6 to $14, double.

Always predominantly an agricultural state, Kentucky's economy needed the nourishment of tourist income. The state began to invest heavily in parks some 15 years ago and in the last 3 years has accelerated development of the Vacation Parks.

For this new season alone it has added new golf courses, swimming pools and substantial extensions to five lodges.

"We know we're meeting a demand that is extremely strong," says Robert Bell, Commissioner of Parks. "We've wanted to provide the magnet for the creation of a high standard of vacation facilities. That's what's happened. Wherever we've built accommodations, private enterprise has moved in to construct facilities to supplement ours."

Lake Cumberland park, around which private tourist enterprises are springing up, could be Exhibit A. Its complete facilities are strung along the tree-studded banks of the 50,000-acre lake, which sends fingers of water poking in all directions. Fringed by plantings of azalea, rhododendron and dogwood, Lure Lodge rests on a bluff high above the water.

The modern, roomy cottages, brown or gray-green, are a short drive from the lodge on narrow roads deep in the wildwood. They have screened porches and outdoor grills and picnic tables. The Wirth family occupied a two-bedroom cottage.

"We've travelled a lot," says Bob Wirth, a school administrator, "and this is just about the nicest park we've been in."

Honeymooning Mrs. James Boone, of Huntsville, Ala., says: "We read the write-up in one of the folders they put out, and Lake Cumberland sounded nice. We've been enjoying the boating. The lake is beautiful."

These comments don't surprise Park Superintendent John Flanagan. Lake Cumberland is sold out through June, July and August and at other times often runs 80 per cent full.

Applications are accepted after January 1 each year. Information about the Vacation Parks may be obtained from the Travel Division, State Dept. of Public Information, Frankfort, Ky.

Visiting Kentucky's Lake Cumberland State Park, the Wirth family of Ohio edges close to Seventy-six Falls in outboard boat.

LATEST VACATION WRINKLE:

STATE-RUN RESORTS

by NEAL ASHBY

JAMESTOWN, KY.

The Wirth family of Parma Heights, Ohio, has just had a grand week on the placid waters of Lake Cumberland just south of here and in the scenic woodlands that surround it.

Bob and Bette Wirth and their children, Gayle, 11, and Bobby, 9, swam, fished for bass and crappies and skimmed to Seventy-six Falls in a rented outboard motor boat. They played golf and tennis and hiked along a nature trail. Some of the fun they had is depicted in the accompanying photos.

They stayed in a roomy, modern vacation cottage which provided for all their needs—and had a TV set in the bargain. They felt the rate they paid was inexpensive. And they paid it to a new resort landlord whose identity may surprise you.

The landlord was the state of Kentucky.

The Wirths vacationed at Lake Cumberland State Park in the south-central part of the state. It's one of a dozen Vacation Parks at which Kentucky is in the resort business right down to pillowcases and fishhooks—more heavily than any other state. Kentucky owns and operates:

- Lodges containing nearly 450 rooms and dining rooms.
- More than 250 housekeeping cottages equipped with linens, china, silver and, in the newer ones, air conditioning.

Kentucky's efforts are perhaps the best example of a developing trend toward active involvement of state governments in the resort field. The twofold purpose is to assure the presence of high-standard vacation facilities and to channel travel money into state economies. Indiana now has 441 lodge rooms and 61 cabins, all operated by private concessionaires under close state regulation. In an expanding program, West Virginia has more than 200 cabins for lease in its parks and state forests, plus 3 lodges. New York has 745 rental cottages.

You—wherever you are—can benefit from what states are doing. Their facilities are open to all. More than half of Kentucky's overnight park visitors are from other states.

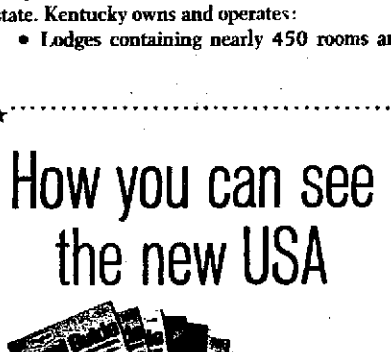

In coming to Lake Cumberland, the Wirths were seeing some of the "New" USA in which brand-new recreation areas and points of interest have popped up all over the map. As President Johnson has asserted, getting out to see them will help stem the heavy flow of U.S. travel dollars to countries abroad.

THE BIG WEATHER BUNGLE

HOW THE GOVERNMENT IS THROWING MONEY TO THE WINDS

by FRED BLUMENTHAL

U.S. Weather Bureau obtains, reports and analyzes weather data—but six other federal agencies are doing the same.

Weather forecasting means the Weather Bureau, right? Wrong. It means any one of 7 government agencies working in a maze of conflicting, duplicating and expensive ways to produce a not-always-accurate weather picture—plus 10 other agencies with weather budgets as high as $20 million a year.

In the fiscal year ending June 30, Uncle Sam will have shelled out almost half a billion dollars to provide weather information to the public and to specialized users within the government, as well as to carry out a variety of weather research projects. Some 27,000 civil servants toil for a bewildering total of 17 federal agencies of all types and missions in the gathering, dissemination and analysis of weather information. In the year ending next month those agencies will have spent a total of $431,500,000 for these functions—and they're not controlling the weather, but simply reporting and analyzing it.

Each of the 17 agencies claims to have its specialized needs for weather information. The Air Force and NASA need to know about atmospheric conditions all over the world at all times; both the Navy and the Treasury Department (Coast Guard) have to be alert to the possibility of storms at sea and in coastal areas; the Interior and Agriculture departments are concerned with the possibilities of forest fires, floods and frost. Other agencies are concerned with radioactive fallout, air and water pollution, communications and general research in the field of weather forecasting and control. The State Department's $300,000 budget for "weather" pays for sending delegates to various international conferences on exchange of weather data.

special agency

Five years ago, all these activities began to get so costly and unwieldy that a special co-ordinating agency was established to control them. Today that one co-ordinator has itself grown to eight separate bodies, or offices, attempting to bring order out of the chaos. In turn, each co-ordinating office has a score or more committees working in as many fields, trying to make some sense out of the weather maze.

Looking at the mess even the co-ordinators are in, a report recently prepared by the Science Policy Research Division of the Library of Congress states at one point: "Why has this combined co-ordinating mechanism become so complex? Does the resulting structure, together with its subsidiary joint, ad hoc, advisory, interagency and interdepartmental committees, subcommittees and panels, itself require co-ordination?"

The same report also notes that seven of the agencies—the Weather Bureau, Air Force, Federal Aviation Agency, NASA, Army, Navy and Treasury Department—ran through about accommodations with all the recreation facilities they could think of, including swimming pools and riding stables that the Wirths didn't get around to. During June, July and August there is a supervised recreation program, and in the evenings, in the lodges and recreation centers, there are movies, square dancing and folk singing.

Kentucky's program is unique in that every one of the 1,500 workers—busboys, waitresses, chambermaids, lifeguards, greenskeepers—is a state employee.

The public has responded to Kentucky's initiative by swarming to the cottages and lodges as if they were rent-free. They're not, but they are nonprofit. Cottages, from small efficiencies up to 3-bedroom, rent for from $10 to $20 a day. Lodge rooms run from $4 to $9 a day, single, and $6 to $14, double.

Always predominantly an agricultural state, Kentucky's economy needed the nourishment of tourist income. The state began to invest heavily in parks some 15 years ago and in the last 3 years has accelerated development of the Vacation Parks.

For this new season alone it has added new golf courses, swimming pools and substantial extensions to five lodges.

"We know we're meeting a demand that is extremely strong," says Robert Bell, Commissioner of Parks. "We've wanted to provide the magnet for the creation of a high standard of vacation facilities. That's what's happened. Wherever we've built accommodations, private enterprise has moved in to construct facilities to supplement ours."

Lake Cumberland park, around which private tourist enterprises are springing up, could be Exhibit A. Its complete facilities are strung along the tree-studded banks of the 50,000-acre lake, which sends fingers of water poking in all directions. Fringed by plantings of azalea, rhododendron and dogwood, Lure Lodge rests on a bluff high above the water.

The modern, roomy cottages, brown or gray-green, are a short drive from the lodge on narrow roads deep in the wildwood. They have screened porches and outdoor grills and picnic tables. The Wirth family occupied a two-bedroom cottage.

"We've travelled a lot," says Bob Wirth, a school administrator, "and this is just about the nicest park we've been in."

Honeymooning Mrs. James Boone, of Huntsville, Ala., says: "We read the write-up in one of the folders they put out, and Lake Cumberland sounded nice. We've been enjoying the boating. The lake is beautiful."

These comments don't surprise Park Superintendent John Flanagan. Lake Cumberland is sold out through June, July and August and at other times often runs 80 per cent full.

Applications are accepted after January 1 each year. Information about the Vacation Parks may be obtained from the Travel Division, State Dept. of Public Information, Frankfort, Ky.

The agencies all maintain that only their own weather operations can satisfy their particular needs. This attitude could conceivably result in all seven of the agencies setting up operations in a single area and reporting the same weather to seven headquarters on seven separate sets of leased communications lines. As one researcher told PARADE, "If it's raining in a particular place for the Air Force, it has to be raining there for the Federal Aviation Agency, too."

Representative John J. Rooney of New York, powerful chairman of a key House Appropriations Subcommittee, says, "The weather picture is a mess. There are entirely too many agencies spending the taxpayer's money in this area. The correction of this situation rests with the Bureau of the Budget . . . the only group that can get this can of worms straightened out."

It's generally agreed that the Weather Bureau itself is not to blame for the present muddle. Over the years since it was established in 1890, it has saved countless thousands of lives by warning the public in advance about hurricanes, tornadoes, floods and other weather hazards. U.S. weathermen are regarded as the world's best; it's not their fault that they work in a bureaucratic nightmare.

It's also agreed that weather forecasting is unquestionably a vital function, since virtually everything we do is affected by the weather, from a baseball game to a moon shot to a garden party. Private industries by the score employ meteorologists to prepare highly localized weather reports. A cold spell during the summer, for instance, may be of prime importance to a soft drink bottler, and electric power companies must know in advance of a coming heat wave in order to prepare for the extra load when millions of air conditioners are turned on. Even the fabled Astrodome, the completely enclosed new stadium in Houston, has its own weather station to feed information every 15 minutes to the equipment controlling the vast air conditioning system.

So important is weather forecasting to everyone that it's obviously wrong to leave it in a horrifying jumble of government red tape, costly duplication and the resulting gross inefficiency. Dr. Robert M. White, who is Chief of the Weather Bureau as well as the Federal Co-ordinator of Meteorological Services, agrees that, "Weather affects the activities of most of our government agencies, so it's easy to understand so many of them getting involved. We're examining all the weather services to determine the most effective program. If we find that unjustifiable duplication does exist, then we'll take steps to eliminate it."

If the current structure of our weather efforts continues unchanged, untold millions of dollars will keep going down the drain. The obvious solution would be to establish one central national agency to handle the collection and reporting of all weather data, giving us the same service at a cheaper price or better service for the same price—or possibly even less. Then each of the agencies which are now largely duplicating each other's efforts can use the information for their own purposes. That would straighten out the can of worms—and do away with "co-ordinating committees" in the bargain.

CHICKEN CURRY

BY BETH MERRIMAN

CHICKEN CURRY

2 broiler-fryer chickens, cut up
Vegetable oil
¾ cup finely chopped onion
1 garlic clove
4 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 teaspoon dried thyme
1 bay leaf
¼ cup tomato sauce
3 cups chicken broth
½ cup flaked coconut
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon sugar
6 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons curry powder (or less, according to taste)
¾ cup nondairy powdered "cream"
6 cups hot, fluffy rice

Brown chicken pieces slowly in vegetable oil, turning to brown both sides, for about 35 minutes, or until chicken is done. Cook bony parts of chicken in water to make 3 cups chicken broth. Meanwhile make curry sauce: cook onion and garlic in butter until soft but not brown. Add thyme, bay leaf and tomato sauce; cook 3 minutes longer. Add chicken broth, coconut, salt and sugar. Simmer 15 minutes. Remove from heat. Remove garlic. Combine flour, curry powder and nondairy powdered "cream;" blend in about 1 cup of the hot mixture; return to remaining hot mixture. Cook and stir over low heat 5 minutes, or until thickened. Remove chicken to serving platter; surround with rice. Pour some of the curry sauce over chicken; serve remainder separately. Accompany with chutney, flaked coconut, golden seedless raisins and salted peanuts, to be mixed with the rice and curry sauce according to taste. Makes 8 servings.

¾ cup nondairy powdered "cream"
6 cups hot, fluffy rice

Brown chicken pieces slowly in vegetable oil, turning to brown both sides, for about 35 minutes, or until chicken is done. Cook bony parts of chicken in water to make 3 cups chicken broth. Meanwhile make curry sauce: cook onion and garlic in butter until soft but not brown. Add thyme, bay leaf and tomato sauce; cook 3 minutes longer. Add chicken broth, coconut, salt and sugar. Simmer 15 minutes. Remove from heat. Remove garlic. Combine flour, curry powder and nondairy powdered "cream;" blend in about 1 cup of the hot mixture; return to remaining hot mixture. Cook and stir over low heat 5 minutes, or until thickened. Remove chicken to serving platter; surround with rice. Pour some of the curry sauce over chicken; serve remainder separately. Accompany with chutney, flaked coconut, golden seedless raisins and salted peanuts, to be mixed with the rice and curry sauce according to taste. Makes 8 servings.

WHAT ARE YOUR NERVES DOING TO YOU?

by LAWRENCE GALTON

For years we have been hearing about the nerve-rasping tensions of modern living and how they keep people from being happy and healthy. It has been fashionable to talk about psychosomatic illnesses—physical troubles evoked, or made worse, by nerves.

Yet the full story of what nerves can do is only now beginning to unfold. Recently doctors have made a series of striking discoveries about nerves and illness. They've found, for example:

- That nerves can cause many types of headaches, may even trigger sinus headaches.
- That many puzzling, often alarming, symptoms—pain, weakness, numbness, tingling in a small part or a whole side of the body—can be nerve-induced.
- That nerves are often responsible for "lumps" in the throat.
- That nerves can be a major factor in stubborn allergies, including asthma.
- That nerves can influence many common gastrointestinal problems—not only ulcers and irritable colon but acute upsets often attributed to "something I ate" or the "bug."

No less important are demonstrations showing just how nerves relate to illness. Once people understand this relationship, they can often take simple steps for relief. The following are some nerve-induced disorders and what can be done about them:

(OVERBREATHING) Consider the case of a middle-aged woman hospitalized not long ago because of a prolonged attack of chest pain. For six years she had been suffering from such pains. They lasted 5 to 10 minutes, usually occurred when she exerted herself and disappeared with rest and use of nitroglycerin.

In addition, for three years the woman had been bothered by feelings of giddiness; by aches in her left shoulder, left arm and left leg; and by numbness, tingling and a sense of weakness on her left side.

At first, the diagnosis was heart trouble—"associated with unexplained left-sided symptoms." But after she had been given all the usual tests, she got one more. She was asked to hyperventilate—deliberately to breathe rapidly and deeply. Within a few minutes the pain, weakness and other symptoms on her left side appeared. She was asked to hold her breath—and the symptoms disappeared.

In the hospital she learned to hold her breath at the first sign of any symptoms—and stop them immediately. Six months after discharge from the hospital, she had no more symptoms.

She is one of a group of patients reported on by Dr. Morton E. Tavel, now at the Indiana University Medical Center, in a significant study published in the American Medical Association Journal.

The fact that overbreathing—usually unconscious and due to nervous strain—can cause problems was not new. Studies had indicated that as many as 11 per cent of people seeking medical help have troubles stemming from overbreathing. But these troubles had not been localized on one side of the body.

In an 18-month period, Dr. Tavel found 7 patients with overbreathing-induced numbness, tingling, weakness and pain in as small an area as a single hand—or in a whole side of the body.

He went on to study 90 normal volunteers. Sixteen per cent developed one-sided symptoms when asked to overbreathe. The symptoms usually came on within three to five minutes—and disappeared within one to four minutes after the patient held his breath. Most often they appeared on the left side, where in many cases they simulated those of heart trouble.

Headaches are often the painful, exasperating and baffling by-product of nerves. Doctors have discovered that even sinus headaches can be triggered by nervous tension.

MAKE LIVING EASIER—TAKE A LOOK AT THESE SMART NEW IDEAS DESIGNED FOR YOUR HOME AND YOUR FAMILY ■ BY PETER DRYDEN

High, low and rechargeable: Here's a cordless lamp (right) you can switch from soft glow to light bright enough for reading. It's powered by 2 rechargeable nickel-cadmium batteries—and has 2 bulbs that will burn together for up to 3 hours on a charge or singly for up to 6 hours. 11" high, 4¼" in diameter, with frosted chimney and brass finish base, it comes complete with batteries, 1,000-hour bulbs, 6' cordset for recharging from any standard household outlet. $19.95 in stores. International Electronics, Ltd., Dept. PP, 2440 Reservoir Avenue, Trumbull, Conn.

Rechargeable lamp

All-seasons hose: You can coil and handle a new garden hose easily in any weather, even below zero—and it will not soften or burst in extreme heat or crack, discolor or become brittle with age. Made with a new synthetic rubber, Nordel, it also resists deterioration from sunlight, weathering and garden chemicals. 25': $7.99 in stores. Boston Woven Hose & Rubber, Dept. PP, Box 1071, Boston, Mass. 02103.

"New Math" for parents: Find yourself baffled, like many parents, by new methods used to teach your youngsters mathematics? A new home program (right) is designed to give you a quick understanding —and help you to help your children with homework. You work actual "new math" problems on worksheets —accompanied by recordings that explain the "how" and "why." Complete program, with 24 worksheets, two 12" records, instruction manual, counting frame: $9.95. Systems for Education, Dept. PP, 612 N. Michigan, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

"New math" for parents

Lawn and garden auger: With a new auger attachment that fits any ¼" or larger electric drill, you can drill 1¼" holes up to 18" deep—to aerate, fertilize and water trees, shrubs, flower beds. Tool also is useful for bulb planting, obtaining soil samples. $3. Johnson Industrial Supply, Dept. PP, 1941 Karlin Dr., St. Louis, Mo.

Quick tie for luggage: Good way to lash extra luggage to the trunk of your car is with a tie-on device (right) that greatly simplifies the job. It's a plated steel claw that lets you pull a load—up to 8 average-size suitcases —snug with one tug and tie it securely with one knot. The claw comes with a 30' length of polyethylene rope strong enough to tow a car but soft enough not to mar the finish. $1.49 complete. Pella United Sales, Dept. PP, 729 Main, Pella, Iowa.

Luggage tie

Automated camera: Now comes the first 2¼ x 2¼ single lens reflex camera powered by an electric motor that automatically cocks the shutter and advances the film. With a radio added, you can operate the camera by remote control—and, with a timer accessory, use it to make time-lapse studies. For details: Paillard, Dept. PP, 1900 Lower Rd., Linden, N.J. 07036.

Instant finish: Squeeze a new metallic finish (right) from tube, apply thinly with a fingertip, and it buffs in seconds to a high gloss. You can use it to refinish, decorate and restore frames, sculptures, wall plaques, pottery, furniture, wrought iron. In 7 colors: gold leaf, silver leaf, copper, patina, antique gold, antique white and ebony. $1 per ½-oz. tube. American Art Clay Co., Dept. PP, Indianapolis, Ind. 46222.

Instant finish

As the result of Dr. Tavel's finding, many doctors think, serious diagnostic errors will be avoided in the future—and many patients spared worry and expense.

Many will be helped, too, by another discovery about hyperventilation, made by Dr. William C. Thomas, Jr., of the University of Florida Clinical Research Center.

Virtually anyone who overbreathes for long periods can develop an alarming condition called tetany. Marked changes in body chemistry occur. Facial muscles twitch. Nausea may develop. The patient may begin to breathe in a high-pitched wheeze.

But some people—especially anxious young women—can get a full-blown tetany attack after just 60 to 90 seconds of overbreathing, Dr. Thomas has found. "Anxiety seems to load the gun and hyperventilation pulls the trigger," he says.

The Florida physician worked with 25 girls and women, age 16 to 35. He reports that once such patients understand how overbreathing starts the reaction, they can very often learn how to control it.

("LUMP" IN THE THROAT) The feeling of having a lump or foreign body in the throat sends many people to physicians—and, more often than not, nothing can be found: no lump, no physical disorder. Dr. Richard Schatzki of Harvard Medical School has recently come up with a helpful new finding. In many years of studying such patients, Dr. Schatzki detected a clear pattern in those who have nothing physically wrong. Most, for one reason or another, are tense. In this state, many start to observe themselves closely, become hyperaware of swallowing, ordinarily an unconscious act. They begin to swallow several times in quick succession or swallow repeatedly without being aware they are doing so.

Either way, saliva is temporarily exhausted. The lump sensation appears—and becomes worse with each attempt to get rid of it by swallowing. A little food or even water stimulates saliva production and usually causes the lump feeling to disappear.

(HEADACHE) Headaches often stem from nervous or emotional causes. Those due to tension are well known, but Dr. Seymour Diamond of Chicago Medical School recently emphasized, in a report to the Association for the Study of Headache, that headache may be a sign of depression—sometimes the only sign. Among 432 patients suffering from depression, headache was either the sole complaint or a prominent one among others.

Depressive headaches, Dr. Diamond said, have peculiarities. They tend to appear at regular intervals—often on weekends or holidays—and to be worse in the morning than in the evening. The back of the head is most frequently affected.

Conventional headache remedies often have no effect—and tranquilizers, which may help tension headaches, may make depressive ones worse. A newer antidepressant drug, Elavil, Dr. Diamond has found, helps many with depressive headaches.

Can nerves—not merely infection—cause sinus headache? At a recent meeting of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology, Dr. Thomas H. Holmes III of the University of Washington Medical School presented a case which indicates they can. A young husband, confronted by his mother-in-law when he brought his wife and first child home from the hospital, developed a severe sinus headache. Nothing helped—until the mother-in-law, in due course, left the young couple alone.

According to Dr. Holmes, actual changes had occurred in the tissues of the man's nose as the result of nervous and emotional difficulties.

One way to relieve tension is by walking, say physicians and psychiatrists.

(ALLERGY) Some doctors have long suspected that nervous factors are involved in allergic disorders. Recently, working with asthmatic patients, Dr. W. S. Kroger of Beverly Hills, Calif., was able both to prevent wheezing attacks by hypnosis and precipitate them by posthypnotic suggestion—evidence, he believes, that nerves and emotions were involved.

(STOMACH DISORDER) Nerves have been blamed for such gastrointestinal troubles as ulcers and irritable colon, and two recent studies indicate how often they are involved in other related disturbances.

One study covered older people. Commonly, the elderly complain of digestive symptoms—and it might be expected that most of these disorders, because of age, would be caused by organic diseases. However, a few months ago, Dr. Manuel Sklar of Detroit reported on a year-long investigation of 300 patients over 65. Although 132 actually did have physical troubles, such as gall bladder disease, 168, or more than half, had none. Their heartburn, nausea, flatulence, diarrhea, appetite and weight loss were nervous in origin. And they could be helped not only by mild sedation and antispasmodic drugs, but often just by simple psychotherapy that calmed their nerves.

The second study reveals to what extent nervous factors can be involved even in common acute gastrointestinal upsets. Two industrial physicians—Dr. Leon Warshaw, medical director of Paramount Pictures and United Artists Corp., and Dr. H. J. Bennett, a medical director of IBM—recently made a test with two groups of employees, giving one a calmative drug such as Librium, others a sugar pill.

Ordinarily, a G-I upset lasts 2 to 3 days. Two-thirds of employees receiving a calming agent were relieved of symptoms in 8 hours.

(HEART ATTACK) Do nervous factors have a role in heart attacks, too? Diet, heredity, obesity—all have been blamed. But a man's work and the consequent nervous strain may be much more influential, says Dr. Henry I. Russek, a heart specialist, after an investigation of 100 young heart patients and more than 12,000 professional men.

"Ninety-one per cent of young coronary victims had been holding down 2 jobs, working more than 60 hours per week or experiencing unusual fear, insecurity, discontent, restlessness or inadequacy in relation to employment," he reports. Among professional men, a striking correlation between job stress and coronary heart disease also turned up. For example, heart trouble was 3 to 4 times more frequent among general practitioners of medicine, dentistry and law than among specialists in the same professions who usually work under less stress.

(BAD BREATH) Nervous tension, it now appears, can even produce bad breath. According to Dr. Thomas Rees, a Washington, D. C., throat specialist, it's the major cause of halitosis. Ordinarily, saliva flows continuously to bathe and lubricate delicate mouth membranes. If flow is impaired, the mouth dries; the dryness fosters bacterial growth and food decay; it also leads to drying out of already secreted saliva—and dried saliva, Dr. Rees points out, "is one of the most offensive-smelling substances." Just a stick of gum, Dr. Rees suggests, helps by getting saliva flowing again.

(MENTAL RETARDATION) Nerves are an important consideration in studying retarded children. According to Dr. Margaret J. Giannini, administrative director of New York Medical College's Mental Retardation Clinic, intellectual development in retarded children varies greatly. As many as 3 out of 4 are only mildly retarded and, through specialized education, could be trained to make reasonably good social and economic adaptations in their adult lives.

But many such children are nervous and irritable; they sometimes develop behavior disturbances that make them seem more retarded than they are. At the Clinic calming drugs are now being used with many children—to overcome behavior problems, allow better diagnosis and enhance chances for helping them develop to the full extent of their capabilities.

Certainly, nerves are not responsible for everything that goes wrong with the human body. The reverse can be true: nervousness can stem from physical disease, making it worse but not causing it.

- If you suspect that your physical problem may be nerve-induced, the very first thing to do is to get a medical examination—to rule out any organic cause.
- Get an explanation from your doctor of how nerves are producing your symptoms. Clear explanation is recognized today as a prime part of a doctor's job. Your understanding can help you—and the physician—to control nerve-induced problems.
- Don't rely solely on drugs. They can be helpful—in some cases, essential—for immediate relief. But simple psychotherapy can be of greater value. Psychotherapy doesn't necessarily mean long sessions on the couch. More and more now, family doctors are employing "ventilation" psychotherapy, which simply means giving a patient a chance to talk out his problems. The unburdening alone can be therapeutic.
- Ask your doctor about preventive measures. Physicians are increasingly convinced that one of the most effective solutions to the problems of nervous tension is simply to walk or exercise the tension away.
- Recently, in surveying 400 San Francisco physicians, Dr. Oliver E. Byrd of Stanford University found that 92 per cent recommend walking, swimming, golf or bowling—in that order—as prime tension-erasers.

Dr. Stewart G. Wolf, head of the Department of Medicine at the University of Oklahoma Medical Center, a believer in the value of sports in relieving tensions and preventing illness, has found that many people with a severe headache coming on, even a migraine attack, can stop it short with a game of handball, squash or other vigorous activity.

Your nerves can play many tricks on you. Happily, if they are doing so now, chances are good you can quickly find out for certain—and find effective aid in quieting them. □

My favorite jokes

by Jackie Gleason

EDITOR'S NOTE: Fresh from a successful TV season in Miami Beach, Jackie Gleason, (real name: Herbert John) the fat man's friend, is currently making the rounds of his favorite Manhattan haunts. No man knows these saloons better than Gleason. Since his childhood, spent partially in local pool halls and candy stores, Gleason has been a devotee of New York night life. Now 49, Jackie got his start at the Club 18, a night hangout for Broadway notables, popular in the 1930's. His slam-bang, rough-and-ready comic style earned him a quick reputation as a master of ceremonies, and in the 1940's he journeyed to Hollywood where he was featured in a series of C films. When TV came along, Jackie was hired for the original Life of Riley series, then gradually moved up and onward to his own show. He has originated and immortalized such TV characters as Reggie Van Gleason, Rum Dum, Poor Soul, and of course, Ralph Kramden. Versatile to the point of genius, he has appeared in Broadway plays, performed masterfully in such movies as Gigot, The Hustler, and Requiem for a Heavyweight, and is represented in the world of music by 38 albums each bearing his distinctive "music-for-lovers-only" stamp. When he doffs his clown's hat in another few seasons, he intends to become a director-producer of films both for TV and theaters. Gleason used to live in a round monstrosity of a house in upper New York State which CBS recently bought from him for $300,000 (to keep him working for the network) but this July he moves into his new $100,000 home on the Country Club of Miami Estates. Herewith some of Jackie's favorite jokes:

A zoo guard watched in anger as a kangaroo suddenly vaulted the high, spike fence and raced off over the countryside. The guard ran up to a little old woman who'd been standing in front of the kangaroo's cage. "What did you do to make him jump the fence?" he demanded.

Cackled the old lady: "I didn't think I was doing wrong. I just tweaked him with my umbrella." "All right, lady," shouted the zoo-man. "You'd better tweak me the same way, because I've got to catch him."

A bum woke in the middle of a stench-filled garbage dump. He looked around and sadly realized that he had finally reached the dregs. Prepared to remain in the dump until death took him, he happened to spy a pencil stub in the trash. Tearing off a piece of greasy brown paper from a garbage bag, he began to write a farewell letter to his father, recounting all his misdeeds, expressing his regrets for not heeding parental advice, his remorse, his sins, etc. Just as he was about to finish, his tired eyes spotted a half-filled bottle of wine. Groping, he reached the bottle, downed its contents in one furious gulp. Then he continued his letter: ". . . and so, father, if there is ever anything you might need, please come pay me a visit and I'll . . ."

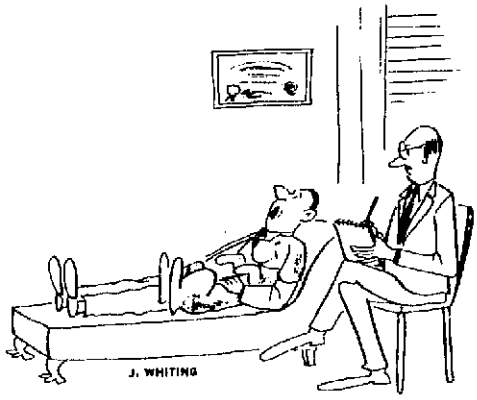

An Israeli private approached his sergeant for a weekend pass. He was told that he couldn't have one unless he performed some heroic feat of bravery. That night the recruit slipped out into the desert. At dawn he returned, driving an Arab tank. His reward: a weekend pass. After five such forties and five captured Arab tanks, his puzzled superior officer called him in and asked where and how he managed to capture such valuable booty. "Simple," said the rookie. "I merely drive out into the desert in one of our tanks until I run into an Arab in one of their tanks. Then I say to him, 'Hey, how'd you like to get a weekend pass?' "

To prove the belief that music charms the savage beast, a noted violinist journeyed into the heart of the African jungle. As he sat in a clearing, a gorilla, a boa constrictor and a mean bull elephant approached. The musician played on his violin, and all three stopped motionless to listen to the tunes. A snarling lion then crashed through the thicket, with one leap reached the violinist and tore him to shreds. Speaking for his companions, the elephant remonstrated with the savage lion, demanding to know how come he had destroyed the man who played such sweet music. "Huh?" said the lion.

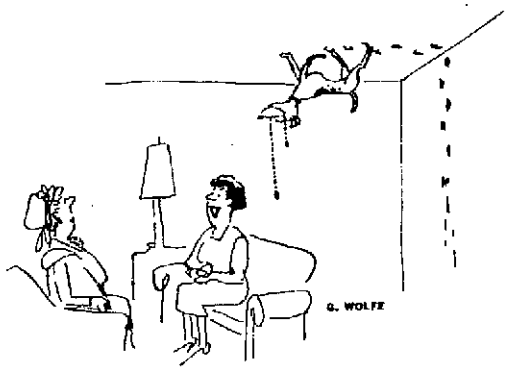

I sure like the actor, Yul Brynner. He's the only actor I know who made good in Hollywood and now wears a smaller size hat.

Anecdote of the Week

■ One of the most ordinary, plain, hausfrau-looking monarchs in the world is Queen Juliana of the Netherlands. Also one of the richest. But she rarely shows it. Her clothes are dowdy, her make-up hazardous, her figure frumpy. On vacations she's even worse. In Kitzbuhel, Austria, recently she shuffled up to a porter in the Grand Hotel and said: "Would you please loan me 20 schillings [about 25¢]? I left my purse upstairs." The porter inspected the Queen most carefully, then replied, "I'm sorry, madame. I can't loan you a thing. Besides, how did you ever get in here in the first place?" The Queen, of course, is a billionaire. ■

- If you suspect that your physical problem may be nerve-induced, the very first thing to do is to get a medical examination—to rule out any organic cause.
- Get an explanation from your doctor of how nerves are producing your symptoms. Clear explanation is recognized today as a prime part of a doctor's job. Your understanding can help you—and the physician—to control nerve-induced problems.
- Don't rely solely on drugs. They can be helpful—in some cases, essential—for immediate relief. But simple psychotherapy can be of greater value. Psychotherapy doesn't necessarily mean long sessions on the couch. More and more now, family doctors are employing "ventilation" psychotherapy, which simply means giving a patient a chance to talk out his problems. The unburdening alone can be therapeutic.
- Ask your doctor about preventive measures. Physicians are increasingly convinced that one of the most effective solutions to the problems of nervous tension is simply to walk or exercise the tension away.
- Recently, in surveying 400 San Francisco physicians, Dr. Oliver E. Byrd of Stanford University found that 92 per cent recommend walking, swimming, golf or bowling—in that order—as prime tension-erasers.

Dr. Stewart G. Wolf, head of the Department of Medicine at the University of Oklahoma Medical Center, a believer in the value of sports in relieving tensions and preventing illness, has found that many people with a severe headache coming on, even a migraine attack, can stop it short with a game of handball, squash or other vigorous activity.

Your nerves can play many tricks on you. Happily, if they are doing so now, chances are good you can quickly find out for certain—and find effective aid in quieting them. □

INTELLIGENCE REPORT

BEAUTY HINTS. The late Helena Rubinstein earned a fortune estimated at $75 million in teaching the world's women how to preserve and enhance their beauty. But how did this fabulous, little woman who died at 92 preserve her own? She believed in two primary practices: (1) nightly rubbing into the skin of a good cleansing cream (2) constant exercise of the facial features. Each night before retiring she would thoroughly remove her make-up, apply her cleansing cream as many as three times. She would then briskly slap her face for one minute always upwards to give tone to the skin, prevent lines and wrinkles.

NURSE RECRUITING. A recruiting team from Vanderbilt Hospital, Nashville, Tenn., is the first from a private hospital to scout England for nurses and doctors. Vanderbilt recently sent Dr. G. R. Berry who came to the U.S. from Leeds about 8 years ago, to head the recruiting team in London. Nurses and doctors earn much more in this country than they do in Britain.

ITALIAN IGNORANCE. A survey conducted by students of the Parini Lyceum, one of the best schools in Milan, Italy, reveals that Italian teenagers have practically no idea of what happened to their country under Fascism and the Nazi occupation. Italian textbooks rarely devote more than a bare few lines to that portion of Italian history. Many educators are clamoring for textbook revision so that future generations can learn truthfully about Mussolini and what he did to their country.

NEW HIP. Dr. Audrey Smith of the National Institute for Medical Research in London, has successfully transplanted the hip bone of a dead dog into a living one suffering from arthritis, thereby restoring its mobility. Dr. Smith's research could possibly lead to similar bone grafts for thousands of human arthritis sufferers. "It's much too early to tell anything," she explains. "We need at least another year of experiments. But it does offer an avenue of hope." One of Britain's experts on tissue grafting and deep freeze research, Dr. Smith is responsible in part for the eye banks which keep eye corneas in storage and are later used to restore the sight of the blind.

ARE STENOGRAPHERS PASSÉ? Is automation pushing stenography into oblivion? Is it possible that the days of the shorthand specialist are over? Personnel directors say that what they now need most are secretaries who can type directly from dictation machinery. Many executives prefer to dictate at will into tape recorders and have their secretaries transcribe directly either from the human voice or sound recording devices.

My favorite jokes

by Jackie Gleason

EDITOR'S NOTE: Fresh from a successful TV season in Miami Beach, Jackie Gleason, (real name: Herbert John) the fat man's friend, is currently making the rounds of his favorite Manhattan haunts. No man knows these saloons better than Gleason. Since his childhood, spent partially in local pool halls and candy stores, Gleason has been a devotee of New York night life. Now 49, Jackie got his start at the Club 18, a night hangout for Broadway notables, popular in the 1930's. His slam-bang, rough-and-ready comic style earned him a quick reputation as a master of ceremonies, and in the 1940's he journeyed to Hollywood where he was featured in a series of C films. When TV came along, Jackie was hired for the original Life of Riley series, then gradually moved up and onward to his own show. He has originated and immortalized such TV characters as Reggie Van Gleason, Rum Dum, Poor Soul, and of course, Ralph Kramden. Versatile to the point of genius, he has appeared in Broadway plays, performed masterfully in such movies as Gigot, The Hustler, and Requiem for a Heavyweight, and is represented in the world of music by 38 albums each bearing his distinctive "music-for-lovers-only" stamp. When he doffs his clown's hat in another few seasons, he intends to become a director-producer of films both for TV and theaters. Gleason used to live in a round monstrosity of a house in upper New York State which CBS recently bought from him for $300,000 (to keep him working for the network) but this July he moves into his new $100,000 home on the Country Club of Miami Estates. Herewith some of Jackie's favorite jokes:

A zoo guard watched in anger as a kangaroo suddenly vaulted the high, spike fence and raced off over the countryside. The guard ran up to a little old woman who'd been standing in front of the kangaroo's cage. "What did you do to make him jump the fence?" he demanded.

Cackled the old lady: "I didn't think I was doing wrong. I just tweaked him with my umbrella." "All right, lady," shouted the zoo-man. "You'd better tweak me the same way, because I've got to catch him."

A bum woke in the middle of a stench-filled garbage dump. He looked around and sadly realized that he had finally reached the dregs. Prepared to remain in the dump until death took him, he happened to spy a pencil stub in the trash. Tearing off a piece of greasy brown paper from a garbage bag, he began to write a farewell letter to his father, recounting all his misdeeds, expressing his regrets for not heeding parental advice, his remorse, his sins, etc. Just as he was about to finish, his tired eyes spotted a half-filled bottle of wine. Groping, he reached the bottle, downed its contents in one furious gulp. Then he continued his letter: ". . . and so, father, if there is ever anything you might need, please come pay me a visit and I'll . . ."

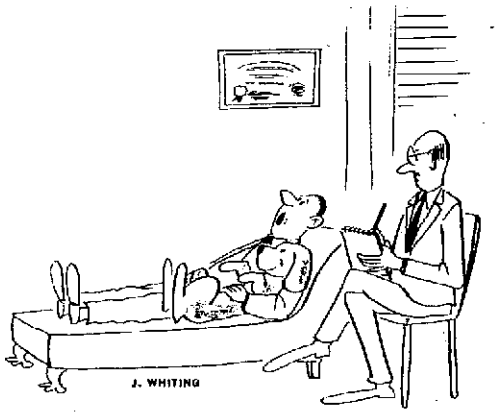

An Israeli private approached his sergeant for a weekend pass. He was told that he couldn't have one unless he performed some heroic feat of bravery. That night the recruit slipped out into the desert. At dawn he returned, driving an Arab tank. His reward: a weekend pass. After five such sorties and five captured Arab tanks, his puzzled superior officer called him in and asked where and how he managed to capture such valuable booty. "Simple," said the rookie. "I merely drive out into the desert in one of our tanks until I run into an Arab in one of their tanks. Then I say to him, 'Hey, how'd you like to get a weekend pass?'"

To prove the belief that music charms the savage beast, a noted violinist journeyed into the heart of the African jungle. As he sat in a clearing, a gorilla, a boa constrictor and a mean bull elephant approached. The musician played on his violin, and all three stopped motionless to listen to the tunes. A snarling lion then crashed through the thicket, with one leap reached the violinist and tore him to shreds. Speaking for his companions, the elephant remonstrated with the savage lion, demanding to know how come he had destroyed the man who played such sweet music. "Huh?" said the lion.

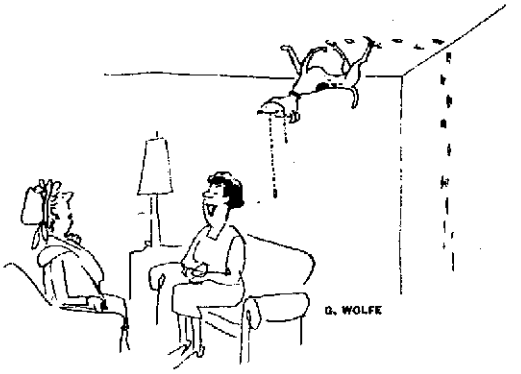

I sure like the actor, Yul Brynner. He's the only actor I know who made good in Hollywood and now wears a smaller size hat.

waggish humor

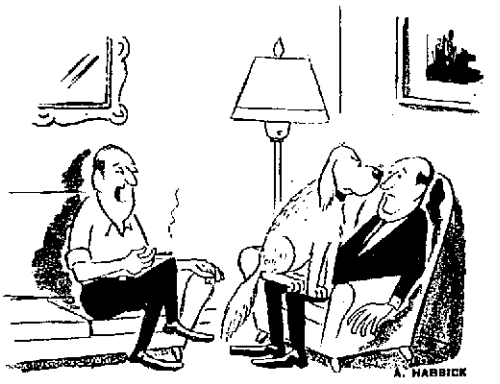

"I have only one real, true friend."

"She's hinting she wants to go for a walk!"

"He's just like one of the family—on my husband's side, of course!"

"You're sitting in his chair."

Anecdote of the Week

■ One of the most ordinary, plain, hausfrau-looking monarchs in the world is Queen Juliana of the Netherlands. Also one of the richest. But she rarely shows it. Her clothes are dowdy, her make-up hazardous, her figure frumpy. On vacations she's even worse. In Kitzbuhel, Austria, recently she shuffled up to a porter in the Grand Hotel and said: "Would you please loan me 20 schillings [about 25¢]? I left my purse upstairs." The porter inspected the Queen most carefully, then replied, "I'm sorry, madame. I can't loan you a thing. Besides, how did you ever get in here in the first place?" The Queen, of course, is a billionaire. ■

Loving Care colors only the gray without changing your natural hair color!

Makes your husband feel younger, too... just to look at you!

Gray hair, even when premature, says you're older than you are! So if you hate that gray, wash it away with Loving Care hair color lotion by Clairol. Gently, so skillfully does Loving Care wash in the young color that your own shade appears unchanged. But you're rid of gray! And all anyone sees is that you look so much prettier, younger, after the very first wash. It's that natural looking. Just choose the tone most like your own—blonde to Natural Black.

Needs no peroxide developer. Leaves your hair vital, glossy, in better condition than ever. And there's nothing to mix or add—Loving Care just pours on right out of the bottle! Even the fragrance is mild, delightful. Best of all—washed in about once a month, Loving Care keeps gray away so you can forget you ever had any! Won't rub off, won't brush off. Not a tint, better than a rinse. Hairdressers agree it's a fountain of youth for graying hair.

I apply for Accumulative Accident Insurance, to become effective day policy is issued and dated. I understand that it takes about 10 days to issue a policy and agree: (1) to pay the premium of 65c per month; (2) designate person who collects for my newspaper as my messenger to deliver premium to above office; (3) that policy will automatically expire if I fail to pay premium when due. Insurance does not cover persons who have lost both hands and feet, or the sight of both eyes.

☐ FOR FIRST POLICY IN FAMILY—Send no money, pay carrier 65c each month at the same time you pay for paper.

☐ FOR EACH ADDITIONAL POLICY IN FAMILY—Enclose $7.50 Annual Premium with each application.
